REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

NEW YORK, JANUARY 3, 1914

REAL ESTATE REVIEW AND PROSPECT

Economic Causes For the Lessened Amount of Business in Most Departments During 1913—Trading Discouraged by Difficulty in Borrowing Money.

THE story of the real estate market for 1913 is soon told. It was a year of uninterrupted and almost unprecedented stagnation in the buying, trading, loaning and building departments of the real estate business. The preceding year had not been a particularly encouraging one for the owners and operators in real property, but it had been characterized by a continuation of the building movement of the previous years. No such consolation can be found in the recorded transactions of 1913. So far as Manhattan is concerned one would have to go back more than fifteen years in order to find a year in which so little business was transacted.

Take the case, for instance, of the Manhattan conveyances. During 1913 approximately 7,700 deeds, transferring Manhattan property, were recorded. The corresponding figure for the previous year had been about a thousand more. Even this figure was over a thousand less than the number of conveyances recorded during 1908; and the number recorded during 1908 was approximately the same as the corresponding number in 1900, which was considered to be a very bad year.

In the meantime, the total figure for the Manhattan conveyances had reached almost 22,000 in 1905. Of course, this figure was excessively large and was due to the wholly exceptional conditions resulting from the speculation in old tenements. But, on the other hand, the corresponding figures for the past year are excessively small and are due to equally abnormal conditions. The figures for Brooklyn and the Bronx tell not the same but a similar story. In the case of these boroughs, real estate has been extremely sluggish, and the total number of transactions recorded are only half as numerous as they were during the wave of activity during 1905 or 1906. But the totals of the two boroughs are larger than they were ten years ago, which is inevitable, considering the enormous increase in population during the intervening years.

Significant Figures.

The figures for Manhattan mortgages tell a kindred but still more significant story. During 1913 the number of mortgages on Manhattan property recorded was approximately 4,800, against over 6,000 for the preceding year, 8,678 for 1908, 20,300 for 1905 and 10,700 for 1900. Thus the number of mortgages placed on Manhattan real estate was about 4,000 fewer than in 1908 and only about half as many as during the very dull year of 1900.

The amount of money loaned suffered an analogous shrinkage. Only about $170,000,000 has been loaned on Manhattan real estate during 1913, against $285,000,000 during 1912, $271,000,000 during 1908, $380,000,000 during 1906 and $234,000,000 during 1900.

It would be necessary to go back to the lean years succeeding the panic of 1893 in order to find any corresponding stagnation in the business of lending money on Manhattan real estate. Neither were conditions very much more propitious in Brooklyn and the Bronx. This department of real estate activity was duller in those boroughs than it has been any year during the past decade.

Decreased Construction.

In some respects the building figures are even more surprising than those which indicate the amount of real estate activity. In other departments of the real estate business the year 1912 was characterized by stagnant conditions; but, in spite of an indisposition to lend money on New York real estate and to trade in it, building continued to be comparatively active. The plans for projected buildings to be erected in Manhattan during 1912 called for an expenditure of about $116,000,000, against a previous high record of $123,000,000 in 1905, and against $122,000,000 in 1909. The corresponding figure for 1913 was only about $70,000,000, which means that in one year the amount invested in new buildings was cut in half. The other boroughs did not suffer in this respect as severely as Manhattan; but they none the less made a comparatively poor showing.

Economic Reasons.

In all probability the declines which have been noted above are not, so far as Manhattan is concerned, wholly due to temporarily depressing conditions. There is not the same opportunity in Manhattan as there used to be either for real estate or building activity. During the past twelve years a large number of lots, which were in the past owned by different individuals, have been grouped together into one property; and these larger real estate units are much less frequently transferred than were their more numerous predecessors.

Another cause which contributes to the smaller Manhattan figures is, of course, the necessarily smaller amount of residential building in that borough. Population is being diverted more and more to the outlying districts because of high prices and lack of space in Manhattan; and the comparative lack of real estate trading and building expenditure must be traced in part to the smaller number of people for whom new homes have to be provided in the central borough.

After making every allowance, however, for any comparatively permanent reasons of a gradual decline in real estate and building activity in Manhattan, the figures for the past year still leave very much to be desired. They represent, on the whole, an acute period of temporary depression rather than the action of permanent causes; and it has taken a combination of adverse conditions in order to bring about so large and sudden a shrinkage. These adverse conditions can be grouped under three heads.

The Money Supply.

In the first place, real estate trading has been discouraged by the unusual difficulty of borrowing money on bond and mortgage. Loanable capital was scarce, partly because of foreign wars and the apprehensions prevailing in foreign markets, partly because of a deliberate and concerted decision of money-lending institutions to prevent the further expansion of credit, and partly because of the desire of local trust, title and insurance companies temporarily to shut down building.

The large amount of construction during 1912 had resulted in overbuilding and in many vacancies both in the residential, mercantile and financial districts. The condition was particularly bad in the mercantile district, because the newer parts of this section had been growing at the expense of the old, and as soon as an excess of construction appeared north of 23d street its effects were rendered more disturbing by the large number of vacancies south of 23d street. A diminution in the amount of money invested in loft buildings and in expensive apartments was necessary for an improvement in renting conditions, and consequently in the conditions which determined the amount of capital seeking investment in real estate. Finally, real estate in New York is suffering from an unprecedented increase in taxation which has diminished its investment value.

The burden of this increase has, under existing conditions, fallen almost entirely on the owner. It has been sufficient in the speculative districts to absorb any current increases in value, while in those districts where prices are stationary it has tended to deprive real estate of its former desirability as an investment.

Prospects for 1914.

It would be unwise to anticipate any considerable revival of activity during the coming year. The conditions will not justify it. Comparatively little new building will be undertaken during 1914 because there are still many vacancies in all the districts in which speculative building prevails. Neither will the general volume of business and the prevailing amount of confidence be sufficient to encourage the resumption of real estate speculation and investment. But the year 1914 will be a year of recuperation, if not of expansion. The diminished amount of building will enable the demand for additional space to overtake the supply. The filling up of the vacant spaces will make improved property more desirable as an investment. The restoration of more normal credit conditions will increase the amount of money available for investment in real estate, both on bond and mortgage and as a matter of ownership.

Finally, it is improbable that any further increase in taxation will take place in the near future. Thus the probability is that during 1914 all the causes which have contributed to the unprecedented stagnation of 1914 will be somewhat alleviated and that a steady process of recovery will take place. A small increase in general activity is to be expected, and a substantial increase in boroughs, like Queens and Brooklyn, which will feel the first effects of improved means of transit; but, on the whole, the great task to be accomplished during the year is one of preparation for the substantial revival which should follow. When the year is over the day on which the new subway system will begin to operate will be brought very much nearer, and during 1915 the approaching completion of that great work will begin to have its leavening effect on the whole real estate situation.

IRON WORKS ON THE HUDSON.

The report that the U. S. Steel Corporation thinks of building steel mills somewhere on the shores of New York Bay and the positive announcement by the Merchants' Association that at least three different projects are on foot for building blast furnaces here also, serve to recall the fact that many years ago the Hudson River was a great iron-manufacturing center.

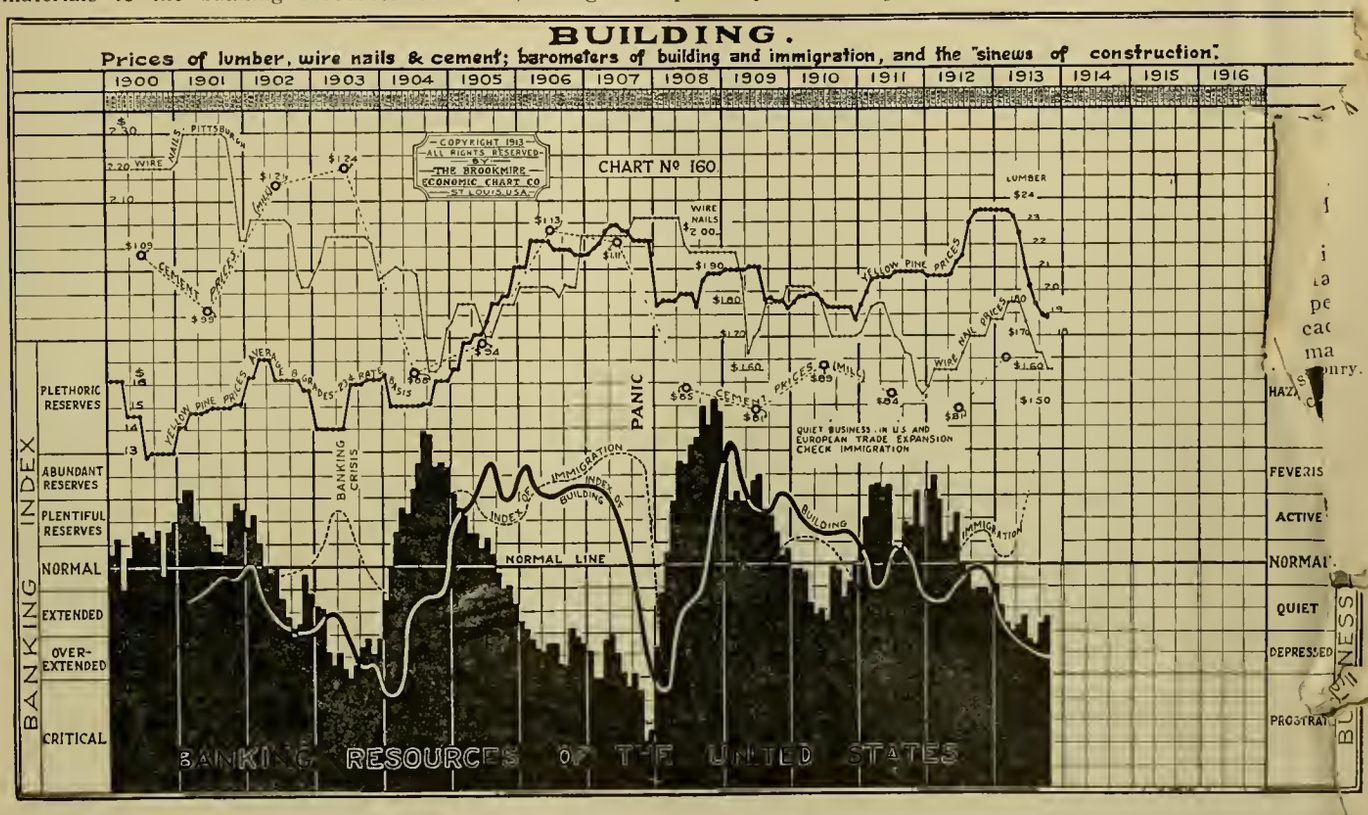
The economic conditions existing before the Civil War made the Hudson River valley an advantageous location for iron works of all kinds. There were blast furnaces at Cold Spring, Poughkeepsie, Greenwood, Rondout, Hudson, Albany and Troy, iron mines in the mountains, and large foundries at Peekskill, Newburgh, Fishkill and other cities. The Washington Iron Works at Newburgh employed twelve hundred men and the West Point Foundry at Cold Spring as many more. Union gunboats were built and engined at Newburgh and armed at Cold Spring with Perrott smoothbores.

Only a few of these old works have survived. Nearly all the furnaces are in ruins, but the Washington Iron Works and the West Point Foundry are still engaged. The Forest of Dean Mines and the Sterling Mines have been worked since long before the Revolution. Under a new economic dispensation we might hope to see most of the old works rebuilt and revived. The authorities of the U. S. Geographical Survey have in recent years pointed ont the incomparable advantages which the Hudson River counties have for engaging in the foreign trade.

Only recently Frank S. Witherbee, who was president of the defunct Troy Steel and Iron Works, testified at Washington in the Government suit to dissolve the U. S. Steel Corporation, that pig iron could be produced cheaper at Troy than at Pittsburgh.

Indications are strong that the port of New York and the Hudson River Valley will see an industrial revival in the next decade based in a large degree on the export trade that is coming from South America and the Pacific coast of our own land through the Panama Canal, and on the new domestic trade that will come through the New York State Barge Canal.

CYCLES IN REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING



Relation Between the Banking Resources of the United States and the Prices of Building Materials—Periodic Ups and Downs—Easier Money Soon.

A CREDIT cycle may be defined as an interval during which there is a period of business expansion followed by a period of contraction, or an "up-and-down." All lines of business are subjected to alternate "ups and downs," or periods of prosperity and depression. The question is: Do these periods of prosperity transpire merely by chance, or is there some guide or barometer whereby we can fortell what the future has in store? The answer is that within reasonable limits these periodic oscillations in business can be foreseen and prepared for if we have an accurate index of banking conditions.

In showing the effects of credit cycles upon realty and commodity values, therefore, we present a chart showing the relation of the prices of building materials to the banking resources of the United States. In real estate, of course, there is no standard grade of property which may be charted as a representative index of the trend of real estate values; so that about the most a real estate dealer can do in anticipating the future is to watch the index of banking conditions and know that there is no danger of forced selling of real estate in years of abundant money, such as 1901, 1905, 1909 and 1911; but that there is always grave danger of forced liquidation in such years as 1907 and 1913, when banking resources became overextended, for the general real estate market becomes stagnant and reactionary whenever tight money causes a similar condition in the commodity and security markets.

In the building trade, however, we are favored with very accurate building "barometers." In the first place, the prices of building materials are good barometers in themselves, because their fluctuations do not depend upon weather conditions, as do the prices of grain and raw cotton; and we find that nearly all products of the mines and the forests move up and down together during a credit cycle. For instance, from 1904 to 1907 there was a general upward move in the prices of steel, cement and lumber. During this period of business expansion banking resources were reduced to the overextended area. After the panic of 1907 followed a period of business liquidation, and banking reserves piled high in 1908.

The chart shows that in addition to the periodic "ups and downs" in prices there seems to be a general downward drift to the prices of cement and wire nails, owing most probably to a cheapening in the processes of production although lumber prices show a general upward trend, probably due to the fact that the supply is relatively more limited than in the other lines. The growing importance of cement and steel in competition with lumber is indicated by the fact that the production of Portland cement in the United States was only about 8,000,000 barrels in 1900, as against the huge total of 85,000,000 barrels in 1913—an increase of over 1,000 per cent. in a little over a decade.

INTERPRETATION OF BUILDING CHART.—When the New York bankers have plenty of money they advise the directors of railroads and industrial corporations to go ahead with improvements and new construction. Immediately there is a big increase in steel orders and building permits as in 1902, 1905, 1909, and 1912. Then follows a general upward movement in steel, cement and lumber prices. When money gets tight, however, the bankers are compelled to curtail loans, and liquidation has got to come, as in 1903, 1907, and 1913.

Low Prices for Cement.

This marked increase in production is largely explained by the low prices, for now the range of Portland cement prices is below $1.00 per barrel at mill, except on the Pacific Coast, while twenty years ago the price seldom fell below $2.00 per barrel. The growing steel, too, is indicated by the fact that iron production now amounts to more than 25,000,000 tons a year, as against only 10,000,000 tons a year two decades ago. In studying the chart, however, we are not interested in these long range considerations, except incidentally, our first attention being directed to the periodic "ups and downs" in the building trade which occur every few years.

A very good barometer of these cycles is found in "building permits," or the expenditures permitted throughout the United States for new building enterprises. The chart shows that even during a period of depression, as in 1907 and 1908, building permits increase rapidly and much in advance of the prices of building materials; and the months before the building trade begin to think of lower prices, and just when prosperity is at its greatest height, building permits decline precipitously. In "building permits," therefore, we have a fairly good warning of what is going to happen in the building trade.

Permits as Trade Indicators.

A rise or fall in "building permits" is a reasonably good signal of expansion or contraction; but the question naturally arises: What causes these conspicuous advances in building prices and permits, and what causes them to decline so suddenly? The chart answers this question, we believe, most satisfactorily. It shows that when the banking resources of the country (represented by the heavy black mass at the bottom of the chart) are abundant, a period of expansion is in prospect.

Of course, in considering the outlook for prosperity at any time one is carefully to give due consideration to Present Outlook.

The depletion of banking reserves in this country during 1913 was not due to overexpansion of business in the United States, but rather to the fact that, owing to the overexpansion of business in Europe and the hoarding of money during the Balkan War, the money markets abroad became well-nigh exhausted, and hence foreign banks borrowed heavily from New York whenever possible. At present, however, business in Europe is liquidating, gradually but surely, and money will be much easier by the middle of 1914; and this will facilitate preparations for an expansion in building operations.

No immediate boom is in prospect, for the crop shortage of 1913 warrants business conservatism and places the railroads in an unfavorable position; but mercantile conditions in the United States are sound, and if we have good crops next year it would seem reasonable to expect an increase in building permits, after which in due time would follow improvement in the markets for building materials. Moreover, the chart shows that immigration has been increasing rapidly during recent months, and this means cheaper unskilled construction labor this year. During the industrial recovery of 1914, therefore, the building trade will be favored with the combination of those factors which are conducive to expansion, namely, easy money, cheap materials, and an increased labor supply.

No improvement will be possible, however, until the index of banking resources rises well above the normal line. The recent passage of the currency bill should speed this consummation.

Various boards and commissions ...tudied the problem, and in December, ...911, a board called the Directors of the ...ort of Boston was constituted.

South Side Improvements.

The first act of the Port Directors ...as to effect an arrangement with the ...Mellen lines" whereby the latter sur...ndered the Commonwealth pier, now ...known as Commonwealth Pier 5. As ...soon as authority was granted, bids ...ere called for, Pier 5 was equipped with ...ree-story sheds of steel and concrete, ...nd railroad connection was established ...by means of six tracks, each capable of ...holding twenty-five freight cars; street ...connection for passenger business ...with the city was also arranged by overhead construction, and every requirement of commerce was met.

This pier has forty feet of water alongside at low tide and fifty at high water. Adjacent are seven million square feet of land, the property of the Commonwealth, on which can be located industrial plants all with frontage on the main ship channel. The last sale of this land was at the rate of $2 per foot, and with the improvements under way it is now estimated that it will be worth in three years at least $10, when the $6,500,000 now allotted will have been expended in the vicinity.

In the rear of the Commonwealth property a reserved channel will be deepened to 30 feet, the material taken out to reclaim thirty-five acres to be used in connection with the construction of a $3,000,000 drydock.

East of Pier 5 is Pier 6, the fish pier. This is 1,200 feet long and 300 feet wide constructed by the Port Directors at a cost of one million dollars and leased to the Boston Fish Market corporation, which has on its own account spent a million more for buildings, etc. This lease runs sixty years and at an initial rental of $35,000 dollars, the same to be adjusted every fifteen years. Boston is the second largest fishing port in the world (Grimsley, England, being first) and is by far the largest in North America. Beyond the Fish Pier are several more piers leased to local concerns.

A Great Drydock Building.

At the end of the Commonwealth domain is to be located the largest drydock on the Atlantic coast. This drydock will have a length of 1,200 feet and a width of 150 feet—ample for the Imperator with 300 feet to spare, should that mammoth ship at any time be in need of repair. Realizing the necessity of such a dock and assured as to its stability, the Cunard, Hamburg-American and International Mercantile Marine companies readily entered into contracts with the Port Directors whereby they are to pay the latter $50,000 annually for twenty years to insure the completion; these payments to be made by the steamship companies whether they use the drydock or not. The cost of this dock will be $3,000,000 and its completion is expected in three years. Contracts for more than $600,000 worth of preliminary work have been awarded and the great enterprise is already well under way.

It is to be remembered that all this expenditure of the public money is not to cost the taxpayer a dollar. From the revenue derived from the railroads, from steamship passengers and from local business, the Port Directors will be able to meet the entire expense of operation and maintenance and with the balance, to help pay the interest on the bonds and the bonds themselves as they become serially due.

North Side Improvements.

Up to this point the south side of the harbor has only been discussed. Equally great things are in progress on the north side. The Port Directors have taken by right of eminent domain the old Eastern Railroad pier, located on the main ship channel and having from 35 to 45 feet of water according to state of tide. This pier adjoins the Boston & Albany Railroad piers. A pier 1,000 feet long is to be built immediately at a cost, probably of $2,000,000, to be finished a year hence. This will create a union terminal on the north side of the harbor corresponding with that already established on the south side.

Regarding other property of the State at East Boston, the story is that in 1898 the Commonwealth purchased 100 acres of flats off Jeffries' point, not connected with the mainland and under water. This tract represents 43,560 of the 30,000,000 square feet extending eastward to Apple Island, also owned by the Commonwealth. Between these flats and the mainland lie 2,500,000 square feet of waterfront land and flats which have just been taken under executive approval.

One hundred and seventy acres, or about 7,500,000 square feet, will be bulkheaded and filled by removing Bird Island flats, which now lie between the proposed forty-foot channel, for which surveys are now being made by the United States engineers, and the upper harbor, and which are at the present time a menace to navigation. When filled, the land will provide sites for further pier construction. It is contemplated that when this is done a railroad yard will be located in the center of the property and connection will be made by spur tracks with the piers themselves. The land between the railroad yard and the waterfront itself will be utilized as sites for manufacturing establishments and will be leased for this purpose. The funds thus accruing are expected to much more than pay for all the port development projects.

LOWER SECOND AVENUE DEVELOPMENTS

Notable Improvements at Southerly End—A New Theatrical and Business Center—East Side Court House to be Erected There.

LOWER Second avenue is being renamed the great white way of the East Side, because of the improvements of late at its southerly end. Theatres are deserting the shabby Bowery for the more attractive and cleaner Second avenue. Originally a high-class residential section, Second avenue has survived numerous shifts of population until it has become the center of a curious combination of business and amusement districts. Old dwellings remodeled for business dot the avenue and remain as evidence of its early residential character.

To-day the cafes and eating houses of Second avenue are the mecca of the elite of the East Side—musicians, artists, chess experts and philosophers. The Cafe Boulevard has retained for many years a certain standing as a banquet hall. Marcus Loew tried in vain for a long time to get the site of the Cafe Boulevard for theatre purposes. He finally erected his theatre at the corner of Avenue B and 5th street.

The Cafe Boulevard figured in a lease last week which includes the sale of all chattels, wines, cigars, etc., and is for a term of ten years at an aggregate rental of $200,000. The name of the restaurant will be changed, and extensive alterations, including an open-air roof garden, will be completed for the early spring. The seating capacity will be enlarged to accommodate more than 2,500 persons. Novel decorative features are now under contract with European architects.

The northwest corner of Second avenue and Houston, at present occupied by four five-story buildings, on plot 118 by 91 feet, was sold last June to Charles A. Doelger, of Joseph Doelger's Sons. Upon expiration of present leases the new owner will make extensive alterations for a high-class cafe and restaurant.

Evening Traffic.

Traffic is unusually heavy on the well-lighted avenue in the evening. All the side streets then pour their crowds into Second avenue. Such places as the Stuyvesant Casino, Beethoven Hall, the Third Street Theatre, Arlington Hall, Manhattan Lyceum and numerous trade schools and business colleges attract each night great numbers of patrons, and naturally they promenade on the broadest, best lighted and most convenient thoroughfare.

Within the radius of two blocks are four up-to-date places of amusement. The National Theatre, on the site of the old Mace property at the southwest corner of Houston and Chrystie streets, seating 3,000, is under lease for ten years at a high rental. Confidence in its success may be judged from the fact that Jacob H. Schiff (representing the Warburgs of Germany) recently made a loan to the owners of $250,000. The Kessler Theatre, built two years ago on George F. Johnson's property on Second avenue and 2d street, seats 2,200. Two modern motion picture theatres are also found close together in the neighborhood, the Majestic, at 11 Second avenue, and the New Law, on Second avenue between 1st and 2d streets.

A New Amusement Center.

Second avenue has become the principal amusement center of the lower East Side and also a center of the high-class tailoring trade. Many big firms are located in the Fisher Building in Houston street, off Second avenue. Milgrim & Bros., one of the largest houses in its line, has been permanently established farther north. Few vacant stores are to be found in a canvass. It is noticeable that the higher class of trade places predominate. Weser Brothers, with a big piano trade, and Kiss Brothers, bankers, are types of business firms located and prospering on Second avenue.

The last of the old dwellings to go was the Keteltas mansion at the northwest corner of Second avenue and 8th street. It was recently remodeled for business. To this curious intermingling of amusement resorts and commercial centers was recently added another phase of development. Alfred Hopkins was selected a few weeks ago to draw plans for a court house and prison to be built at Second avenue and 2d street. The building is to take the place of the old Essex Market court and jail, the old municipal court in Madison street and the Ludlow street jail. The city has appropriated $350,000 for the building on a site measuring 100 by 100 feet. The big Florence Building at the corner of 1st street is filled with law offices. On numerous side streets the legal fraternity is established. With the erection of the new court house there will be a further clustering of law firms in its immediate vicinity. Two old buildings at 31 and 33 Second avenue, on plot 59.6 by 9 feet, south of 2d street, were sold last week to a builder, who proposes to improve the site with a twelve-story office and loft building.

Subway Extension to Clason Point Possible.

At the request of a delegation from Clason Point, headed by James V Ganley, County Clerk-elect of Bronx County, the Public Service Commission for the First District has directed its chief engineer to prepare the map of a rapid transit route connecting the Westchester avenue branch of the Lexington avenue subway with Clason Point. The distance is a little more than two miles, and the only means of transportation now in use is a trolley line of the Union Railway Company which last year carried two and a half million passengers. When the map is prepared, the commission will consider the route for adoption as an extension of the Dual System of rapid transit.

—J. Clarence Davies says he looks forward to 1914 as the beginning of prosperous years in the future: "Not so much for the first few months as I do for the latter part of the year. After a fair full view of the situation I cannot help but say that investments in well-located districts of the Bronx, particularly in the business locations, will prove to be extremely profitable during the coming four or five years." Mr. Davies' opinion on real estate matters is rated very high, not only because he knows his subject but also because he is careful about what he says.

NEW ADMINISTRATION AT CITY HALL

Mayor John Purroy Mitchel Inaugurated—He Reappoints a Number of Department Heads—Three Superintendents of Buildings Continue.

JOHN PURROY MITCHEL was inaugurated Mayor at City Hall on New Year's Day and has entered upon what the real estate interests and taxpayment public hope will be an efficient and prosperous administration. Mayor Mitchel has made a number of appointments but has not yet completed his cabinet. He has appointed as his Chamberlain Prof. Henry Bruere, of the Bureau of Research, a civic scientist, [illegible] to the readers of the Record and [illegible] s the author of a recent series [illegible]e articles on municipal affairs. [illegible] Lawson Purdy of the Department [illegible] Taxes and Assessments has [illegible]ppointed, together with Charles [illegible]e of Brooklyn; and ex-Mayor [illegible]s been newly appointed a Tax [illegible]sioner. Commissioner John J. [illegible] has been reappointed to the [illegible] of the Tenement House De[illegible]ent, and R. A. C. Smith, Dock [illegible]missioner. Robert Adamson, secre[illegible]to the late Mayor Gaynor, will be [illegible] Commissioner; and Henry S. [illegible]mpson continues for a time as Com[illegible]ioner of the Department of Water [illegible]ly, Gas and Electricity.

Messrs. Rudolph P. Miller, P. J. Carlin and John W. Moore have been appointed Superintendents of Buildings in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens, respectively, by the Borough President of each borough. George W. Tillson remains Consulting Engineer in Brooklyn.

RUDOLPH P. MILLER.

Lewis Nixon is Acting Commissioner of Public Works in Richmond.

E. A. Polak, Bronx County Register, has filled the positions under him as follows: Deputy Register, Thos. A. Maher, $4,000; assistant deputy register, Henry Geiger, $3,000; chief clerk, Fred Hahn, $[illegible]00; cashier, Joseph Lyons, $2,500; secretary, T. A. Driscoll, $2,000; satisfaction clerk, John Corcoran, $2,000; cashier, mortgage and tax department, Alfred Conlon, $2,500.

Borough President Marcus M. Marks, of Manhattan, confirmed public expectations by reappointing Rudolph P. Miller as Superintendent of Buildings. Mr. Miller was first appointed four years ago by Borough President McAneny, and the nature of his administration may be inferred from the fact that the architects, engineers and builders of the city, acting through their several constituted societies, passed resolutions praying for the continuance of Mr. Miller at the head of this important department and based on reasons of public welfare.

P. J. CARLIN.

President Marks also reappointed E. V. Frothingham as Commissioner of Public Works and E. P. Goodrich as Consulting Engineer.

Borough President Pounds, of Brooklyn, has reappointed Patrick J. Carlin, Esq., as his Superintendent of Buildings. Mr. Carlin filled out the unexpired term of the late John Thatcher, who was killed in the discharge of duty, and has given such good value as a public officer that his reappointment was demanded.

Borough President Mathewson, of the Bronx, appointed as Superintendent of Buildings in that borough Robert J. Moorehead, Esq., and as Secretary of the Bureau of Buildings, Charles L. Halberstadt. Thomas W. Whittle is to be Commissioner of Public Works, and J. Stewart Wilson, Superintendent of Highways.

Mr. Moorehead is a vigorous man in the early prime of life. He was born and educated in the city of New York, passing two years as a student at the College of the City of New York and then two years more were spent by him in technical study adapted to his proposed business of building construction.

Originally an apprentice in the stone-setting business, he became a journeyman at that trade, and at the age of 23 started in business as an employing stone-setter.

In the course of that business he did work on such buildings as the addition to St. Patrick's Cathedral, St. Ignatius College, St. Andrew's College, the Vanderbilt residence at 50th street and Fifth avenue, the renovation of the J. Pierpont Morgan home at 36th street and Madison avenue, the Thorn and Sterling residences at 72d street and Fifth avenue, the Home Life Insurance Company Building in Cedar street, the Bellclaire Hotel and the Sterling mansion at Riverside Drive and 72d street.

About the year 1894 Mr. Moorehead began improving his holdings of vacant real estate in the Bronx and since that time has built and owned upward of one hundred apartment houses in that borough. In 1906 he retired from his stone-setting contracting business and since then has devoted his entire time to his own real estate and building interests. He has been a resident of the Bronx about twenty years. He is a member of the North Side Board of Trade and of the Builders' Protective Association of the Bronx, and resides at 415 East 140th street. He never before held public office.

Mr. Halberstadt, the secretary of the bureau, is a graduate of City College and was a factory inspector in the State Department of Labor for ten years. He was first appointed secretary of the Building Bureau February 1, 1910. He has prepared all the reports of the bureau.

William B. Selden, lately Second Deputy, County Clerk, New York, has been promoted to be First Deputy by County Clerk William F. Schneider, who was re-elected. Charles E. Gehring, First Deputy, declined reappointment. Herman W. Beyer, superintendent of indexing and recording, gets the place made vacant by Mr. Selden's promotion. Ex-Assemblyman Solomon Strauss succeeds Mr. Beyer. No further changes, it is stated, will be made for the present.

JOHN W. MOORE.

—Partial confirmation of some of the rumors affecting Sixth avenue department stores came this week with the appointment of receivers for the corporations conducting the Fourteenth Street Store and the Simpson-Crawford store in this city and the Henry Siegle store in Boston. It is stated, however, that neither the Simpson-Crawford Company nor the Fourteenth Street Store will be closed, and confidence is expressed that they will be reorganized and continued indefinitely. At any rate, there is no immediate cause of worry over untoward changes in the real estate.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

THE INVESTMENT RETURN FROM OFFICE BUILDINGS. INSIDE INFORMATION AND COUNSEL FOR INVESTORS.

By CLARKE G. DAILEY, Vice-President Alliance Realty Co.

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Co.

MORTGAGES on real property vary in rate and proportion to such a degree that in this article I shall treat all property as free and clear. Let us consider, first, what an office building should bring in to make it a desirable form of investment. This can only be arrived at by comparison with returns on other forms of investment, such as stocks, bonds and first mortages. First-class bonds, averaged over a number of years, bring in a shade over 4 per cent. per annum. First mortgages during a similar period have averaged about 4¾ per cent., while the leading railroad stocks, representing equities subject to large prior liens, averaged from 5½ to 6 per cent. on their market value.

What an Office Building Should Pay.

Careful comparison with these other forms of investment leads me to believe that an office building should pay 5½ per cent. free and clear after setting aside a proper reserve for depreciation. When paying at this rate it will compare favorably with other investments, as the possibly greater security of bonds and mortgages is offset by the lesser income, while the lack of liquidity of real estate is met by the probability of enhancement in value, as evidenced by the past history of New York City real estate.

Always Under the Owner's Control.

Careful consideration should of course be given to the location and value of the site, and to the planning and construction of the building. Where wisdom has been shown in these essentials an office building is a safe and desirable investment. It is always there for the owner to inspect and is under his control. What chance had an ordinary stockholder in the Boston & Maine or the New York, New Haven & Hartford in any degree to control, or even to get accurate knowledge concerning his investment? Office buildings, unlike securities, cannot be made with a printing press, nor can their value be dissipated by unsound finance, unless the owner is himself guilty of it.

True it is that many office buildings do not pay 5½ per cent.—no doubt a majority—but invariably their failure to do so is for reasons obvious to anyone with a knowledge of the subject. Many buildings have been erected which were either improperly planned, poorly located, or so inefficiently constructed that they never had a chance from the beginning. Many have been built on sites poorly adapted to the purpose, and often has too much been paid for the land. Too often has an architect drawn a beautiful elevation and fitted the interior to it. Too seldom has expert advice been called in at the start. The planning and construction of office buildings is becoming more of a science, with less of haphazard methods which so long prevailed. A good return can always be secured when real ability and expert knowledge have been utilized in the projection and handling of the enterprise.

These Pay Six Per Cent. or More.

I have carefully studied the income and expenses of nine office buildings of which I have had exact knowledge: The Everett, Whitehall, Battery Park, Chesebrough, Maritime, Broad-Exchange, Century, Harriman Bank and Park Avenue Terminal Buildings; and in not a single case has the interest return upon the entire cost thereof fallen below 6 per cent., after deducting a proper depreciation charge. Some of these pay much more.

CLARKE G. DAILEY.

Born in Kentucky, Mr. Dailey's boyhood after his third year was spent in Topeka, Kansas, where he worked his way through Washburn College by acting as secretary to its president. He came to New York City at the age of 22 to study music, expecting to become a concert singer, and meanwhile secured a position as stenographer to W. H. Chesebrough, who was at that time organizing the Century Realty Company. Mr. Dailey eventually decided on a business rather than a professional career, and was soon promoted to the position of assistant treasurer of the company. When the Century Realty Company was taken over by the U. S. Realty & Improvement Company in 1907, he was made assistant secretary of that company. About three years ago he was elected to his present position of vice-president of the Alliance Realty Company.

Take the original Whitehall Building on Battery Park, for example. Instead of 6 per cent., it paid 9½ per cent. on the entire value of the property. Investors in the equity received 18 per cent. annually on their money for a number of years, finally getting their investment back when the building was sold with 100 per cent. profit, in addition to the interest return mentioned. Yet there is a current impression that no office building pays well.

Result of Scientific Handling.

The buildings mentioned and other similarly successful buildings are distributed through the city. They represent no particular location or trade—simply the results of knowledge and scientific handling. What has been done with them can be done again with others, but never by paying a high price for land and erecting thereon an extravagantly built and poorly planned building.

Ability and a knowledge of the subject are requisite to success in this vocation, as in any other. If an office building is built in an assured or improving location, with good transit facilities, on land for which a moderate price has been paid, if the financing has been conservative and the building planned with exact knowledge of the needs of the tenants, and above all so arranged that practically every office has permanently protected light and air, then there is no difficulty in securing a net return of 5½ per cent. or more upon the total investment.

I want to say here that tall office buildings on interior plots are a mistake. They should not be built except on corner plots and then only when arrangements have been made to permanently protect the bulk of their light. Most of the space vacant to-day is that which is poorly lighted.

Importance of Good Light.

There are good and poor office buildings from an investment standpoint, just as there are good and poor stocks and bonds. As a class, office buildings are suffering in public estimation because of the lack of judgment and foresight so commonly displayed in their projection. If, as is to be hoped, the proposed action to limit the heights of buildings materializes, there will be less danger in the future of the depreciation in the value of buildings whose owners have not been sufficiently farsighted to protect their light.

At the present time there is a surplus of rentable space in some sections. Yet, the certain and steady progress of the newer buildings, as, for instance, the Woolworth, leads me to believe that with the coming revival of industrial activity throughout the country, coupled with the normal growth of business in this city, this surplus will be quickly absorbed.

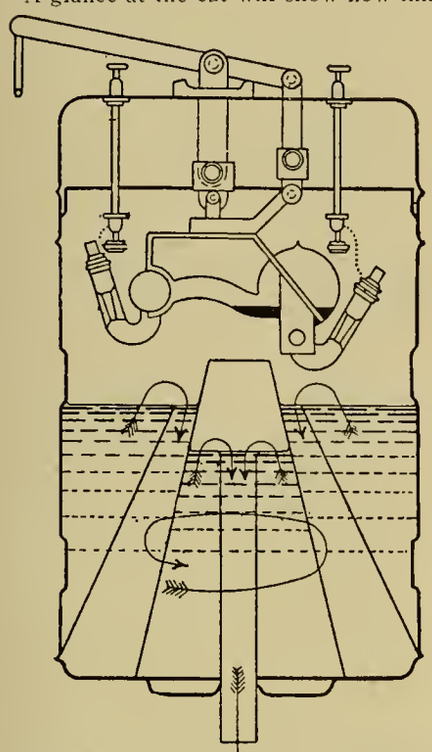
ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS.

A New Way to Filter Drinking Water—An Economical Sterilizer.

SCIENCE has given to the building manager a new and cheaper way to sterilize water for drinking and other purposes by harnessing the wonderful powers of the ultra-violet ray to a device that can serve a box-like office or an entire city. In order to understand the operation of the new sterilizer it is first necessary to give the reader a description of what the ultra-violet ray is.

Light From a Miniature Sun.



Briefly, it is a ray given off by the sun that in its unalloyed power will kill every known germ. It has been known for years that the sun is the greatest destroyer of germs known to man. This power, science has discovered, is due to the ultra violet ray given off by this illuminant. It was this power that purified, in time, polluted streams, and the lack of this power that caused affluent contained in conduits shut off from the sun to become even more poisonous.

To imitate nature it was found necessary to create a miniature sun which would give off a maximum of ultra-violet light. Science applied itself to various light-producing agencies in the hope of obtaining a suitable light source that could be applied to a simple, economical and reliable sterilizer that would take up no more space than the ordinary spring-water bottle and stand generally found in offices.

After much experimentation they took as the prime factor of their apparatus the mercury vapor arc enclosed in a fused rock crystal lamp built by the Westinghouse-Cooper-Hewitt Company on the principle of the Cooper-Hewitt lamp. This rock crystal or quartz glass allows the ultra violet light to radiate freely, whereas common glass is opaque to the ultra violet rays.

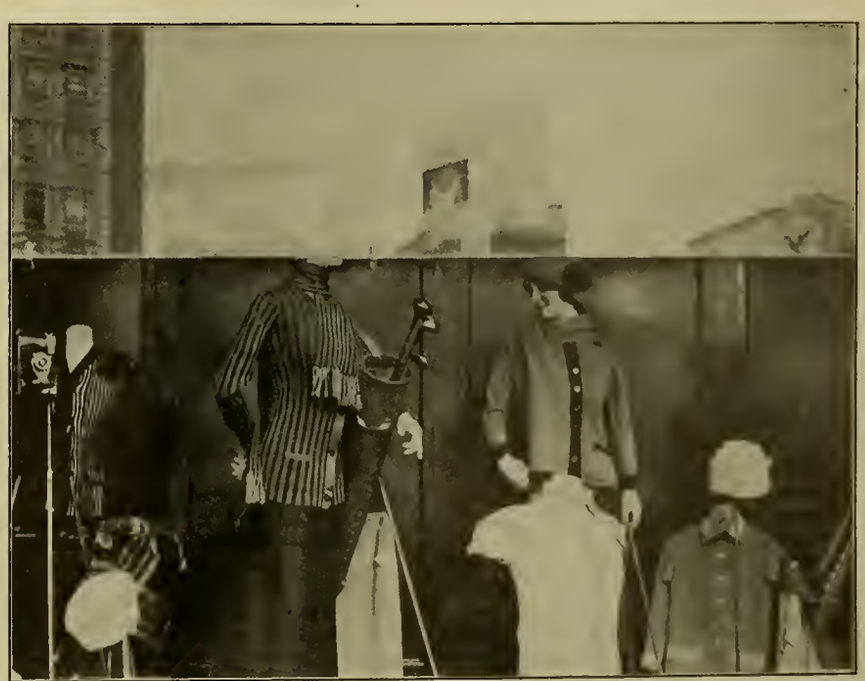
A glance at the cut will show how this little lamp is applied to the sterilizing outfit now being put upon the market by the R. U. V. Company, of 50 Broad street. The light emanating from the rock crystal mercury contained tube is directly above the intake flow of water. This water is permitted to rise until it comes in contact with the rim of the outflow pipe and as the water passes over the crest of the pipe the rays, being directed full upon the thin strip of water, positively kills every latent germ that the water contains, sending it out to the consumer chemically pure, that is, positively sterile.

No Care In Operation.

Any one can turn on the current and tilt the lamp. That is all that is required for successful operation. The operating principle of all types of apparatus is the same. By means of baffles the water is made to pass, not once, as described in the preceding paragraph, but several times in the same way near the source and under the influence of the ultra violet rays. Various degrees of temperature have no effect upon the action of this almost weird system of water purification, neither does the process change the temperature of the water. Even when ice-water is introduced the germs are as effectually killed as if boiling water were put through the filter. There is no change in taste. The only effect the rays have upon the water is the absolute annihilation of germs or bacteria in any form.

For Large Buildings and Cities.

This system of sterilization has been made elastic enough to meet the requirements of the smallest user up to the 200,000 gallons an hour that a community might consume. Where a series of units are employed the water supply of whole cities can be made as pure or purer than that rendered free from bacilli in the small office equipment.



In the large office building or apartment equipments if allowed to operate day and night needs no attention. Unlike the usual filter of sand or porcelain it requires no cleansing. At the most all the attention required is to light the lamps or turn on or off the water if necessary. Otherwise it needs no consideration in its operation.

Shadow-Box Show Windows.

IN this window bent glass is used instead of flat plates. They are so set with relation to a light-absorbing (black) surface known as a "shadow box," that the rays of light that ordinarily reflect back into the eyes of the observer are deflected into the "shadow box" in such a manner that the goods on exhibition appear to the observer absolutely as they would appear if there were no glass. That is, there are no reflections of the sky, neighboring buildings, traffic or pedestrians as illustrated in the cut.

The glass absolutely disappears, so far as appearances are concerned, so that the display in the window looks as though it could be touched from the outside. One of these show-windows has been installed as a demonstration in the store of R. H. Macy & Co, on the Broadway side, where architects and builders can study the normal effects. Architects and managers of store buildings know that a great deal of expense is charged up by storekeepers to the maintenance of show-windows, which indicates their great value as a selling force. There has been, however, a great deal of difficulty experienced in combating the reflecting power of a flat pane which often nullifies the effect of the display arranged within.

In the shadow-box show window the darkest or most delicate colors will show at their true values, and the finest texture or pattern may be seen exactly as it would appear without glass. In furniture, piano or automobile display rooms where it is important to show the whole floor, the new window gives the same effect on looking into the window as that produced on looking out through the ordinary window. In addition, as the illustration from the outside is better and the confusion removed, the display shows perfectly several hours longer in the day without the aid of artificial illumination than is possible behind the flat glass window.

The photograph shows the Macy window in which form the low "vision section" only has been cleared by the installation of "shadow-box show window." This window is about 8 feet deep with a mahogany background, yet the texture and color of the display show perfectly. The reflections in the upper half would, in a flat glass window, extend downward over the display, although the reflections at the very bottom of the window are rarely so brilliant as the sky and tops of buildings. It is being demonstrated here by the Store Improvement Company, Inc., Longacre Building, Broadway and 42d street.

A Non-Hazardous Switchboard.

MANY accidents are caused by an electric switch half turned on when the workman has presumed he has opened the circuit entirely. With an eye to preventing, as much as possible, accidents of this kind, the Detroit Fuse and Manufacturing Company, of 114 Liberty street, is introducing a system of positive open or shut units for electrical control. The illustration shows a switchboard thus equipped, in both front and side views.

The units are entirely enclosed in iron. Inside the contacts operate either tight shut or all open. There can be no half way, no hidden arcs to set fire to the building and no mistake about the life or harmlessness of a wire. The switch will not operate unless the box is fully open or positively closed.

The municipal ferry to Stapleton, Staten Island, was discontinued on the first of the year by Dock Commissioner Smith and the ferry house was permanently closed. Another argument for constructing the proposed Staten Island tunnel.

A new county—the sixty-second—was added to the number in the State on New Year's, when the county government of the Bronx was inaugurated with due ceremony in the recently finished County Court House at Third avenue and 161st street.

The annual index to the rulings of the Board of Building Examiners, prepared by M. M. D. Clark, secretary of the board, will be published in the Record and Guide next week. The index covers the rulings for all the boroughs handed down during the last year.

The year-end payments were financed with less difficulty than had been expected. The money market was distinctly comfortable, and plenty of funds were available to commercial borrowers, according to the monthly letter of the Fourth National Bank, which also calls attention to the fact that large investments are already being made in commercial paper. Under the new banking system such paper will be in greatly increased demand for investment by national banks, a circumstance which must tend to stimulate an early revival of general business throughout the country. Furthermore, the distribution of between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 in dividend and interest payments during the current month can not fail to react favorably on the market for securities, including mortgages.

The Mitchel Administration.

The new administration which assumed office on January first starts on its career under most encouraging conditions. With one or two exceptions all the members of the new Board of Estimate are gentlemen who will bring to their jobs the experience and the training acquired by many years of official service. These years of service have, moreover, covered a most significant period. During their passage a sincere and intelligent attempt has been made to reorganize the administrative and financial system of the city in the light of modern scientific methods and the highest standards of business efficiency. The attempt was not very successful, because the Board of Estimate was not united and because of the opposition of the Board of Aldermen. A sufficient preliminary study of the problem was, however, made to be of great assistance in any future effort to realize the same ideal under more favorable conditions; and these favorable conditions have now been brought into existence. The new administration is united. Its work cannot be hampered by an unfriendly Board of Aldermen. It has been elected on a platform which explicitly pledges it to more vigorous standards of economy and efficiency than any which have yet prevailed. It will be considered a success or a failure according to its ability to secure to the taxpayers of New York a larger return for the amount of money expended than they now receive.

So far as the Record and Guide knows, the Mitchel administration is the first one which has been elected in New York or any other city explicitly pledged to the introduction of modern scientific standards of administration. Of course many newly elected officials have been pledged to the economical conduct of the affairs of the city; but vague pledges of economy are a very different thing from the specific pledges which have been made by Mr. Mitchel and his colleagues. Their promises have included the application of a group of specific and more administrative ideas and methods. Of late years certain essential phases of administrative work have been reduced to a scientific basis. A system can be introduced into any public office, which to a certain extent automatically checks the work of each of the employees in the office, and indicates the percentage of efficiency which is being obtained. Such a system corresponds, of course, to the methods of cost accounting, which have become a recognized part of the auditing machinery of so many modern businesses. The method does not, of course, work with complete automatic certainty. It necessarily leaves a large measure of discretion and hence of possible evasion to the higher officials who are responsible for its operation. But it offers a much better chance of testing the efficiency of any particular governmental agency than have the methods used in the past. The effort to introduce it into official departments of the city will meet with stubborn opposition from the subordinate employees and is not likely to be an entire success; but even if the results are not commensurate with the expectations, the experiment will be most illuminating. It will give some indication of the extent to which modern standards of efficiency can be applied to public offices, and as a result of this experience the tentative methods which are now being used may well be very much improved.

Any program of this kind implies a much more efficient control by the Mayor and the Board of Estimate over the business of the city than that which they are now enabled to exercise. Nominally, of course, the power of the Mayor over the departmental chiefs is complete. He can dismiss them when he pleases and his power of appointment is not subject to any supervision. But actually, of course, the intelligent exercise of any such authority depends upon his ability to keep fully informed as to the actual management of the department. A proper auditing system will, of course, help him to learn how well the work of any department is being done; but no such automatic check can serve as anything more than an indication. The Mayor needs in addition a staff of inspectors, who will, merely as a matter of regular routine, scrutinize the work of the departments and keep him informed as to their several standards of efficiency and inefficiency and the causes thereof. In the past the Mayor could always order an investigation by the Commissioner of Accounts, but such an investigation was exceptional and implied that the department which was submitted to the discipline was under suspicion. Regular inspection would not imply any such specific doubts. It would mean merely that the Mayor as the responsible head of the administration must be fully informed as to the quality of the department work and the possibility of its improvement.

It is no less essential, of course, that the Board of Estimate should possess analogous means of information. The Board determines the financial and business policy of the city. It should possess consequently a group of subordinate officials, responsible to it, upon whom it could depend for any facts which it may need. It cannot, for instance, intelligently decide upon the amount of money needed by any one department unless it knows how well such a department is now performing its work. It should have access, consequently, to the reports made by the Mayor's inspectors and should have the power to order a special investigation—in case its members had any reason to believe that such an investigation was necessary. It should, furthermore, possess an adequate technical staff, which could place in its hands all the facts needed by the Board in order to pass intelligently upon any questions of public policy.

As a result of the attempt which will be made to reorganize the administrative system of the city, certain changes in the charter will most assuredly be found necessary, but it is very much to be hoped that no application will be made by the administration to the existing Legislature for legislation of this character. The nature of any proposed revision of the Charter which has the support of the administration should be a matter for very careful consideration and their drafting should be delayed until a vivacious effort has been made to see what could be accomplished under existing laws. The new charter should be result of the actual needs which the attempt to carry out the program of the administration will develop.

Single-Taxers and the Tenement House Law.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Tax Commissioner Wall made a slip in saying (as quoted in your current issue) that the Tenement House Law is burdensome to land-owners. The provisions of the Tenement House Law which prevent overcrowding make it necessary to use more space for buildings in order to house a given number of people and, to that extent, require the use of more land. The law checks the over-development of an ordinary sized lot and may therefore keep down the value of some lots most suitable for such over-developed building. But, on the other hand, the area covered by buildings will be that much greater and, to this extent, land values will be increased over a larger area than without the law. And, in so far as such legislation does make living conditions more sanitary and attractive, thereby increasing both the productive power of the population and the desirability of this city as a place of residence, the aggregate land value is increased.

No one will deny that some tenement house law is necessary, or that the present one has some good points. We must remember then the familiar principle of economics, that "every improvement in the condition of the earth, whether agricultural, mechanical, educational, political, ethical, or even religious, must go eventually and mainly to the profit of the owners of the earth."

Mr. Wall's memory is at fault when he attributes the Tenement House Law to the efforts of single-taxers or thinks that they are supporting it as a roundabout method of getting back to the community some of the land values which are due to community effort. Henry George vigorously attacked tenement house legislation in a notable speech in Cooper Union wherein he pointed out that such laws were mere palliatives and that they make people tolerant of unjust conditions. Neither are single-taxers active in charitable work. They are trying to establish conditions that will make most charity unnecessary.

Single-taxers are also opposed to paternal and socialistic legislation, and, far from attacking those who have saved, they are among the most earnest defenders of legitimate property rights—even against our present unjust and confiscatory tax system, which take from those who produce for the benefit of non-producers. To quote Henry George, "This alone I contend for, that he who makes should have, that he who saves should enjoy. I ask on behalf of the poor nothing whatever that properly belongs to the rich."

BOLTON HALL.

New York, Dec. 29.

Heights of Buildings Restrictions.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The Committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Heights of Buildings consists of President McAneny of the Borough of Manhattan, President Pounds of the Borough of Brooklyn and President Miller of the Borough of the Bronx. This committee has had the benefit of the public spirited services and advice of an Advisory Commission, of which Edward M. Bassett, Esq., former Public Service Commissioner, is chairman. It is composed of twenty well-known citizens whose experience and ability make their advice valuable.

This commission, after extended conferences, has made certain recommendations to the committee, which in turn will report to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on December 31, 1913. It urges two amendments to the Charter, giving the Board of Estimate and Apportionment power to regulate the heights of buildings in districts to be fixed by it, and to regulate the kinds of business to be allowed in the several districts. If such amendmends to the Charter become law, public hearings will be held to inform the Board of Estimate and Apportionment as to the fixing of the different districts and the heights of buildings and character of business to be allowed in them.

The limitations which interest some dwelling districts in the Bronx are as follows:

E Districts: One and one-half times the street width, and not over 90 feet. Set-back one foot horizontally for each one and one-half feet vertically.

F Districts: Once the street width and not over 80 feet. Set-back one foot horizontally for each one foot vertically.

G Districts: Not over 50 feet. Set-back same as F.

H Districts: Not over 36 feet. Set-back same as F.

It is to be seen that taller buildings are suggested for wider streets, thus allowing the lots on those streets to attain a higher value than the lots on narrow streets.

Lots in the Bronx cost from $1500 to $2500 to develop. To limit the buildings on such lots to two and three-family houses, which cannot be made to pay on such lots, is equivalent to confiscating the lots. To quote from a recently published discussion of building regulations in German cities:

> "Land values are stubborn facts and must be respected in Germany as well as here. * * *
> "Prussian administration, too, is at times not only vexatious and arbitrary, but unjust. Recently the ordinances for a part of Charlottenburg were changed so that instead of allowing five stories and the use of 75 per cent. of the lot as in Berlin proper, only two stories and a 30 per cent. use, as in the most remote suburbs, was permitted. It was undeveloped land, it is true, but the owners, some of them, went into bankruptcy."

I have advocated a minimum width of 60 feet for streets in the Bronx while I have been in office because I have foreseen not only that the present building laws do not permit the erection of buildings on narrow streets which will give an adequate return on the value to the lots as soon as the Bronx builds up and values begin to approximate somewhat those in Manhattan, and because I foresaw that any probable restriction of the height of buildings on narrow streets would prevent such buildings from paying a proper income on the cost of the lots.

If the proposed legislation giving the Board of Estimate and Apportionment power to regulate the heights of buildings is passed, the people of the Bronx must be prepared to present arguments which will result in the adoption of reasonable regulations which will not injure the value of the lots. I think there is no cause for alarm, as the subject is likely to receive full consideration before anything positive is done.

CYRUS C. MILLER,
President of the Borough of the Bronx.

The Income From Modern Apartments.

To explain why such returns as twelve and twenty per cent. are possible upon an investment in a high-class apartment house, Douglas L. Elliman, president of the real estate firm of Douglas L. Elliman & Co., points out that it is largely due to the profit on borrowed money:

"Take, for example, a property unencumbered by a mortgage, as is rarely the case, returning 8 per cent. net. Assuming that it were valued at $1,000,000, and after all deductions for expenses, depreciation and the like except interest were deducted $80,000 net income remained, or 8 per cent. on the total investment. By placing a mortgage of $600,000 at 5 per cent. on the property you would have to pay out $30,000 in interest, but there would be still $50,000 income on the equity of $400,000, or 12½ per cent. The reason for this is that the borrowed money for which you pay 5 per cent. is really earning 8 per cent., and this 3 per cent. profit added to the normal interest on your equity makes the high return."

This is a phase of real estate investing not often enough emphasized in order that public interest in real estate shall not flag. The example given by Mr. Elliman is a conservative one. The thing of most importance to an investor is not how much the property is earning on the total valuation, but how much it is earning him on his equity, or on the actual amount of money invested by him. And perhaps the time has come when this brighter side of the shield can be and should be turned toward the public again. Having a promise that the rights of property will receive more consideration from lawmakers and budget makers hereafter, the real estate profession should encourage investors generally to turn again to real estate, as after all the most satisfactory of all sources of permanent income—as it has been in every generation.

London's Big Real Estate Deal.

The latest advices from London concerning the purchase by Mr. Mallaby-Deeley of the greater part of the Duke of Bedford's London estates shed no light on the question whether the transaction indicates anything beyond the fact that the Duke prefers money to land and Mr. Mallaby-Deeley prefers land to money. The Duke is reported to have been induced to carry out the transaction through his uncertainty as to the probable trend of legislation affecting land; but, if this indicates want of confidence in the future, there is a set-off in the confidence shown by the purchaser, so the situation resembles a drawn game. To the Duke's former tenants the transfer may or may not make a difference. It may be said "to Amurath Amurath succeeds," and naturally the purchaser will be bound by the covenants and leases in force, and no one can know whether the tenants will in future be better or worse off than they were under the benevolent sway of the Duke, who has always had the reputation of being among the best of the great landowners of England. It really only means a difference in the color of the map and the substitution of a new name for the ancestral one of one of the greatest of English families.

In a conversation with Mr. Mallaby-Deeley at his residence a representative of the Times (London) was informed that the purchase of the Covent Garden estate is entirely a private transaction between Mr. Mallaby-Deeley and the Duke of Bedford.

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley made it perfectly plain that he has not been backed by a syndicate, nor has he acted as the agent of others. Moreover, he has no intention of forming a syndicate hereafter. "There is," he said, "very little to say about the future. I have no intentions. I have bought the estate purely as a private investment, and the estate will be carried on just as it has been hitherto. It will certainly not be turned into a company; and there is no part of it that will be turned into a company. The Duke of Bedford has surrendered the whole of his interest in the estates."

What Has Happened to 23d Street.

On the south side of 23d street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, many buildings are vacant or are about to be vacated by present tenants. The only occupant on that block whose stay is assured is Le Bolt, the jeweler. Buildings at Nos. 14, 16 and 18 are vacant. At No. 20 the Pierce-Rupard Company is going out of business, and at No. 22 the Guzy Freres is conducting a bankrupt sale; these two buildings will shortly be vacant. The Rheinhart Building at No. 24 is unoccupied. At No. 26 the Hudson Bay Company is holding a removal sale preliminary to going to their Fifth avenue establishment. Nos. 28 to 46, the old Stern Brothers' store, is vacant; No. 48 to 52 is vacant. No. 60 is vacant, and the rest of the block running to Sixth avenue, the old McCreery store, is vacant. On the north side of the street, the big building at 43 West 23d, occupied by George C. Flint (furniture) will shortly be vacant. The adjoining premises of Shepard-Knapp & Co. will soon be empty, and on the same side, at Nos. 35 and 37, all the upper floors are vacant.

More Land for the Court House Site.

An authority close to the Court House Board having intimated that the city will be asked to buy additional land for the new court house site, the inference is being drawn in architectural circles that the board has now in mind an entirely new set of plans for the building, and that it will be a building with a larger area and of course a different contour from the one first designed. It is surmised that this is the basis on which the Court House Board and the Supreme Court Justices are "approaching the solution of the difficulty," but it implies that the city will be willing to expend a larger sum than was at first intended, which has not yet been made evident. In the event of the Board of Estimate's consent being obtained to the acquisition of more land for the building, further condemnation proceedings will be necessary.

New Subway Contracts.

The Public Service Commission awarded the contract this week for the construction of the section of the Interborough Seventh avenue subway south of 34th street station to a little north of the 42d street station to the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company. This is a subsidiary of the Interborough. Its bid was about $2,292,000. Other contracts were awarded for different sections of new subways amounting to $11,106,038, as follows: Greater part of New Utrecht avenue elevated line to Post & McCord, Inc., $1,672,190; Southern Boulevard and Westchester avenue, from 147th street to Whitlock avenue, to Rodgers & Hagerty, $2,253,159.25; Jerome avenue elevated, from 157th to 182d street, to the Oscar Daniels Company, $1,077,978; Seventh avenue subway, Beach to Commerce street, to the Degnon Contracting Co., $2,185,063.50; Seventh avenue subway, 16th to 30th street, to the Canavan Brothers Co., $2,401,306.75; White Plains road extension, from Burke avenue to 241st street, to Alfred P. Roth, $958,484; Steinway tunnel extension from terminus of the tunnel in Queens to the Queensboro plaza, to the Degnon Contracting Company, $557,856.50.

An Active Section.

Ridgewood continues to be one of the most active sections in the city for building operations. A very large area has been covered with tenements within the past three years, as they have been erected in blocks of twenty or thirty or more at a time. The Ring-Gibson Company has made arrangements to build ninety four-story houses of good design and quality on Woodbine avenue, Madison street and Doubleday street east of Fresh Pond road, and has filed plans with the Building Bureau and commenced work on the first installment of thirty-eight, of which a number are already enclosed. The apartments will each comprise five or six rooms, and altogether there will be accommodations for 720 families. The buildings on Woodbine avenue will have stores on the first floor.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

WHY THE 1914 CONSTRUCTION YEAR IN THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT LOOKS GOOD TO MANUFACTURERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

Milliken Bros. Start Anew with a Million in Hand—Equitable Front Brick Contract

IN an analysis of the building material market for the Metropolitan district for 1913 the relative fluctuation of temperament in the three preceding years should also be taken into account, so that a proper perspective of the rise and fall of supply, demand and prices may be obtained. To that end a chart has been prepared (and is presented herewith) which covers the wholesale building material market for New York and vicinity, designed to show not only the price movement but other conditions governing the consumption of building commodities, all of which have had a direct bearing upon the volume of building that has gone ahead in this vicinity this year.

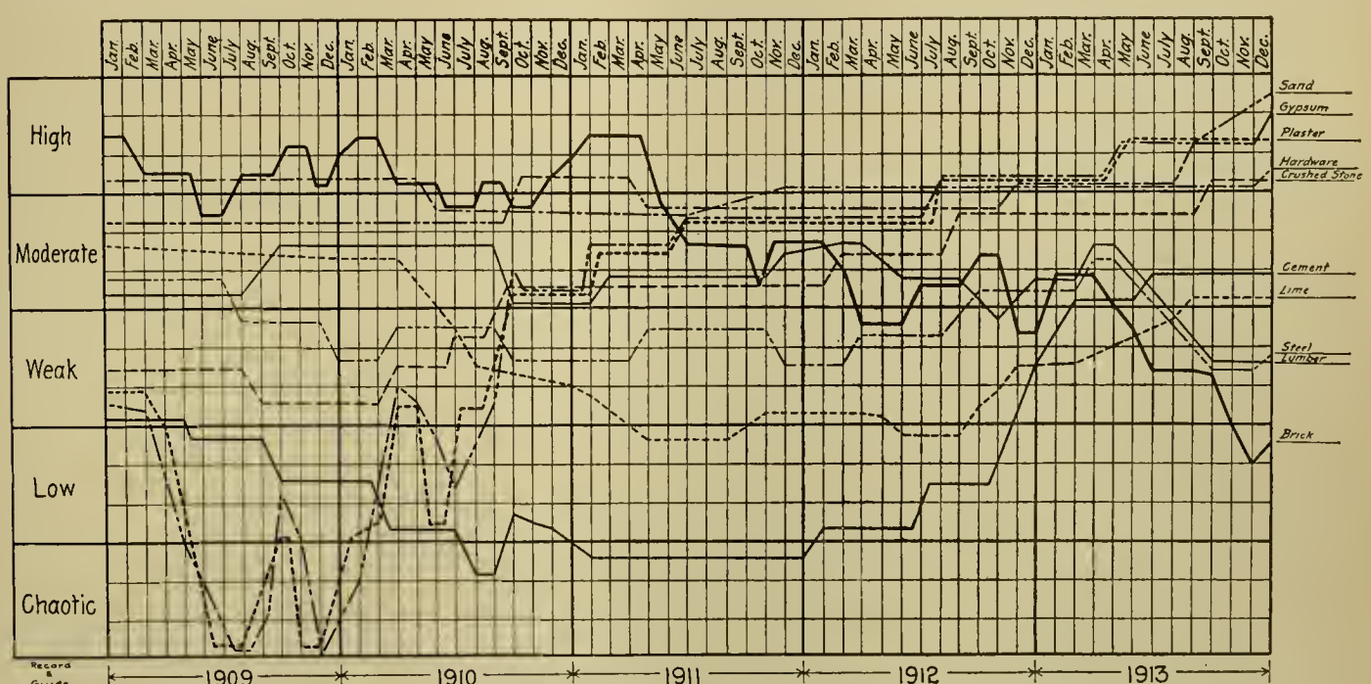
When 1909 opened the biggest building movement in the history of the East was under way. In a sense it reflected the almost unexpected boom that, thanks to artificial stimulation, swept over the country. When it arrived it found building materials as a unit in this market in sharp contrast with the requirements of builders. Some commodities were high, others were easy, while others were low. Some were in a chaotic state, with competition eating the heart out of profits. It was a year marked by numerous interests seeking a foothold in this market regardless of cost.

In the following year there was a tendency to get together, but there remained a great deal of commercial distrust underlying almost all quotations. Another twelve months brought a narrower range of temperaments, and when 1912 arrived with its shimmery glimpses of a repetition of 1909's good building movement, better harmony prevailed in the leading departments, with a tendency to make the market hold to its good opening. In the fall, however, when business began to expect the unexpected as a result of the election, the comparatively even tenor of the market was disturbed, and while some commodities went lower, others remained steady and some, like steel, made a determined effort to get into something like a firm position.

This was partially successful so long as winter lasted. It was a mild winter and a moderate amount of building construction went on, which kept supply and demand in a healthy condition and, in consequence, prices held firm. But when the 1913 season opened the first intimation of a falling off in construction for the year was obtained, and some manufacturers who were carrying large stock, or were dependent upon railroads which had asked for a higher freight rate, either dropped their prices or began to curtail production. Demand about that time fell away, too, and despite the get-together movement that had been inaugurated several years before quotations began to show a wider range. This reflected the tendency to get business even if profits had to be sacrificed.

An Improved Sentiment.

But in the last month or two, especially within the last week, the improvement in sentiment in financial and real estate circles has had its reflection in building commodities. Sand and gravel are both stiffer. Plaster is expected to move up if higher freight rates are accorded the railroads, Hudson common brick is expected to move up at any time, crushed stone stiffened in October and structural steel closed the year with a little stiffening in tone. Lime has held a stiff position for the last four months and hardware has a much firmer inquiry than it had at this time last year, although actual orders are perhaps not as heavy, which is significant in view of the usually steady position of this commodity except when the metal market rises or falls.



The chart heretofore referred to is strictly a temperament report, based upon building construction for the last four years not only for New York city, but for the metropolitan district including East New Jersey and Westchester counties. It shows better than mere comparative price quotations could the increased demand for certain commodities that in previous years have not figured as prominently as fireproof building commodities as certain other lines have, and at the same time it shows the position of these long established fireproofing materials with respect to demand and price as the year closes.

Lumber reflects the legislative restrictions placed upon it to some extent, but the comparatively gentle fluctuations for the last four years in that department are accounted for by the increasing use for certain kinds of lumber for concrete mold and subway shoring work, and also for the tremendous gain in demand for hardwoods, which bring up the index figure to a point which almost neutralizes the recent retraction in general building demand.

One of the best signs of better conditions in building construction is the fact that there is not a single department in the New York market to-day wherein chaos obtains, and neither is there any commodity that will enter 1914 in a high and stiff position. In other words, building materials are in a receptive mood. Prospective builders will not find prices abnormally high as the year opens, at least, and there is little reason to expect that prices will move up sharply for the first half of the year.

The state of supply is healthy, not too low, nor yet too high, which is a far better state, so far as the prospective builder is concerned, than the widely divergent condition of the various building commodities early in 1909. There is an improved tone to the money market, real estate is expected to move a little easier now that the holidays are over, and preparations get under way for the spring. Last year this time there was an estimated total of $56,000,000 involved in new building projects. This year the total value of projected buildings valued at $100,000 each or over reaches $61,300,000.

Curves Are Plotted on the Basis of an Index Figure Covering Each Commodity in Wholesale Quantities F. O. B. Along Side Dock, or on Siding, in the Metropolitan District, lighterage being Included for Manhatton Dock Deliveries. Note the Greater Stability of Commodities at the Close of 1913 as Compared with Former Years, Evidenced by the Ascendency from Chaotic and Low Prices to Comparatively Moderate and Easy High. Nearly all Departments Show Signs of Increasing Strength Today.

THE WEEK'S REAL ESTATE NEWS

Brokerage Sales, Auctions, Foreclosure Suits, Building Loans, etc., Together With Brief Personal Items.

General Trading was Light

The most important transaction of the week was reported on the last day of the year. It concerned a large plot on Park avenue which is to be improved with a high-class apartment house. Another big deal involved the resale of a 59th street office building which figured in last week's trading. The rest of the business was confined to unimportant and inconspicuous holdings.

Prominent among the leases reported was the one which affected the corner of Broadway and 89th street, leased for a long term at a large rental. Nothing occurred in the other boroughs which would indicate a revival of activity or an awakening of any particular interest.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 15, against 18 for last week and 24 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 6, compared with 4 last week and 6 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 9, compared with 14 last week and 18 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported, against 10 last week and 16 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $2,097,751, compared with $366,150 last week. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $718,177. The total for 1913 was $49,405,882 as compared to $48,283,423 for 1912. The total from Jan. 1 to date is $1,824,126.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Monroe Building Sold.

Daniel Birdsall & Co., Inc., have sold for the Owners' Building Co. (Samuel A. Herzog, President) the Monroe Building, a 5-sty and basement structure, on plot 75x100, at 9-13 East 59th st, the transaction involving over $400,000. As this sale is the result of a recent transaction whereby the Owners' Building Co. disposed of a fine new apartment house, 271 Central Park West, at the northwest corner 87th st, and acquired the property 9-13 East 59th st, from Mr. Henry Sidenberg, the combined transactions represent a total of $1,400,000. In the latest sale of 9-13 East 59th st, by the Owners Building Company, this property was sold to William A. Parke who gave in part payment two fine parcels in the most exclusive residential section of Greenwich, Conn. One of the Greenwich properties is a highly cultivated parcel of 3¼ acres with improvements, consisting of large residence, garage and onthouse, green houses, etc.; the other is a vacant parcel of about the same size, immediately opposite.

Big Deal Ends the 1913 Realty Year.

insane asylum at Winnebago, Wis. Frederick L. Kane was appointed by the Court to appear in the proceedings for Shrank.

THE YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION has taken title from Cleveland H. Dodge to the former Keller school building, at 35 and 37 East 62d st, a plot 40x100.5, between Madison and Park avs. It was purchased at auction in June, 1911, by Lorillard Spencer for $147,000, and later he transferred it to Mr. Dodge. The building is now occupied by the Studio Club.

LIVINGSTON WETMORE and Elbert C. Atwood have formed a partnership under the name of Wetmore & Atwood, at 34 Pine st, where they will specialize in mortgage loans. Mr. Wetmore has been located at the same address for the last ten years, and Mr. Atwood has been in charge of the mortgage department of the M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co. for the last seven years.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY WHITMAN, who has been a frequent visitor at Newport, R. I., has purchased a choice residential property there. It comprises the estate of Edward Walter Histed, located at Price's Neck, and contains over 3 acres of land. There is a castle-like structure of stone on the premises, copied after the old English houses. The property was sold by DeBlois & Eldridge to Arthur Curtiss James, who, it is said, will turn it over to Mr. Whitman.

SUIT has been brought in the Supreme Court by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States against Catherine H. B. Smith, Judson B. Wilds, trustee and executor of William Wheeler and others, to foreclose a mortgage for $300,000 on the property at the southwest corner of Wall and Pearl sts, 70.4x22.5xirregular, with the 7-sty Eagle Building on it. The mortgage was made on March 8, 1905, by William Wheeler Smith and Catherine H. B. Smith. Alexander & Green are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

WILLIAM H. SMITH will sell at auction on January 7 the Barker property at the southwest corner of Fulton st and Elm pl, Brooklyn. This is a 4-sty structure occupied on the ground floor by the Loft candy concern. The old Barker homestead stood at the corner of Livingston st and Deveboise pl, now Elm pl, for many years. The property extended to Fulton st. The building on Fulton st, which is to be sold at auction, was for a number of years occupied by Bridges, the jeweler. No. 462 Fulton st, also in the Barker sale, is occupied by Bedell.

AN ESTIMATE of the damage caused by the proposed change of grade on East 149th st, between Melrose av and the Harlem River, was prepared by Cyrus C. Miller, just before he retired from the Borough Presidency of the Bronx. The estimates are limited to the cost of changes necessary to enable the buildings along the street to meet the new grade. It is not beyond the bounds of belief that the property owners will consider these figures conservative. This change of grade also produces a damage in Morris av and Cortlandt av, between East 148th and East 151st sts; in Walton av and River av, between East 146th and East 150th sts; and in East 150th st, between Melrose av and Park av. These damages are estimated as follows:

Walton av	7,000

ROBERT DE LA HOYDE, SR., a prominent Brooklyn real estate dealer, died of apoplexy at his home, 352 Macon st, Brooklyn, Monday, Dec. 29, aged 72 years.

MRS. ELIZABETH COLES, 82 years old, a wealthy real estate owner of Hempstead, L. I., died at her home in Fulton av on Thursday. Death was due to pneumonia. Mrs. Coles was born in Baltimore, Md., and had lived in Hempstead for the last forty years.

The Auction Market.

There were 22 offerings at the Exchange Salesrooms this week. Out of this number, 4 were bought by outsiders, 2 were withdrawn or adjourned, and 16 went to parties in interest. The most important offering of the week, the Hotel Claridge (formerly Hotel Rector), went to the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., representing bondholders, for $1,705,506. It is subject to a mortgage of $1,600,000. The outside bidders who were successful were Lawrence Rogers, who bought the dwelling at 507 East 176th st, for $3,075; the Jay Kay Co., which obtained the 6-sty tenement at 117-119 East 113th st for $54,500, and E. M. Muller who secured the tenement at 2012 1st av for $19,110, and a similar building at 2014 1st av, for $19,135.

For the coming week, one of the largest recent auctions of vacant lots in the East Bronx is scheduled for January 8, when Herbert A. Sherman will offer in foreclosure 55 separate plots, the holdings of Agnes K. Murphy-Mulligan, in the Baychester section. The lots are located on Baychester, Edson, De Reimer, Stillwell, Palmer, Waring and Mace avs, at the new Baychester station, and are fully developed. The property is part of the large tract owned by Mrs. Mulligan, which was partly disposed of at auction in 1908. The Franklin Society for Home Building and Savings is the plaintiff and John P. Weninger appears as the defendant in the suit. Much interest is attached to the legal proceedings, in that it has taken more than four years to foreclose the mortgage. Another important proceeding involves the Bijou Theatre, on Broadway, near 30th st, which was built in 1876, when it was called the Brighton, which gave way to Ward's Theatre before it became known as the Bijou Opera House. Felix H. Warburg has sued to recover $437,675 on the old landmark of the "Rialto," and it will be offered by Joseph P. Day for the high bid on the same day in the Vesey Street salesroom.

Conspicuous among the number of miscellaneous properties offered during the first full week of the year, will be the number of tenements, 19 being scheduled for sale at auction.

Real Estate Papers Filed in 1913.

If the number of instruments recorded in the Register's office be any criterion of real estate activity, then the study of the figures for the year 1913 as compared with the preceding year, would indicate a noticeable declension. Altogether 48,074 deeds were placed on record last year, 3,920 less than the year 1912. The decrease affected every kind of instrument. There were 429 conveyances, leases, etc., less than for 1912; 3,547 less mortgages, assignments, etc., and 44 less powers of attorney, etc.

Altogether there were 21,962 conveyances, leases and miscellaneous conveyances recorded in 1913, as compared to 22,391 for 1912; 25,154 mortgages, extensions and assignments for 1913, as compared to 28,601 for 1912; and 958 powers of attorney, etc., as compared to 1,002 for 1912. The total number for 1913 was 48,074, as against 51,994 for the preceding year.

The Dyckman Section.

Lying north of Fort George in Manhattan is the Dyckman tract. This section to-day presents an opportunity for profit for real estate interests. It has lain dormant now for some time, but is showing activities which are promising. Nowhere on Manhattan can be found vacant lots at equally modest prices, commensurate with the advantages of location and rapid transit. The subway with four stations runs through the middle of this tract. The University Heights bridge crossing the Harlem River at 207th street and the new bridge across the Ship Canal connecting Broadway with Marble Hill furnish additional advantages, giving access to the stations of the New York and Hudson River Railroad and Putnam Division. The new trolley line running through Emerson street, 207th street and across the University Heights bridge reaches the stations of the New York, New Haven and Hartford and New York and Harlem railroads in a few minutes.

Broadway, 100 feet wide, runs through the tract. Sherman avenue, also 100 feet wide, and Vermilyea and Post avenues, each 80 feet wide, show evidence of better methods of road construction and are being improved with excellent modern designed apartment houses of the three, four and five-room type.

Nagle and Tenth avenues, along which runs the overhead structure of the subway, will be the Dyckman tract's principal business section. In the immediate neighborhood of the 207th street station a number of five-story flats with stores have been built and are occupied.

Of the crosstown streets, Dyckman street and Emerson street with its continuation through 207th street to the University Heights bridge, and 215th street are the most important and will be improved earlier than the others, as they lead to the subway stations.

The Dyckman tract to-day offers opportunity for the building of five and six-story apartment houses and tenements. All streets are ready for building, paved throughout with asphalt blocks. Sewers have been constructed and water, gas mains and electric light facilities are ready.

The development of this territory should prove profitable as there seems little doubt that well built houses erected near the subway stations of Dyckman and 207th streets will rent well. There is an increasing demand for well planned apartments at moderate rentals with plenty of light and air.—Real Estate Board's Bulletin.

Annual Dinner, Real Estate Board.

The Annual Dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York will take place on Saturday evening, February 7, 1914, at the Waldorf-Astoria, at 7 p. m. sharp. The demand for tables and seatings at this dinner is eclipsing all previous records. Tables seating eight persons cost $40; single seats, $5 each. Checks should be enclosed with applications, and assignments will be made accordingly. Prominent speakers have been arranged for and several innovations are promised at this dinner—the first of the Real Estate Board of New York, but nevertheless our Eighteenth Annual Dinner which will unquestionably be its largest and most successful.—Elisha Sniffin, Secretary.

New Board Certificates.

Every active, non-resident and associate member of the Real Estate Board of New York will receive before January 15th the new certificates designed by the Special Committee.

These certificates have been handsomely framed in mahogany, and it is the expectation of the committee that they will be hung in a prominent place in the business office of all the members receiving them. No acknowledgment of receipt is necessary.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

Money Well Spent

Every day in Brooklyn some already-built apartment house is made modern and convenient by the installation of electric light.

The owners of these buildings realize that the public is educated to the many advantages of electric service. They are quick to grasp not only the fact that vacant apartments rent quicker when electrically equipped, but also that tenants are willing to pay more for an electric-lighted apartment than for any other.

The money spent, then, to make the necessary installation is really not an expense, but an investment that pays large returns.

Riverdale Avenue.

The Board of Estimate passed a resolution this week which apportions the cost and expense of acquiring title to Riverdale avenue, from Spuyten Duyvil road to the northerly boundary line of the city. Seventy-five per cent. of the cost of the improvement will be assessed upon a local area, and that of the remaining expense, less such portion of the cost of buildings as might be placed upon the city at large, two-thirds be placed upon the Borough of The Bronx and one-third upon the Borough of Manhattan.

It is understood that this proceeding is intended to supersede others which have been under consideration relating to lesser lengths of the street, one of which was laid over indefinitely on June 19, 1913, and the other of which was laid over for four weeks at the meeting held on October 23. Riverdale avenue has been given a width of 100 feet and under a proceeding confirmed in 1866 title was acquired to a width of 66 feet within the present street lines. It is recommended that the new proceeding be made to include all of the land within the present street lines north of the junction of Riverdale avenue with Spuyten Duyvil road, the proceeding being so limited on the south for the reason that an opening proceeding relating to the remaining length has been authorized and is now in progress. The street is macadamized for a portion of its width but the area traversed is almost entirely undeveloped. It is believed that there are buildings on the land needed for the widening.

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS.

Rule for the Use of Foreign Organizations and Partnerships.

Some time ago the Treasury Department gave instructions respecting the use of what was designated as "Form 1,000" of a certificate to be presented with coupons in interest orders stating whether or not exemption was claimed under Paragraph C, Section 2, of the income tax law. Another form known as "Form 1,001" was prescribed for the certificate to be furnished by organizations not subject to tax on interest at the source; also a form known as "Form 1,003" for the certificate to be filled out and signed by members of partnerships; and also a form known as "Form 1,004" for the certificate to be presented with coupons or interest orders detached from bonds or other obligations owned by those who are both citizens, or subjects, and residents of foreign countries.

The sixth of the new regulations issued is supplemental in character, and adapts these forms for use by fiduciary agents and for the use of foreign organizations and partnerships. Here is the new regulation:

"Supplemental instructions as to acceptance of certificate Form 1,000 as originally prescribed in regulation of October 25, 1913, and the original and amended Form 1,000 as it has been adapted to the use of fiduciary agents, and certificate Forms 1,001, 1003 and 1,004 as they have been adapted to the use of foreign organizations and partnerships.

"Certificate of ownership, Form 1,000, as originally prescribed in regulations of October 25, 1913, shall be accepted by debtors or withholding agents when properly filled in and signed by the owner of the bonds or his duly authorized agent until December 10, 1913, and after that date only the amended Form 1,000, as prescribed by regulations, shall be accepted.

"Form 1,000, original and amended, as it has been adapted to the use of guardians, trustees, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, conservators, and all persons, corporations, or associations acting in a fiduciary capacity, when properly filled in and signed and given the information required by the regulations, shall be accepted by debtors or withholding agents until regulations giving a prescribed form of certificates of ownership for fiduciary agents are issued, and for thirty days thereafter.

"Forms 1,001, 1,003 and 1,004, as they have been adapted to the use of foreign organzations and foreign partnerships, when properly filled in and signed, and giving the information required by regulations, shall be accepted by debtors or withholding agents until regulations giving a prescribed form of certificate of ownership for foreign organizations and foreign partnerships are issued, and for thirty days thereafter."

The City's Receipts.

The total receipts of New York City for the first nine months of the present year, according to a report made by Comptroller Prendergast, were $409,118,493. Of this sum, $137,933,274 came from taxes, assessments, water rates and miscellaneous revenues; $165,489,835 from the sale of revenue bonds, and $102,510,554 from the sale of bonds. During the same period corporate stock to the amount of $96,610,014 was redeemed.

Hotel Bossert Improvements.

Several new dining-rooms are provided by the annex to the Hotel Bossert on Brooklyn Heights now being completed. A total absence of pillars in these rooms is one of the features. The buffet formerly located on the subway floor has given way to a barber shop, and a new Flemish room and bar has been opened on the main floor. There is a street entrance and another from the rotunda.

The walls of this room are finished in a silvered oak effect that is quite attractive and in strict keeping with old Flemish decorations. Red tiles form the floor, and the ceiling is sufficiently low to carry out the impression of a genuine Dutch room. The bar is in the same style, and Manager Pflug states that business is very good.

Colonial Furniture.

In almost any American home of today Colonial furniture looks appropriate and a great many beautiful reproductions may be obtained at a moderate cost. Generally speaking, what we call Colonial furniture was made of mahogany, oak and walnut, although rosewood and some other woods were used. It is made in Flemish, Dutch, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and Empire designs, also in Spanish, copied, of course, from the furniture used by the Spaniards at St. Augustine and their other settlements. It offers many beautiful pieces, sideboards, buffets, dining room furniture, bedroom sets, "Windsor" chairs, desks, tea tables, chests of drawers, "highboys," "lowboys," sewing tables, settles and almost any kind of furniture which may be desired. It is for use in both the country houses and the residence in the city, and its quiet, refined beauty of outline and detail seems to make it at home wherever placed.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

Builders will find material men in a receptive mood for early contracts, but with stocks low and the prospective demand good there is not a great deal of ground for believing that prices will remain low very far into the year 1914.

MILLIKEN BROS. REESTABLISHED.

Fabricating Concern Starts With $1,000,000 Working Capital.

MILLIKEN BROTHERS, the steel fabricating concern which has a plant at Milliken, Staten Island, and which has been under a severe financial strain for the last three months, has been reorganized and under a new company incorporated under the laws of Virginia for $5,000,000, has begun business life anew with at least a million dollars working capital.

William Salomon of William Salomon & Co. will act as president until his successor can be chosen, with Francis Dykes, the vice president, in charge of operation. George E. Barrett is secretary and A. A. Cannon, treasurer. The directors are Jules S. Bache, William Salomon, Edward P. Saunders, William B. Parsons, Thomas Denny, C. McK. Lewis, Fred. P. Corning, Cornelius B. Tyler, and Francis Dykes.

Fresh capital was raised partly by assessing bondholders and by selling to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, for about $300,000, a portion of the rolling mill property of the company on Staten Island.

EQUITABLE FRONT BRICK ORDER.

Fredenburg, Lounsbury & Houghtaling, Inc., Get Contract for 2,500,000 Enamels.

ONE of the biggest front-brick contracts ever let in the east has been signed between the Thompson-Starrett Company, general contractors, and Fredenburg, Lounsbury & Houghtaling (Inc.), sole New York representatives of the Hydraulic Press Brick Company, for 2,500,000 light speckled enamel brick for the Equitable building. Deliveries probably will begin in March or the first part of the second quarter and will continue well into the end of the summer, according to the speed with which the building progresses.

The brick will be of a special shade and will be placed in the building on the facades from the sixth floor to the roof and the courts. While the contract was practically closed on December first the news of the award was not given out until just now, or until after the contracts had been formally closed. It promises to go down into brick history as one of the conspicuous brick orders, not only because of the great size, but because it will go into the largest building in the world.

MORE BRICK UNDER COVER.

Moderate Snow Storm Followed by Cold Would Shut Off Supply.

IN the face of a possible shut-off of supply of Hudson brick should even a moderate snow storm accompanied by a cold snap occur, the biggest covering movement of the winter took place this week when twenty barges went ont of the open market on the last day of the year. This brings the margin of safety even past that at the close of last year, when there were only 29 bargeloads covered, as against 36 this year. The demand was much better for covered brick last winter than this, however, and prices were stiffer at higher levels than they are at the present quotation —— to $6.75.

The character of the 1913 brick year is clearly shown in the official summary. The arrivals were 348 fewer than reported on December 31, 1912, and the sales were 294 bargeloads less. These figures do not really represent the gloom they appear to, however, because in the last year larger barges were put in service, listiog the number of brick carried bv each barge considerably above the average barge load of the year before. Prices were from two to three shillings a thousand below the average for 1912. The temperament of the brick market compared with recent years is shown in the chart, on page 15.

Official transactions for Hudson common brick covering this week ending Thursday, Jan. 1, in the wholesale market, with comparisons for the corresponding period last year and a comparative statement of Hudson brick unloaded from barges for consumption here, follow:

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Settlement House For Barrow Street.

The Co-operative Social Society, 52 William street, Herbert Parsons, president, contemplate the erection of a Settlement House at 27 to 31 Barrow street, brick and stone construction, probably six stories in height. It is expected that an architect will soon be selected. Dr. E. R. L. Gould is chairman of the building committee. Other members include Miss Clara Spence, William Demarest and Miss V. G. Sinkovitch.

Pan-American Plans Not Ready Yet.

Francis H. Kimball, 71 Broadway, architect for the new Pan-American States Association Building, to be erected on the block bounded by Broadway, Eighth avenue, 57th and 58th streets, informed the Record and Guide on Wednesday that plans will not be ready for figures among general contractors for several weeks yet, the filing of plans being only of a preliminary nature. As designed there will be fifty-one stories. The frontage will be 216.2 feet on Broadway, 201.2 feet in 57th street, 200.10 feet in Eighth avenue and 121.2 feet in 58th street, and the height 894.6 feet above the street level. The estimated cost has been placed at $12,500,000. There will be twelve elevators, six running to the seventeenth floor and the remaining six to the top story.

Plans For Rogers Peet Building.

Townsend, Steinle & Haskell, 47 West 34th street, have prepared tentative plans for the new store, loft and office building which the Rogers Peet Company, 258 Broadway, Frank R. Chambers president, Charles W. Halsey treasurer, is to erect at 481 to 485 Fifth avenue, 3 to 7 East 41st street, and 4 to 6 East 42d street, at a cost of at least $500,000. The building will front 49 feet on Fifth avenue, 166 feet in 41st street, 44 feet in 42d street, and will contain about 12,000 square feet. The construction contract has not been awarded.

THE YEAR'S BUILDING.

Statistics of Plans Filed in the Five Boroughs During the Year 1913.

The following tables show the number and estimated cost of new buildings for which plans were filed according to the revised figures of the Building Bureaus, after allowing for the plans withdrawn, rejected and revised.

Due probably to several causes, the building conditions in Manhattan have never been so poor since the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings was organized as a borough department in 1902, as during the past year. The new building operations for the year are 20 per cent. below those for 1907 (the poorest year since 1901), when they were about $75,000,000, as against $61,000,000 for this year.

This same statement may be made as to the number of building operations as well as to the total cost, although it should be remembered that the tendency in Manhattan is to a smaller number of new buildings annually. The total number of buildings proposed in Manhattan for 1913 was 577, the next lowest number during the period above noted being 607. Another tendency in building operations in Manhattan in recent years is the increase in the size of individual operations. For 1912, the average cost of the new building operations was $154,000; for 1913, however, it is only $107,000, not counting the estimated cost of the Pan-American Building, the lowest since the year 1907.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

HENNEBIQUE CONSTRUCTION CO., 1170 Broadway, is sending New Year cards of greeting to its friends.

THE BEAVER CONSTRUCTION COMPANY, general contracting, 22 William st, announce that Wharton Green has been elected president of the company, and given general management of its business affairs.

W. W. EWING, formerly on the engineering staff of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., has recently associated himself with the Thompson-Starrett Co., general contractors, 51 Wall street.

AT A MEETING of the executive committee of the Lawyers Mortgage Co. held recently, $250,000 was added to the surplus, making the capital and surplus of this company at the present time $8,750,000.

RAY C. LILLIBRIDGE, INC., consulting engineers, 111 Broadway, contemplate opening a branch office in San Francisco, Cal., to care for the interests of their clients in work in connection with the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

THE STEEL CITY ELECTRIC COMPANY, of Pittsburgh, Pa., announces that the George A. Schardt Co., of the Empire Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., has been appointed sales representative in the territory of Pennsylvania, west of Altoona and the State of West Virginia.

J. F. LANDOLT, for many years associated with Berry Bros., varnish manufacturers, has recently become connected with the Moller & Shumann Company, Brooklyn, N. Y. He will make his headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., and look after the company's interests in that city and in southern Illinois.

H. MUELLER MANUFACTURING COMPANY, plumbers' brass goods, has moved its offices and warerooms from 254 Canal street to 145 West 30th street, where there will be better trucking facilities. The headquarters of the company are at Decatur, Ill.

GILMORE & COOK, civil engineers, Press Building, Binghamton, N. Y., dissolved partnership January 1, 1914. They will take larger offices in the same building after that date and act in the capacity of associate consulting engineers.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.—The fourth International Congress of Building and Public Works will convene at Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 23-27, 1914, under the patronage of the Swiss Government. Opinions on the four subjects for discussion—collective work contracts, technical instructions, strikes, and scaffoldings—are being solicited by the General Direction, 20 Rue Neuve, Brussels.

BACH BROS., 419 West 42d st, have recently become engaged in the manufacture of hollow copper and bronze work. This work has the appearance of cast bronze and while it is as effective as the cast material, it has the advantage of being much cheaper. The firm has recently completed a contract for work on the new Rector's Restaurant. Their product is used mostly in banks, theatres, etc.

THE KNICKERBOCKER PORTLAND CEMENT COMPANY has moved their general sales office from 1 Madison av to 30 East 42d st. During the year 1913 the capacity of the company's plant at Hudson, N. Y., was enlarged and increased fifty per cent. They are now in a position to give prompt service both by rail and water on orders of any size.

THE AMERICAN ABRASIVE METALS CO., 50 Church st, N. Y. C., was awarded the gold medal and diploma for their "Feralun" safety treads at the First International Exposition of Safety and Sanitation recently held in the Grand Central Palace, New York City. These treads have extensive uses in providing anti-slip surfaces in places where there is a great amount of pedestrian traffic.

HARVEY WILEY CORBETT, architect, formerly the partner of F. Livingston Pell, under the firm name of Pell & Corbett, N. Y. C., is now associated with Frank J. Helmle, architect, 189 Montague street, Brooklyn. Mr. Corbett is a graduate of Columbia University, and of the Ecole Des Beaux Arts in Paris, and has drawn plans for many large buildings in New York, Baltimore, and other American cities. His most recent work was in connection with a group of municipal buildings for Springfield, Mass.

THE TRUSSED CONCRETE STEEL CO., of Detroit, Mich., is issuing its new edition of the Trus-Con Waterproofing Handbook which is the most comprehensive publication on waterproofing the company has ever issued. There is a great deal of new data in it that concerns recent achievement in engineering and science that cannot help but be of great service to architects and builders. It makes a sharp differentiation between dampproofing and waterproofing and goes into detail with ways and means of treating the several different kinds of materials that go into building construction.

CITY LIGHTING BIDS.—The task of awarding the contract for city lighting will fall upon the new Commissioner of the Department of Water, Gas and Electricity, as the present Commissioner, Henry S. Thompson, on opening the bids on Tuesday, said it would take two or three weeks to tabulate the bids. There were only two bidders—the Edison Electric Company and the Consolidated Gas Company. Whether the city can produce its own illumination cheaper than private corporations is being determined by the plant in the Hall of Records. "I am now awaiting the report of the engineers on the cost of production," said Commissioner Thompson. "If the city finds it can make light and heat cheaper than the price it pays to outsiders it is up to my successor to adopt that plan."

THE YEAR BOOK of the New York Society of Architects for 1914 is a book handsomely bound in black leather, flexible covers, with gilt edges, and contains 306 pages of matter. Among the interesting new matters is a complete list of architects, a checking list for specification writing; the Building Code reparagraphed, sub-divided and printed on pink paper so as to be readily found; the Tenement-House law with digest on yellow paper for quick reference; an article on indirect illumination, the new law governing the construction of factory buildings; various tables to architects for quick reference purposes, and a list of co-efficients for the construction of trusses. These contents give the Year Book a value by no means limited to a profession.

ALBRO AND LINDEBERG, architects, 2 West 47th st, N. Y. C., dissolved partnership by mutual consent, January 1, 1914. During the eight years of this partnership, the firm designed and superintended the erection of many of the handsomest country residences in the East. Louis Colt Albro, January 1st, became associated with Paul Phipps, architect, late of London, England. Mr. Phipps was a student of Luytens, the foremost British architect, and is a member of the British Institute of Architects. He is a grandson of the late Butler Duncan, and brother-in-law of Charles Dana Gibson, the artist. The new firm, under the name of Albro & Phipps, will occupy offices at 2 West 47th st, as heretofore, and Harrie T. Lindeberg will continue his profession individually at the same address.

THE WEMLINGER COMPANY, INC., 11 Broadway, New York City, who are associated with the Wemlinger Steel Piling Company at the same address, have just been appointed New York and New Jersey sales agents for the Waterloo Cement Machinery Corporation, Waterloo, Iowa, manufacturers of the well-known line of Polygon and Little Wonder concrete mixers. The Wemlinger Company will carry a complete line of these machines in all sizes, as well as a complete line of repair parts. Parker U. Cole, formerly New York sales manager for the Waterloo Cement Machinery Corporation, will act in the same capacity for the Wemlinger Company, Inc., and will handle in addition to the above line, the account of the Glide Road Machine Co., Minneapolis, Minn., manufacturers of the "Glide" light-weight road graders; account of the Lourie Manufacturing Company, Springfield, Ill., manufacturers of the Staley power tamping machine, and the account of the Archer Iron Works, Chicago, manufacturers of concrete towers and hoists.

NOTABLE AUCTIONS OF THE YEAR.

Taken in the aggregate, 1913 was a better real estate year than several of its predecessors, says Joseph P. Day. It was reported from all sides that the market was quiet, but in some manner the volume of business kept up very nicely, and some real estate sales were made that were large enough to go down in history, as having never before been equalled. Now these sucesses would have been impossible if the general public did not realize that real estate, after all, constitutes the best and safest investment known to man—something that is immovable and imperishable—that increases in value with the increase in population, and that forms a great portion of the tangible wealth of the community.

In some of the advertising of lot sales in the past year some figures were given that are interesting enough to repeat here. True, this relates to Bronx real estate, but the same thing is true in almost every direction of the compass in relative degrees.

The growth of population and the growth of real estate values was emphasized by the following figures given of the Bronx:

	Population	Assessed Valuation

"In the early part of 1913 one of the largest sales of tenement property was started by the marketing of the Cuoningham Estate. This comprised 17 parcels, and brought a total of $632,850 from a crowd that packed the Vesey street salesroom to the limit of its capacity.

"For a time, the market ran in the usual quiet channels, with the continuous selling of small properties, and the offerings of various estates. This continued until the first news of the Morris Park sale broke out in the news columns.

"This is one of those historic events that is not likely to be soon forgotten, mainly because of the number of new records it made. Three thousand and seventy-one lots was the Morris Park total—$3,779,900 worth of unimproved realty—an attendance throughout the sale of 47,500—1,737 individual buyers—12 days of continual selling—16,352 bids received.

"The average price per lot was $1,231, and this was accomplished in spite of all predictions that the condition of the market at the time would never stand any such amount of forcing, as this sale apparently involved.

"Among the small sales that followed this giant, the sale of 240 Little Farms at Rosedale, L. I., was notable for several reasons. This was the first auction sale of Little Farms ever held. It was the second night auction sale. And although only a portion of the property could be sold in a few hours between 7.30 and midnight, all of the desirable "Little Farms" left were sold at private sale within the few weeks that followed, to the overflow of buyers that were left after the conclusion of the auction sale.

"There was a comparatively small sale of holdings of the Schermerhorn and Astor estates comprised of properties they own jointly in Manhattan and Bronx boroughs. Judged by size alone, it would not attract much, if any, attention in a yearly review. It is worth mention, however, because of the fact that both of these estates seldom come into the auction selling market.

"Estates were prominently represented in sales all through the year. An attractive and important offering was that of the Moss estate tract, which made the next largest ripple on the surface of real estate activities during the year. This was the first large public offering of property in the Jerome avenue section of the West Bronx for a number of years. 340 lots were sold in the Vesey street salesroom, and one of the largest crowds that have ever been packed in the room attended the sale. $568,575 was realized for the entire offering, or an average of $1,648 per lot.

"If these successes were possible in the dullness of 1913, there is every reason to believe that 1914 will be a more successful, even if a less spectacular, year. The promise of the public and commercial world is a promise of better times, and this will undoubtedly have its effect on every phase of the real estate market."

LONG ISLAND ROADS.

How They Have Aided Real Estate Developments—Queens Building Operations.

Nowhere else in the vicinity of Manhattan has the construction of good roads and the improvement in transit facilities been more activ during the past year than in Long Island, sai Frank Crowell, Manager of the Rickert-Finlay Realty Company, yesterday. That this has been appreciated by the investing public has been shown by the exceptional activity of the various real estate developers of Long Island property.

Many of Long Island's advantages for suburban homes were discovered and appreciated by the more wealthy residents of New York City many years ago. They began to build homes on the island and soon had established the fine estates which are today counted among the show places of this country.

In the early days when boats and carriages were the nearest approach to rapid transit, Manhattanites had their homes along the easterly bank of the East River, in the vicinity of Long Island City. Soon, however, improvements and rapid transit facilities turned Long Island suburbanites in other directions, and as a result, the most available and in addition the most attractive stretches of open country, right at the door of Manhattan, were left until the last few years in their original state of farms, open country and woodlands.

Today, however, everything is changing and Long Island offers, especially Queens Borough, a greater variety of sites for houses, and homes already built, near the traffic centers, and with more real value for the money, than any other suburban section surrounding Manhattan. The growth has been wonderful, and by leaps and bounds the district in the past few years has become a very wealthy section desired by every one seeking an ideal environment for a home.

In October last John W. Moore, Superintendent of the Bureau of Buildings in Queens, issued a statement showing that within the last five years and nine months the estimated cost of new building operations had reached a total of $110,394,106.

During the period covered by the report of Commissioner Moore, 26,922 buildings have been erected in the borough. Single detached dwellings represent the largest number of units and include all classes of dwellings.

The totals for the period including alterations, follow:

Year.	Estimated Cost.

This remarkable growth of Long Island, especially Queens, has been due entirely to the improved transit facilities, and by this I do not mean the electrification of the Long Island Railroad particularly, but the general construction of good roads, which has already made Long Island the paradise of automobilists. It is a common sight in the Spring and Summer to see many of the wealthiest business men motoring from their residences at Kensington, Great Neck, to their places of business in Manhattan.

Tenants and Landlords.

In the original draft of the Income Tax bill as it passed the House tenants were required to make deduction from rent paid, on behalf of landlords, who in most cases would naturally be the more responsible parties. This was amended in conference to provide that no deduction shall be made except where the rent paid was in excess of $3,000 a year, and is paid to individual landlords. In no case is any deduction to be made where the rent is paid to a corporation. By the Treasury regulations trustees have been placed on the same footing as corporations in this respect, so that no deduction need now be made from rent paid to a trustee. In a similar manner trustees have been placed on a footing with corporations in the receipt, also, of interest on bond coupons, and therefore no deduction need be made at the source in respect to any payments made to trustees. In many cases, however, the use of such permission would work to the disadvantage of the beneficial owner of a bond, for the reason that where the so-called "tax-free" covenants exist in the bonds, the corporation would be relieved from its obligation to assume the tax and the burden would fall on the wards of the trustee, unless the proper one of three possible forms provided be used.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

A MODERN RAILWAY TERMINAL HOTEL

The Biltmore Is a Marvel of Electrical and Other Mechanical Innovations—Sanitary Kitchens and a Lavish Abundance of Conveniences.

VANDERBILT AVENUE FRONT, SHOWING INTERESTING TREATMENT ADOPTED TO PREVENT DWARFING THE MAIN STATION.

THE Hotel Biltmore is part of the Grand Central Terminal, a circumstance which accounts for the more notable features observed in its architectural treatment, interior layout and service plant.

The Main Station of the terminal has an elevation equal to about six stories above the street. Across the narrow width of Vanderbilt avenue the Biltmore rises to a height of twenty-six stories. In order not to dwarf the monumental effect of the principal building, the Vanderbilt avenue facade of the Biltmore is recessed twenty-one feet above the sixth floor. Furthermore, above the sixth story the facade is broken by a light court seventy feet wide and 136 feet deep. The court is equal in width to an ordinary city street, and effectually divides the upper two-thirds of the Vanderbilt avenue front into twin tower-like wings.

By these interesting expedients in the matter of design, and by the absence of any imposing ornamental detail in the lower part of the facade, the commanding impression which a tall building covering a city square might easily have produced has been guarded against; and the emphasis of primary functional importance rests undisturbed with the Main Station.

The interior layout of the hotel has been greatly modified by the fact that the building stands, as it were, over the Incoming Station of the terminal. There was no room below the ground floor for such departments as are usually placed in subsurface stories. Much floor space that would ordinarily produce a direct income is therefore given over to a variety of uses other than the direct earning of rent. However, the resulting arrangement, imposed by necessity—though, following modern practice, it would no doubt have been partially adopted as a matter of choice—insures superior sanitation in the handling of food.

Interior Plan Unusual.

Thus, not only the main kitchen and the general refrigerator storage boxes, but also the special rooms where the rougher and more unsightly culinary work is done, are on the second floor, over the main dining-room and the men's cafe. The place given to the kitchen is advantageous even apart from sanitary considerations, for it means quicker service if the waiter is in a position to carry filled dishes downstairs, instead of upstairs; and in the Biltmore he is not asked to carry any load upstairs, for used dishes are taken from the dining-tables to an escalator, which deposits them on a counter in the dish-washing room on the same floor with the kitchen. Here the waste contents are raked off and pushed into a funnel running down to a refuse incinerator in the basement. Another escalator brings the cleaned dishes to the kitchen.

The limitation of subsurface space has assured direct light and ventilation for all processes connected with the preparation and serving of food. Of the many secondary kitchens, only one, which serves the grill room, is below the street level.

Finally, the service plant of the hotel is reduced to a minimum, as live steam, hot water for heating, electricity and compressed air are furnished from the service plant which supplies all the buildings within the terminal improvement zone. The only coal burned in the Biltmore is that used in kitchen ranges. The grime, odor and dust associated with the usual subsurface departments of hotels are absent; even garbage removal is eliminated.

Situation and Surroundings.

The Biltmore occupies the block bounded by Vanderbilt avenue, 43d street, Madison avenue and 44th street. The Main Station of the terminal, which was described in the Record and Guide of July 5, 1913, has an extension under Vanderbilt avenue and under the Biltmore. This extension comprises part of the subsurface space and of the ground floor of the hotel and is known as the Incoming Station. The Incoming Station is continuous with the Main Station on two underground levels. However, it separates the incoming from the outgoing traffic, and has its own independent station facilities, including waiting-room, train platforms, concourse, cab stand and ramps to the subway lines under 42d street. To prevent vibration the building columns have been kept distinct from the track floor steel work. All columns are in groups of three; the outer two take the girders of the track floor, while the middle one goes through the floor with clearance, and supports the frame of the building above.

The building stands on a plot 200 by 215 feet, and contains twenty-six floors above the street level. The facades are of granite, limestone, brick and terra cotta in a modern adaptation of the architecture of the Italian Renaissance, and the color harmonizes with that of the Main Station.

Good Effects in Terra Cotta.

Interesting use has been made of terra cotta, which is the largest constituent in the fronts of the hotel. The large panels inserted in the stonework at the fifth story are of this material, and illustrate a high class of artistic modelling. Their color is an exact match for the limestone. Terra cotta window-sills have also been employed throughout the main shaft, and the crown is entirely of terra cotta, its commanding feature being a colonnade, which surrounds the building. Surmounting the columns is a series of terra cotta arches and spandrels, ornamented with a design of modelling in gray color, accentuated by a background of bluish gray. The cornice, in terra cotta is highly ornamented.

A notable feature is the roof garden, on the Vanderbilt avenue elevation, above the sixth floor. The balustrading, urns and caryatides of the pergola are all of terra cotta and of a very superior order of workmanship.

There are two subsurface floors in the space not occupied for railway purposes. The first contains the kitchen for the grill room, barber shops and public toilets. On the second are a Turkish bath, with a swimming pool forty feet long, said to be the largest in the country; laundries and the machine room.

Three Street Entrances.

Guests arriving by train may enter elevators from the station concourse and be carried to the lobby of the hotel. There are three street entrances, the main one being on 43d street and the others on Vanderbilt avenue. The south half of the house is given over to "commercial business." In the restaurants in this part of the main floor popular prices prevail and the menu is arranged for the business man, who may select a course luncheon if he chooses, but who, on the other hand, finds a comprehensive selection of dishes ready to be served.

The dining-rooms in the north half, which is the women's side, are operated on a more elaborate and formal scale. The north entrance on Vanderbilt avenue leads into the women's corridor, so that women may come and go without passing through the main lobby.

On the main floor are the hotel office, the palm or tea room, the men's cafe (40 by 80 feet), the main dining-room (40 by 120 feet), the grill room and two bars. There are mezzanines surrounding the men's and women's sides of this floor, on which are the men's writing room and the women's writing room, hair-dressing, reception and cloak rooms. The main dining-room and the men's cafe together occupy the Madison avenue frontage.

On the second floor are the main kitchen and a guests' library with alcove book cases. The third floor is a service floor, with a kitchen for the floor above.

The Presidential Suite.

The fourth contains a Presidential suite, composed of a private salon, a dining-room, reception rooms and bedrooms. The suite is connected with the station by a private elevator, which brings the guest directly into his own apartment. This in turn connects with a large public salon and reception rooms, which can be used on special occasions and which accommodate several hundred people comfortably. In this kind of arrangement a public man may live at the hotel, hold his receptions, and arrive and depart without being observed by the public. The rest of the fourth floor is devoted to private dining-rooms and a special suite for private entertainments.

The fifth floor, a service floor, contains servants' dormitories and other conveniences for the help. It is also the distributing center for the mechanical features, such as ventilating fans, plumbing and heating pipes.

On the sixth floor, extending over the terrace formed by the recess and over the light court in the Vanderbilt avenue front, is a roof garden with trees, flower beds and shrubbery.

The sixth to the twentieth floors, inclusive, are typical guest chamber floors.

On the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth floors, facing 43d street and Vanderbilt avenue, a number of apartments have been provided for long-term tenants. These apartments, which have southern and eastern exposure, have all the accessories of a private home, except kitchens, and their rooms have been laid out and decorated according to the tastes of the lessees, among whom are William H. Newman, Whitney Warren and other prominent business and professional men.

The banquet-hall and main ballroom in the south wing of the twenty-second floor is three stories high. Leading to it is a reception room two stories high. The suite has its own kitchen and bar. In summer the banquet-hall is converted into a "skyline" restaurant by the removal of the 25-foot windows on three of its sides.

In the north wing of this floor is a hospital, with nurses' rooms and suites for patients and their attendants. The elevator which serves this floor can carry a full-length cot.

Notable Rooms.

Among the show rooms of the hotel the main dining-room is, perhaps, the chief. Its carpet, upholstery and window draperies are in subdued red and the furniture in dark oak. The ceiling has classical figures in low relief of white against a background of gold. The walls are of marble in panel effect. The room is lighted by three large prismatic glass electroliers.

The general treatment of the grill room, the two bars, and the men's cafe is in the Elizabethan style, with panel walls and pilasters up to the ceilings and with marble and wood floors. All the wood is oak.

The women's room is treated in the Georgian style and the lobbies and palm room have marble walls with mural decorations in bronze. The main ballroom is in formal Louis XV style, with a general color scheme of blue and gold. Its broad expanse of floor space is unbroken by columns.

Mechanical Equipment.

The entire mechanical and electrical equipment of the Biltmore was designed by the Grand Central Station architects, Warren & Wetmore, and the work was executed and installed under the direct supervision of Clyde R. Place, mechanical and electrical engineer for the architects.

The building is heated and all power is supplied from the Service Plant of the Grand Central Terminal at Lexington avenue, 49th to 50th streets. No boiler of any type or description is installed in the building, electrical energy, compressed air, steam and hot water coming exclusively from the Grand Central Terminal Service Plant.

Novel Heating Arrangement.

The building is the highest in the world heated entirely by a hot water circulation system. This heating system is divided into three distinct parts. The hot water for heating is supplied to the building by three mains carrying different pressures to conform to the pipes supplied by each. The basement, sub-basement and first six stories are heated by the low pressure system. From the seventh to the seventeenth floor the building is heated by the intermediate pressure system and from the eighteenth to twenty-sixth floor the heating is by the high pressure system.

There are 25,000 radiators, with 104,000 square feet of direct radiation. Temperature coils supply 14,000 square feet of heating surface. All piping, valves and radiator coils, etc., are of extra heavy construction and tested to 250 lbs. water pressure.

The ventilating system consists of thirteen supply and exhaust fans, with a capacity of 856,200 cubic feet of air per minute with motor connected load of 593 horsepower.

Electric Lights Safeguarded.

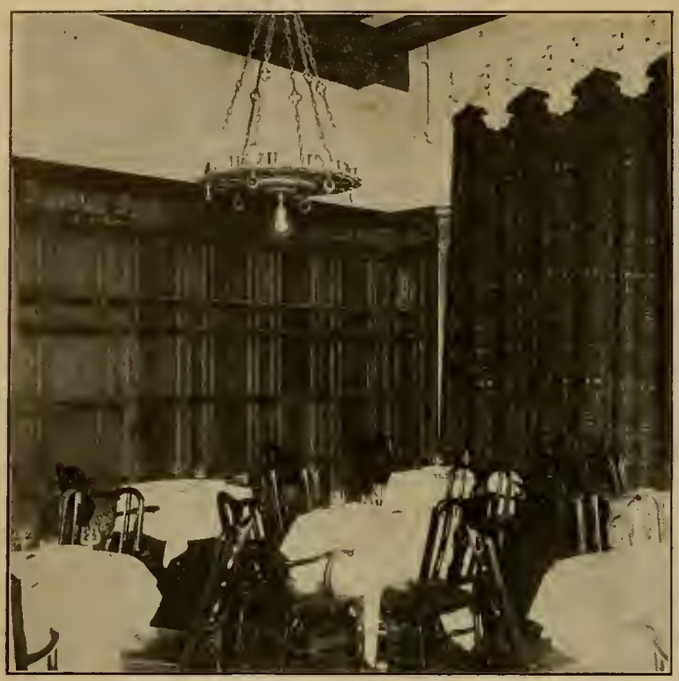
The electrical energy enters the building by what is known as a loop system at two separate points by individual feeders. The current supplied by each feeder being sufficient at all times to supply all electric power necessary for lighting and service. This system is designed to insure a constant supply of electric energy, and should one feeder blow out or become short-circuited in any manner the load can instantly be transferred to the other feeder. The system is also reinforced by the maintenance of a storage battery of sufficient capacity to carry the entire load of light and power for a limited time, pending repairs to main feeder lines or apparatus at service plant. The storage battery floats on the feeder system.

The hotel is lighted by 15,360 tungsten lamps, ranging in size from 15 watts to 150 watts.

There are one thousand bedrooms, 950 with bath rooms attached. Each room is lighted by a semi-indirect ceiling light containing one 100-watt tungsten lamp. Two bracket or mirror lights, one portable desk light and two Somno reading lights over beds complete equipment of these rooms.

The bath room equipment consists of two wall light brackets. Each bath room is equipped with an electric curling iron heater. Softened water is used for the baths, as well as for drinking and other purposes.

The main ballroom is lighted by three crystal draped chandeliers, containing ninety-six tungsten lights in each and with three light wall brackets arranged symmetrically.



The main restaurant has for its main light three crystal draped chandeliers, with 100 tungsten lights in each and with the necessary wall brackets and receptacles for proper table lighting.

The corridors, exits and stairs, where lights are in continuous service, are hooked up to an emergency storage battery and lighting system, which is an independent system controlled from individual points and for the purpose of providing sufficient illumination to prevent panic or accidents in the event of the failure of the general lighting system.

500,000 to 600,000 feet of conduit and from three to four million feet of electric wire. This includes all mains, feeders, etc.

The home station for the pneumatic tube system is at the office of the hotel, and has branches extending to all principal departments, including restaurants, florist, barber shops, wine room, etc.

Fire Alarm Device.

The fire alarm system consists of four break-glass stations on each floor, with indicator stations at two points, viz.: the chief engineer's office and the manager's office. This is devised to call engineer and manager to point of alarm. The system is connected at all points to the city's fire alarm system.

The time of visit of the watchman to each floor is recorded on four stations to a floor.

Dictaphone System.

Dictaphones installed for the use of the management insure rapid communication with the various service departments of the hotel. The system is operated from two master stations and thirty-three subsidiary stations, thirty-five instruments in all being installed. This system, while comparatively new, is becoming quite popular for work of the character that is called for by hotel management. There are no mouth pieces to the instruments. A person using them can speak in an ordinary conversational tone from any point of the room to two or more parties simultaneously. The platinum contact points in the dictaphone instruments last three or four times as long as the copper points in the ordinary telephone instrument.

The Telautograph.

The telautograph system consists of sixty-five sending transmitters and 145 receiving stations, controlled from two telephone switchboards and, independently, by thirteen transmitters located in various parts of the building. The system is devised to obviate the necessity of having bell boys constantly running around corridors paging guests and for transmitting important messages simultaneously to all service departments.

Elevators.

The elevator equipment consists of the two main banks of four passenger elevators each of 1 to 1 traction type, operated by direct connected motors of 60 horsepower each. The elevators have a speed of 600 feet per minute. There is, in addition, one private passenger elevator of the traction type for the Presidential suite. The five service elevators are of special design, known as the geared traction type, operated by individual motors having a speed of 450 feet per minute. One beer lift and sixteen electrically-driven dumbwaiters complete the equipment in this line.

The dumbwaiters are operated and controlled automatically from the kitchen by push buttons, stopping only at the floor indicated, where the door opens and closes automatically. The system of control is devised particularly to prevent theft of silver. The dumbwaiters have a speed of 300 feet per minute.

Plumbing.

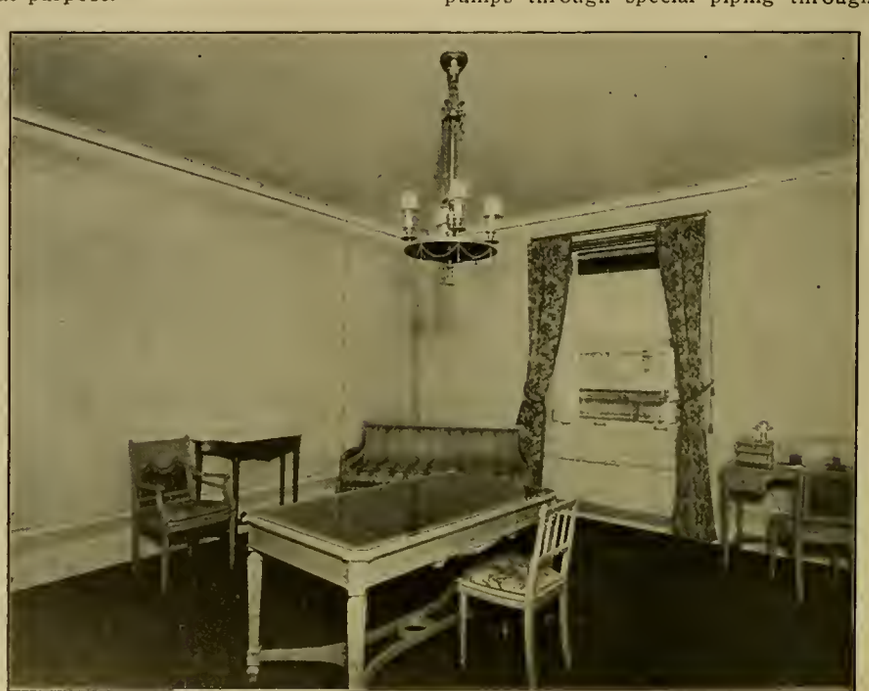
The plumbing system is the most up-to-date that has ever been installed, and complete in every respect. The water for all purposes is filtered and softened and pumped by automatic centrifugal electrically-driven pumps to the house tanks, two of which are located in the pent house on the top floor and two more on the fifth floor. The tank capacity is over 50,000 gallons of water.

The pumps are cross connected as are the tanks, so that the failure of any one unit can be taken care of by the by-passes and duplicate pumps installed for that purpose.

The house tanks on the roof supply all plumbing fixtures down to and including the fifth floor, and the intermediate tanks supply all fixtures below the fifth floor to the basement.

The water pressure is regulated by means of reducing valves, of which there are thousands located on the rising lines, regulating the pressure of water at all fixtures in various parts of the building.

Hot Water.



The hot water for plumbing fixtures is heated in generators located in the machine room of the Service Plant and is circulated by means of electrically-driven pumps throughout the building through lines which parallel the cold water circulation system. The hot water piping is by-passed and pumps duplicated the same as the cold water circulation system so as to insure a constant supply.

Plumbing Fixtures.

There are over 35,000 plumbing fixtures in the building.

Drinking Water System.

Drinking water is circulated throughout the building with faucets in each bath room. The water after being filtered is cooled by the refrigerating plant and circulated by means of electric pumps through special piping throughout the building. The pumps keep the water in constant circulation so as to maintain cooled water in all parts of the building at all times.

Refrigerating Plant.

There is a complete electrically-operated refrigerating plant installed in this building consisting of three 40-ton units. The ice is made on the roof of the building by a plant with a capacity of twelve tons per day. There are over ninety refrigerator boxes, a great many of them being as large as a room of ordinary size and all of which are cooled by brine circulation. The brine is cooled by means of shell coolers, located in the machinery room and is pumped by electrically-driven centrifugal pumps to the top of the building and from this point flows down through the hotel through the various pipes and back to the starting point. There is a separate set of refrigerating equipment for the exclusive use of ice cream making, operated in the same manner as the large plant.

Vacuum Cleaning System.

There has been installed a vacuum cleaning system of twelve-sweeper capacity, electrically operated. The standpipes for this system have outlets in various corridors and public spaces, to which the cleaning hose is attached.

Gas-piping.

The building is equipped throughout with gas facilities. The gas comes from the street, and is carried to the various kitchens and pantries where gas is required. All stairways have combination gas and electric fixtures to insure illumination should electric current fail for any reason.

Maids' Call System.

Means of communication within the building are further supplied by a remarkably complete telephone system and by a novel maids' call device. There is a telephone not only in every guest room, but at every table in the men's cafe; indeed, wherever a guest is likely to go for a few minutes in the hotel, he is almost sure to find a convenient telephone.

The maids' call system insures prompt service and perfect superintendence of the room help. Beside each door leading to a guest room is a panel with electric connection. Every maid carries a small lamp on a flexible cord and with a three-prong plug. As she is about to enter a room she inserts the plug in the panel. Two of the prongs light the lamp, which may be seen down the corridor; and the third prong causes an indicator to flash on the main telephone switchboard. The presence of the maid is consequently apparent at a glance, both to the floor superintendent and to the switchboard operator. The operator, if a call is registered, can telephone at once to the maid nearest the source of the call by ringing up the room telephone where the maid is working.

The switchboard, besides indicating the whereabouts of the maids also registers the individual button calls in every room for maids, bell boy and waiter, as well as room telephone calls.

The Fire-Protection System.

The latest devices for insuring protection against fire have of course been adopted. There are six continuous staircases leading from the main floor to the roof. Two of these are brick fire-towers built in connection with the elevator walls. The remarkably complete fire protection system includes an electric-driven Fire Underwriters' pump, street fire engine connections, stand pipes and hose throughout.

The fire pump, located in the basement, has a capacity of 1,000 gallons per minute against a head of 450 feet. A pressure is maintained on the fire lines at all times. On the high stand pipes reducing valves are placed with checks and by-passes, so as to lessen the pressure on the lower parts. The main portion of the building has four stand pipes, one going up near each stairway, with a fire hose in the stairways on each floor.

A total of four Siamese street connections are placed around the building. In the penthouse is a steel fire tank of 5,000 gallons capacity, which in case of fire is to act as a gravity water supply during the time prior to the pump's taking the load and the arrival of the fire engines. Two house tanks are also connected by stop and check valves into the fire line loop at the storage floor.

The House Crew.

The provision of quarters for the help is no small matter in a hotel of the first rank. The Biltmore, when running at full capacity, will have 200 waiters, 150 chefs and cooks, 100 bell boys, 100 chamber maids, fifty engineers and fifteen watchmen, besides managers, assistant managers, housekeepers, clerks, bookkeepers, pages, sewing girls and ladies' maids. The main switchboard of the hotel requires twenty-five operators.

The rooms for this help are so arranged that each group or class of employes has separate accommodations and its own bathrooms, libraries and dining-room. In order to make employes feel at home, parlors are provided, where they may assemble when off duty and meet their friends. This is a new feature calculated to instill the esprit de corps which is so essential to efficiency where the number of employes is large.

The building is the property of the New York Central. It was leased from the plans for forty-two years to the Beau-Site Company, of which Gustave Baumann is president and John MacE. Bowman vice-president and treasurer. The rental during the term of the lease will aggregate the enormous total of nearly $20,000,000. The land is said to be valued at $3,000,000, the building at $5,500,000 and the furnishings at $1,500,000, making the total investment $10,000,000.

The hotel was designed by Warren & Wetmore, the architects in charge of the architectural work connected with the Grand Central Terminal. The general construction contract, held by the Geo. A. Fuller Company, was executed in a remarkably short time. The steel work was finished on August 15, 1913, and four months and a half later the hotel was opened, on New Year's.

A Combination of Experience.

In the planning, construction and equipment of the Biltmore an unusual combination of experience contributed toward the making of a notable modern hostelry. The architects had previously designed such leading hotels as the Belmont, the Vanderbilt and the Ritz-Carlton. The proprietors, particularly the veteran Mr. Baumann, had made a name for themselves in the old Holland House, and the general contractors had built the Plaza and Breslin in New York, the Copley Plaza in Boston, the Ritz in Montreal, the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa, the Fort Gary in Winnipeg, Manitoba, the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia, the Blackstone and La Salle, Chicago, the Georgian Terrace, Atlanta, the Green Briar Hotel, in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and the New Willard in Washington.

Builders' Conferences.

From the time the George A. Fuller Company was awarded the contract, weekly meetings have been held to insure co-operation between the principals, Mr. Bowman representing the proprietors, Leonard Schultze representing the architects, and Walter H. Clough, Carl Brandt and D. L. Norris representing the Geo. A. Fuller Company.

An important share in the making of the hotel was taken by W. J. Sloane & Co., who assembled the carpets, hangings, furniture and bedding and other household goods.

The co-operation of so experienced a group of specialists has made the Biltmore a fitting member of the series of improvements which constitute the Grand Central Terminal. With that terminal, the hotel enjoys an unmatched situation, in the heart of the social and business life of the city and at the main focus of the local transportation system of Greater New York. Like the terminal, too, the hotel is a marvel of electrical innovations and improvements applied to multifarious uses, its electric motors numbering not fewer than 150, ranging in capacity from one-half to 150 horsepower. Finally, in all that pertains to service, conveniences have been provided in lavish abundance.

Opportunities in Brooklyn.

Now is the time for money-makers to investigate and study real estate conditions, prices and prospects in the vicinity of stations along either Fourth avenue, New Utrecht avenue, 86th street, Gravesend avenue, Nostrand avenue, Eastern Parkway, Livonia avenue or the territory tapped by the Brighton Beach line. The market is quiet, with great general underlying strength but occasional weak spots.—William E. Harmon.

SAFE MORTGAGES AT ATTRACTIVE RATES

The Mortgage Loan Situation—Experiences of a Year of Tight Money—Upturn of Values Due—Investors Turning Again to Real Estate Mortgages.

By MURRAY OGDEN GILES (William A. White & Sons)

THE year 1913 will go down in history as the worst year in the mortgage loan business ever known in New York city; in fact, there has been no mortgage market. Owners whose mortgages matured during the year usually had their loans called, and found, upon trying to replace them, all kinds of difficulties. New appraisals of their property showed a decrease in value of about ten to fifteen per cent. Then, on top of the decrease in value, they found that, whereas in former years they could borrow two-thirds of the appraised value at five per cent. interest, this year sixty per cent. was the most that could be secured at that rate, and that they might possibly arrange a loan of two-thirds if they paid five-and-a-half per cent. interest. This was all very discouraging to the owner.

Take, for example, an apartment house with a mortgage of $50,000 at five per cent. Five years ago it was appraised at $75,000; this year the new appraisal would be about $65,000. This meant that the owner had to do one of three things. The best one of these was to secure a new loan of sixty per cent. of the appraised value, $39,000, at five per cent. interest, and pay off the balance of $11,000 in cash—that is, if he had the money to do it. If unable to pay $11,000, then to take a two-thirds loan of $43,000 at five-and-a-half per cent. interest, and pay off $7,000.

If unable to do either of these, the only thing left for him to do—and a majority of owners were forced to do this—was to secure a second mortgage for as much as he could get for one year, which probably cost him a very light fee, and apply this money toward reducing the first mortgage, thereby obtaining an extension of time in which to pay. Altogether, the owner of a piece of property whose mortgage came due this year was not to be envied.

Basic Causes of the Stringency.

Very naturally people ask why, this year, mortgage money has been so tight. Always before money could be obtained, even during the panic of 1907, provided they were willing to pay liberally enough for the accommodation. The reasons for this condition of affairs, in my opinion, are, as follows: The year opened with the Balkan war still in progress, which to some extent had a tendency to making money tight all over the world, as a great deal of it was hoarded for fear that a general European conflict might result. Then came the change of administration, which is always a disturbing factor to the financial market. Then the tariff changes, the menacing situation in Mexico, the income tax, and finally the new currency bill which has just become a law.

All of these things have tended to make investors nervous and apprehensive, so that a great many of them have felt that it was wiser to keep their money in a liquid state, even if it only brought them in a nominal return, say, of one-and-a-half or two per cent.

Another factor in causing the tight money market has been the attractive rates which could be obtained by buying short term notes, these rates running all the way from five per cent. to thirty per cent.

A Rise in Values Imminent.

Still another factor has been the feeling on the part of investors that, if properties have decreased in value during the last five years ten to fifteen per cent., they may continue to do so during the next five years. If one looks back over the real estate market, he will see that a repetition of this state of affairs is not likely to occur again, and is against all precedent. The last recession in values occurred during 1906 and 1907, and was immediately followed by an increase, which soon made up the loss, and then went on and reached a new high water mark in values. This will undoubtedly happen this time, and, in my opinion, we are due for a change in the tide the early part of the year.

Renting Situation Improving.

Building has practically stopped for the last year or two, so that the renting situation has improved to such an extent that the demand for space of all kinds is very gratifying. Owing to the number of committees formed to protect the property owners' interests, and the election of municipal officials pledged to economic principles, the likelihood of large increases in assessed valuations and taxes is reduced to a minimum.

In my opinion, the early part of the year will show that investors are tired of hoarding their money and receiving a meagre return of one-and-a-half and two per cent., and will be anxious to take advantage of the many excellent opportunities which are presented to-day to secure unquestionably safe mortgages at the attractive rates of five and five-and-a-half per cent. I believe that the new currency bill will help the money situation, and that, if the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant the railroads an increase in their freight rates, which they have asked for, the whole situation will be greatly improved.

Paid His Interest and Taxes in Advance.

I came across an old bill of a property owner, which was rendered to him in 1879, which I think will very likely be of interest to-day. It was for a loan of $50,000, the attorneys receiving one-and-a-half per cent. for searching the title, and one of the other items on the bill was this very interesting one: "Deposited in the Central Trust Company of New York to provide for three years' interest in advance on his mortgage and three years' taxes in advance on his property, $11,500." So that it can be seen by this that in those times money must have been very tight when they made a man deposit his interest and taxes for three years in advance. Just imagine, in these days, asking a man to do a thing of this kind, and how he would feel about it.

A summary of the whole situation is that we have been through a very bad time, but now hope we are practically at an end of it, and that the new year will soon show a great improvement in the mortgage market in every way, both in the quantity of money to loan and the rates of interest asked for it.

Solving the Market Problem.

The completion of the last portion of the Gillen Building shown above, emphasizes the development of the Chelsea section during the past year as the center of trade for wholesale market purposes. This building occupies a frontage of 250 feet on West 14th street, a wide thoroughfare in close proximity to West Washington Market, the New York Central R. R. tracks and the piers of the Chelsea extension, and is devoted to housing the wholesalers in food supplies for central Manhattan. The portion just completed will be occupied on January 15th by Henry Kelly & Sons, dealers in fruits and vegetables, now located at Washington and Vesey streets. They have been impressed by the facilities offered by the new location and have equipped their fireproof building with every modern improvement known to the market trade. Such developments go far toward solving the market problem that is now vexing the minds of the commissions appointed to consider the cost of handling food products and point toward this section of the city as the logical distributing point for central and lower Manhattan.

—Newark had the biggest building year in its history in 1913. This offers some explanation why work for a number of building trades in the metropolitan district continued fair to good so long as weather permitted. The change in the fire limits helped to make a heavy last-minute rush for permits.

THE GILLEN BUILDING, FOR MARKET MEN, IN WEST 14TH STREET, NEAR WEST WASHINGON MARKET.

BING & BING'S PROJECT.

Is Expected to Start Big Building Movement on Columbia Heights.

The mere fact that one of the most active firms of merchant builders in the central section of the city has determined to make a try of the market for high-class apartment houses in the Columbia Heights section of Brooklyn is significant to real estate experts. If the experiment succeeds and they find prompt purchasers for their product, that will be more significant still.

Messrs. Bing & Bing have selected a house of the height of eight stories for their first operation. It will fit in well architecturally in the neighborhood where it is now to be placed. There will be two houses, one fronting on Livingston street and the other abutting on Schermerhorn street eighty feet from Clinton. This is almost classic ground, the Mars Hill of Brooklyn, with St. Ann's Church and Packer Institute on the opposite side of Livingston street and the private dwellings of Brooklyn's most conservative society everywhere else.

This particular operation is likely to be revolutionary, not for the reason that it means the first modern apartment house on the Heights—for there are a few new ones there and some that are old—but because the operation is certain to be repeated and improved upon if it proves to be a successful experiment. This is inferred from the career and ability of the operators, who are certain to be followed by others.

Columbia Heights society is old enough to have acquired a desire for a partial change from old-fashioned housekeeping. There must be many small families of means who are weary of watching their own furnaces, and of doing or having done a lot of work that the apartment house janitor's force does for tenants; or families that have a summer home in the country and merely need an apartment in town instead of a large house. Presuming that the houses will be readily tenanted, the principal question to be decided is, will the builders find investors as promptly?

The Realty Associates had held the plot for a considerable period to see if it would be needed as a site in part for the new court house which Kings County is to build, and only recently they commissioned Howard C. Pyle & Co. to dispose of the lots, which are vacant and partly excavated. The uncertainty about the court house has worked hardships and even money losses in the neighborhood because owners have been unable to give leases for any considerable tenure and tenants have lived in fear of being summarily ousted. The court house site is now looked upon as settled, the probable decision being to use the present site with additional land.

The builders and the Realty Associates have no doubt about the success of the building project and are of the opinion, as others are, that it will be followed by the most important real estate movement that the Heights section has ever seen.

Changes in Brooklyn's Hill Section.

It is the general opinion of men posted on realty conditions in the Hill section of Brooklyn that many of the old dwellings near the new Elks Clubhouse will eventually be razed to make way for large apartment structures. An old coal yard, which has been an eyesore to the neighborhood has been removed to make way for a modern moving-picture theater, which is now under way at the southeast corner of Greene avenue and Cumberland street.

LIVINGSTON STREET, OPPOSITE SITE PURCHASED BY BING & BING.

The plot being improved has been taken over by the Sheffield Construction Company on an exchange negotiated by the Allee Realty Company. The new owners have begun the erection of a theater on plans made by Architect William J. Dilthey of Manhattan. The architecture of the theater is a modern treatment of the Spanish mission style. The walls are to be of pearl-gray stucco with red tile covering the roof and canopies on the two street fronts.

NEW BROOKLYN THEATRE.

The theater has been leased through the realty company and William H. Allen for a long term to the Beacon Photoplay Corporation, an operating company, at an aggregate rental of about $84,000.

—Elmer Dean Coulter, representative of the Astor estates in the Bronx, expressed the opinion that the Bronx real estate market will show marked improvement this year.

Furthering Brooklyn Subway Work.

The Public Service Commission has taken another important step in the furtherance of the construction work in Brooklyn under the Dual System subway contracts. This was the conclusion of an agreement with the New York Municipal Railway Corporation for the acquisition of an easement by the city in the property of the South Brooklyn Railway Company in the right of way of that company along 38th street, Brooklyn, from Fourth avenue to Tenth avenue. This right of way is to be used by the city for the construction of a depressed railroad to connect the Fourth avenue subway with the proposed elevated lines to Coney Island, through New Utrecht and Gravesend avenues over the routes now known as the West End and Culver lines.

The city agrees to pay $1,000,000 for this easement, and to credit the New York Municipal Railway Corporation with that amount against its promised contribution of $13,500,000 toward the cost of construction of the new lines. At the same time the commission adopted the form of two agreements with the New York Municipal Railway Corporation modifying the Dual System operating contract, and these will be executed as soon as the deed for the easement is signed. The modifying agreements authorize the New York Municipal Railway Corporation to undertake and complete the construction of the depressed railroad through the 38th street cut and the reconstruction of the Centre street loop so as to fit it for permanent operation.

—Spear & Company, on Wednesday evening, celebrated the ninth anniversary of the organization of the firm with a theatre party, followed by a supper at the Cafe Boulevard. The president of the company, Mr. Aaron Rabinowitz, who acted as the host for the entire office force, was able to announce that the past year, in spite of the stagnant condition of the realty market, and the depression generally prevailing, was the most successful in the firm's existence. While the financial progress of the firm was gratifying, the president declared that what pleased him most was the fact that its opportunities for usefulness in the community were considerably extended; that the conception of the Real Estate calling had in the past few years risen from the level of a business to that of a profession; and he urged upon the men the duty of carrying on their work in such fashion as to dignify their chosen profession.

THE INFLUENCE OF ELEVATOR SERVICE IN OFFICE BUILDINGS UPON THE VALUE OF REAL ESTATE

By REGINALD PELHAM BOLTON, Author of "Elevator Service"

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Co.

SO widely appreciated is the value of good elevator service, in high-class office buildings, that it is customary now to find the advantages of new buildings in this respect particularly advertised. It is fortunate that this is the case, both for the owners of the property and their tenants.

But while this intelligent appreciation of the value of elevators and of the need for adequacy in their number has been recognized in the higher class of buildings, there are many others in which the reverse has been the case. Crude rules still persist, even in the planning of high-class buildings, for the proportioning of the number of elevators to the size of the building by an apportionment of so many thousand square feet served, or of the area of the inside of the car, irrespective of the effects of greater or less height of travel, and regardless of the physical limitations fixed by the personal element of the passengers using the machine.

Even in this class of building, therefore, elevators are found to be inadequate in number, or their operation is hampered by the clumsy size of the cars. Recourse is still had to increased speed, on the assumption that increased traffic can be served thereby, and within the last year the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings was induced to permit an increase of the speed of express elevators from the limit of 600 feet per minute to 700 feet per minute.

Speed a Minor Function.

Elevator speed is only a minor function in the adequacy of elevator equipment. Speed as a remedy for shortage in capacity has always proved a failure, and its value is not commensurate with its additional cost. It is on a par in this respect with the class of excessive buildings to which it is appropriately applicable.

Then, too, the size of an elevator car in excess of a certain limited relation to the floors served, constitutes a loss in service and an expense to the property. The utilization of an elevator as an appliance does not consume more than half the total time consumed by the combination of the movements of the passengers, of the operator and of the machine. If the time of operation is unequally divided between the human and mechanical elements, something is out of balance and loss of efficiency results. The limitation of the traffic capacity of any elevator is definable, and it is determined more by the effects of the movements of its occupants and its operator than by its own mechanical capabilities.

It should be recognized that the apparatus must not be expected to do more than a certain amount in the carriage of passengers, and that its function of greatest importance consists in its capacity for getting the tenants out of a building under urgent circumstances. Safety is an asset of any building, to which good elevators are now a substantial contribution.

A Life-Saving Utility.

An over-crowded car which exceeds its downspeed and springs its safeties is out of service and can serve no purpose in an emergency. Thus a single car in a building may be crippled just when most needed, as was the case in one noted disaster. The elevator must be regarded as a life-saving device, in any building, a source of additional security to the occupants of offices, lofts, apartments and hotels; and as life is dependent upon its being ready and reliable, too much care cannot be exercised over its protective surroundings and in its maintenance.

REGINALD PELHAM BOLTON.

Limitations of the Machine.

In factory, loft and business buildings where large numbers of employes are located at distances above the ground, rendering egress by stairs and passages slow and tedious, there will always be a dependence upon the elevator. The natural impulse of occupants is to turn to their customary means of egress in any emergency, and a rush is always made to it in such circumstances. It is just under such conditions that a knowledge of the limitations of the machine is most necessary, and yet is least likely to be applied. The car is held while its interior is crowded and then dropped with risk of being stalled in the shaft, and again held back to allow the crowd to get out.

The operators of all elevators ought to be instructed as to the best way of handling such situations. Such instructions and exercise of the use of the car should be part of every fire drill. Many lives have been saved by elevators in which the operator has "kept his head," or has happened not to do something which would have put his machine out of commission. But others have been lost by mistakes and by failure to utilize the elevator to best advantage.

Operators as a rule are not taught the well-established principle that after the number of persons admitted to the car exceeds a certain proportion to the number of the floors served, the car slows up and delivers less traffic.

This suggestion might, with advantage, be hung in every elevator in a business building as a rough and ready guide.

> OPERATORS:
> "After your car is half-filled the more passengers you admit per trip the less you carry per hour."

It must be admitted that the elevators in loft buildings are generally inadequate to handling traffic under emergency conditions. From the point of view of security only, more are required and the additional value which ample elevator service will make to the property offsets its cost, just as sprinkler equipments pay through higher rentals secured, which are based on the lessened risk to the occupant.

In dealing with the subject of adequate elevator equipment, the reduction in available rentable area by the space occupied by the shaft or hoistway is often given too great weight or consideration.

A Fundamental Principle.

This point of view loses sight of the fundamental principle which should govern the design of buildings, but seems to be very seldom applied:

> "Construct the least possible amount of building, for the highest possible rate of revenue."

If an adequate elevator system will enhance the general character and convenience of the building, it will pay to reduce rentable area and devote all the space necessary to that purpose. It is not the amount of available floor area that makes a building a success, but the desirability of such space. And there is less value in having the floor space to rent than in keeping the tenants when they have rented it. Ample as well as ready access means as much to property as the conveniences available when the property is reached.

Rueful owners of unoccupied or partly occupied property would do well to look into this question very thoroughly before deciding that, in order to keep buildings filled, the only plan is to reduce rentals to the point that will induce tenants to put up with inconvenience or risk. The better course is to eliminate both as far as possible and afford value for better rates of rental. Nothing will contribute to this result more directly than good, up-to-date and reliable elevators.

Size of Unit-Rooms.

Persons experienced in dealing with the tenantry of tall office buildings agree that the size of the unit-room of upper floors should contain approximately 350 sq. ft. of rental area, their reason being that the number of persons willing to pay the five to eight hundred dollars—the sum demanded for rooms of this area in our larger cities—is greatly in excess of those willing to pay more. As the depth of such a room cannot exceed a maximum of 25 ft.—due to the lack of natural light at a greater distance from the window—our unit-room has a maximum depth of 25 ft. by a minimum width of 14 ft. The average size of this unit-room is 17½ ft. wide by 20 ft. deep. Experience has determined that 9 to 10 ft. is a satisfactory clear height, so that we find a unit-room of about 3,200 cu. ft. is ample for the five to six persons who may occupy it.—W. C. Hazlett in Engineering and Contracting.

Safety in Gasoline Storage.

THE enormous and fast increasing use of volatile, highly inflammable liquids, such as gasoline, naphtha, ether, alcohol, etc., calls for a method of storing and handling these materials in small or large quantities in such a way that they are absolutely protected from the dangers of fire or the explosion of their vapors, all of which forces to the attention of architects, builders and owners in this city and vicinity a system that has been tried abroad and which the Martina & Huneke Company, of the Woolworth building, are introducing here.

As a matter of fact the municipal authorities in Germany not only now permit the storage of any quantity of inflammable liquid in the cities of the country, providing this system is employed, and where it is used the insurance rates have been cut exactly in half.

The apparatus includes no complicated mechanism. It is automatic in its operation and independent of the workmen, it being impossible for them to interfere with its operation in any way maliciously or by carelessness. Briefly, the system rests upon the fact that throughout the apparatus in which liquid is stored or handled air is replaced by carbon dioxide or other inert gas. The dead gas serves as a protecting agent and its pressure determines the movement of the liquid. Furthermore, the gas fills the jackets of all the pipes and valves and acts in such a way that the liquid can circulate only when the system is absolutely free of leaks. For instance, if a leak occurs at any point in the system, the pressure of gas will disappear and the liquid will remain in the reservoir shown beneath the floor in the illustration. There can be no danger of explosion there since air is necessary to the formation of the explosive mixture and none exists in the tank. Therefore all danger from external fire or even from sparks within the tank is removed.

The system consists of a storage tank of heavy sheet metal buried in the ground, an inlet and inlet valves, a cylinder of compressed inert gas for protecting the liquid and forcing it through the piping system, and jacketed pipes connecting the different parts of the system. The system can be installed to serve a tailor shop, a printing establishment or a concern keeping in storage a million gallons of inflammable materials.

Pressed Radiators Perfected.

INVESTIGATION into the claims of a manufacturer of pressed steel radiators seems to indicate that a step in advance has been made in heating equipment. In brief, the advantages claimed for the pressed steel radiator over the cast iron appliance are that the thinner walls of the radiating segments permit quicker and easier radiation of heat to a greater volume of air between the sections: a saving of one-third of the weight and the occupancy of less space than the ordinary radiator requires. The difference in size for the same quantity of radiating surface between a cast iron radiator and a pressed steel one is shown in the inset cut.

Modern sanitation requires absolute cleanliness and this new type of radiator, with its smooth surface, wide air spaces and rounded joints and with every part accessible for easy cleaning may be kept as free from dust as a tile floor. But in addition to this, the manufacturers of this type of radiator have taken advantage of the lighter weight afforded in the use of pressed steel and have introduced what they call "suspended radiation," a system for hanging these radiators on the walls of rooms without necessarily increasing the strength of the studding.

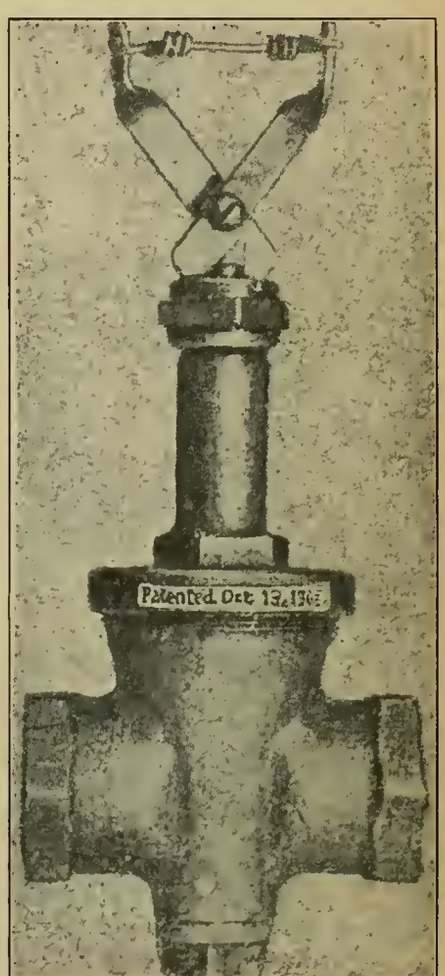
The question of safety at once arises and when an officer of the Pressed Metal Radiator Company, of 101 Park avenue, was asked to explain how this was taken care of in manufacture, he said:

"These radiators are stamped out of flat sheets of ductile iron. Each section is made by uniting two shapes with a double seam. This is done under a pressure of 500 tons to the square inch which makes a joint that will not break under any pressure of steam or water used in heating systems. Even internal freezing will not start the seams. The inside as well as the outside is perfectly smooth. There is no core sand inside to work down into the valves and cause leakage by cutting out the valve seats."

Luminous Lighting Bowl.

THE drawing illustrates a novelty in indirect lighting, being introduced by the National X-ray Reflector Co., of 14 West 33d street. It is different from the so-called semi-indirect system of lighting in that it embodies what is claimed to be a remedy for eye strain in certain types of indirect lighting.



Just as in the opaque indirect fixtures of metal and compone, each lamp is equipped with an opaque reflector for the purpose of directing all the light rays against the ceiling at a correct angle. This is said to insure perfect indirect illumination. Provision, however, is made in this standard reflector equipment for a small lamp, the only function of which is to illuminate softly the glass bowl or panels in the fixture and make the bowl itself more of a decorative feature. The illuminated bowl idea is said to possess all the virtues of the indirect lighting effect and at the same time enhances the beauty of the fixture.

Fire Automatically Cuts Off Gas.

AT the recent Exposition of Safety and Sanitation a device was demonstrated that attracted more than casual attention from architects and insurance men. It was in the form of a fusible link that held apart two arms of a spring valve. When these links were melted with a match the arms flew apart and immediately the flow of gas into the meter was stopped.

The value of this device to multi-tenanted buildings is that in case of fire the supply of gas will be immediately shut off as soon as it reaches a point where it will be apt to melt the meter in the basement or kitchen and cause an explosion. A former fire commissioner said in speaking of fire preventive measures:

"The Bureau should have the power to require necessary lights in cellars and hallways and the installation of automatic shut-offs for gas, water and electric currents."

The device is manufactured by its inventor August C. Schwager, of 125 West 65th street.

A total of 1,332,200 passengers arrived in the Port of New York from foreign countries during the year ended Dec. 31. Of this number 952,834 came in the steerage and were distributed over the United States. The immigration was remarkably large in view of the industrial conditions which prevailed in America; on the other hand,, such conditions were worse in parts of Europe.

Gov. Glynn pointed out in his message to the Legislature that the per capita expenditures of the state have risen from $2.39 to $5.10 in the last twenty years. The exactions of local taxation are already so burdensome, he added, that an increased State tax must be avoided. It's brevity and specific recommendations for reducing expenses make this state paper a model document of its kind.

At a recent meeting of employes of the Park Department, it was decided to have a bill introduced at Albany to amend the City Charter so as to provide that the department be under a single commissioner for the entire city. The change may possibly be desirable, but it makes a bad impression to see department employes submitting bills to the Legislature over the heads of the Mayor and the Board of Estimate.

The eighteenth annual dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria on Saturday evening, February 7. The board has recently been very active in obtaining associate members and in taking up new committee work. No doubt informal reports on the scope and progress of the work will be presented. A large attendance is assured and the gathering should prove interesting, both socially and professionally. Elisha Sniffin is chairman of the dinner committee.

The New Currency System

In discussing the real estate outlook for the current year a number of well-informed and experienced gentlemen have predicted that the new Currency law will in the course of time exercise a beneficial effect on the real estate market. This prophecy may very well be justified by the event. The old currency system, which has now been superseded, made it more difficult, under certain conditions, for all classes of business men who need to borrow money on time to have their wants satisfied. By providing an inelastic currency, which did not diminish during periods of depression, and which could not sufficiently increase during periods of expansion, and by a faulty distribution of the cash reserves, it discriminated against the business man and in favor of the speculator.

The business man did not get the full benefit of any period of abundant loanable capital, because under the reserve system a large part of the surplus had to be loaned on call, and be immediately available, at least in theory. The business man did, however, keenly feel the pressure of periods of tight money, which under the old system were found to take place just as soon as any considerable expansion of business took place. The real estate owner and builder was in this respect in even a worse situation than the ordinary business man. Borrowing as he does large sums and for comparatively long periods, he has frequently found it of late years impossible to obtain the money he needed save at a prohibitive price. Ever since the panic in the fall of 1907 credit conditions have been more or less disturbed.

The days when a certain proportion of the value of improved real estate can be borrowed at four per cent. seem to be very remote.

Doubtless the comparatively high rate of interest, which has to be paid on real estate mortgages is due for the most part to general conditions rather than to the influence of a bad currency system, but the bad currency system intensified the ill effect of the adverse general condition of credit. Ever since 1907 the bankers and money lending institutions of the country have been so apprehensive of a return of the crisis of that terrible fall that they have immediately checked any tendency to over-expansion. On several occasions credit has been deliberately contracted, not because of any existing excess of speculation but because of the danger of some future excess. On all of these occasions the local real estate market has been unfavorably affected by the restriction of its ability to borrow money. If this new currency system works as it is intended to work, these difficulties will be removed.

Provision is made for concentration of reserves, and for the expansion of currency to meet the needs of expanding business. At the same time the central reserve board will have abundant power to prevent inflation, whenever it believes inflation is threatened. But in any event the whole machinery will be very much more flexible. It will no longer encourage speculation in stocks by the accumulation of balances in New York, which will have to be loaned on call. The loanable capital of the country will be made much more accessible to the needs of legitimate business. With the fear of a repetition of 1907 removed, money-lending institutions will not have to withdraw so completely from the mortgage market as they have frequently been obliged to do of late. Of course there will be periods of comparatively easy and comparatively tight money, but these periods ought to be divided by longer distances and they should not be so acute.

All that needs to be done in order that the New York mortgage market may take full advantage of these better conditions is an improvement in the methods that now govern transactions of this kind, an improvement looking in the direction of quarterly interest payments, longer terms and a gradual reduction of principal.

New York the Real Financial Center of America.

Although the new currency system may very well improve the conditions under which money will be loaned on New York real estate, there is another respect in which it may not have such a favorable effect on New York City. It is probably the first of a series of attempts which will be made in Washington to deprive New York of its existing distinction of being the financial center of the country. No one could hear the debates on the currency bill in Congress without being impressed by the resentment which the representatives of Southern and Western States and districts showed toward New York. They apparently felt and believed that the old currency system had brought about an unwholesome and artificial concentration of credit in New York, which ought to be broken down in the interest of the free development of the rest of the country.

They declared that New York bankers would not finance projects demanding the investment of a large amount of capital except under conditions which imposed upon these projects unnecessarily heavy interest charges. They intimated that legislative power would be used to break down this concentration of credit. Just what the legislation may amount to is still only a matter of conjecture, but in all probability the influence of this state of mind will be felt in the administration of the new currency law. The size of any local reserve bank established in New York will be made as small as possible and the Federal Reserve Board is not likely to be very attentive to the counsel and solicitations of New York bankers. How much effect any such attempt to break down the financial supremacy of New York will have is very doubtful.

In certain respects the concentration of credit in New York has been artificial, and has been favored by an inadequate and clumsy banking system. It is possible that the existence of such favoritism in the past may result in a reaction hereafter which will result in a discrimination against New York rather than in its favor. Real estate owners who are thinking of adding to the number of skyscrapers in the financial district should bear in mind this possibility. Many conditions, both political and economic, are becoming adverse to that tendency to concentrate the business and financial direction of the country in New York, which prevailed from 1901 to 1907. As the Record and Guide has already said, no one can predict with any confidence just what effect these adverse conditions will have upon the amount of business which will be permanently transacted in the financial district. Even though the tendency to business centralization has not only been checked, but reversed, the centralization of finance seems to be a world-wide phenomenon. Every modern industrial country has developed only one financial center, to which the credit institutions of the smaller cities are more or less subsidiary. If a financial center proves to be necessary in the United States, it can hardly be situated in any city except New York.

New York not only furnishes an enormous amount of banking capital and draws to itself loanable capital from every part of the United States, but it has European connections which will necessarily continue to enhance its financial power. In all probability the financial prestige of this city will not be undermined even by much more and drastic legislation than any which has yet been proposed, but New Yorkers should recognize that it may be somewhat mitigated, and New York real estate owners would do well not to increase the number of office buildings in the financial district until the effect of existing legislation and the scope of new legislation have been determined.

A New System of Taxation Proposed.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Much has been said and written recently about the hardships that real estate has suffered by reason of legislation and high taxation. When you are feeling weak in the knees, when your appetite is gone and your brain dull, you don't need a doctor to tell you that you are sick. You know it better than he, but you do want some one to tell you how to get well. And so my purpose here is, not to bewail existing conditions, nor to censure those at fault, but to propose a remedy for the evils that have come upon real estate in New York City.

Not in the least do I imagine that I have the only remedy, or that all real estate will be benefited by it. No doubt other remedies may be necessary later on, but a start must be made some time. Briefly, I propose the abolition of our antiquated and primitive method of assessment and taxation and adopting an entirely new and radically different system which shall provide as follows:

A—A full market value assessment on all land, and the rate of taxation to be uniform, but entirely independent and different from the rate of taxation on improvements.

B—A tax graduated similar to the Income Tax on all improvements and providing a tax exemption for the first $5,000 of the value of the improvements.

C—A differing rate of taxation for various classes of buildings according to the uses which they serve, these to be divided into four groups, namely:

1. Homesteads, or residences occupied by one family.
2. Tenant dwellings for two families or more.
3. Office buildings, warehouses, stores, factories and other business buildings.
4. Theatres, clubs, places of public assembly, all amusement buildings, also garages and livery stables.

The tax rate on homesteads to be the lowest, and that on theatres, etc., to be the highest.

D—A liberal system of rebates for fireproof construction, uncovered area and auxiliary fire apparatus, as sprinklers, etc.

E—A system of penalties for buildings exceeding a fixed height limit (the width of the street) and for covering an area in excess of 75 per cent. of the lot.

F—The abolition of all tax exemptions except upon city property and upon the first $5,000 of improvement.

I think the points here stated need no further explanation. To be sure, the tax bills will have to be worked out in a manner similar to a fire insurance rate schedule. But why not? If insurance companies deem it necessary to find out, in a painstaking and businesslike way what the proper "premium" (another name for tax) ought to be for each individual building, then our great city surely should in the same way find out which buildings cost it the most in fire, police and health service; and each property owner should pay in the proportion as his building requires such service by nature of its size, construction and occupancy.

But this will entail a lot of work and will cost the city a lot of money! Well, isn't it better to spend the money in perfecting a system of taxation that will encourage the poor man to build a home than to spend it on congestion commissions, hygienic congresses and vice investigations?

It is time the nodding citizens of New York realized that the present system with a flat rate on land and buildings is outworn and entirely too crude and primitive to be applied to our complex modern conditions. A flat rate, regardless of the character of the improvement, was all very good one hundred or even fifty years ago when buildings were generally very much alike in value and in use. The small private house was then the standard unit of building. There were then few factories, scarcely a half dozen theatres, some office buildings and no flats or apartments whatsoever.

The enormous difference between the value of one building and that of another, such as occurs today, was never dreamed of fifty years ago, nor the construction of skyscrapers, office buildings, 20-story factories, towering apartment houses, and hundreds of theatres and amusement places, large and small. It is the construction of these buildings, which has made necessary the rebuilding of sewers, the installation of high-pressure mains, costly fire apparatus, and even street widenings, not to mention such huge improvements as subways.

The nature of the occupancy of these buildings causes congestion, resulting in numerous accidents, impairment of health and the spread of vice, which make increasing demands upon the ambulances and hospital service of the city. All these burdens have been meekly borne by owners of the small buildings, which make no such demand upon the city service. Why not place the burden of taxation upon those who make the city government so expensive?

I have here tried to outline only briefly my suggestion for a remedy. The working out of the details of this proposition must be left to experts.

FREDERICK C. ZOBEL.

The Cleveland Foundation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I enclose copy of a clipping. Why can't we get such a foundation as the Cleveland Foundation here? It would not only relieve real estate by saving the taxes paid for charity and education, and the assessments for public improvements, but would also attract population and increase in land values.

It's time we New York land owners waked up.

New York, January 3, 1913.

Cleveland, Jan. 3.—The Cleveland Foundation, which is to take charge of the wealth of rich men after they die and administer in the interest of the city's charitable, educational and social movements, starts out with $5,000,000 on hand. F. H. Goff, president of the Cleveland Trust Company, who originated the Foundation, said to-day that he had received a big donation from one of Cleveland's wealthy men and that many men of means had signified their intention of taking advantage of its opportunities to be of aid to their fellow-citizens.

Many public improvements which heretofore have not been available in the city because of the lack of funds will be obtained through the Foundation, Mr. Goff says. Men of millions, according to the plan, are to make the Foundation the administrator of their estates, leaving as much money as they wish to their relatives and the excess to be used by the Foundation in helping to make Cleveland a better city in which to live.

"The Foundation," said Mr. Goff, "will give respectability to great riches, as men can continue in the accumulation of wealth without people looking upon them as selfish mortals, because if the accumulations enter the Foundation they will realize that the benefits from the wealth will be returned again to the community. The Foundation will prevent the dissipation of large fortunes by legatees."

Easier Money Conditions.

Decidedly better conditions are prevailing in the open money market since the first of the year. It is becoming easier every day for merchants to obtain money, and investment funds are also increasing. Improved circumstances are also reported from abroad, the Bank of England discount rate having been lowered to 4½ per cent. with talk of the Bank of France following the lead. Under these new conditions real estate mortgage money should also be more available, and this is a very favorable hour for both lenders and investors. The technical position of improved real estate has been strengthened materially in the past two years, since the falling off in the rate of new construction, with the normal growth of population at the same time, has raised the percentage of occupancy to a high figure, especially for residential property. All the present financial signs tend to substantiate the predictions of real estate experts that the current year will be one of continued improvement, until there is a complete restoration of normal conditions in 1915.

Supt. Moorehead Expects Activity.

Supt. Moorehead of the Bronx Bureau of Buildings looks for a very active year in 1914. The letting of the new subway construction contracts is going to have a big effect on Bronx building operations, he says. When these lines are opened, and for a year prior thereto, the boom in Bronx building operations will be tremendous. Undoubtedly the first beginnings of this activity will be felt in 1914. Business is recovering from the suspense preceding the recent legislation of Congress and all conditions are now favorable to a great revival of trade and industry.

"The one trouble with Bronx people is that they do not stand by the officials who represent them when these officials are attacked from the outside. Brooklyn and Queens are laughing at us on this account and get away with what they want, while we are squabbling. When borough and county officials are getting things for those they represent, they should be supported and not subjected to an invidious cross fire."

Important Trolley Decision.

The Public Service Commission, by a vote of 3 to 2, has refused to order the New York and Queens County Railway Company to extend its trolley tracks on Astoria or Flushing avenue from Ehret avenue to Jackson avenue in Queens. Commissioner J. Sergeant Cram, who held the hearings to inquire into the situation, submitted an opinion recommending that an order for the extension should be made, in accordance with the requirements of the company's franchise. On the vote the order was defeated, Chairman Edward E. McCall and Commissioners John E. Eustis and George V. S. Williams voting against it. Commissioner Milo R. Maltbie and Commissioner J. Sergeant Cram voted for the order.

The matter was brought to the attention of the commission on a petition from residents and property owners of the north side of Corona, East Elmhurst and Flushing. The petitioners, generally speaking, live in that section of Queens between Ehret avenue on the west and Flushing Bay on the east, and between North Beach on the north and Jackson avenue on the south. The New York and Queens County Railway Company operates a line of trolley cars through Jackson avenue, and another line from the Queensboro Bridge through Astoria or Flushing avenue, as far as Ehret avenue, where it turns north and continues to North Beach. Although the company's franchise calls for a continuance of the line easterly through Astoria or Flushing avenue to a junction with Jackson avenue near Flushing Bay, no tracks have been laid upon this portion of the route.

Commissioner Cram, in his opinion, held that the company's franchise covered this part of the route, and that the population on either side of it was sufficient to demand the construction and operation.

Two-Family House Passing.

The two-family house has out-lived its usefulness in Brooklyn, and but few of this type were erected in the last two years. The preference of the buyer and renter must be considered. Instead of considering first the economy in cost of construction or the economies that flow from the greatest utilization of space, builders must hereafter take into consideration more fully the comfort and health of the family, says Lewis H. Losee, vice-president of the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co.

"In apartment house construction there must be larger rooms, lighter rooms and larger airshafts. It is gratifying that the unit in construction has steadily increased during the last seven years, until now apartments are being built on plots 50 and 60 feet in width, thus furnishing the opportunity for better distribution of space.

"One of the best features in the Brooklyn situation is the approach of the time when better transit facilities will be an actuality. Already there is evidence that the real estate speculator is beginning to anticipate the reality of improved transit."

—The Board of Estimate is to have a standing committee on City Plan, of which President McAneny will be chairman. To this committee questions of big changes in the city map will be referred, as the West Side improvements, the selection of sites for court houses and the matter of the extension of Eastern Parkway.

—Another large apartment house is to be built by the Stracona Construction Company on Riverside Drive in the Audubon Park neighborhood. Audubon Park has become one of the most inviting centers on Washington Heights. The beautiful chapel of the Intercession, which has Trinity Cemetery for a background, and the Geographical Society's and the Hispano-American Society's buildings, have given a character to this center that can never be effaced. Andrew J. Robinson Company has the contract for the erection of a church for the Welch denomination in 155th street, opposite the cemetery. Otherwise the district is newly built up with apartment houses of quality.

—The eight-story addition which is being made to the Hotel St. George will make this one of the largest hotels in the Greater City. The Hotel Bossert, in the same section of the city, is also undergoing enlargement. In fine, the last few years have been so prosperous for hotels that there are few which have not made extensive improvements.

—The new currency law in times of financial stringency will liberate reserves of credit which have been heretofore unavailable. The fact that this credit may now be put to use when needed assures the country of an elastic currency and removes one of the chief obstacles to a general industrial revival.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

LAST HALF STEEL DELIVERIES BRING HIGHER PRICES—NEW SHINGLE COUNT IN THIS STATE EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 1.

The Tariff and the Renting Outlook —
Barge Strike Does Not Affect Building

THE quality of demand for new building construction during the current year is a matter of conflicting opinion. Everybody seems to be optimistic, from the Wall street banker to the apple woman on the corner, but building material men demand something more tangible than sentiment before they transfer their money from the bank to speculative yard stocks.

As the first full week of the year closed conservative dealers became convinced that the signs of the times were brightening. When the city came into the steel market for 60,000 tons of structural material for elevated railway extensions, requiring second quarter delivery, there was some surprise that quotations were considerably stiffer than they are now ruling, especially since heretofore the steel companies appeared to be competing strenuously to get any and all business they could.

When $1.25 to $1.35, Pittsburgh mill, was quoted, it was the first intimation that there was something more substantial than mere sentiment behind the optimistic expressions made by captains of industry at the first of the year. True, first quarter and second quarter steel prices are still quoted low to encourage new business, but the fact that this differentiation is being made is interpreted as auguring well for the demand for building materials in general later in the year.

Following this development in tone came the announcement that ¾-in. trap rock that has been held stiffly at $1.10 per cubic yard in wholesale lots alongside dock, N. Y., had moved up to a range running from $1.15 to $1.30, and that a big contract was signed for this size stone on Wednesday at the topmost level. Bluestone in ¾-inch size has jumped five cents to $1.10.

The report that the strike of the harbor barge captains would interfere with deliveries of crushed stone, common brick and other commodities may have had something to do with the heavy demand reported in some departments. But the strike did not extend to the scowman, and so brick, sand, gravel and crushed stone continued to come in without delay. The stiffness in all departments except common brick is due to the feeling everywhere apparent that demand will continue to improve, and that, as prices have been abnormally low, they should immediately reflect any change for the better in demand.

As for the building outlook, the new tariff law may prove to be a factor indirectly governing the consumption of building material in this market for the next twelve months. If, as business men in many lines believe, foreign exporters are planning to gain a foothold in this country under the new import act, there will be an active demand for office, warehouse and showroom space which ought to help lower Manhattan absorb some of the large quantity of desirable modern office space that now is being used as an argument to prove that part of the city over-constructed.

This will hasten the day when there will be a better demand for new buildings.

CRUSHED STONE PRICES UP.

Big Jump in Trap Rock of ¾-in. Size—Still Stiffening.

ANOTHER good sign of improving conditions in the building material market was the announcement made this week that three-quarter inch trap rock has advanced from the $1.10 level ruling at the close of the year to the remarkable range of $1.15 to $1.30. As an indication that the demand was great and that prices were by no means weak at the top figure a large contract for this size stone was made on Wednesday at the new top price of $1.30 per cu. yd. alongside dock, N. Y.

The price of three-quarter inch trap rock is also higher. An advance of five cents was announced this week making the ruling quotation $1.10, as against $1.05 prevailing at the close of 1913. The improved demand for Portland cement is reflected in the higher price of crushed as practically all the crushed stone being bought now is going into concrete work of one kind or another. Sand is stiffening.

BIG SAND FIRM ABSORBED.

The Crescent Becomes Part of the Goodwin Gallagher Company.

ONE of the biggest and most important purchases made in building material market in some time was recorded this week when it became known that the Crescent Sand & Gravel Company of 17 Battery place has been acquired by the Goodwin-Gallagher Sand & Gravel Corporation of 71 Broadway. Hereafter the plant and retail department will be managed from the offices of the purchasers.

The Building Material Exchange heard rumors that the Broadway sand interests were practically obliged to take over the Crescent Company in order to take care of the tremendous demand that recently has developed in this market for sharp washed sand, partly due to subway and other large engineering operations and partly to the increasing demand for good sand for reinforced concrete for factories. The fact that the Buildings Bureaus are giving considerable attention to the character of the sand that is going into building construction of late has made it almost imperative that a larger quantity of high grade sand be made available for this market.

Even with this added supply at hand prices for high grade sand are stiff at the fifty-cent level still ruling on Thursday.

WIRE AND NAILS BLANK.

American Company Withdraws Quotations Expecting Rise.

THE American Steel & Wire Company withdrew all existing price quotations on wire and nails to merchants and the manufacturing trade this week owing to the improved condition of the market. The action was taken to eliminate any possibility of the manufacturers being caught low on a possible rising price movement. This action will not, however, affect wire concrete reinforcing, as prices are made on prompt delivery, according to job requirements.

SUMMER COAL NOT QUOTED.

Significant Move of Operators Reflects Change of Conditions.

COAL operatives are showing a conservative attitude in the matter of prices which further reflects the improved tone of the building material and supply market. While the demand for domestic and steam sizes continues to increase, there has been no change in quotations. Inquiries and contract negotiations are now under way for the spring and it is significant that many Pittsburgh operators are holding back from making quotations, pending the adjustment of wages. The miners are planning to make a stiff fight for an advance, and it is probable that no base price will be fixed until this matter has been adjusted.

STRONGER TONE IN STEEL.

Third Quarter Deliveries Call for Higher Prices.

INQUIRERS in the steel market this week discovered that the market fabricated for shapes calling for delivery after the first of July is much stronger than that for delivery over the first six months of the year. Options on steel tonnage run to $1.25 Pittsburgh, base, for plain material, while some of the independent companies are asking as high as $1.30 or higher, for such deliveries. Even for shipment over the second quarter the tone of the market is said to be stronger than at $1.20 base for bars, plates or shapes. Some interests are asking $1 a ton higher than that.

This fact was brought out forcibly when contractors and fabricating shops bid upon the construction of the elevated extensions for the New York Municipal Railways Co., calling for 13,500 tons of steel. Contracts have been signed for about 60,000 tons for fabricated structural steel for transportation consumption in this market, divided into 27,000 tons for the Coney Island extension, which went to Post & McCord; 16,800 tons for the Jerome avenue extension, awarded to Oscar Daniels & Co., and 15,1000 tons for the White Plains extension, awarded to Alfred T. Roth. In view of the fact that the American Bridge Company closes its year on January 3, these contracts will be included in the 1913 statistics, making the total contracts for fabricated steel placed with all interests last year at 1,095,000, a falling off of 29 per cent. as compared with 1912.

LUMBER PRICES STEADY.

Spruce Only Weak Department—The New Shingle Count Law.

IN the lumber market Eastern spruce is the only department that does not show signs of strengthening. In this case the ailment is over-competiton, rather than lack of demand. In hardwoods the orders are generally confined to mixed cars, showing that hand-to-mouth buying is the rule rather than the exception.

The new State regulation regarding the count of shingles which becomes effective on the first of February requires that shingles bundled other than twenty-five courses at each end of bundles be sold on a comparative basis thereto. That is, shingles bundled twenty-five courses at each end are to be computed as 250 shingles to a bundle and shingles bundled 23/24 courses are to be computed as 235 shingles to a bundle and such bundles must be stenciled "235" or a sales slip, ticket or tag shall accompany the bundle representing the count.

The argument has been presented by certain interests that the consumer was being defrauder by getting shingles 23/24 courses to bundle instead of 25/25s, but lumber men contend that the consumer is getting full value for the price he pays for the 23/24s shingles, and that if the same shingles were packed 25/25 courses the consumer would have to pay a proportionately higher price to offset addition material, labor and freight cost. Lumber wholesalers say there is not any deception in the sale of these short-count shingles, for they are sold on their merits in competition with other shingles.

The only question is the preference of the retail dealer in having the bundles marked with the figures "235" or in furnishing a ticket or tag with each lot of the shingles he sends out. Some manufacturers have also advised that after February first they shall sell short count shingles on the basis of price for four bundles instead of making price per thousand which will comply with the regulation.

AFTER THE SHOESTRINGS.

District Attorney Whitman's New Bureau Will Protect Material Men.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY WHITMAN'S Commercial Fraud Bureau, in charge of which is Arthur Train, the assistant District Attorney who needs no introduction to New York business men, was established in part, at least, through the agency of certain building and real estate interests operating in various parts of the city who have had unpleasant experiences with so-called Shoestring builders and material men in the past.

With the improving sentiment in the building business and the fact that the Shoestringers have had a lean year or two, some irresponsible concerns and individuals have been feeling the market to find that a number of building material distributors are showing a willingness to take a chance. To protect the legitimate business houses, the New York Credit Mens' Association, the Board of Trade and Transportation, and the Merchants' Protective Association laid the credit abuse evil before the District Attorney with the result that the new bureau has been established.

This committee, in its statement, proposed that when a case is submitted to the bureau those preferring the charge should agree affirmatively to aid its progress and final conclusion and that as an evidence of good faith those preferring the charge be required to bind themselves to make no settlement except with the consent of the District Attorney.

Anyone detecting fraudulent credit conditions may submit evidence leading to an investigation to the head of the Commercial Frauds Bureau of the District Attorney's office.

To the same end President Elwell, of the Consolidated Building Trades Credit Associations, opened the the first in a series of conferences designed to change the mechanics lien law. A State league will be formed with representatives of all material men's and employers' associations to secure passage of the bill drawn by J. Charles Wechsler, which passed the Assembly last year. The conference to be held at the headquarters of the Consolidated Building Trades Association next week will include the Masons Employers' Association and the credit branch of the Building Trades Association.

BRICK SUPPLY RESTRICTED.

Closing of Navigation Above Newburgh Puts Market on Reserve.

COMMON brick supply for this market has been narrowed down to what is on hand at the open docks, under cover here, and what can be brought to this market only by ice-breaking tugs from Haverstraw. This situation was brought about by the closing of navigation between Newburgh and Kingston this week, but strange as it may seem, it had no effect whatever upon strengthening the demand for brick here. In fact, prices weakened. Raritan brick also shows a slight recession on prices and Newark yard interests reported a shading of prices from $7.25 to $7.75 to $7 to $7.50. Hudson River brick here now brings between $5.50 and $6, with Raritans quoted at from $6 to $6.25.

The unloading figures for this week are lower than those of last week when the holiday shut out a whole day's transactions. Dealers have no stacks to speak of and are showing no inclination to load up. When the strengthening tone of other departments of the building material are shown in actual building operations and resultant call for brick, the dealers say they will be in the market for material, but just now their money in the bank looks better to them, as one man put it, than a speculative corner on the brick market, possibly could.

THE WEEK'S REAL ESTATE NEWS

Brokerage Sales, Auctions, Foreclosure Suits, Building Loans, etc., Together With Brief Personal Items.

Big Leases Figured Prominently in the Business.

The sales market was practically at a standstill this week. The few properties which did change hands were of so commonplace a character as to have practically no significance. The apathy was not confined to any borough but effected all parts of the city. The weakness of the market was reflected in the Exchange Salesroom, where in two cases properties were knocked down to bidders for prices far below the assessed valuation.

The leasing branch, however, was productive of several large and interesting transactions. The Bronx contributed a 63-year lease of a large site opposite the new Bronx County court house and another "Loft" candy store deal which involved a building at the junction of Willis avenue and 149th street. Other important leases concerned a big corner store in Times Square, taken by a drug company, an 8-sty. building in Water street, and a 12-sty. loft building in West 19th street.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 16, against 15 for last week and 26 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 1, compared with 6 last week and 12 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 15, compared with 9 last week and 14 a year ago.

From the Bronx 2 sales at private contract were reported, against 14 last week and 14 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,087,509, compared with $2,097,751 last week, making a total since Jan. 1 of $2,936,635. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $1,247,194, making a total since Jan. 1, 1913, of $1,839,489.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

$500,000 Brooklyn Deal.

Howard C. Pyle & Co. have just closed one of the most important and significant real estate transactions of recent years, on the Heights, in effecting the sale of the vacant plot on the northerly side of Schermerhorn st., 80 ft. frontage, near Clinton st., running through to Livingston st., for the Realty Associates, to the firm of Bing & Bing, of 5th av., Manhattan, who will immediately begin the erection of two 8-sty elevator apartment houses of the highest type of construction. The one on Schermerhorn st. will comprise apartments of 10 rooms and 3 baths each and the Livingston st building will consist of apartments of 3 and 4 rooms and bath each, containing every conceivable modern convenience. Both of the buildings will be ready for occupancy on Sept. 1, 1914. Plans are being prepared by Architect Robert P. Lyons.

Interesting Sale at Port Richmond.

A sale of unusual importance and far-reaching effect has just been concluded in Port Richmond. The Reformed Dutch Church has sold through J. Sterling Drake to Martin M. Leo the parsonage property on the northwest corner of Richmond and Grove avs., 164x189 ft. This is the largest plot under one ownership in the heart of Port Richmond, except the church plot of the grantor, which, of course, is not for sale. This plot has been owned and occupied by the church as a parsonage consecutively since 1835.

It is in what, by common consent, has come to be known as "The hub of Port Richmond," where commercial life is intense, where are many of the finest stores in the whole borough, and where real estate values are booming.

Aside from the historical associations of this plot and the great reluctance of many of this large and influential congregation to sell it at all, will always be remembered the heroic stand of the church against the invasion by business of what was once Port Richmond's most aristocratic residential neighborhood. With this sale, business and commercial life have again asserted their supremacy and as usual herald the prosperity of the section wherein they flourish.

The purchaser, Mr. Leo, is a young business man of the most progressive type and has already made for himself an enviable reputation throughout the borough as owner and manager of the two principal theatres, viz., The Park, at Stapleton, and The Empire, at Port Richmond. Mr. Leo intends to surpass himself on his new purchase and build a theatre in size and magnificence that will compare favorably with the best in Manhattan. And on the balance of the land he intends to put up a commercial building, stores first floor and apartments above that will be far in advance of anything yet attempted in this borough.

FRANK EBERHART, the new president of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association, says in a New Year greeting to members that "it must be apparent to every owner of rear estate that the time has come for him to wake up, get busy and organize, if real estate is again to be what it should be—a safe and sane investment. The best way to accomplish this is for him to become a member of the local taxpayers' associations, in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx represented by the central body, The United Real Estate Owners' Association, for 'In Union there is Strength.' Many owners of real estate seem to be blind to their own interests. They have an idea that whatever benefits these associations procure also accrue to them, without expense on their part. While this to a great extent is so, it is unjust and not sound business judgment. With ten times our present membership we could accomplish proportionately as much more as has been accomplished. Where there is not enough opposition to oppose an unjust measure, it simply becomes a law and all are compelled to comply with its requirements."

The Auction Market.

A number of significant and interesting auction sales were held this week. The Bijou Theatre, on the west side of Broadway, just above 30th st, was sold, on Thursday, to the plaintiff, Felix M. Warburg, on a bid of $465,000, a price $274,000 below the assessed valuation of $739,000. The failure to secure a bid approaching in some degree the price obtained last February, when the theatre was offered at voluntary, caused considerable comment. In the previous sale the property had been knocked down for $845,000 to the Taylor-Sherman Co., representing the owners.

On Wednesday, the old dwelling at 41 West 16th st was also sold for a price considerably below the assessed valuation. The plot is 21x92 and the assessment is $33,000 on the land or, with the building, $36,000. Despite the utmost endeavors of the auctioneer, bidding was light and Lowenfield and Prager, realty operators, secured it for $20,000, a price that many called a bargain.

A buyer from California apeared at the auction sale conducted at the Bronx Salesroom, on Thursday, when Herbert A. Sherman offered 55 lots in the Baychester section of the Bronx. The buyer was Samuel Garfinkel, of Los Angeles, who purchased 8 parcels, situated on Waring, De Reimer, Palmer and Stillwell avs, at prices aggregating $4,800. Another purchaser was Joseph E. Marx, who took a plot, 175x100, on De Reimer av for $1,875. Mary A. Keenan paid $4,675 for a plot, 150x100, on De Reimer av, 25 ft. south of Stillwell av, the same buyer taking the plot 50x100, directly opposite on De Reimer av, which was the first plot sold. The sale was conducted by Supreme Coure Referee Alderman Hyman. Pouker, and was the result of foreclosure proceedings instituted by the Franklin Society for Home Builders vs. Agnes K. Murphy-Mulligan, as defendant, who also took part at various times in the bidding.

For the coming week the most important offering will be the entire square block bounded by Post av, Dyckman st, Academy st and Naegle av, which will be sold at public auction on Thursday, Jan. 15, 1914, at 14 Vesey st, by Joseph P. Day. The property has a frontage of 600 ft. on Post av, 310 ft. in Academy st, 600 ft. on Naegle av, and 310 ft. in Dyckman st. The sale is a result of foreclosure proceedings brought by the Empire Trust Co., plaintiff, against the Naegle Realty Co. et al, defendants, to secure the sum of, approximately, $268,000 and interest. The Supreme Court has appointed John T. Canavan referee, and William A Barber is the attorney for the plaintiff. Mr. Day will sell, among others, the vacant plot, 50x98.9, at 133-135 West 25th st, as a result of an action brought by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. against the New York-Chicago Realty Co. to recover $85,926 and also the valuable dwelling at 4 East 29th st, as a result of an action brought by the Seaman's Bank for Savings against Louise Brummell.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell the 4-sty loft building at 497 Broome st on Monday. The other auctioneers will offer the usual miscellaneous assortment of properties.

are the best, most economical—and quickest with which to replace a defective plaster ceiling. It is, however, just as desirable to get a good one as to get a good article of any kind.

We can refer you to ceilings put up here twenty-five years ago, which have withstood fire and water and are still doing good service.

Tree Planting.

New York City is far behind many smaller cities of the country in controlling the planting of trees in its streets and in the care of trees after planting. The landscape engineer of the State College of Forestry at Syracuse is making a very careful reconnaissance survey of street planting in New York in co-operation with the Tree Planting Association of the city for the purpose of securing material which may be used to stimulate interest in more and better street trees. It is believed that the interest aroused will result in the formation of a definite and unified system of tree planting under the direction of a tree planting bureau headed by or made up of trained foresters.

For several years Dr. Stephen Smith, the venerable and active president of the Tree Planting Association of New York City, has been working for better street planting in New York. Last spring he found that the State College of Forestry at Syracuse, which is obligated under its charter to do university extension work along forestry lines wherever it is needed in the State, would be ready to co-operate with the Tree Planting Association in a general campaign of education in New York City with the purpose of letting the people know of the very unsatisfactory conditions which exist to-day and of what might be accomplished by more systematic and thorough work. Following out its belief that a State institution should be helpful to all of the people of the State, the college was glad to send a trained man to New York in December for several weeks of investigative and publicity work. Mr. H. R. Francis, of the college, who is a graduate landscape engineer, is studying representative streets, taking pictures showing promiscuous and unsatisfactory planting, and this material will be used in the papers of the city to show the people what exceedingly unsatisfactory conditions exist to-day. The college is acting in an advisory capacity only and after it has aided in awakening the people of the city to the necessity for proper work, the college will withdraw and give its aid elsewhere in the State.

WATERPROOF CONCRETE.

What the University of Wisconson Has Been Doing in Perfecting This Material.

THE College of Engineering of the University of Wisconsin has been carrying on experiments to determine the permeability of undried concrete, and tests already made show that good results are obtained if the concrete remains in the mixture from two to three minutes when dried materials are employed. But if the sand, gravel or stone is damp, a much longer time is required.

The use of wet sand is not advised if watertight concrete is desired. The experiments showed that mixtures of 1 cement, 1½ Janesville sand, torpedo grade, and 3 Janesville gravel, when mixed to a wet consistency, are impervious to water when subjected to a pressure of 40 pounds per square inch. Mixtures as lean as 1 part cement to 6 parts of gravel (a graded mixture) have been made impervious at high pressures by using care in proportioning the amount of water and in mixing batch. The specimens used in these tests are cylindrical in form and so made that the faces of the cylinders, 13½ inches in length, are exposed to the predetermined water pressure. The thickness of the concrete through which the water must pass can be varied from 4 to 18 inches. A test is now being made to study the effect of varying the percentages of cement and water, the gradation of the sand and gravel, the proportioning of the mixture and the thoroughness of mixing, on the hardening of the specimens.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

THE FIRM of Ernst & Cahn, Real Estate and Insurance, at 406 East 149th st, southeast corner 3d av, has been dissolved. Mr. Harry Cahn has formed a co-partnership with Mr. Junius J. Pittman, and will continue business at the above address under the firm name of Cahn & Pittman.

GOOD PRICES were obtained for 2 Brooklyn business parcels on Fulton st, Wednesday, in the auction sale of the Barber property held in the Brooklyn Exchange Salesrooms by William H. Smith. In both cases a sum well over the assessed valuation was obtained. One parcel was the 4-sty building at 462 Fulton st near Elm pl, occupied by a women's cloak house on a ten-year lease at $13,000 a year. It is assessed for $135,000 and was bought for $167,000 by E. M. Newman of Newman & Hirsch, representing parties in interest. The second parcel was the 4-sty building on the southwest corner of Fulton st and Elm pl, leased to Loft the candy merchant, on a 21-year term at $20,000 annually. It is assessed at $178,000, and was bought by Mr. Newman for the same interests for $190,000, subject to a mortgage of $30,000.

NEGOTIATIONS are pending for the sale of the 20-sty store and loft building at the northeast corner of 5th av and 31st st. The property is known as 303 5th av and has a frontage of 56.9 ft. on the av and 150 ft. in the st, the store and other space in the building being under lease to the F. A. O. Schwartz Co., importers of toys. The corner is owned by the bondholders of the Improved Property Holding Company, who acquired the property at auction, held on June 10, 1913, on a bid of $740 000, subject to mortgages aggregating $1,450,000. It was reported late in the week that the Philipse Manor Company is the prospective purchaser and that the suburban development located at North Tarrytown, N. Y., and known as Philipse Manor, will be given in exchange should the deal be consummated. It is one of the well-known substantially improved residence colonies of Westchester and has a considerable frontage on the Hudson just west of the estate of John D. Rockefeller. There have been a number of dwellings erected on plots of a quarter acre or more in size which have sold for from $10,000 to $25,000 each. The value of the 5th av property is placed at $2,200,000.

Kaiser Wilhelm Canal to be Opened in April.

The new Kaiser Wilhelm Canal, connecting the German naval ports in the North Sea with those in the Baltic, and thus eliminating the necessity for ships to pass around Denmark in getting from one sea to the other, will be opened in April in the presence of the Kaiser. This work has been designed to accommodate not only the present-day dreadnoughts, but also those of the future. The locks are 1,090 ft. long, 148 ft. wide and 46 ft. deep. The canal has cost $55,000,000 and has taken six years to construct.

BUREAU OF BUILDINGS.

How Applications Will Be Considered.

In order to acquaint architects and others having business with the Bureau of Buildings, Borough of Brooklyn, with the new system of receiving and considering applications for permits, of approving permits and of recording, the General Order No. 1, under date of January 2, issued by P. J. Carlin, Superintendent, with the approval of Lewis H. Pounds, President of the Borough of Brooklyn, are reported herewith. Until the system gets into working order it is possible that some confusion may result and a knowledge of the routine now in operation there will possibly save some misunderstanding. The order follows:

GENERAL ORDER NO. 1, JAN. 2, 1914.

With the view to simplifying and centralizing the chief function of this bureau, to the end that building permits shall issue as speedily as possible consistent with the time necessary for proper examination of plan, and with as little inconvenience as practicable to architects; and for the purpose of grouping in ready reference form all bureau information of interest to owners and architects of individual pieces of real property, a new system of receiving and considering applications for permits, of approving permits, and of recording, by means of a single card index, all Building Bureau connection with the various buildings under construction and reconstruction, which will go into effect to-day, will be conducted in detail, until further notice, without deviation, as follows:

New forms, greatly condensed, of applications for new buildings and alterations have been provided (none of the old forms for such propositions will be hereafter accepted), and the so-called "New Building Slip" and "Alteration Slip" application blanks have been eliminated, thereby reducing the number of forms for this class of construction and reconstruction work to new building, brick, new building, frame, and alteration blanks.

Amendments, as to filing, shall be treated as applications, taking application numbers, instead of, as heretofore, receiving a distinct series of numbers.

No application shall be accepted unless the property comprehended is described, in addition to its metes and bounds, by street number.

"No application shall go to an inspector for report, preparatory to examination, unless found necessary, and so directed, by examiners.

"No application shall be received unless the attached affidavit form is complete, and no affidavit on application forms shall be taken by bureau employees. (Affidavits of plumbers on permits will continue to be taken here.)

Every inspector's report shall describe the individual piece of property he refers to by street number, as well as by metes and bounds, and any report not so arranged shall not be accepted.

All tenement house plans and permits shall be accepted at the application desk by clerk one, with the assistance of clerk three, and filed in a special compartment, there to await the filing of the Bureau of Building's applications for the property they describe, when they shall be immediately attached to the latter papers and promptly forwarded through regular channels.

All applications shall be received, as heretofore, at the application desk, then numbere, as heretofore, sequentially, and entered in the application record by clerk one, who will hold them until four o'clock, P. M., while the bureau's closing hour is five o'clock P. M., and three o'clock, P. M., while the bureau's closing hour is four o'clock P. M., of the day of receipt, he will make the date of receipt of applications received after the time indicated, the following day), at which hour, as the case may be, he will, with the aid of clerks two and three and inspector one, convey them to clerk four, in the plan examiner's room, accompanied by a transfer sheet, showing applications by numbers and locations (printed forms provided) received that day.

(The other captioned columns on these transfer sheet forms will be ignored by clerk one.)

Clerk four will promptly check the receipt of each application thus delivered to him on the transfer sheet, and then, under the direction of the chief plan examiner he will distribute those applications among the various examiners, making proper notations in the appropriately captioned columns on the transfer sheet.

After applications have been examined, on notice from the examiners, clerk four will gather them together, note on the transfer sheet, under column captioned "mailed for correction," the date of mailing (if corrections are demanded), and at four o'clock each day transfer such applications to the chief clerk, who will have the notations relating to corrections typewritten on a form provided, in duplicate, and the chief clerk will return to clerk four such applications with original duplicate copies of statement of corrections the duplicate of which clerk four will mail to architects and the original of which he will paste in the applications on which they bear.

At three-thirty o'clock P. M., each day clerk five will have so arranged his regular work that he will report to clerk four to assist him in transferring to the chief clerk these applications and clerk five will dictate to a typewriter the architect's communications and promptly thereafter forward the applications so treated to clerks two and three and inspector one to file in alphabetically arranged compartments to await the call of architects.

Examiners will positively make a complete examination of all applications and plans, and not send such through for transfer on the first error they detect, to the end that the first notices to architects shall embody all corrections required.

Applications sent for correction more than three times to be disapproved.

At four o'clock, P. M., on the day that corrected applications have been returned, clerks two and three and inspector one will transfer them to clerk four who will note their return on the transfer sheet and distribute them to the respective examiners. This method will continue unremittingly as long as the applications are in process of correction, but no application shall be returned for correction more than three times, and if an application reaches clerk four for correction more than three times, he shall call it to the attention of the chief examiner, who will promptly disprove it, because of excessive correction, clerk four thereupon marking his transfer sheet under caption "permit number" with the stamp "disapproved, excessive correction.....19...."

As soon as applications shall have been approved, they shall be collected by clerk four, who will number them as permits, perfect his transfer sheet, and at four o'clock, P. M., on the day of approval, forward the original copies of permits and plans to the chief clerk, the duplicate copies of permit and plans to the assistant superintendent, for delivery to the applicant, and the inspectors' copies of permits to inspector two, for transfer to district inspectors, with separate memorandum of tenement house permits, that may be among the complement, by number and location, for notation in the tenement house certificate record, and also mail post card to architects notifying them of the approval of their application by application and permit number.

(Thence on, the original copies of permits will reach the bureau's files under the system heretofore in vogue.)

All applications to be finally disposed of every two months.

The new APPLICATION BOOK, which goes into operation to-day, is to be directly under the care of clerk six, who will see that it is kept complete up to within two months of date, to the end that it will show at the close of February, and thereafter at the close of every subsequent two months, the disposition of every application filed, indicating in the column provided for the purpose, one or another, as the papers demand, of these notations, rubber stamps for which have been provided.

1. Permit number.
   Number to be inserted.
2. Withdrawn.
   Date to be inserted.
3. Denied—Section.
   Date to be inserted.
4. Disapproved—Excessive correction.
   Date to be inserted.
5. Letter of Inquiry to Architect.
   Date to be inserted.
6. Denied—Inactivity.
   Date to be inserted.

All applications lying inactive in the bureau's files for two months from date of filing, shall be listed by daily process by clerk six, collected by him, assorted and bundled as to character, in numerical order, their application book lines marked with the fifth indicated stamp and deposited with the chief clerk, who will at once forward letters of inquiry as to the intended disposition of such applications to the respective architects, such letters clearly stating that no reply within one week of the communication's date will result in the applications mentioned being disapproved.

At the expiration of the week provided for architect's replies, clerk six will list, in classified form, all such applications with reference to which no expression of intention has been received, and those which the superintendent may determine should be disposed of, make into a single package (all copies and plans), and deliver to the chief clerk for disposition. The chief clerk will then arrange to have all such applications disapproved by the chief examiner, and, furnished with a copy of the list thereof, clerk six will mark with the disapproved stamp the appropriate column on the applications' entry line in the application book, without obliterating the stamp impression as to the letters to architects, and a similiar copy to clerk four will operate as the basis for like notation on transfer sheet. This action shall be final.

By written receipt only can an application once recorded be removed from the bureau's care.

No application shall be removed for observation, or consideration, or correction or for any other purpose, under any circumstances, for, or at the request of, other than bureau employees, from its files, without a written receipt therefor—nor by bureau employees without substituting a written memorandum therefore—and when such a receipt is received, it shall be deposited in the filing cabinet back of the application desk, in its alphabetical compartment, there to remain until the application for which it has been exchanged has been returned, when it will be given to the person returning such application.

Clerks two and three and inspector one will be held to a strict accountability for any missing applications that are awaiting corrections or final disposition in the files back of the application desk for which no written receipts can be found. A condition of this kind discovered at the end of each two months from date of filing will be reported by clerk six to the chief clerk.

NEW SINGLE CARD REFERENCE.

From this date single index cards, showing in ready reference form all relations of the bureau with the particular pieces of property they respectively describe, shall be kept by clerk seven (typewritten) and detailing the property as to:

With Law Dept. (date).
Demolition permit (number, if any).
Ten. House permit (if any).
Correspondence No. (if any).

and any other notations that may be found advisable.

To this end each day at four o'clock, clerk six will deliver to clerk seven a complete transcript of the application record for that day, numerically arranged, and a complete list of book slip permits issued that day, and clerk seven, making sure that all application numbers are accounted for, shall prepare a card for each location on such lists, inserting thereon the application number as the beginning of the reference. The chief clerk at four o'clock each day will forward to clerk seven a complete list of permits issued that day for entry on this card, and clerk eight will furnish clerk six at like time, with a complete list of all violation notices issued each day. A complete list of reports filed each day, clerk nine will get from his own records. Clerk nine will follow this plan with reference to correspondence and will also, at four o'clock each day, report to clerk seven to assist him in perfecting this card index.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

ARCHITECTURAL LEAGUE.—The regular monthly meeting of the Architectural League and National Sculpture Society will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 13, at 8.30 o'clock. The subject will be "The Victor Emmanuel Monument in Rome." This colossal work, now nearly completed, will at this meeting (for the first time either here or abroad) be set forth by the only set of complete scale and detail drawings extant, and by lantern slides of completed parts of the work. Mr. J. M. Berliner, who, with the permission of the Italian Government, has just devoted more than a year to measuring and drawing every part of the monument, will devote an hour to describing the work from its inception to completion, and the members of the league will have their first opportunity to judge its aesthetic value. The scale drawings are remarkable for their draughtsmanship and the Italian Government is negotiating for their purchase for the Museum of Natural Art at Rome. After exhibition here they will be shown in Paris and Berlin. Horace Moran is chairman of the Current Work Committee, Architectural League, and Stowe Phelps is secretary. Solon H. Borglum is chairman of the Current Work Committee, National Sculptural Society, and Isidore Konti is secretary.

NATIONAL BUILDERS' SUPPLY ASSOCIATION.—The members of the National Builders' Supply Association will hold their annual convention Feb. 17 and 18, with headquarters at the Hotel La Salle, Chicago, Ill. The first afternoon of the convention will be left open for a general visit to the Cement Show, which will occur in the Coliseum at that time. If the plans of the Board of Directors meet with the success now expected small dealers will be an important factor in the coming convention. As the dues of the association have been reduced it is expected that this will be the means of bringing many dealers into the organization who heretofore have felt that they were not doing sufficient business to justify them in affiliating with the supply association.

SECOND MIDWINTER CONVENTION will be held in the Engineering Societies Buildiug, at 29 West 39th st., New York City, Feb. 25-27, under the auspices of the Electric Power Committee. The general subject of the meeting will be "electric power," and each of the sub-committees will present papers on the special branch under its jurisdiction. The subdivisions of the subject are: (1) power stations; (2) power generation; (3) protective apparatus; (4) transmission; (5) distribution; (6) economics, and (7) engineering data. A full list of the papers to be presented at this meeting is not available at this time, but a complete program of the convention will be published in the February issue of the "Preceedings."

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—The sixty-first annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 21 and 22, 1914, at the society house in New York City. The business meeting will be called to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The annual reports will be read, officers for the coming year elected, reports of special committees presented for discussion and other business transacted. Three special meetings will be held on the two days following the annual meeeting. The topic for discussion will be "Road Construction and Maintenance."

QUEENS DINNER.—Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the Third Annual Dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, which will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 20, 1914. Martin W. Littleton, Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port of New York; Congressman Lathrop Brown, Congressman Denis O'Leary and George V. S. Williams, Public Service Commissioner.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS.—The second annual midwinter convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will be held in the Engineering Societies Building, New York, February 25, 26 and 27, under the auspices of the Electric Power Committee. The general subject of the meeting will be "Electric Power," and each of the sub-committees of this general committee will present papers on the special branch of this subject.

BUILDING TRADES EMPLOYERS.—The annual convention of the National Building Trades and Employers' Association will be held in Louisville, Ky., Jan. 21-23 next. Officers of the National Association are: President, Herbert J. West, West Construction Co., Baltimore, Md.; secretary, I. H. Scates, secretary of Baltimore Builders' Exchange.

GREAT NECK'S FINE HOMES.

Good Examples of Residential Architecture—A Waterside Park.

One of the oldest villages on Long Island is the village of Great Neck, situated in the center of the Great Neck peninsula on the North Shore of Long Island, one of the most picturesque localities within easy reach of the centre of business activity of Manhattan. It has been making rapid advancement in recent years, and is now the centre for many of the most notable estates on Long Island—the Gould-Brokaw, Eldridge, Bradley Martin, Cord Meyer, Grace, Gilbert and Vanderbilt being a few on the long list of which mention might be made.

The village is an interesting place, with its country stores, in which may be found goods and supplies to meet all the requirements of the average household. Great Neck peninsula projects into Long Island Sound to a length of four miles, with Manhasset Bay to the east and Little Neck Bay on the west, the distance across the peninsula being about two miles. The land is rolling, with a moderate elevation and well wooded with stately old trees.

This section of wooded hills and attractive waters is but fourteen miles from Manhattan, just beyond the city line, and is developing as a favorite home place for New Yorkers. The religious, educational and social advantages are of the best.

The harbor and waterfront park on the Kensington property is an innovation in high-class suburban real estate development. The park contains a casino, bath-house, bathing beach, swimming-pool and tennis court, and there is ten feet of water in the harbor to accommodate all motor boats and steam and sailing yachts except those of the largest size.

Great Neck is fast becoming the criterion for fine architecture in home construction. Among the houses already erected are some very good examples of Southern, New England, Dutch Colonial, Spanish and Italian Renaissance and English half-timber and Georgian architecture. These types of architecture have been especially applied to the Kensington property, developed by the Rickert-Finlay Realty Company, which property contains 135 acres and extends from Little Neck Road to the Shore Road at Manhasset Bay. Located on one of the highest hills in the Great Neck section, 140 feet above tide water, it affords views of Manhasset, Port Washington and the Wheatley Hills. About 40 acres are covered with forest trees and the drives are lined with old mapes, elms and lindens planted over fifty years ago. This property has been laid out into a private park, the object being to create ideal conditions for a colony of congenial people among refined surroundings.

Brooklyn Mortgage Market.

"The sale of mortgages in Brooklyn for the month of December has been more than satisfactory, both in amount, in variety of character and in number," says James H. McCormick, general manager of the Lawyers' Title Insurance & Trust Company. "We find that the demand for mortgage investments in certain parts of the borough are far in excess of our supply. It has been very apparent that the loans that have been sold this month have been sold with greater ease than for some time past, and, further, the sale of the guaranteed form of investment has exceeded our most sanguine expectations.

"The marketing of guaranteed mortgages is entirely a new departure for this company. It was not our intention to begin selling the guaranteed form until January 1, but circumstances compelled us to begin a month earlier, and the result has been that we have sold guaranteed mortgages in an amount exceeding $1,000,000 in Manhattan, Brooklyn and The Bronx."

The New Aqueduct.

The tunnel through which the waters from the Catskills will shortly flow varies from fifteen feet in diameter in its upper part to eleven feet at its extremity. Through it cars could be run and companies of soldiers march with ease from Yonkers to Brooklyn.

The last heading to be driven through is on the contract of the Pittsburgh Contracting Company, in the upper part of Manhattan, between shafts 8 and 9 and the final union will be made on St. Nicholas avenue, near 171st street.

—Lawson Purdy, president of the Tax Board, says that while the market is not active, there is no reason for those who own property outside of these small depressed sections for feeling any gloominess over the future.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

INDUSTRIAL DRIFT TO FAR WEST SIDE

A Remarkable Series of Huge Structures Rising There For Shippers and Manufacturers of Food Products—Old Chelsea's Appeal For Modern Houses.

A BUILDING movement is gathering momentum on the far West Side of the city that is unlike any that preceded it elsewhere in the city. West of Ninth avenue and north of 14th street to 59th lies a broad, colorless region about which little was said in real estate circles until a short while ago, and which seemed to have little to say for itself. Other parts of the great city were coming on the map and having their successive periods of rapid development and prosperity (with much publicity concerning their advantages from local boosting and protective associations), but for fifty years the Middle West Side merely stood pat and had nothing to say.

The building movement that has started there has been exclusively for business purposes so far, being particularly actuated by heavy shippers, manufacturers and jobbers—who, in many cases, have their principal offices and salesrooms in more central locations but are erecting great warehouses over there because space costs less and because here they are close to freight terminals—domestic and foreign.

They have in mind the time when American producers will take more account of world commerce; but, whatever the reasons may all be, there has been a marked inclination for a year or more on the part of big firms to create auxiliary accommodations over on the far West Side. Some observers have divided the movement into two parts, with 42d street as the line of division, thinking that they perceive in the new building activity north of 42d street a gathering together there of the largest distributors of food products and other household supplies, while south of 42d street the accessions are more varied. But to others it seems that anywhere in the territory west of Ninth avenue a great steel structure is likely to arise for almost any industrial purpose, and nearly always for the exclusive use of one firm.

The Pioneers.

The first corporation to whom credit must be given for foreseeing this movement in the section north of 42d street is the Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company, which some years ago established offices and a distributing plant in West 57th street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues. The Mason-Seaman Transportation Company followed. A group of buildings in 57th street was built by G. Schoch between Tenth and Eleventh avenues. Park & Tilford put up an immense building in 42d street through to 43d street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues. The Auerbach candy factory is at 47th street and Eleventh avenue, and the Standard Mail Order Building, 225 feet front and twelve stories high, is in 55th street between Ninth and Tenth avenues.

Efficiency in Equipment.

Every building has been designed for a definite purpose and is fitted in the most scientific manner to perform its duty. Commercial architecture has become a fine science as well as a fine art. The new ten-story warehouse of W. & J. Sloane in 29th street, adjoining the corner of Eleventh avenue, has a most remarkable equipment, besides being organically fireproof. It has automatic fire-alarms and sprinklers, power vacuum cleaners, tungsten lights, restaurants for the employes, and forty-two electric motors to perform various functions in the sewing, pressing and handling of carpets and rugs. A remarkable feature of the ninth and tenth floors is that each consists of large pillarless rooms, 96x84 feet in dimensions.

Almost a Total Glass Exterior.

From far across the city can be seen the steel frame of a giant building rising at Tenth avenue and 36th street for John A. Hill, publisher of the Engineering News and other journals. The architects, Goldwin Starrett & Van Vleck, have provided the plans for a twelve-story skyscraper, in which seventy-eight per cent. of the walls will be of plate glass. All the floors will be rubber-tiled; the interior air will be cooled and washed, and vibration in the building will be eliminated. The power plant, will be the most complete of its kind in the city. The building alone will cost $650,000.

Buildings like these are being erected on the distant West Side where nobody is accustomed to go except on business. Their size and splendid construction is remarkable.

Isaac A. Hopper (Inc.), as owner and builder, finished in September a great twelve-story building, 200x112, with an extension 25x75 feet, at 423 to 439 West 55th street that cost $600,000 for the construction alone. The Standard Mail Order Company purchased and is now occupying this building. Not a bit of wood went into its construction except on the first floor, which is eighteen feet high. Not only is the structure fireproof, but it is provided with a fire-tower and a sprinkler system as well. Except in the facade, the windows are of wireglass in hollow metal frames. On the second floor is a special storeroom that is absolutely unburnable, even should the contents of the rest of the floor be swept by flames. Five lines of fireproof stairways and eight elevators represent the means of exit.

The National Biscuit Company has covered a whole block on Tenth avenue between 15th and 16th streets, and notable buildings have also been erected by the Moore estate, the Baker-Williams Corporation, Simon Zinn, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, New York Central Railroad Company, Otis Elevator Company, H. H. Uris, Charles Hofferberth, Heywood, Strasser & Voigt, McKeon Realty Company, and St. John's Park Realty Company. The list could be considerably extended by including smaller structures.

The Moore estates, represented for three-quarters of a century by the firm of James N. Wells' Sons, agents, are the largest landowners in the Chelsea section, and are active in improving works. They have just completed the ten-story building at 521 and 523 West 23d street, and it is three-quarters rented already. The disposition of the Moore estates to respond to the needs of the business community contributes greatly to its growth.

A New Spirit.

In consequence of the many evidences of a new appreciation of the West Side for business purposes, a new spirit has taken hold of property owners there, and in the Chelsea neighborhood particularly an association has been formed with permanent offices at 1182 Broadway and an executive secretary (Arthur M. East) put in charge to encourage the erection of modern apartment houses and tenements and to obtain these other objects: better lighted and cleaner streets, more police protection, more parks and playgrounds, recreation piers, and increased neighborhood pride and loyalty.

Just at the time when Chelsea's commercial and manufacturing activities are increasing, the industrial population is moving away because they cannot find modern homes and tenements in the district. They would prefer to live within walking distance of their work but cannot put up with the antiquated dwellings that make up block after block of the section. In some of these houses water is supplied by a pump in the backyard. Many Chelsea blocks, on the other hand, are ideally situated for modern tenements for the industrial population. The Neighborhood Association is striving to interest capitalists to meet this demand and has also undertaken a social work that will make social centers of the schools organize leagues of boys and girls and put flower boxes in Chelsea's monotonous windows.

"We are organizing, as far as we can, on the block system," said Secretary East. "The residents of a block are organized into a unit, with a captain. If anything goes wrong in that block, the member reports it to his captain. It then comes direct to our general office, and the complaint is referred to the standing committee on its particular subject."

It is then up to that committee to do its best to relieve the situation. Block membership localizes the responsibility. A man is supposed to see that things are going right in his own block, and report when they are not going right.

STANDARD MAIL ORDER BUILDING.

—Local agents predict that the northern part of Long Island City will be the scene of a great building movement before the year closes.

THE DARING OF PUEBLO.

Colorado City Begins Single Tax System—Victory Won by a Youth.

Pueblo, Colo.—This city has entered upon her first experience in that new and promising scheme of taxation known as the "single tax." By virtue of an expression of the people's will, made at the polls at the general election recently closed, one of the most progressive amendments ever formulated has been tacked to the city charter. This amendment provided that, after a certain period of time shall have elapsed, there shall be, in Pueblo, no more taxation of real estate improvements, personal property or bank deposits—with the exception of 1 per cent on the value of the first. The Commerce Club, backed by the real estate exchange, is already preparing literature to be sent to the four corners of the continent calling attention to Pueblo's daring.

Youth Did It.

To a mere youth, George J. Knapp, belongs the distinction of bringing Pueblo to the single tax—a thing old politicians held impossible. Knapp is only 26 and never saw the inside of a college, but he has read libraries of books on economics. He came to Pueblo five years ago for his health. Without funds and without friends—for nobody knew the wan-faced stranger—he started in to battle for health. When he had succeeded in completely routing the army of bacteria that was destroying him he started a new fight—the fight for the adoption of the single tax in the big City of Pueblo.

An "Angel."

It was Mrs. J. M. Gallup, wife of one of Pueblo's leading business men, who came to his rescue in the long run. When she learned of the struggle that Knapp was having to keep his head above water she opened her home to him.

Knapp discovered in the 20th amendment to the State constitution a clause that would allow Pueblo to affix an amendment of its own to the city charter. Immediately he wrote a petition, which he circulated to secure signatures to insure a place for the new amendment on the ballot at the next election. In the end 2,000 signatures were affixed to the petitions. At the ensuing election the single tax amendment carried by over 600 majority—a large one, considering that only something like 3,500 voters cast ballots that day.

Pastoriza Helped.

In the pre-election campaign Knapp was assisted greatly by Tax Commissioner J. J. Pastoriza of Houston, Texas. Pastoriza is an ardent single-taxer and came here at his own expense to help the cause. Since the results of the campaign are becoming known, letters are being received from all over the country asking for particulars and containing invitations to come and conduct similar campaigns. But Knapp announces that he will remain in Pueblo.

"I promised the people of Pueblo that certain improvements in the general prosperity of the city and her people would follow the adoption of the single tax," he said recently, "and it is up to me to make good. We have all got to make good, and we are going to make good, and Pueblo is going to become the manufacturing center of the West, as well as the financial metropolis of the West. I shall continue to fight for the true greatness of Pueblo."

—The local financial situation is sound and is likely to strengthen in the first few months of the new year. From a worldwide viewpoint the United States is in better financial and commercial condition than any country.

BUILDINGS WILL BE BETTER TENANTED

Under the New Occupancy Law, Which Limits the Number of Operatives in Factories—Most Manufacturers Will Need More Space.

A SECTION of the factory laws which did not go into effect last October will be enforcible after February 1 next. This is Section 79-e, limiting the number of occupants in factory buildings. In general, it limits the number of persons to fourteen for every twenty-two inches of stairway, in buildings hereafter erected, and to fourteen persons for every eighteen inches of stairway in buildings heretofore erected.

Allowances are made on account of extra height of ceiling, enclosed fireproof stairways and stairhalls, horizontal exits, firewalls and automatic sprinkler systems. Horizontal exits will in many cases be very easy to effect and will no doubt be much resorted to as a means of compliance with the law. Otherwise the enforcement of the law will cause many alterations and changes and not a few removals where existing leases will permit.

Just how extensive the readjustments will have to be cannot be gauged in advance, but judging from the moderation which has characterized the exercise of power by the State Industrial Board so far, real estate owners and building managers are inclined to the belief that the consequences to them will not be so severe as at first was feared.

Average Width of Stairways.

An investigation by the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings several years ago disclosed that the average width of stairs in loft buildings was three feet. The bureau then issued an order that the minimum width in buildings thereafter erected should be three feet four inches. The new factory law requires a minimum stairway width of forty-four inches. On the basis of fourteen persons to every eighteen inches of stairway width in existing buildings, only twenty-eight persons will ordinarily be allowed to be employed on a floor where there is but one line of stairs. The former (city) law, however, required two continuous lines of stairs remote from each other in buildings having an area exceeding two thousand five hundred feet and not exceeding five thousand feet; and one continuous line of stairs for each additional five thousand square feet of area.

Expand or Move.

As practically all the shops in the newer buildings are equipped with sprinkler systems, it is apparent that under ordinarily favorable conditions only 114 persons may be employed on a 100x100 ft. floor space, and the net result must be that many of the larger textile manufacturers will be obliged to do one of three things: (1) take more space in buildings where they are now doing business if obtainable, (2) move to larger quarters elsewhere, or (3) reduce the number of their employes. Almost certainly there is involved on the whole an increased demand for loft space, which is not a disagreeable outlook for real estate owners.

Will Restore a Normal Level.

Those concerns which have been crowding into the Fifth avenue section and occupying space far too small for their business will now be forced to move to less expensive neighborhoods and be succeeded by firms employing fewer people and perhaps in a different line of business. Buildings which were never intended for factories will be rented for offices and showrooms, and it follows that the congestion on the sidewalks will be very much lessened. Should many concerns employing labor from the lower East Side find it necessary to move back below 14th street, there would be no surprise in real estate circles. The restoration of a normal level of occupancy should not be adverse to the interests of property, if accompanied by a redistribution of tenants through both new and old districts.

Text of the Law.

79-E. Limitation of Number of Occupants.—The number of persons who may occupy any factory building or portion thereof above the ground floor shall be limited to such a number as can safely escape from such building by the means of exit provided in the building.

1. In buildings hereafter erected no more than fourteen persons shall be employed or permitted or suffered to work on any one floor for every full twenty-two inches in width of stairway conforming to the requirements for a required means of exit except as to extension to the roof, provided for such floor. No allowance shall be made for any excess in width of less than twenty-two inches.

2. In buildings heretofore erected no more than fourteen persons shall be employed or permitted or suffered to work on any one floor for every eighteen inches in width of stairway provided for such floor and conforming to the requirements for a required means of exit except as to extension to the roof, and for any excess in width of less than eighteen inches, a proportionate increase in the number of occupants shall be allowed. Where the industrial board shall find that the safety of the occupants of any such building will not be endangered thereby, it may allow an increase in the number of occupants of any floor in such building to a number not greater than at the rate of twenty persons for every eighteen inches in width of such stairway provided for such floor, with a proportionate increase in the number of occupants for an excess in width of less than eighteen inches.

3. In any building for every additional sixteen inches over ten feet in height between two floors, one additional person may be employed on the upper of such floors for every eighteen inches in width of stairway leading therefrom to the lower of such floors in buildings heretofore erected, and one for every twenty-two inches in width of such stairway in buildings hereafter erected, provided that such stairways conform to the requirements for required means of exit except as to extension to the roof.

Winding Stairs Penalized.

4. In any building, if any stairway has steps of the type known as "winders," a deduction of ten per centum shall be made in counting the capacity of such stairway.

5. In any building where the stairways and stairhalls are enclosed in fireproof partitions or where, at the time this act takes effect, the stairways and stairhalls are enclosed in partitions of brick, concrete, terra-cotta blocks or reinforced concrete constructed in a manner heretofore approved by the Superintendents of Buildings of the city of New York having jurisdiction if in such city, or elsewhere in the State, in a manner conforming to the rules and regulations to be adopted by the Industrial Board under the provisions of subdivision two of section seventy-nine-b, all openings in which enclosing partitions are or shall hereafter be provided with fireproof doors, in either of such cases so many additional persons may be employed on any floor as can occupy the enclosed stairhall or halls on that floor, allowing five square feet of unobstructed floor space per person.

Horizontal Exits.

6. In any building where a horizontal exit is provided on any floor such number of persons may be employed on such floor as can occupy the smaller of the two spaces on such floor on either side of the fireproof partitions or fire walls, or as can occupy the floor of an adjoining or near-by building which is connected floor in such adjoining or nearby the wall or walls between the buildings or by exterior balconies or bridges, in addition to the occupants of such connected floor in such adjoining or nearby building, allowing five square feet of unobstructed floor space per person, provided that the partitions or walls or balconies through which the horizontal exit is provided to such other portion of the same building or to such adjoining or nearby building shall have doorways of sufficient width to allow eighteen inches in width of opening for each fifty persons or fraction thereof so permitted to be employed on such floor, in the case of horizontal exits heretofore constructed, and twenty-two inches in the case of horizontal exits hereafter constructed.

Fire-Wall Allowances.

Section 7 provides that in buildings where there is a firewall such number of persons may be employed on each floor as can occupy the smaller of the two spaces on either side of the will, allowing five square feet of floor space for each person.

Section 8 makes an allowance of fifty per centum in favor of buildings having automatic sprinklers.

Section 9 limits the number of persons who may be employed on any one floor to thirty-six feet per person, if the building is not of fireproof construction, and to thirty-two feet of floor space per person if the building is of fireproof construction.

Section 10 gives the Industrial Board power to say how many persons may occupy a floor where there is more than one tenant on that floor.

Section 11 requires that notices shall be posted in factories stating the number of persons that may lawfully be employed on a floor.

AGAINST CONFISCATION BY TAXATION

Prof. Clark, of Columbia, and Prof. Johnson, of New York University, Point Out the Evils that Follow from Halving the Tax on Buildings.

THE Single Tax movement has obtained a strong start this year in its campaign of agitation in behalf of legislation favorable to its cause. Through platform and press the attention of the public is being persistently sought and it is announced that a banquet will be tendered to Governor Glynn and members of the Senate and Assembly at the Hotel Brevoort in this city on January 30, to which Mayor Mitchel, the Borough Presidents and other city officials have been invited by the Society to Reduce Taxation and Lower Rents.

In the real estate department of the Evening Globe the questions in controversy have been the subject of a discussion, notable contributions to which will appear in this evening's editions from Prof. Joseph Francis Johnson of New York University and Prof. J. B. Clark of Columbia University, eminent authorities on the subject of taxation, who will present arguments against the theories that the single-taxers have espoused and also advise strongly against the popular referendum which has been suggested. With the permission of the Globe we are able to present from the advance proofs a summary of the papers by Prof. Johnson and Prof. Clark which will appear in full in the Globe.

Prof. Johnson's Arraignment.

The most active supporters of the Sullivan-Shortt bill are well known advocates of the single-tax theory of Henry George, and this fact has been the basis for the most common, if not the weightiest, objection to it, its opponents stigmatizing it as the entering wedge of the single tax. This particular objection, of course, I need not discuss. Whether or not the measure savors of the single tax is of small consequence.

Many remarkable claims are made for this measure. In New York City and other large cities special emphasis is laid on the contention that it will lessen the congestion of population because of the stimulus it will give to construction and the consequent reduction of rent. It is contended further that it will release large sums of capital for use in building and general purposes; that it will reduce speculation in land; that it will cause vacant lots quite generally to be improved; that it will bring more and cheaper land into the market for business uses, so that cities adopting it will be specially attractive to manufacturers, and finally that the fact of its gradual introduction will give small holders time in which to make improvements and thus take advantage of the new law.

Beyond question, the reduction of the tax rate upon real estate improvements would tend toward a reduction of building rents, for the land owner would be called upon to bear a larger share of the tax burden, thus lessening the contribution which is forced from the tenants in the guise of rent. But there is no reason for believing that there would be less congestion of population in our large cities. The argument seems to lie all the other way, for a land owner would obviously be under inducement to erect the highest possible structure in order that he might secure a return from his building sufficient to make compensation for the increased tax upon the land. Ground rents would certainly not be reduced by the change.

Rents Would Not Fall.

On the contrary, there is a possibility that ground rents would be increased. And this certainly would be the case if the stimulus to building were sufficient to bring into demand much land that is now vacant. But the lessees of land, whether they pay the present or the higher ground rent, will be driven by competition to exploit the land to the full limit allowed by law. It seems inevitable, therefore, that the proposed reduction in the building tax would have the effect of making our large cities more compact and condensed than at present, with the poorer classes herded more closely than now in tenement houses in no respect better than those which they at present occupy. It is true, however, that the rent per square foot of all buildings would probably be somewhat less than under the present system, and that the rich as well as the poor would share in the benefit.

A False Hypothesis.

The contention that most of the vacant lots in our cities would be improved will not bear analysis. There will, of course, be no increase in population as a result of the change, and no increase in the amount of capital available for building construction. Builders may, indeed, at first be tempted to offer higher rates of interest, and thus they may draw capital away from other industries. But this will increase their costs and so lessen their ability to attract tenants by the offer of lower rents. Many of our large cities, notably New York City, are already overbuilt. This condition is almost a chronic one, so keen and unceasing is the competition among builders and land owners.

They are always discounting the growth of a city, and are erecting buildings this year in the hope that developments will furnish them with tenants next year, or with confidence that certain little changes in style or conveniences will attract tenants from older buildings. This is speculative building, to be sure, but it is always under way, and would be neither lessened nor increased by a shifting of a portion of the tax from the building to the land.

Vacant Lot Values.

Vacant lots in the most desirable locations, such as those nearest the residential or business centres, would doubtless be improved earlier than under the present system of taxation. But the lots less advantageously situated, especially the land on the outskirts of a city, where now houses with dooryards and gardens are possible, would be less attractive to a building company than at present, especially if it were planning homes for the poorer classes, for it would be necessary to crowd the houses and condense the dooryards and gardens so that the homes would be less saleable.

The advocates of the measure argue that the small holder of land during the five-year period of the introduction of the new tax system would have an opportunity to make improvements and at the end be in a position to reap all the advantages of a building owner. This argument, you will observe, assumes that there is an unlimited demand for building space, provided only that a certain reduction of rent can be secured. It also assumes that the small owner will be able to get the necessary capital. There is no warrant for either of these assumptions; since we know that many small owners of unimproved land are at present barely able to pay taxes and interest charges, it is morally certain that a change in the law such as is proposed would bring a foreclosure of many small mortgages and financial distress to the property owners.

Prof. Clark's Arguments.

The imposition of the tax in its full rigor would be the greatest measure of confiscation of which I have any knowledge in connection with modern history. It would fall chiefly on the lower middle class and on an elite portion of the working class, though a very considerable part of the upper middle class and a few of the very wealthy would also be involved.

It would take property which millions of people have paid for from the proceeds of labor. In my judgment that one fact is entirely sufficient to rule it out from consideration so long as the measure makes no provision for compensating its victims. Of the benefits which are supposed to flow from it, some are entirely illusory and, in so far as they are concerned, the measure, if introduced, would be a blank disappointment. The end in view as the result of a great robbery would not be realized.

A Colossal Robbery.

Of the twelve benefits which, in the lists submitted to me, and specified as the probable results of the measure, one-half are completely illusory. These benefits of a colossal robbery would certainly not be realized. The other half would either not be realized at all or not in any considerable degree. Whatever of benefit could reasonably be expected on any large scale would consist in the possibility of abolishing indirect taxes which affect the cost of living.

The present measure does not carry with it all the evils of the single tax, but is a partial application of that principle, and, as far as it goes, would entail a measure of the same evils. The worst feature of it, however, consists in what it foreshadows in the future. It is supported by single taxers, who undoubtedly wish to have the milder confiscation which this measure involves carried farther, till it shall become the sweeping and drastic measure advocated by the followers of Henry George. This great original advocate of the plan once made in public and in my hearing an answer to a question which throws light on this aspect of the subject. He was asked whether seizing the entire rent of land would be just to persons who had recently purchased it, and his reply was: "If any one is a great enough fool to buy a piece of land when the measure is imminent, he deserves no sympathy."

THE NEXT REGISTER OF NEW YORK

His Boyhood in Old Harlem—Hunted Rabbits in 125th Street—Old Ways of Local Travel—Achievements of an Engineer and Contractor.

John J. Hopper, who took office as the Register of New York County at the first of the year, comes of a very old New York family, the history of which is closely woven with that of the growth and development of Harlem.

As early as 1674 it is recorded that John Hopper settled at Flushing, L. I. Later there is mention of the Hopper home at Paramus, N. J., west of Hackensack. Mr. Hopper's maternal grandfather, Richard Tone, excavated the cellar for the present City Hall, and used the spoil to fill in the old canal in Canal street; he also leveled Madison Square, using the dirt to fill in the old pond at 24th street and Third avenue.

Old Playgrounds Built Over.

Mr. Hopper's early education was obtained at the public schools of Harlem, and not only has he lived to see the fields where he and his schoolmates played become solidly built over, but he in no small degree contributed to this development. Mr. Hopper's father and uncle used to shoot rabbits in 125th street on the site of the present Empire Bank. In talking about these early days, Mr. Hopper said:

"The site now occupied by the Convent of the Sacred Heart at 135th street and Convent avenue was the old Lorillard estate, on which both my grandfathers did work in the building and contracting line. When the estate was bought by the convent my grandfather and father helped in the construction of the convent building, when the old building burnt down my brother rebuilt the present building.

"In my time the estate used to come down to 126th street, where at Convent avenue there was a lodge-keeper's stone-house at the entrance gate, and the road up to the convent entered here and wound up the hill about where St. Nicholas Terrace now is.

The First Horse Cars.

"To show how Harlem has grown, even in my time: I remember that when the Eighth avenue horse cars first came up to 125th street (I then lived near Central Bridge) it was a gala day for us, for then we had only a mile and a half to walk to take a conveyance to get downtown.

"The only other means of going downtown then were the Hudson River Railroad, which went down as far as 30th street, and the old horse stages, which went down Broadway from Carmensville and Manhattanville to 30th street and Broadway. In winter there were four horse sleighs with straw in the bottom to keep our feet warm.

"The finest way to get downtown, however, and the one that the business men availed themselves of, was the line of steamers that sailed from 129th street and Third avenue to Peck's Slip. This was really a beautiful sail and took about an hour, and you could read your papers and talk with comfort no matter what the weather was. The steamers were called the Sylvan Stream, Sylvan Dell and Sylvan Grove. On Sundays and holidays these boats ran up to High Bridge to accommodate the picnickers.

"The fourth method of going downtown was the Third avenue cars. In winter each car had a little stove in the corner and straw in the bottom supposed to keep your feet warm but which was not always in the most sanitary condition.

"I attended the City College at 23d street and Lexington avenue, and in going to school I had to walk from the Central Bridge along the banks of the Harlem River (in the spring and fall it was a beautiful walk along the country lane lined with apple trees) and then take the Third avenue cars to 23d street, paying one cent more than the nickel for going below 65th street station.

"The other and last means of getting

JOHN J. HOPPER.
Register New York County.

downtown was the Harlem Railroad, which ran on the surface of the street down Park avenue to some place below 42d street.

Recollections of 125th Street.

"In the same time, during my boyhood days, 125th street was the only street that ran from river to river—that is, 125th street and Manhattan street; 125th street ran from Third avenue to Eighth avenue and was paved with cobble stones that made travelling anything but pleasant. Along 125th street, which was what they called 'built up,' I remember there were four houses to the block—large country square frame houses with about two hundred feet front and orchards surrounding them.

"At this time the fire engines were all manned by volunteers, and the Mount Morris tower bell rang to locate the fire. The bell rang from one to five times, each number designating either Yorkville, Harlem, Bloomingdale, Manhattanville or Carmensville.

"I remember that during the Civil War, when business was dead, my father rang the tower bell. It used to be a great treat for us children to be taken up to the tower in the night where we could look down on the fields and see the gas lamps in the few avenues that were cut through.

"At the base of Mount Morris to the west was the large open field where the celebrated Harlem Baseball Club used to play."

Mr. Hopper later went to Dartmouth College, from which he was graduated in 1877. In his younger days he taught in the same public schools which had been attended by his father and mother and in which his aunts also taught. His professional life was the direct result of a post-graduate course at the Thayer School of Civil Engineering, and soon after completing this course his first work was done as an assistant engineer in laying out the street and sewer system of the Bronx when that section of the city was in its infancy.

Rapid business progress followed, and at the beginning of the construction of the great Manhattan-Bronx subway system he was a contractor of standing. He obtained the contract for building the sections between Broadway and 103d street and Lenox avenue and 135th street. The difficulties of boring a deep tunnel under Central Park, with several sharp curves, were overcome by Mr. Hopper in person. He planned the work so accurately that when the two headings were brought together there was not the variation of an inch.

An Interesting Suburban Development

The Thomas J. Steen Company is making rapid progress with the erection of a group of seventeen houses upon the property of the Everett Realty & Construction Company in Jamaica. This property, which is directly adjacent to the new station at Jamaica, is being developed with brick residences of a high class, under the direction of Electus D. Litchfield, architect, of 477 Fifth avenue, New York. The houses are being built in a simple old-fashioned American Colonial style but have all of the modern improvements. As the Everett Realty & Construction Company is the owner of a large tract of land embracing many blocks, the section promises to be one of the most interesting residential districts on Long Island within the twenty-minute zone from Manhattan.

This is the second or third group of houses which Mr. Litchfield has planned at Jamaica. Each house stands on a city lot, 20x100 feet, and with four of the inside "corner houses" there is sold an additional 10 feet in width, making these plots 30x100 feet. Each house has at the front or side a terrace or covered porch, and in the rear there is an alley for service, and to afford access to a small garage.

Henry Ford's Opinion of Queens Real Estate.

When Henry Ford was in town last week he occupied a suite in the Hotel Belmont from which he could look out upon the East River. A friend who called upon him there found him deeply absorbed in the panorama. One gets a good view of Long Island City from that window, and Mr. Ford could plainly see his company's building looming up beyond the bridge plaza. He remarked to his caller that there is a wonderful future in store for that section, situated, as it is, so close to the heart of Manhattan.

This statement, coupled with the remark attributed to him about the wisdom of his employees investing in real estate in Queens, has given rise to the report that Mr. Ford is seriously contemplating adding extensively to his company's realty holdings in Long Island City. Mr. Ford is known in Detroit as a very shrewd judge of real estate values.

PRECEDENTS IN BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

An Index of All Decisions of the Board of Examiners for 1913, on Appeals From All Boroughs—A Ready Reference for Builders.

By Mrs. M. M. D. CLARK, Secretary.

THE Record and Guide herewith publishes a complete index of all decisions (as well as appeals withdrawn) that have been handed down by the Board of (Building) Examiners of the City of New York during the year 1913. It is a ready reference for architects who may be desirous at any time of quickly ascertaining action on certain appeals for research purposes, or for precedents in building construction. The index gives the number of the appeal, the number designating the plan in the Bureau of Buildings and the year it was filed, the street address of the proposed building, the subject of appeal, the names of the appellants and the decision. The abbreviation, "O. C.," following the word, "Approved" means "On Condition" that certain qualifications fixed by the board will be met. The decisions are divided according to boroughs. The index for 1912 was published in the Record & Guide on page 1203, issue of June 7, 1913.

A Market for High-Class Apartments in Brooklyn.

After looking over the real estate conditions of Greater New York, having some information as to conditions in the five boroughs, and after comparing the statistics that are readily at hand, Vice-President Greve, of the Realty Associates, believes that the situation in the Borough of Brooklyn is better than that in any other of the five boroughs:

"Taking into consideration the values of property in reference to location, in reference to transit facilities, and in reference to those transit facilities particularly that are already under construction or under contract, and considering the plans for the full use of the Manhattan and Williamsburgh bridges and the present-day values of properties located near these new transit developments, it can readily be seen that the possibilities of this borough are very large," said Mr. Greve.

"Many will say that this is an old story, but the story never before had the proper backing—which is, convenient, rapid and good transportation between this borough and the Borough of Manhattan.

"It has always been a burden, and, to say the least, disagreeable, to travel from the Borough of Manhattan to the Borough of Brooklyn, and vice versa. With the transit improvements under way the day is not far distant when this will not be the case. Even at the present time it takes no longer to get to Brooklyn Heights from 34th street, or its vicinity, than it does from 72d street, and land values are a great deal lower. Rents also are correspondingly lower for the same class of improvements. Besides the Heights, the Hill section, Clinton avenue, the St. Marks section (St. Marks avenue) and Park Slope (Prospect Park West) will all be brought in close proximity to the business and theatre districts of the Borough of Manhattan by the new rapid transit lines.

"There is a dearth of high-class apartments in the Borough of Brooklyn and there is a demand for such apartments in good locations. There are many good locations in the Borough of Brooklyn for such apartments, and I believe the financing of such operations will become easy as soon as the success of some of the early ones is attained. There is no doubt that Bing & Bing will be followed by other first-class builders, as I believe the success of their operation, which is about to start, is assured by the fact that all first-class apartments on the Brooklyn Heights are fully rented and that there is a demand for many more."

Agents' Quarterly Reports.

Goodwin & Goodwin, of 260 Lenox avenue, northeast corner of 123d street, have a system whereby they make quarterly reports to their principals showing the physical condition of the premises under their management. The firm believes that it is the paramount duty which real estate agents owe to the owners to safeguard the latters' interests at all times. This not only applies to the customary methods of securing responsible tenants, attending to collections, etc., but also to the general health, as it were, of the buildings themselves, the proper preservation of which being of vital importance.

To that end Messrs. Goodwin & Goodwin have introduced an entirely new, and what must be a most acceptable, innovation. This consists of an exhaustive blank form, which is designated "A Quarterly Report on Physical Conditions." It contains a list of everything in the building from the roof to the cellar, and also the various items belonging to the exterior from the roof to and including the sidewalk. As an example, under the heading of "Main Halls" appears Bells, Glass, Walls, Tiling, Carpets, Ceilings, Windows, Iron Grill, Chandeliers, and Letter Boxes. Other general divisions of the report are headed Roof, Main Entrance, Elevators and Pumps, Cellars, Vacant Apartments, Exterior.

The blank spaces in this report are filled in by the office force and mailed to each owner at regular intervals so that he may determine at a glance the condition of his property and be relieved of all anxiety regarding its upkeep.

Title Registration.

At a meeting of the Kings County Lawyers' Association held at the County Court House, Brooklyn, January 9, 1914, a resolution was adopted to the effect that it is the sense of this association that the commission appointed to revise the banking law of this State should prepare and oppose an amendment to the banking law whereby all State savings banks, trust companies and mortgage loan companies, as public service corporations, shall hereafter register under article 12 of the real property law the titles to all property on which they may make mortgage loans without prejudice to taking out policies of title insurance in addition thereto. A committee consisting of William Adams Robinson, John J. Clancy and Charles H. Falvert was appointed to wait upon the members of the State Commission and urge the adoption of this amendment.

WHY AND WHAT BUILDING MANAGERS BUY

By C. A. PATTERSON

Secretary National Association of Building Owners and Managers, and Editor Buildings and Building Management

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Co.

THERE is a book published in New York giving the name of every operating engineer, the name of the plant he operates, and his home address. It is no particular secret that unscrupulous manufacturers put this book to a different use than that for which it was intended.

This is the way the matter works out. A salesman calls on the engineer; he is selling oil, boiler compound, or anything else for that matter. He asks the engineer to try a barrel. The engineer is satisfied with that he is using. The salesman drops in occasionally to get acquainted, saying little about selling oil.

The engineer is mildly surprised when a box of Perfectos arrives at his home on Christmas morning with the salesman's card enclosed. Stranger yet, when the engineer's wife has a birthday she receives a silk umbrella with the compliments of the oil salesman. The engineer makes $125 per month, he has a hard time making both ends meet. These little attentions given him by the salesman are really appreciated from the bottom of his honest heart. It touches him deeply to think that the fine well-groomed salesman has taken such a liking to him.

A Drama in the Engine Room.

A little later on the engineer begins thinking that possibly that oil he is using is not so good as it used to be, and he has a notion to try the kind the friendly salesman sells. Consequently, the next time this salesman calls the engineer gives him an order. The price is a little higher, but the salesman explains it is better oil and will last longer.

The engineer perhaps has never thought of the courtesies extended to him in the light of graft. He would have scorned a money bribe and yet the result was the same.

For like reasons, such as an occasional pair of theatre tickets, a Sunday taxi ride, etc., the oil continued to be used in this plant.

The engineer has long realized that this oil was really not equal to the kind he had been using, but the salesman investigated and found that it was a little too light for the engines, and exchanged it for other oil, which he assured the engineer was exactly right, as he had made a test himself and wanted to please his new "friend," the engineer. The second lot was no better than the first, but the engineer didn't have the heart to make another kick. He had told the manager of the building that he changed oils because the old oil didn't work right, and that this new oil would, for he had thoroughly tested it. This too made it almost impossible to go back to his first oil. This little drama, more or less modified, has been played so often that the building manager upstairs has long since been cognizant of the situation.

This is one of the reasons building managers do the purchasing.

There is no intention of implying that all engineers are grafters, for they are not. The point is, the principle of having a low-salaried man do the buying is wrong. Most engineers prefer not to have this responsibility, as a misunderstood reflection on their integrity is naturally distasteful to the average man. The nearer the salesman goes to the head of the concern the less opportunity there is for selling on any other grounds than merit. Because of the fact that a building manager perhaps does not know oils like an engineer he does not buy on any other than a test basis. When it comes to new equipment he investigates everything there is, not from a standpoint of convenience to his engineer, but from a point of greater efficiency, less repairs and cheaper operation. A manager is primarily a business man, he is responsible to his directors to produce a maximum revenue from the property at a minimum operating cost. His record can only be made by cutting down the costs after his building is filled, for rents are usually pretty well estimated before hand. However, in doing this he must be careful not to lessen the service to the tenant.

A Man-Sized Job.

When one appreciates that the coal bill of one twenty-two story building last year was over $30,000, and the entire maintenance cost close to $100,000. it does not take much imagination to realize that buying for a building is a man-sized job. One manager, for instance, proved from actual test that toilet paper at $8.75 per case was cheaper than paper at $4 per case.

I question whether or not the average head janitor could not go on filling up toilet paper racks for the rest of his life without thinking an economy could be gained by a different type of rack that increased the cost per roll for paper from 4c. to 8¾c.

Another manager saved 60 per cent. on his feather duster bill by installing a stub handle type. This same manager eliminated cheese cloth at 3½c. a yard for dusting and bought mill end rags at 6c. per pound, saving over 50 per cent. in his dust-cloth bill and getting better results.

Cases of savings made in cleaning alone are so numerous that I refrain from going into them farther, because one might get the impression that a building manager is a sort of graduated head janitor. The average person has little or no conception of what a big problem managing buildings really is.

Items from the Ledger.

For instance, we take a typical office building costing $1,500,000, including the land. From this building a revenue of $150,000 is secured. On the other side of the ledger are some of the expenses the owner must meet: Taxes and insurance take $35,000. Twenty tons of coal are consumed a day, or 7,300 tons per year. One can readily appreciate what a thorough knowledge of scientific buying on a B. T. U. basis of coal alone will save. The next largest expense of course is labor, amounting to $30,000 per year.

To clean the building requires twenty women, six nights per week, each getting $28.00 per month, which amounts to $7,392 per year. Six or seven men help the women, which adds, at $40.000 per month each, $3,280. Added to this is a superintendent at $1,500.00 per year, to oversee the work. Thus for cleaning alone, excluding supplies, there was an item of $12,172.00.

Besides this there is a painter, whose supplies alone last year amounted to over $3,000.00. The house carpenter, whose supplies and labor amounted to $3,000.00 more, and the window cleaning, which requires six men at a cost of $2,880.00 for labor alone.

The elevators are a large and constant expense, and in this particular building labor and repairs amount to more than $5,000 annually.

A Tireless Dollar-Eater.

The engine-room is a never tiring "dollar eater," the labor alone costing $3,200 for a chief and an assistant, an electrician makes an additional outlay of $3,000.

This brief resume of operating costs has been given to show that there is little opportunity to reduce expense except through a careful analysis of the supplies these workmen use. In this particular building 26,000 lbs. of soap powder is used (in some buildings 200 lbs. are used every night), besides 10,000 bars of soap. Scrub brushes and pails are bought by the gross, dusting cloth by the bolt, dusters, brooms, mops, mop-wringers, sponges, squeegees, etc. are constantly consumed. Managers have found it economical to keep a full line of plumbing supplies on hand. Wash bowls, urinals, closets, seats, tanks, valves, cocks, etc., are purchased in quantities.

We have not touched upon the office expense nor the engineering supplies, but let me assure you they are not small items. Altogether the expense of this building will total up to $100,000, of which $45,000 at least goes for supplies and equipment.

Why the Building Manager is the Buyer.

The down-to-date building manager today purchases his supplies and equipment because the purchasing is done in large quantities and it is worth his while to see not only that he is getting value for this money but that the best material or equipment is being purchased for the particular duty it has to perform.

He can only ascertain this by careful study of the things used about the building and by applying his intelligence to them. Being the man responsible for the success of the building, he stands first to produce adequate returns to the owners; second, unless he renders the service to the tenants, they move out; and last but not least, to produce the revenue and to satisfy the tenants he must have an organization and give it proper tools with which to work. The building manager's compensation is based upon the record he makes.

In this short article it is impossible to do more than touch upon the purchasing end of a building manager's duties.

I could tell you the story of the loaded sponge (¾ of them are). I could tell of how one manager found his head janitor was getting a rebate of $11 on empty barrels, but the purpose of this article is not to muck rake, so I will not do it. I could show you how scientific research by intelligent building managers, as applied to fuel saving, has saved thousands of dollars for the owners of office buildings, and could continue by showing you how managers have proved that wall paint is more economical than kalsomine, but enough has been written to prove conclusively that the building manager is the logical buyer for a building.

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.

Emphasizes Facade Texture.

MEETING the tendency of architects to bring out in sharp relief, as it were, the structural detail of facades in buildings of all sorts, there is now being used a new type of fireproof facing material that gives an artistic touch to any building to which it is applied. It is called Tex-Tile and is made by the National Fireproofing Company, with offices in the Fuller Building, this city.

It consists of a hollow tile adapted to afford a finished exterior surface, rich in color and cut so as to give the soft effects so much desired by owners putting up burned clay houses. The illustration exemplifies a facade unit twelve inches long by five inches high and four inches thick. The size of the ordinary common or front brick is 8x3½x2¼ inches. This gives a larger unit in working out artistic detail that is especially popular in the suburbs where the rich colorings of the soft faced tile make pleasing contrasts with the shrubbery and tree tones. (See Record and Guide, May 25, 1912.)

Graduates the Incandescent Light.

THE convenience of graduating the light of an ordinary incandescent electric bulb to almost any degree of illumination will appeal strongly to architects specifying electric lamps for apartment houses, hotels and similar buildings, and for that reason a lamp being introduced by the Wirt Company of 97 Warren street is illustrated herewith.

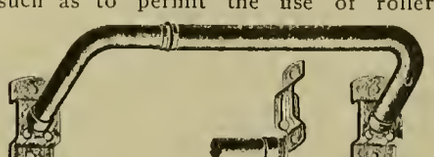
This lamp, in general appearance, is similar to any other incandescent electric bulb, with the exception that it has two control cords, one positive and the other negative in operation. Different pulls on the diminishing cord give five different shades of light, while one pull on the positive or lighting cord restores the illumination to the full candlepower of the globe. It fits on any socket.

Fire Fighting With Sawdust.

THIS sounds like combating the demon Flame with oil. But seventeen experiments, recently made in a varnish factory where ordinary sawdust was employed to extinguish fire, speak for themselves.



In a steel vessel containing ignited varnish 2 inches deep, the fire was extinguished in 25 seconds with 2½ shovelfuls of sawdust. In a vessel containing varnish 4 inches deep the fire was put out in ten seconds with a quarter of a shovelful of sawdust mixed with sodium bicarbonate. On a pine tray, 5 feet square, with sides 1 foot 8 inches high, containing nearly 3 gallons of varnish, the fire was extinguished in 53 seconds with 3 shovelfuls of soft-wood sawdust. In a steel vessel containing 3¾ inches of gasoline, the fire was quenched in 13 seconds with 2 shovelfuls of hardwood sawdust. In a steel vessel containing varnish, 3 inches deep, the fire required 9 shovelfuls of sand for extinction. In a steel vessel containing gasoline 2¾ inches deep the fire was not affected by 4 shovelfuls of sand and was afterward put out in 56 seconds by 8 shovelfuls of sawdust.

The efficiency of sawdust is attributable to the fact that it floats on the ignited liquid and protects it from the air, whereas sand sinks to the bottom.

A New Curtain Rod.

SOME renting agents prefer to supply curtain hangings for windows so as to avoid the damage that otherwise results from successive tenants driving different kinds of curtain rod supports into the upper window sashes. For that reason many of our readers will be interested in a new rod-hanging system that the John Kroder and Henry Reubel Company, of 108 Meeker avenue, Brooklyn, is introducing.

This new rod consists of a one-half inch one-piece polished tube that combines brackets, yet it can be attached and detached easily by the tenant when he hangs his curtains. The position of this rod as it hangs at the window is such as to permit the use of roller shades underneath it without the curtain fabric becoming entangled in the shade mechanism. Its strength makes it especially adaptable for apartment houses and hotels.

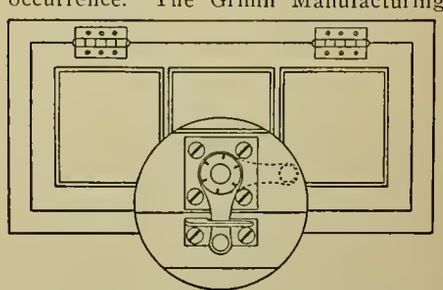
Locks on Concrete Soffits.



NOT long ago the papers told the story of an accident in a building under construction wherein a number of workmen had narrow escapes from being caught under a falling wall of concrete. As a matter of fact it was a concrete soffit that let go, and instead of maiming workmen it completely wrecked a large electric generator. Soffits of this character are likely to fall at any time, especially when a building is being put up under conditions requiring speed. In fact, the danger is present in all buildings where concrete and steel are used. With the idea of eliminating this danger, the Mitchell-Tappen Co. of 149 Broadway, this city, is selling a standardized metal caging that locks on the soffit as shown in the illustration. It is a system of flexible wire caging that takes a firm hold upon the pillars and columns and not only gives security to the concrete, but insures perfect concrete fireproofing of the steel work.

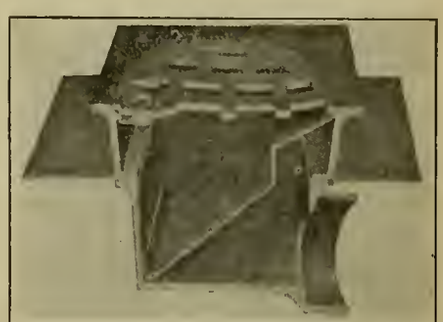
An Improved Window Catch.



CELLAR windows very often receive too little consideration from the builder, with the result that burglaries and gas meter robberies are of frequent occurrence. The Griffin Manufacturing Company, with offices at 37 Warren street, is putting on the market an improved cellar window set that is said to stay put and make the cellar windows as secure against forcible entry as the front parlor windows.

Keeps Sweepings Out of Drain.

ANOTHER way in which the building manager can cut down his cost of building operation is to employ drains that catch sweepings before they get into the pipes that lead to the sewers. Such a drain is manufactured by the "Jiffy" Fire Hose Rack Company, of 727 Seventh avenue, and has a special virtue in that important respect.

The drain is equipped with a special dam that is readily accessible for the purpose of cleaning out the accumulated sediment. It is so constructed that water cannot leak through it to any point but the pipe.

The fact that Congress is about to take up the matter of anti-trust legislation appears to have had little or no effect in checking the spread of business optimism. In real estate the prospect is that such legislation will create a better demand for the average run of industrial housing.

—Of course the men who have built up Manhattan are not necessarily limited in their operations to this borough. Brooklyn ought to be big enough now for costly apartment houses such as Bing & Bing will build in Schermerhorn street, near Clinton. The only question is, has Brooklyn an investors' market for such buildings?

Comptroller Prendergast in an address before the New York Credit Men's Association pointed out the folly of issuing long-term bonds for ordinary public improvements. A fifty-year 4½ per cent. bond issue of $50,000,000 requires a total outlay for interest and amortization charges of $134,663,750. The Legislature, he intimated, will be asked to authorize the use, where expedient, of ten-year notes, on which principal and interest will be payable in ten annual installments.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association, with a numerous and loyal membership, has done effective work in local matters. Its president, Henry Bloch, at a luncheon of the members this week at Mouquin's made suggestions that the time has come to follow matters of general interest, particularly bills and recommendations before the Legislature and the Board of Estimate. Is such vigilance worth the cost? Well, other associations are paying out large sums to advocate projects calling for increased taxes.

Clear Away the Reefs.

The plea which the Mayor made in Washington during the past week on behalf of a large governmental appropriation for harbor improvements, indicates that the new administration is fully alive to the importance of modernizing the machinery for handling freight in and around New York City. A comprehensive group of municipal improvements was outlined, including the appropriation by the city of the South Brooklyn waterfront, the construction of a railroad connecting the piers and the warehouses, the building of new piers in Manhattan and the reaching of some kind of an arrangement with the New York Central, which will result in the construction of an elevated freight railway on the west side of Manhattan. That the projects, indicated above, were not merely in contemplation, but are by way of being carried out very soon, is, of course, a matter of public knowledge. The part of Mr. Mitchel's speech, which was more interesting because more novel, was the reference he made to the possibilities of building freight tunnels under the Hudson River.

The Record and Guide was not aware that any such plan was still being considered. During Mayor Gaynor's administration a plan to that effect was drawn up by the Dock Department, but it was rejected by a committee of the Board of Estimate, of which the Mayor was the most prominent member. The Record and Guide welcomes the announcement that the project is not entirely dead. The problem of economically handling the freight shipped into and out of New York will certainly never be properly solved until the railroads now terminating on the waterfront of New Jersey can get their freight into and away from Manhattan without transshipment and without the large amount of cartage which is now necessary. If the administration can succeed in devising a practicable method of accomplishing such a result it will certainly deserve well of the city. One can hardly, however, be very sanguine of success.

The problem is intrinsically more difficult and complicated than that of making an analogous arrangement with the New York Central Railroad Company. Yet after ten years of disputation and negotiation no mutually satisfactory contract has been signed with that corporation.

In the case of the Jersey railroads the problem is complicated by the fact that the several railway corporations have always refused to consider the adoption of any such plan. All the proposals which have been made either to bridge or tunnel the Hudson River for the purpose of handling freight, have been killed by the firm refusal of these companies to have anything to do with them. The managements of the railroads have always assumed the position that the construction of such tunnels and the providing of the necessary terminals in Manhattan would involve an expense disproportionate to any economies which could be expected to result from their operation. If they persist in such an attitude the City of New York will be powerless to deal with this matter. It has no hold upon the Pennsylvania, Erie and Jersey Central Railroad Companies similar to that hold which it has on the New York Central. It has no credit resources which it could devote to the financing of such a system of Hudson River tunnels. If the work is to be done the duty of financing it will necessarily fall upon the railroad companies who are, as we have said, opposed to the spending of money on such a project. This part of Mayor Mitchel's comprehensive sketch of harbor improvements is not, consequently, likely to succeed, but we are glad, nevertheless, that it is going to be tried. The Mayor understands the whole problem both in its engineering and financial aspects extremely well, and he would not have dwelt so emphatically upon it in a public speech unless he believed that the chance of eventual success is sufficient to make the attempt worth while.

Confidence in the New Administration.

The opening decisions which have been made by Mayor Mitchel and his assistants have all been such as to confirm the public confidence, in the possession of which he assumed office. His appointments for the various heads of departments, so far as they have as yet been announced, have been excellent. He has given evidence of his earnest desire to redeem his pledges by authorizing a careful study of the existing situation in relation to salaried employees, with a view to the promotion of both economy and efficiency. When the Gaynor administration assumed office four years ago the newspapers were full, during the first three months, of savings which the new departmental heads immediately contrived to bring about. The Record and Guide has no intention of disparaging either the intentions of these former officials or the good work actually accomplished by them. But the preliminary piece-meal economies which they effected only touched the fringe of the real problem and were not of any substantial benefit to the taxpayers of New York.

They were not followed up by a comprehensive and searching investigation of the remuneration and grading of salaried employees, with a view to removing discrepancies and the establishment of uniform standards and methods. The ordering of such an investigation was the first work of Mayor Mitchel, and it is proof of the fact that he at heart knows how his problem ought to be approached. He has made another wise decision in refusing to present to the current Legislature any proposals for the radical modification of the existing charter. The instrument under the provisions of which New York City is governed has many grave imperfections, but it is a workable and useful piece of administrative machinery, and it should not be amended save after prolonged and exhaustive consideration. Any proposed amendments, that is, which emanate from the administration, should not involve tinkering with details, but should constitute an attempt to cure fundamental defects; they should be formed by a commission specially selected for the purpose, and they should be based not merely on local precedents, but upon the experience of other American cities.

No question connected with political organization has received so much scientific study and has become so much a matter of well established principles as has this question of municipal charters. It may be that public opinion in New York is not prepared at present to accept the results of this scientific study of that question. But assuredly a stubborn and well considered attempt should be made to get them to accept it, and one of the most important and potentially beneficent tasks which confronts this administration is that of framing such an instrument of government and securing its adoption. It is just because the matter is so important and needs to be done so well that it should be postponed until it can be properly handled. What New York City needs is a charter so wisely framed and so adequate that it will emancipate the city from any legislative tinkering in the future. In order to accomplish this result and to provide for genuine home rule it must carry with it all the weight that can be derived from the most careful consideration and from a strong report concurred in by a strong commission.

The Court House Site Complications.

There are rumors in the daily papers that the idea is being considered of abandoning the site for the new County Court House, which has been already purchased. It is very much to be hoped that these rumors will prove to be false. However difficult and expensive it may be to provide a permanent foundation for the new Court House on the site selected, there is nothing to be done now but to meet the difficulty and to stand the expense. The question of site cannot be reopened. The case is bad enough as it is. At best there will be considerable additional delay before new plans can be accepted and the work of construction begun. And if the question of site is to be reopened any idea of ever building the new Court House will have to be abandoned in despair. The Record and Guide was not in favor of the site that has been selected. It preferred a site farther up town. But any site is better than no site and if the present location is abandoned no one can tell what further delay will result. The Board of Estimate should certainly take up this matter of building the Court House vigorously, and refuse to consider any plans which will involve further procrastination.

Separation of City and State Urged.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

As a firm believer in the stability of Manhattan real estate I feel that constant agitation of measures that will work for its betterment cannot be urged too strongly.

I was much impressed with the message of Governor Glynn to the Legislature, showing appropriations for the year 1914 to be $61,000,000, with revenues from indirect sources at $44,000,000, which simply forecasts the necessity of a direct levy to make up the deficiency, unless the sinking fund is drawn on for $17,000,000. This means an increased burden on Manhattan, which in a large measure supports the entire State. This deficiency is due to the desire to placate up-State politicians, by voting large sums for local improvements, the benefit of which seldom extends beyond the immediate locality favored. The institution of a direct tax means an additional burden on our already over-taxed city.

The time is ripe to agitate the divorce of city from the State. Physical, political and geographical conditions alike point to this as the only practical solution of an unjust and burdensome condition. The city is sufficiently populous, wealthy and powerful to enable it to be welded into a separate State. It is time for us to rebel against being penalized for the benefit of up-State improvements; and, although the political division of the State is of such a character as to make the success of this plan problematical, yet constant and intelligent agitation will bring about a feeling of revolt, which must eventually lead to satisfactory results, even though it only puts the "fear of God" into the hearts of our country cousins and makes them alive to the fact that we ought not to be made paymasters for the entire State.

What we need in our city is faith and confidence. Its growth is marvelous, when we consider that every year its added population equals that of some of the larger cities, like Jersey City, Paterson and others. This continuous increase creates a demand for new homes, especially when there has been a lull in building operations, as in the past year. As a result, rentals have improved, vacancies are few, and the inevitable result must be a rise in values, proportionate with rental improvements.

It must be obvious to the careful observer that the proper time to invest in real estate is when prices are low and not when speculation is ripe and competition keen.

The situation in the mortgage market has not been as appalling as many pessimists have asserted. I have found it possible, within a recent date, to place many mortgages, for both large and small amounts, at both 4½ per cent. and 5 per cent. I have always found little difficulty, even in times of so-called depression, to find ready money for all applications possessing merit, and attribute this to the fact that investors fully realize the safety and security of mortgage investments.

There are many suggestions which would lead to improved results:

1. A liberal recognition of the growth and advancement of our marvelous city must convince us that real estate in New York City is here to stay for all time and that no depression can affect its ultimate value. It is the Gibraltar of safety, and if not over-weighted with the burdens of oppressive laws and excessive taxation it will always prove a sane and conservative means for investment.

2. Unjust assessment is another evil calling for a cure. Of late we have had many instances of the injustice done to owners by excessive assessment. A few instances will suffice:

No. 320 Central Park West, southwest corner of 92d street, was sold October 25, 1913, for $465,000, but is assessed at $640,000.

No. 41 West 16th street was sold, within a few days, for $20,000, but is assessed at $36,000.

The Bijou Theatre was sold recently for $465,000, which is $274,000 below the assessed value of $739,000.

These sales indicate that either there is something wrong with those fixing the assessments, or that there is a lack of money or confidence on the part of buyers.

When we take into consideration that the owners of real estate, mortgagees, tenants, contractors, and material men are a mighty factor, and when combined can unmistakably control legislation, we are certain that if all vitally interested in real estate and the welfare of the city should unite and keep up a constant agitation, so that the Governor, the Mayor, and the Tax Commissioners may have it forcibly brought to their minds that real estate interests will not remain dormant, much can be accomplished. Spasmodic movements will accomplish little, but a continuous and intelligent publicity may in time bring the powers to a realization that they must look in other directions for the support of the city and State.

3. It would be well to agitate for a law for real estate in a manner similar to that enjoyed by Wall street potentates and corporations. There is no limit to the amount of compensation that can be exacted by these interests, and yet when an owner desires to obtain a second mortgage on his property he is confronted with a limited field of lenders, who are reluctant to hazard their money on an investment that may be subject to usurious defenses.

A second mortgage investment requires the exercise of considerable caution, and the investor must at all times be prepared to meet the demands of prior claimants, so that an extra charge, above regular interest rates, would not be unreasonable. If this were allowed by enactment of law it would open a field that would add to the buoyancy of real estate.

4. Another serious question to be considered is the abolition of the tax on recording of mortgages. This adds largely to the expense of the owner; moreover, it is concededly a double and unjust tax.

5. In order to beautify the city it would prove desirable to bring about a symmetrical arrangement of buildings. The height of buildings should be limited by law, based on the width of the street or avenue. This is essential for many reasons, aside from the question of fire protection. This matter requires no elaboration, as the proposition has received support from every direction.

Many of these reforms can be accomplished only by incessant agitation, and by a harmonious combination of all interests.

Persistent urging, luminous publicity and proper awakening of authorities will do much to bring about a condition that must necessarily lead to a rehabilitation of real estate interests and once more place real estate and real estate mortgages among the safest and sanest investments. JOHN FINCK.

198 Broadway, Jan. 13.

Dual Subway System Construction.

Anyone inclined to be disheartened over the real estate market should read on page 137 the list of contracts awarded for subway construction and consider what it means for the material development of the city. So far over ninety-four millions out of one hundred and sixty million dollars' worth of work has been awarded, covering thirty-eight construction sections. Pending the completion of the system as a whole, thousands of mechanics and laborers will have good employment, and real estate within the influence of the new subway lines will be steadily rising in value. Then will follow a series of construction movements such as Greater New York has never seen hitherto.

Another Building Code Ordinance.

The draft of a building code prepared by the Building Committee of the previous Board of Aldermen was revived and introduced again this week by Alderman James Hamilton, and was referred under the rules to the new Building Committee. The most striking change that has been made in the document so far is in Section 103, paragraph 4, relating to the use of wood. Under the Herbst code no combustible material could be used in buildings over 100 feet high, except in apartments and tenements, which could use wood trim up to a height of one hundred and fifty feet. In the latest ordinance the limit is 150 feet for all classes of buildings.

The Building Committee, of which Alderman Hamilton is chairman, will revise the ordinance again, but there will be no more boards of experts, and the intimation is given that not many changes of first importance will be made.

Alderman Curran, the majority leader, said the introduction anew of the Herbst code does not mean that it will be adopted with its faults. "I am told," he said, that it is a good code, and with a little trimming will be satisfactory. It contains all the provisions of former codes that have survived criticism."

It is promised that the code will be enacted into law before May 1, and it is understood that Mayor Mitchel and President McAneny are in sympathy with the plan. President McAneny, in his inaugural address to the board, said:

"The interests of real estate have suffered, and conditions that menace the safety both of life and property have been permitted to continue, because of these successive failures. Let us agree that this condition shall end at once, and that a proper code, based upon principles that are technically correct, and that deals fairly with every interest at stake, shall be passed within the early months of the present year. A great deal of the preparatory work has been done, and a great deal of that is good. Little further time need be taken, in short, upon either draftsmanship or for scattering discussion. The adoption of a new building code should be the first assurance of the members of this Board that it proposes to meet its obligations to the people of the city."

The members of the new Building Committee are Messrs. Hamilton, Boschen, Brush, Carroll, Bartscherer, Dremer, Gaynor, Jesse D. Moore, Kochendorfer, Dryat and Cole.

Debate on the Single Tax.

Allan Robinson, president of the Allied Real Estate Interests, debated on Wednesday evening on the single tax question with Frederick C. Leubuscher, president of the Society to Lower Rents and Reduce Taxes on Homes, and August Weymann, of the Manhattan Single Tax Club. The debate was held at the rooms of the Taxpayers' Alliance of Bronx Borough, 4212 Third avenue, under the auspices of that association. The committee in charge consisted of Messrs. Max Just, James Donnelly and Coroner William J. Flynn.

The subject was "The Reduction of Taxes on Buildings and the Increase of the Same on Land," as provided for in the "Salant-Schaap Bill," introduced in the last Legislature, and which will in all probability be brought up again, as twenty-three Assemblymen are reported to be pledged to its support.

Mr. Leubuscher was the first speaker and was followed by Mr. Weymann, both in advocacy of the Salant-Schaap Bill, but Mr. Weymann speaking particularly in favor of a single tax. Mr. Robinson made an address which lasted for over an hour in opposition. Surrogate Geo. M. S. Schulz, president of the Taxpayers' Alliance, was chairman of the meeting. Cyrus C. Miller and Register Edward Polak, of the Bronx, were interested listeners. Others present were Senator Anthony J. Griffin, Assemblyman Henry D. Patton, Alderman Harry Robitzek, John A. Steinmetz, P. J. McKinley and William Lustgarten.

Board of Business Agents.

At the regular annual election of the United Board of Business Agents of the Building Trades of New York City the present officers were all re-elected: President, John T. Taggart; vice-president, Michael T. Neyland; secretary-treasurer, R. D. Tompkins; sergeant-at-arms, Edward Broderick; trustees, John Hanley, John F. Lalor, Thomas J. Curtis.

Credential Committee—Charles W. Ryan, Joseph McGrane, Wm. A. Brennan, Patrick Fallon, Leonard Klink.

Grievance Committee—Patrick Crowley, John P. Gilvey, Edward J. McCarty, Wm. J. Connell, James P. McGrane.

A Good Year Predicted.

Joseph A. Nash, vice-president of the Bush Terminal Company, which controls twenty blocks of waterfront, including a chain of ten loft buildings, in South Brooklyn, says there is every indication of a healthy growth of industrial life throughout the country and particularly the East, with the beginning of the new year. Mr. Nash bases his prediction partly upon reports he has received from the company's agents in other cities and partly upon the transactions of the New York leasing department.

"During the past few months we have made a careful study of the financial and real estate situation here and in other parts of the East, and as a result of favorable conclusions we have decided to erect another loft building as part of the chain of such structures now standing on our property in South Brooklyn."

There had been so many unwarranted rumors of alleged unsettled business conditions that Mr. Nash thought it necessary to make a more detailed investigation than was the case in former years.

"We are now certain," he said, "that a good many of the rumors alleging impending business troubles was spread by irresponsible parties or for political purposes, and I have no hesitation in saying that we consider the outlook for 1914 as very bright."

—The latest prognostication is that the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn can be made ready for operation as far as 25th street by July 1, 1914, and as far as 86th street by October 1, 1914.

FIRE INSURANCE EXCHANGE MAKES NEW STANDARD FOR MILL CONSTRUCTION IN NEW YORK CITY—BETTER STEEL MARKET.

National Building Totals for 1913.

CONFORMING with the general tendency to bring about better and safer building practice in New York, the new standard of mill construction as promulgated by the New York Fire Insurance Exchange this week is significant, in view of the present activity in factory extension in the metropolitan district.

While the new standard does not directly affect building materials, its influence in this regard is nevertheless important. Heretofore certain advantageous rates were allowed to occupants of factory buildings that at least met the requirements of the old standards. Allowances were made for certain conditions in a building such as, for example, a fireproof floor in a non-fireproof building. Under the new standard, printed in full elsewhere in this issue under "Departmental Rulings," all these so-called allowances are removed, and one standard is substituted. If the building conforms to these requirements the Class A rate is allowed, otherwise the tenant must pay for the additional risk.

Quotations on structural steel were still held at a stiff level on second half deliveries this week. There was no noticeable stiffening in quotations on current business covering second quarter shipments, but there was a little more activity, especially in small operations requiring a few hundred tons of steel.

The cold weather early in the week checked building operations to some extent, which accounts for the sluggish movement of materials. There was a stronger tone to inquiries, however, especially in wire and steel products. The base price for sand is still fifty cents.

Advices from the West to the effect that money was easier this week proved a contributing factor in making the situation here in New York better, although building money lenders are still inclined to act conservatively, and engagements are limited to well-located projects and some specialty buildings. The rebuilding of the New York surplus reserves with other influences helped to reassure the West, and in consequence commercial paper again assumed the proportions of a factor in that market, relieving the drain from this center and permitting a larger reserve for bond and mortgage business in this market.

The condition of the brick market here is not as encouraging as it might be. The demand is sluggish, and prices are ragged as compared with those prevailing last year at this time. The supply available for immediate riding, counting sold and unsold barges around the city compares with last year, but the difference lies in the fact that there is no stacking to speak of this year, and many new building projects planned late last year are awaiting actual construction work pending the further easing of the money market following the publication of the long-expected anti-trust message of the President. This is being looked upon by financial interests as the last straw either to make or break the revival of good business conditions. The general feeling of optimism, however, bids fair to discount to a large extent, at least, any moderate adverse characteristic the measure may contain.

BUILDING SUMMARY FOR 1913.

Total for 145 Cities Reaches $872,759,987, a Decrease of 6.3%.

BUILDING construction throughout the country last year was slightly below the level credited to 1912, or 6.3 per cent. New York's construction cost as compared with 119 cities for the last five years follows:

	New York City	119 other cities
1913	$155,700,817	$650,748,808

Analyzing these figures the statistical bureau of Bradstreet's puts the cause of this reaction up to money stringency, closer scrutiny of credits and past overbuilding, and adds:

"Of the large cities of the country showing gains in 1913 over 1912, conspicuous examples are Chicago, with an increase of 3.3 per cent.; Cleveland, 30.9 per cent.; Detroit, 16.9 per cent.; Newark, N. J., 39.1 per cent.; Philadelphia, 4.9 per cent.; Pittsburgh, 40 per cent.; and San Francisco, 24.8 per cent. In the list of notable decreases are New York with 29.5 per cent.; Boston, 22.7 per cent.; Buffalo, 7.6 per cent.; Kansas City, Mo., 12. 1per cent.; Los Angeles, one-tenth of 1 per cent.; Milwaukee, 11.4 per cent.; Minneapolis, 9.6 per cent.; Portland, Ore., 10.3 per cent.; and St. Louis, 36 per cent.

"The key to the large decrease in all building reported in 1913 and 1912 and preceding years is largely found in the volume of building of New York. In 1913 the total value of the building expenditure in Greater New York, Richmond Borough excepted, was $153,700,817, a decrease of 29.5 per cent. from 1912. This total was 17.5 per cent. of the entire expenditure at 145 cities, and the decrease at New York from 1912 was $65,000,000, whereas the entire decrease at all cities was $74,645,000. In other words, the decrease at New York accounted for 85 per cent. of the total decrease at all cities."

THE CEMENT OUTLOOK.

Price Increase Generally Looked for Early in the Season.

FURTHER indications of the improved temper of the building material market came this week from some of the leaders in the Portland cement industry. An official of a "Valley" company said:

"I look for a much better demand for Portland cement from now on. The mills are in good shape for taking care of the business that 1914 will bring out, and the fact that there is no over-supply that must be worked off at a sacrifice leads me to believe that prices will move up before they will go down. There is no money in the business with prices at the present mill basis."

W. P. Corbett, a director of the Alsen's American Portland Cemffent Works, said:

"Government reports prove that more than thirty cement companies—almost one-third of the total doing business in this country—have been forced into bankruptcy or shut down within the last five or six years because of the bitter antagonistic and absolutely blind competition which prevailed. Companies in different districts would endeavor by a bitter war of low prices to ruin some rival, and it is an established fact that Portland cement has been sold frequently below the cost of manufacture.

"This condition has resulted in preventing an increase in production at the former foolish ratio, and promoting schemes have been less numerous.

"Some of the existing mills need expensive plant overhauling, and it is not likely there will be any great increase in output this year, even if labor troubles do not retard manufacture as they did last year. The consumption, on the other hand, is almost sure to increase.

"Prices of cement seem to be holding about the same, namely, $1.30 including bags, F. O. B. valley mills (90 cents, base), and approximately ten cents more for the best New York state mills. The prices in the west showed a slight reaction, but are today higher in more cases than in the east. It is probable, from all indications, that there will not be much change, probably a five-cent advance or so as business becomes active in the spring, depending entirely upon conditions."

COAL AGAIN MOVING HERE.

Boatmen's Strike Ends—Fortnight Accumulations Freed.

THE fear that building managers have felt during the last fortnight regarding their supplies of coal owing to the strike of the boatmen have been quelled. The strike was ended this week and the accumulations have been freed. Embargoes incidental to the strike served to reduce receipts at tidewater up to the middle of this week and as a result pressure on the market has been relieved to some extent. There is still a quantity of unassigned coal at the docks, however, and as the week closed some of it was being offered at lower prices.

Some coal of fair quality standing at the piers under demurrage has been sacrificed at considerably below what the same grade is bringing for mine shipment. Some West Virginia product is still offering as low as $2.40 to $2.45 at Port Reading, and at South Amboy Pennsylvania coal is bringing from $2.25 up. Some Pennsylvania operators have been quoting $1 for mine shipment, but those with reasonably good coal are holding out for at least $1.10 or $1.15.

BETTER STEEL DEMAND.

Plates and Sheets Show More Activity—Subway Order Let.

A MARKED improvement in sheets and plate business was reported from the steel department this week. Incidentally the contract was signed between Oscar Daniels & Co. and the American Bridge Company for the 16,100 tons of steel required for the Jerome avenue extension of the subway.

Pittsburgh reported on Thursday that specifications for plates and structural material are increasing in a decisive manner. The larger plate companies show an increase of fifty per cent. in new business over that of the last ten months and mill schedules are about to be increased to take care of the business. Some additional contracts for plates and structural shapes are reported and the inquiry for bars is much better than it was.

It was unofficially stated that the United States Steel Corporation properties now have fifty-six per cent. of total capacity employed. Larger specifications for finished steel have permitted resumption of all plants averaging from 55 to 60 per cent. of total capacity.

There has been an end to the bargain sales of sheets, and prices have recovered to an absolute minimum of two cents Pittsburgh, with 2.90 cents for galvanized sheets. When some smaller mills went below this price they found no difficulty in getting rid of all the spare tonnage they cared to take on. The prediction is made that sheets will advance to somewhere near their normal price with the opening of spring. Tin plate business has been good. Some importations of tin plate have been reported by large buyers, but these have been placed because of the delivery requirements being better than American makers could guarantee.

GOVERNMENT TIMBER SALES.

Two Billion Board Feet, the Total of Sales in 1913.

THE annual report of Henry S. Graves, forester, just issued, calls attention to a substantial increase in the amount and value of timber cut from the national forests, and a still greater increase in the amount and value of timber sold, largely for future cutting. The gain in timber actually cut was 15 per cent. over the preceding fiscal year; in sale receipts, 27 per cent.; and in amount of timber sold, 167 per cent.

In 1913 the total sales amounted to more than two billion board feet with a stumpage value of nearly $4,500,000, as against less than 800,000,000 board feet with a stumpage value of $1,600,000 in 1912.

It has been urged that the government should, through low stumpage rates, force timber upon the market and thus reduce the price of manufactured lumber. The present policy, however, can not be changed without a change in the law. Apparently no such change is called for. Sacrifice prices, unwarranted by actual market conditions, would reduce the returns to the public and to the states, but they would not reduce the price of manufactured lumber to the consumer. In the United States 99¼ per cent. of the timber cut comes from private lands. Competition in production is exceedingly keen. The mill capacity of the country is considerably greater than its normal consumption of lumber. This creates a constant tendency to produce more lumber than the market will take.

During a period of depression actual overproduction appears. Stock on hand mounts up; price concessions to attract purchasers fail to bring the honed-for acceleration of sales, and as returns fall below the cost of production curtailment is forced. From 1909 to 1911 many sawmills operated at an actual loss because carrying charges on their indebtedness would not permit them to close down. One hundred and thirty mills in the two leading lumber-producing states were altogether idle in 1909.

So long as competitive conditions obtain among manufacturers the lowering of national forest stumpage rates would neither benefit the consumer nor appreciably affect the supply of lumber on the market. One-half of 1 per cent of the total cut is too small a fraction to have any influence on prices; and although this fraction might be made several times as great as it is by offering government timber at a merely nominal charge, the effect would be simply to throw money away to procure the cutting of public timber in place of private.

Local demands are invariably given preference in the disposition of timber, and on many forests the entire yield is reserved for such needs. Small operators are preferred and encouraged as far as they are able and equipped to cut and market the stumpage, the large sales being restricted to inaccessible areas which small operators can not exploit.

BRICK MOVEMENT LIGHT.

Danger of Brick Shortage This Winter Said to Be Passed.

ONE reason advanced for the sluggish condition of the common brick market when other building materials are showing unmistakable signs of strengthening is the fact that navigation up the Hudson is again open with towboat communication possible as far north as Poughkeepsie. This gives the dealers assurance that there is no danger of the brick supply getting low nor prices high, and for that reason they are content to buy brick as they need it.

Even though navigation should close on the Hudson River between now and spring, there would be no danger of a shortage of brick in this market, as the supply here at present is equal to any prospective demand that could arise within the next month and a half, during which the Hudson could freeze. Judging by the volume of sales on the wholesale market and the quantity ridden to job by the Greater New York Brick Company this week, there is no apparent indication of a prospective raid on the local supply.

THE WEEK'S REAL ESTATE NEWS

Brokerage Sales, Auctions, Foreclosure Suits, Building Loans, etc., Together With Brief Personal Items.

Exchanges Comprised the Bulk of the Business.

While there was no general activity in the market and the situation remained, on the whole, unchanged, attention was arrested by big transactions reported late in the week.

The most conspicuous sale involved the tallest apartment house in the city, which was purchased from the builders by a woman investor who gave other properties in part payment. A large tract of land at Rockaway passed into the hands of a development company. Loft buildings on West 20th street and Broadway changed hands, as did a Washington Heights plot for improvements. The receiver of a big realty company also disposed of large holdings. Of lesser prominence were exchanges concerning a Riverside Drive apartment structure and a Connecticut estate, and an upper Broadway plot traded for a Maiden Lane business building. Brooklyn contributed an important water-front lease to a British syndicate, and The Bronx a sale which means a new department store in the 149th street section.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 29, against 16 for last week and 34 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 8, compared with 1 last week and 12 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 21, compared with 15 last week and 14 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported, against 2 last week and 20 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,002,751, compared with $1,087,509 last week, making a total since Jan. 1 of $3,939,356. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $849,854, making a total since Jan. 1, 1913, of $2,689,343.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

"Tallest" Apartment Sold.

The largest apartment house deal of the year and the most important since the purchase by Arthur Curtis James late last year of the big 12-sty 5th av house on the northeast corner of 81st st, was closed Wednesday in the purchase by Mrs. Morris K. Jesup of the tallest apartment structure in the city, the 17-sty building on the northeast corner of Park av and 79th st. The transaction involved a large element of trade in which Mrs. Jesup gave in part payment west side property. The Park av building was bought from the operators, Bing & Bing, who erected the building last season. It was ready for occupancy in October, and about fourteen of the suites, there being but one on a floor, are rented at from $12,000 to $15,000. Among the tenants are Dr. W. Seward Webb, Mrs. N. Bramhall Gilbert, John Hays Hammond, J. Benjamin Strong, Jr., Walter G. Oakman, Norman B. Ream and Mrs. George De Forest Lord. The building covers a plot 100 on the av by 85 in the st, and has been held at over $1,000,000. In part payment Mrs. Jesup gave to Bing & Bing two west side apartment houses, one being the 7-sty building known as the Saxony, on the southwest corner of Broadway and 82d st, 90.4 on Broadway by 102 in the st, and the adjoining 6-sty house known as the Dewitt, at 254 West 82d st, fronting 55x103 deep, thus giving a total street frontage for the two houses of 157 ft. These properties are at present assessed for $480,000. The aggregate value of the entire properties was in excess of $2,000,000. The transaction was closed through the brokerage firm of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Co., which will also act as the agents for the properties involved in the trade.

$200,000 Heights Deal.

Washington Heights supplied a six-figured transaction, involving a vacant plot, 150x112.9, in the centre of the 175th st block, between Audubon and St. Nicholas avs. This was purchased by the Mose Goodman Corporation, Aaron Goodman, president, from the 175th St. Holding Company, David Zipkin, president, and is to be improved with three 6-sty apartment houses, the completion of which, with the cost of the land, will represent an investment of about $200,000. A loan for the erection of the building was advanced by the sellers of the land.

Realty Company Sells.

It was reported late yesterday afternoon that four big apartment houses on the upper west side, belonging to the New York Real Estate Security Co., which was forced into bankruptcy a few weeks ago, have been disposed of by James N. Rosenberg, as receiver for the company. The sale, which has to get the sanction of the United States Court, has already been approved by the bondholders' committee of the defunct concern. The sale involves the 6-sty Alabama apartments at Riverside drive and 127th st, 470 Convent av, corner of 151st st, and the 6-sty Desmond and Douglas apartments at the northwest corner of 7th av and 121st st. These properties have been sold by the F. R. Wood-W. H. Dolson Co. for Mr. Rosenberg to the newly formed Rossmore Holding Co., which has as its incorporators Matthew M. Edelman, Eugene Levy and Elizabeth J. Waugh. The Security Company has also contracted to sell to Joseph F. A. O'Donnell the 5-sty apartment house at 590 East 138th st, on plot 37.6x100, between St Ann's and Cypress avs.

Big Rockaway Transaction.

A realty transaction, which is said to have involved almost $3,000,000, has just been closed in the Rockaway section of Queens. The property comprises about 307 acres of upland and 58 acres of meadow land, extending in varying widths from Jamaica Bay to the Atlantic Ocean. Andrew K. Vandeventer sold the property to the Rockaway-Pacific Corporation, of Wilmington, Del. The tract has a length of about 2 miles and comprises the entire westerly end of the Rockaway peninsula from the land of the Neponsit Realty Co., and about 1,000 ft. from the tract acquired by the city about a year ago for park purposes. The property was originally a part of the holdings of the late Collis P. Huntington. Several years ago Arabella D. and Henry E. Huntington conveyed the property to Mr. Vandeventer.

Drive Apartments in Trade.

Dr. Samuel G. Gant sold to Charles E. Force, president of the Precious Metals Company, the Cliff Haven apartments at 417 Riverside Drive, at the south corner of 114th st. The property is improved with a 13-sty structure, has a frontage of 52 ft. on the drive, 135.6 ft. in the street, the other lines measuring 50.11 and 124.3 ft., respectively. The property has been held at $500,000 and has a reported rent roll of about $50,000 a year. In part payment Dr. Gant took a shore property located at Tokeneke, Conn.; also a co-operative apartment of eleven rooms, in the 14-sty Densmore-Compton Building at 471 Park av, southeast corner of 58th st, which he will occupy. Burton Thompson represented Dr. Gant in the transaction.

Lower Broadway Deal.

The old wholesale section along lower Broadway furnished an interesting transaction in the way of a resale by a builder of a big loft structure recently taken in exchange by him for a new mercantile building uptown. William A. White & Sons sold for the McKeon Realty Co. the 11-sty store and loft structure at 520 and 522 Broadway, adjoining the southeast corner of Spring st. It occupies a plot 50x100 and has been purchased by an out-of-town investor. The property is assessed at $285,000.

Downtown Lofts in Deal.

A quick resale of a big mercantile structure in the midtown section was consummated yesterday. The 11-sty store and loft building at 36 and 38 West 20th st, has been sold by the Salisbury Realty Co., Edgar A. Levey, president, to Minna M. Coester. The structure occupies a plot, 50x92, and is located between 5th and 6th avs. The city assesses it for taxation purposes at $240,000. The Salisbury company acquired the property last July from Julius Heimann and Moris C. Lichten in an exchange involving the Strafford apartments, at the southwest corner of West End av and 98th st, built by the selling company.

New Bronx Department Store.

Harry Weaver, proprietor of a department store at the corner of 3d av and 148th st, purchased on Tuesday, through Smith & Phelps from Florence Stolz 2962 and 2964 3d av, on plot 50x185, which he will improve with a large modern building for his own use. The site is north of 152d st and extends through to Bergen av. It was also reported that department store people are negotiating for the property at 2929 to 2939 3d av.

Upper Broadway Sale.

William E. May & Co. have resold for the 4 West West 57th St. Co., composed of members of the Roosevelt family, the plot, 126.1x91.7x irreg, on the west side of Broadway 302.3 ft. north of 122d st, to the estate of Lewis Newgass, who will improve the site. The sellers acquired the property last month in a trade with the Commonwealth Realty Co., August Heckscher, for the dwellings at 1 West 57th st and 3 and 5 West 56th st. The buyers gave in exchange 131 Maiden lane, a 4-sty business building on lot 19.9x54.

Manhattan—South of 59th Street.

BLEECKER ST, 305 and 307, 2 & 3-sty bldg, on plot 27x75, resold for Ciro Maresca to James A. Lowe, of North Branch, N. J., by Pepe & Bro. The rear of this property faces the 7th av extension.

GRAND ST, 242-242½, 3-sty building, on plot 27x75, east of the Bowery, sold for Lewine & Kempner to Lillian Steinfeld, by Hiram Rinaldo.

MACDOUGAL ST, 114, 6-sty tenement on lot 25x100, sold for Michael Maresca to Isabella Malcavita, for investment, by Pepe & Bro.

27TH ST, 323 East, 3-sty brick dwelling, with 4-sty tenement in rear, on lot 25x98.9, between 1st and 2d avs, sold by John H. Lubbert to the Martha Building Corporation (Samuel Lipman, president), which gave in exchange the 3-sty dwellings, at 33 and 35 Bank st, on plot 50x95.

8TH AV, 854, 5-sty brownstone apartment house, with store, on lot 25x80, between 51st and 52d sts, sold for John L. Sauervein to James Maloney by Charles Van Oppen. Brooklyn Edison Service in 1913

The lamps, motors and other electrical appliances now connected to Brooklyn Edison service mains require for their complete operation electrical energy sufficient to light 10,000,000 incandescent lamps of 20-candle power each.

These figures have been reached after a year of the greatest growth in the history of the company. The Power Department shows an increase of 20,000 horsepower — the result of the discontinuance of a number of isolated power plants. In the Lighting Division the feature of note has been the fact that Brooklyn storekeepers are using more outdoor illumination than ever before. In one month alone, orders were received for 537 — 500 Watt Tungsten lamps.

Other records were broken in the sale of electrical household cooking and heating appliances, and in the number of old-time Brooklyn homes made modern by the installation of electric service.

All this wonderful growth, we feel, is but the forerunner of the creation during 1914 of a

The Auction Market.

Altogether there were 40 offerings at the Manhattan and Bronx Exchange Salesrooms this week. Of this number, 24 were bought in by parties in interest, 11 were adjourned or withdrawn, and 5 went to outside bidders. These were James Welton, who bought the shop at 422 West 46th st for $12,300; Folsom Brothers who secured a similar building at 204 Lafayette st for a client for $16,200; Henry M. Greenberg who obtained two tenements on Alexander av for $14,415; the Selvin Realty Co., which put in a bid of $7,175 for the tenement at 34 Alexander av, and Joseph B. Curran, who paid $6,000 for a 3-sty dwelling at 623 Walton av.

The Empire Trust Company, the plaintiff in the foreclosure sale of the Dyckman tract block bounded by Dyckman and Academy sts, Post and Nagel avs, was the buyer of the property at auction sale conducted by Joseph P. Day in the Vesey Street Salesroom on Thursday. The price paid was $291,500, which was just over the indebtedness, the mortgage judgment being $268,271, while unpaid taxes, etc., represented $18,397.

The most important offering for the coming week will be the Hotel Avon, at 161-163 Lexington avenue, which will be sold by Joseph P. Day on Wednesday as the result of an action brought by Stephen H. Jackson against Michele Beaincasa. Henry Brady will sell for the Sheriff on Tuesday all the right, title and interest which Pierre G. Carroll had on Dec. 3, 1913, or since, in the 5-sty loft and store building at 63 Nassau st. On the same day Herbert A. Sherman will offer the 5-sty brick tenement at 433 East 51st st, in a foreclosure suit brought by the City Real Estate Co. against John Schrank, who tried to kill Theodore Roosevelt some years ago in Milwaukee and who is now confined in a Western asylum. A number of vacant parcels will be offered in the Bronx by the various auctioneers.

The M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co. entered the auction field this week by the purchase of John N. Golding's membership in the Auctioneers' Association. The M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co. will have the advantage of entering the field with a well-established plant, developed by Mr. Morgenthau during his fifteen years of activity in the real estate business here in New York. Mr. Morgenthau started in business over 15 years ago in the office of J. Clarence Davies; he afterwards was associated with the firm of Frederick Southack & Alwyn Hall, Jr., and with the Hudson Realty Co., of which his father is now president. The business was incorporated about 5 years ago.

In addition to the advantage of having a well-organized real estate plant with well-developed departments devoted to the sale, exchange and management of real estate, the negotiation of mortgage loans, and the handling of insurance matters, Mr. Morgenthau has already had experience in the auction field through his association with his father, Maximilian Morgenthau, and his uncle, Ambassador Henry Morgenthau. Mr. Henry Morgenthau has disposed of several large estates in Washington Heights and in the Bronx at auction. Mr. Maximilian Morgenthau has, during recent years, developed and disposed of thousands of lots at auction on the Rockaway coast at Edgemere, Far Rockaway and Woodmere.

Queens Chamber of Commerce.

A very valuable rapid transit map of New York City has been prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, which will be given out at the Third Annual Dinner of the Chamber to be held Tuesday evening, January 20th, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. This map, which is 17x28 inches in size, shows in colors all the elevated and subway lines included in the Dual Subway System adopted by the City last Spring. It is undoubtedly the most important map of this kind that has been published. The Interboro Subway System is shown with red lines, and its elevated system by purple lines, while both the subway and elevated lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System in all three Boroughs are shown with green lines. The map shows very clearly how Queens Borough will have the benefit of all three systems of rapid transit, which neither Brooklyn nor the Bronx will enjoy as the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System does not extend north of 59th street, Manhattan, and the Interboro elevated lines do not reach Brooklyn.

The demand for tickets for the dinner of the Chamber will tax to the limit the Astor Gallery. The Dinner Committee, of which former Congressman John J. Kindred, is Chairman, has prepared a list of speakers and guests that will sparkle with oratorical gems. Among those who have accepted to date are the following: Edward E. McCall, chairman Public Service Commission; Maurice E. Connolly, President Borough of Queens; Martin W. Littleton, former Congressman; George V. S. Williams, Public Service Commissioner; Denis O'Leary, Congressman from Queens Borough; Lathrop Brown, Congressman from Queens Borough; Bernard M. Patten, State Senator; Travis H. Whitney, Secretary Public Service Commission; F. J. H. Kracke, Bridge Commissioner; Robert Adamson, Fire Commissioner; G. J. MacCormack, President Borough of Richmond; Cyrus C. Miller, former President of The Bronx.

New School for Dyckman Tract.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has confirmed the appropriation of $235,000 for the erection of a new public school at Vermilyea avenue and Academy street. The new structure will accommodate about one thousand children. The only public school in the Dyckman district at present is a small building in Broadway, put up in 1852, to accommodate a few hundred. Bids for the construction work will soon be opened.

A Policy of Decentralization.

Another important factor in the business situation is the spirit of conciliation which now controls the movements of both the Government and the managers of big corporations in regard to enforcement of the anti-trust law. The Government has modified its attitude of hostility and severity, and is willing to give our great corporations the time necessary for adjustment to new requirements. At the same time, the leaders of big business have bowed to public opinion, and are sincerely endeavoring to place the great organizations which they control within the law. The vital fact is that we have changed from the policy of centralization created largely under the Harriman regime to a policy of decentralization.—Henry Clews.

Subway Work at Long Island City.

The Degnon Contracting Company is losing no time in getting its contract for the construction of the Ely avenue extension of the Steinway Tunnel under way.

A steam shovel was installed in the cut at the portal of the tubes on 4th street, Long Island City, last week, and now it is gnawing out big hunks of frozen terra firma on its way toward the Long Island Railroad freight yard on the other side of Hunterspoint avenue.

Bids are being advertised for on the reconstruction of the Steinway Tunnel. This means that the contract will be let about February 1.

Every effort has been made by the engineers of the Public Service Commission to hasten the plans for this reconstruction work, which, it is expected, will be completed within six months' time.

Among the things that will have to be done to the tunnel to put it into condition for service are the installation of an escalator at the 42d street shaft, near Third avenue; the lengthening of the station platforms at 4th street and Jackson avenue, and the laying of third rails to supplant the overhead rails that were originally put in the tubes.

One Year's Electrical Advance.

Perhaps the most important new development during the past year in the electrical field was the half-watt nitrogen-filled tungsten lamp brought out by the General Electric Co., as a result of several years' work by Dr. Irving Langmuir. There has been little change in generators and motors except in the size of the former to keep pace with the increasing capacity of steam turbines. The largest alternating-current generator installed during 1913 was a 25,000-kw. machine at the Commonwealth Edison Co., of Chicago, although still larger ones have been ordered, and the largest direct-current machine, having a capacity of 3,750 kw., was installed at the Canal Road plant of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. For alternating-current transmission, 150,000 volts still remain the upper limit, work on the Big Creek Development in California, at which this is employed, having progressed steadily during the past year. In direct-current transmission, however, a bold step was taken in the decision to employ the Thury system at 90,000 volts to transmit 20,000 kw. from the Trollhattan Falls in Sweden to Copenhagen, Denmark.—Power.

New York Fire Insurance Exchange.

(Mill Construction.)

The Rate Committee of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange has approved and ordered promulgation of the following standards for mill construction:

WALLS.—Brick or reinforced concrete built in accordance with the requirements of the Building Department of the City of New York.

ROOF.—To be not less than 2-inch plank, splined and grooved on single stick roof timbers not less than 6 inches on the smallest dimension.

FLOORS.—To be not less than 3 inches splined and grooved with 1-inch tongued and grooved finish flooring on single stick beams not less than 8 inches on smallest dimensions. Bays to be not less than 4 feet on center of beams nor more than 11 feet from center to center of beams. Floors to be ingined and scuppered to the outside of the buildings and to be made waterproof by placing between the two layers of flooring a single thickness of waterproof paper, same to be flashed 4 inches around posts and at sides and joints of paper to overlap 6 inches and to be swabbed with tar. If ordinary building paper is used two layers must be used and the entire surface between the two layers be swabbed with tar.

JOISTS, BEAMS AND GIRDERS.—Where centering walls to be made self-releasing.

COLUMNS.—To be not less than 8 inches by 8 inches on the highest floor and increasing 2 inches on a single dimension each floor in descent. If metal columns, beams and girders are used the same to be insulated with not less than 2 inches of approved insulating material.

FLOOR OPENINGS.—All floor opening shafts to be of standard construction and not less than 6 inches in thickness, of hollow terra cotta or reinforced concrete or 8-inch brick, and to be independent of floor construction. Openings to lofts to be protected in a standard manner. This includes stairways, elevators, vent shafts, power shafts, light wells, chutes, dumbwaiters, etc., etc.

In connection with the foregoing the rate committee has promulgated the following rules:

In unspringlered buildings or buildings containing sprinkler equipments grading below 40 per cent. no allowance will be made because of slow burning or mill construction unless the foregoing standards are fully complied with.

In buildings containing sprinkler equipments grading 40 per cent. or over the following modification of or departure from standard requirements may occur without affecting allowance for superior construction, viz.: Floor opening protection may be reduced from 6 inches to 4 inches in thickness when of hollow terra cotta, reinforced concrete or brick about stairways, elevators, vent shafts, power shafts and light shafts and 2 inches about chutes and dumbwaiters; the latter may be of expanded metal and cement.

In rating both sprinklered and unsprinklered risks conforming to the respective requirements set forth above an allowance of 25 per cent. from the gross contents rate will be made in computing net contents rate. Building rate shall be taken at 50 per cent. of net contents rate when the building is rated from any other than a starred, or high susceptibility, basis, but when rated from a starred, or high susceptibility, basis building rate is to be figured as per regular rule governing risks rated from such a basis (see Bulletin 4491), and gross building rate so figured shall be reduced 45 per cent. for superior construction.

The rate committee further rules that the foregoing standards and methods of rating shall be forthwith applied to all buildings of the classes eligible, and all superior construction allowances withdrawn from buildings not eligible. New cards computed in accordance with these rulings have been put in the cabinets of members.

UNITED REALTY OWNERS.

Co-operation — The Key Note of Speeches at Luncheon of United Real Estate Owners' Associations.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association, which has since 1902 consistently fought the battles of property owners on the upper East Side of the city, held a luncheon at Mouquin's, on Thursday, at which the chairman and other speakers urged co-operation. The general expression of opinion was that a critical time had arrived which necessitated a union of all realty owners for the purpose of mutual protection.

Henry Bloch, president of the association, said:

"There is a feeling gradually growing among men that co-operation is fast taking the place of competition. The old doctrines of 'the survival of the fittest,' and 'each for himself and the devil help the hindmost,' have been supplanted by the new thought of co-operation. The great industrial combinations and the labor unions have shown what can be accomplished by joint effort and co-operation. It remains for the owners of property to say whether they will follow the example and join forces for their mutual protection."

L. Victor Weil urged that the realty owners join the United Real Estate Owners' Associations, as associate members. "The record of the associations speak for itself," said Mr. Weil. "The organization was incorporated in 1902. Since that time it has represented the owners of property in many legislative matters affecting their interests. It has instituted test suits in the courts and has carried them to the United States Supreme Court. The organization is a federation of all of the large local taxpayers' associations of the city, comprising a membership of thousands of owners of property. The members of each local association elect one delegate for every twenty-five members to the United Associations. An associate member has practically the same privileges as a delegate sent from a local association."

Dr. Henry W. Berg, of the 10th, 11th and 17th Wards Taxpayers' Association, clearly pointed out the unfortunate condition of affairs which would follow the enactment of the so-called Salant-Schaap Bill.

Mr. Lawrence B. Elliman and Mr. Adolph Bloch addressed the gathering on the need of a central organization for taxpayers.

Among the invited guests were: James F. Meehan, Lawrence B. Elliman, Frank Eberhart, President of 12th and 19th Wards Taxpayers' Associations; Clark Dailey, Adolph Bloch, J. Clarence Davies, George Herberner, Moses Ottinger, Gerhard Kuehne, Jacob Gordon, John Volz, Stewart Browne, Thomas Krekeler, President of 10th, 11th and 17th Wards Taxpayers' Association; Alec Cahn, Edgar Levy, Tax Commissioner Joseph S. Schwab, President of the 18th and 21st Wards Taxpayers' Association, and Robert E. Dowling.

The Public Auction Method.

Hundreds of capitalists of both small and large calibre, like the public auction method of trading. They find the auction market so broad and receptive that it appeals to them as a measure of protection for their operations. They are ready to use it on a large scale for both buying and selling. Their participation, in itself, will add breadth and solidity to salesrooms transactions.

We know the progress of rapid transit construction and just how fast is approaching the time when population centres will be transformed by the new dual subway lines, when, in fact, the wonderful service for Queens Borough, especially in Long Island City, will make that great section the most rapidly developing part of the great city of New York.

Those who are the best informed seem to think the country has passed through the worst of its vicissitudes and that events are moving "for better" rather than "for worse." At any rate, there must be the usual "big recovery" some day.—Bryan L. Kennelly.

CATHEDRAL PLANS.—Bishop Greer has announced that there is no intention on the part of the trustees of St. John's Cathedral to submit the plans to a vote of church members. In his opinion such a move would only complicate the already delicate situation and increase the widely varying opinions as to what form the architecture should take.

THE HOPHAR CO. is the name of the concern recently incorporated with a capital of $10,000 to do a realty and general construction business on its own property. The Record and Guide is indebted to Secretary Tompkins, of the New York Building Trades Council, for a copy. There have been conciliation and arbitration treaties between employers' associations and the unions in the building industry of New York City for more than 28 years, beginning with the agreements issued by the National Building Association and the bricklayers' unions and the Amalgamated German unions under date of April 24, 1885.

EAST RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.—A delegation of representative citizens of Manhattan and Brooklyn, accompanied by Mayor Mitchel and Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith and other city officials, appeared before a Congressional committee in support of Congressman Goulden's bill appropriating $500,000 for the improvement of the East River, including the removal of dangerous ledges and shoals. The bill also empowers the Secretary of War to make continuing contracts for the deepening of the channels in New York Harbor at a cost not to exceed $13,400,000. Mayor Mitchel based his appeal on the increase of the draft in ocean-going steamers and upon the demand for further accommodation with an anticipated growth of commerce when the Panama Canal opens. His proposal for improvements included the opening of a 35-foot channel through the East River to permit the passage of ocean-going vessels, and the removal of Diamond Shoals, Coenties Reef and reefs in the East River channel south of Blackwell's Island and near Hell Gate. He insisted that safety and growth demand these changes.

TRADE AND TECHNICAL SOCIETY EVENTS.

HENRY BRUERE, City Chamberlain, was the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Society of Municipal Engineers at the Savoy Hotel. He told the engineers that they would be expected to work and not talk about what they are doing. Mr. Bruere's talk was principally a defence of the Bureau of Municipal Research, of which he was director until he became City Chamberlain. He declared that two engineers who told the truth while the bureau was conducting an investigation of the Department of Public Works made Mr. Mitchel Mayor, because they gave him the opportunity to prove his worth while he was Commissioner of Accounts. The other speakers were Marcus M. Marks, Borough President of Manhattan; Comptroller William A. Prendergast and Alfred D. Flinn, president of the society, who was toastmaster. Among the others at the speakers' table were Lewis H. Pounds, Borough President of Brooklyn, and Douglas Mathewson, Borough President of the Bronx.

The first afternoon of the convention will be left open for a general visit to the Cement Show, which will occur in the Coliseum at that time. If the plans of the Board of Directors meet with the success now expected small dealers will be an important factor in the coming convention. As the dues of the association have been reduced it is expected that this will be the means of bringing many dealers into the organization who heretofore have felt that they were not doing sufficient business to justify them in affiliating with the supply association.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.—The sixty-first annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 21 and 22, at the society house in New York City. The business meeting will be called to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. REALTY LEAGUE MERGED

With the Real Estate Board—League's Work to Be Continued.

The Real Estate Board of New York, of 115 Broadway, is to absorb the Realty League of 68 William street. At an executive meeting of the former organization on Tuesday afternoon it was decided to elect all the members of the Realty League individually, and at the same time to adopt the general policy and aims of the league.

The membership of the league totals about a hundred and fifty men, and they will become associate members of the Board.

Those who are qualified will be placed upon the waiting list for active members, with all the privileges of the Board except that of voting. As vacancies occur they will be elected.

The working force of the Realty League will be taken over by the Board, and all its work continued along the lines laid down in the past. Special attention will be given to bills introduced in the Legislature relative to loft buildings; also actions taken by the various municipal departments. General legislation as applied to real estate also will be watched closely.

This amalgamation is in line with the recent revival of activity on the part of the Real Estate Board. It has been endeavoring to unite under its leadership all the real estate interests of the city so as to present a united front against attempts on the part of the municipal authorities to interfere with what it considers the justifiable demands of real estate owners and brokers, and to carry on an active campaign against the undue increase of taxation.

The Realty League has as president William C. Demorest, and Arthur C. Bastine is its secretary. A. H. Mathews is treasurer, and Carlisle Norwood counsel. As among its members were real estate owners, architects and builders, as well as real estate brokers, it is expected that its union with the Board will be of great benefit to both bodies.

They will be able to speak for the realty interests of the city with a great deal of authority, and any proposal, whether of the State or the city, will be considered by the enlarged board with the aid of some of the leading experts in the city.

The officers of the Real Estate Board of New York for the current year are: Lawrence M. D. McGuire, president; W. J. Van Pelt, vice-president; Elisha Sniffin, secretary; Frederick D. Kalley, treasurer; John P. Kirwan, Lawrence B. Elliman, Albert N. Ashforth, E. A. Tredwell, and Warren Cruikshank, governors.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

In extenuation of this condition it might be said that an improvement in building construction is immediately reflected in steel and kindred lines because it has to be specified some time ahead, whereas brick is bought and delivered practically as it is needed on the job, except in times when the building movement is brisk and there is a rising price market in brick, when dealers find it profitable to stack.

Front brick, on the other hand, is a better barometer of the immediate future building movement because this is a commodity that frequently has to be specified considerably in advance of delivery. It is, therefore, significant that most front brick distributors are reporting a slight change for the better in this regard, that is, inquiry has been more brisk for New York and metropolitan district operations.

BUILDING TRADES FORESEE BETTER TIMES

A Keynote Speech by President Crawford at the Annual Banquet—Says Builders Should Not Be Burdened with Unfair Legislation.

A CHANCE to brace up is the country's greatest need, according to President Crawford of the Building Trades Employers' Association. At the annual banquet of that body at the Waldorf-Astoria on Wednesday night he delivered the only speech of the occasion, but it was one of such a nature and importance as to have the effect of a message from the entire building trade of the first city of the land to the governmental powers, whether at City Hall Albany or Washington—a message of good-will, but also a message of appeal, that no more unfair burdens be heaped upon the building industry.

A Brilliant Scene.

The great banquet hall was crowded by the sixty tables filled with the principal building contractors of the metropolitan district. The special guests were seated with the President and other officers of the association at a long table down the south side. We noticed there Richard Deeves, the dean of the building trades; Cass Gilbert, of worldwide fame as the architect of the tallest building; Francis N. Howland, president of the Mechanics and Traders' Exchange; Robert D. Kohn, president of New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and also president of the National Fire Prevention Association; the five Superintendents of Buildings, Messrs. Miller, Carlin, Moorehead, Moore and Seaton; the Commissioner of the Tenement House Department, Mr. John J. Murphy; Mr. Constantine Schubert, and Vice-Presidents Fred G. Webber, Edwin Outwater, Treasurer A. N. Chambers, and Charles J. Kelly, chairman of the board of governors.

Viewed as a whole, it was a very representative gathering which President Crawford arose to address—a gathering representative of a mechanical industry which has performed some of the greatest feats of construction in the world's history. It was their annual get-together, just for the sake of being all together, and not for the sake of listening to profuse oratorical efforts. The vaudeville that followed the remarks of the President was a pleasant change from the long established order of things. About five hundred men were in attendance. After extending a greeting to all, Mr. Crawford said:

President Crawford's Speech.

"We should all be particularly happy to-night, for under prevailing business conditions it is very gratifying to look about and observe the smiling faces and the spirit of thorough enjoyment which is apparent at each and every table. It shows the character of our organization, for the recent hard times have applied the acid test to each and every one of us, and the large attendance here to-night demonstrates the stability of our membership.

"In recent days it seems to have been thought necessary to get after the large interests, and the activity in that direction created conditions that brought about a general stagnation of business; but the big interests are coming out of their cyclone cellars, and there seems to be a growing disposition on their part to conform to the spirit of the times and give present-day methods a chance to be tried out. I believe that if the growth of this feeling can be continued, and if methods free from animosity and antagonism are employed on one side, and a more friendly and co-operative spirit extended from the other, that the unrest which prevails will soon be over.

Needs a Chance to Brace Up.

"What our country needs is a chance to brace up, and if our law-makers will only put the brakes on a little and go more slowly round the turns, not losing sight of the fact that there is such a thing as business, and that most people make their living by business, then I am sure that in the very near future we shall enter upon an era of good times, that a wave of prosperity will come to our shores, and that our industries will soon be humming again.

"I believe that we have seen the worst of the hard times and I feel confident that the dawn of brighter days is visible. Our country is so great, its resources so unlimited, that its onward march of prosperity cannot be held in abeyance for any great period of time. Let us hope that these prophecies will prove true and that the year nineteen hundred and fourteen has ushered in an era of prosperity to our country, to our city and to ourselves.

Compensation Bill Unsatisfactory.

"After repeated attempts on the part of our legislators a workman's compulsory compensation law has finally been passed and placed upon our statute books. Since the earliest consideration of this intricate subject no industry has been more active and more generally favorable to the great change from employer's liability to workmen's compensation, than has been the Building Trades Employers' Association. An analysis of the present law proves that the bill was passed too hurriedly; and while we are unanimous in the belief that there was need of a compensation measure, the new law will have to be greatly amended or modified before it can meet with general approval and be fair to both sides.

"Our legislators should not burden us with unfair legislation, their motto should be "Justice, and Only Justice." Our industries should not be saddled with legislation that tends to drive business out of our city and State and which prevents new enterprises and investments from coming in.

A New Building Every Fifty Minutes.

"When conditions are normal in this great city of ours, statistics show that we have a new building every fifty minutes during working hours. Our city's average disbursements are $1,000,000 each day, and upon the shoulders of the new officials who were chosen at our last election rests the duty of managing for the next four years the vast and complicated affairs of our great city. Upon their wisdom, prudence and fidelity to their trust, the city's progress will largely depend; and although the Building Trades Employers' Association is not a political organization, yet it is deeply interested in the efficient, economical and wise administration of the city's government and desires to make known its assurance of interest and support in the difficult and responsible work to be performed, and to extend its best wishes for a successful administration.

"In closing I want once again to pay tribute to the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association and tender them most sincere congratulations; for any organization that can boast of as substantial a body of men as those composing our membership have shown themselves to be during the period of business depression through which we have passed, ranks high and compares favorably with any organization or body of men engaged in any industry of the present day. Gentlemen, I wish you all a very happy and prosperous New Year."

Chairman Edward E. McCall, of the Public Service Commission, made an announcement which was greeted with great applause.

"The commission expects," he said, "to ratify the form of contract, on Wednesday, for the reconstruction of the Steinway Tunnel and order the insertion of advertisements for bidders. At to-day's meeting of the commission we had the final proofs of the contract for reconstruction before us and were about to act upon it when one of the counsel stated that he was not entirely satisfied with certain clauses in the contract and asked for time to go over the printed form.

"'You take that contract with you and lock yourself in to-night and study it,' I told the objector, 'because we are going to act on it to-morrow. We will not adjourn until Friday, but will meet to-morrow, remember.

"'Get ready to-night what amendments you wish to suggest; we are going to ratify that form of contract to-morrow and ask for bids.'"

QUEENS MEN DINE.

Chamber of Commerce Banquet, with a Number of Representative Speakers, a Success.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens held their third annual dinner, on Tuesday evening, at the Waldorf-Astoria. The function, which was attended by a number of prominent city officials, was adjudged a success from every viewpoint. The dinner committee evidently took great pains to give local color, for the spacious banquet hall was generously decorated with Queens Borough flags, and over the speakers' table blazed in big electric lights, "Go to Queens."

Borough President Connolly scored when he declared that Queens Borough ought to have a representative on the Public Service Commission.

The speaker also referred to the importance of the Jamaica Bay improvement and the proposed canal to connect Flushing and Jamaica Bays.

Former Borough President Cyrus C. Miller of the Bronx made a short address in which he spoke of the natural advantages which Long Island City possesses as a location for one of the municipal markets which it is proposed to establish throughout the city.

Other speakers were County Judge Burt Jay Humphrey, Martin W. Littleton, William B. Ellison and Rev. Andrew Magill of the First Presbyterian Church, of Jamaica.

The officers of the Chamber of Commerce are Robert W. Higbie, president; John H. Prall and C. G. M. Thomas, vice-presidents; William J. Hamilton, treasurer, and Walter I. Willis, secretary. The chairman of the dinner committee was John J. Kindred.

DOES RESTRICTION IMPLY COMPENSATION?

Hon. Cyrus C. Miller Thinks Owners Should Have an Opportunity to Prove Their Losses, if Any Result, From Limiting the Height of Buildings.

THE Committee on Heights of Buildings in transmitting the report of its advisory commission to the Board of Estimate recommended that the report be referred to the Board of Aldermen for its consideration, and, further, that the two boards, acting under the charter, take steps to enact an ordinance regulating the heights of buildings in all parts of the city, in accordance with the rule more fully stated in Chapter VI of the report.

The Committee's Recommendations.

The committee also recommended that more stringent requirements be applied to particular parts of the city for the purpose of stabilizing to a reasonable extent both values and uses. Eight types of districts were suggested. It is not proposed that the fixing of these districts shall be done under the present charter provision, but that legislation shall be obtained, giving power to the Board of Estimate to create districts after a specified preliminary routine. The draft of a charter amendment for this purpose is included in the report, and also an amendment empowering the Board of Estimate, under certain checks, to exclude factories and other new land uses from certain districts. The committee recommends that these charter amendments, after consideration by the Board of Estimate, be placed before the Legislature.

In making these recommendations, the committee regards two requirements as imperative: First, that all such regulations should be designed to stabilize or increase locality values; and, second, that lot owners should be protected in the enjoyment of light, air and street use proportionate to the size of their holdings. It is not recommended that Fifth avenue be placed in a district by itself, but in a class that would include many other parts of the Borough of Manhattan and which, both by reasons of height limitation and factory exclusion, would prevent further injury to this avenue as a high-class retail street.

The report of the committee is signed by George McAneny, Lewis H. Pounds and Cyrus C. Miller.

President Miller's Personal Views.

In a separate communication to the Board of Estimate Borough President Cyrus C. Miller says that several propositions in the report of the advisory commission strike him unfavorably:

1. To limit the height of buildings on private property without making compensation for any loss to the owner of the property.

2. A flat limitation of height for all buildings without regard to the area of the plots on which the buildings are erected.

3. No provision made for changing the limitations in a district to meet the changes in trade conditions.

"Any interference with the unrestricted use of private property is to that extent a taking of private property," says Mr. Miller. "The State may take private property for public use in two ways only:

The So Called Police Power.

"1. By the power of eminent domain, in which case just compensation is given, and—

"2. By the exercise of the police power, when there is no compensation.

"Primarily the police power has the right of the State to prescribe rules for the health, safety and morals of the community. In recent cases this doctrine has been extended to include public convenience and general welfare. But even this power must be exercised with some regard to constitutional limitations. The mere statement that the limitation of the heights of buildings is a proper exercise of the police power is not sufficient without supporting facts. Justice McKenna, in Eubank vs. City of Richmond, 33 Supreme Court, Reports 76, decided December 2, 1912, states:

> "'Whether it is a valid exercise of the police power is a question in the case, and that power we have defined as far as it is capable of being defined by general words, a number of times. It is not susceptible of circumstantial precision. It extends, we have said, not only to regulations which promote the public health, morals and safety, but to those which promote the public convenience or the general prosperity. But necessarily it has its limits and must stop when it encounters the prohibitions of the Constitution.'

Private Rights and Business Profits.

"When interference with private rights in a district is of such a character that profit will come to some owners and loss to others, and compensation can be made for the injury to the property owner, the right of eminent domain with compensation should be exercised, and not the police power. It must not be forgotten that one of the reasons for this movement was the desire of the owners along Fifth avenue to preserve the present character and volume of the business done on that thoroughfare. While the wish to preserve that dignified and noble street is commendable, it should not blind us to the private rights of owners on that street and other streets of the city.

"While aesthetic considerations are part of the underlying motive of the plan, the main object of it is the preservation of profitable business and not the health, morals or safety of the community. If loss to private owners should result, the business should help pay for it. In other words, I think an owner should have the opportunity to prove his loss, if any, to be paid for by assessment in whole or in part on the area benefited."

For a Stated Period Only.

Mr. Miller inclines to the conviction that if any restrictions are imposed they should be for a definite period, and with power in the Board of Estimate to change the restrictions if altering conditions demand it. He voted for the report as a whole because it recommends amendments to the Charter giving the Board of Estimate power to regulate the heights of buildings in districts to be fixed by it, and also to regulate trades in such districts. The difficulty will come when the Board of Estimate is to act.

The Amended Building Code.

The building code which was introduced in the Board of Aldermen Tuesday, July 13, and referred to the Building Committee to examine and report, has been submitted to the Superintendent of Buildings of the five boroughs for criticism and recommendations. Chairman Hamilton has called a meeting of the committee for January 30, at which time it is expected the reports of the superintendents will all have been received. Public hearings will be called later.

—The real estate interests are much encouraged by the growing ease of money at all financial centers. Local bank reserves are rising. Funds are returning from the interior. Commercial paper has been much more active, and monetary conditions generally are promising. This change in the financial situation will have far-reaching effects, which in due time will get around to the real estate market.

REAL CAUSES OF THE REALTY DECLENSION

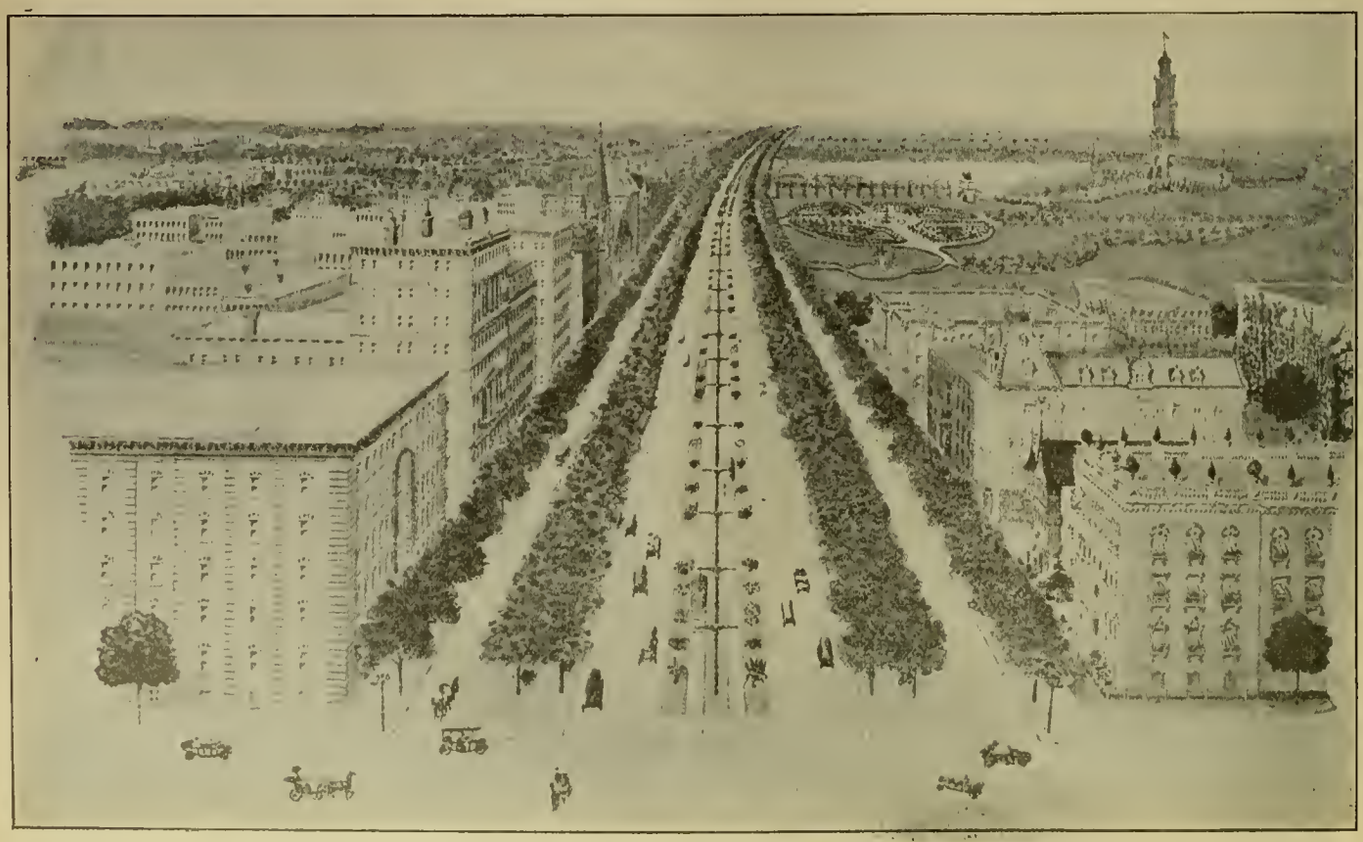
The Over-Regulation of Buildings By City Departments—An Era of Foolish Speculation—A Report By Trustees of Title Guarantee Company

THE report of the trustees of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company to the stockholders at the annual meeting this week, a copy of which report the Record and Guide has been permitted to read, contains matters of such interest to real estate and financial circles in general that extracts from it are given to show what was the real cause of the inactivity in the real estate market last year, not to mention those previous years also.

It is commonly understood that 1913 was a poor real estate year. It was in Manhattan and The Bronx, but notwithstanding this the Title Guarantee and Trust Company added $236,000 to its surplus, paid its regular dividends, retained its organization practically intact and paid nearly $25,000 to officers and employees under a profit-sharing plan they have in that big corporation. But it had to charge down by nearly $250,000 the book value of its securities in order to carry them in the assets at their market value.

The causes of the bad real estate year have been much discussed any many reasons offered for it. The trustees of this company in their report say that the trouble may lie partly in the very place least expected, viz., the extreme desirability of New York City real estate from the standpoint of a mortgage investment. There never has been a better investment nor is there now any investment so good as a proper first mortgage on a piece of well situated property in New York City. The fame of this investment went abroad and as a result everyone wanted mortgage investments in New York City. People did not stop to find out whether the particular mortgage investment offered to them was a good one or a poor one. The safety valve was tied down and during a period when there was some timidity about investment in other things, all sorts of investors rushed their money into New York real estate mortgages. Building was overdone and soon there was more space than tenants. The new buildings in one part of town emptied the old buildings elsewhere and the very mortgagees who put their money into apartments and loft buildings farther up town found that they had weakened the security for the money they had invested earlier in mortgages in other parts of the city.

"Naturally, the life of the real estate owner has been a burden. When the larger mortgages that were made in the enthusiasm of a few years ago fell due, it was impossible for the borrowers, if called upon to pay, to replace them for the same amount. Tenants having their choice of much vacant space were very insistent in their demands for lower terms and more accommodations. It was hard for even the most enthusiastic broker to figure out profit in a piece of real estate that he had for sale. As a result he could not sell it and this is reflected in the falling off in the recorded instruments in the various county offices. For Greater New York they number 105,794 as compared with 113,165 for 1912—the lowest number for many years. In 1906, for instance, they numbered 188,152. There is no county that shows a gain.



"In addition to this fact, the various departments of the city government have selected these discouraging times as a proper period to pay particular attention to the physical comfort and safety of our renting citizens. There never was in all the history of New York such a wholesale regulation of real estate as there has been during the past four or five years. New codes, new regulations, new interpretations of old regulations, unexpected enforcement of regulations previously disregarded, all have tended to make the owner of real estate feel that such ownership was considered a crime.

"We do not wish to post as objecting to improvement in the conditions of occupancy of New York City real estate. Many, if not all of the changes, have been for the general betterment, that is, if it is for the better to try to force a $5 tenant into a $10 room. Be that as it may, the changes have proved to be a great burden in times already hard and it seems a little unfair.

"The bottom is not knocked out of New York real estate, but some of the froth has been blown off the top. There are five million people and more in Greater New York and the old impression that every one of them is in some way dependent for his existence on the real estate under his feet is just as true to-day as it ever was. In this climate everyone must have a roof over his head for at least six months out of the year, and that means that real estate cannot become an acutal superfluity.

"Fortunately, that era of foolish investment, when the corporations with vast sums to invest were willing to lend it to the merest novice in building, has gone by. These corporations appreciate that if their investments in one part of New York are to be protected, careful scrutiny must be made of the necessity of further real estate accommodations in other parts of the town. 'Is such a building necessary?' is the first question that is asked to-day by the intelligent lender when a man wants to borrow money for building purposes.

THE PROPOSED QUEENS BOULEVARD, TO RUN EASTWARD FROM QUEENSBORO

MANHATTAN BRIDGE PLAZA IN BROOKLYN

Importance of the Improvement—Abutting Sites Offer Unusual Advantages for Business—Likely to Develop into a Manufacturing Center.

ON Oct. 20, 1905, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment appointed a committee of three engineers, Messrs. Nelson P. Lewis, George S. Rice and O. F. Nichols, to prepare plans for the Manhattan Bridge Plaza in Brooklyn. Their report (No. 3375) with plans was made November 8, 1905. In it they made provision for all necessary traffic, including a terminal for Manhattan trolley cars and a subway station, all within the area bounded by Sands and Nassau streets and Jay and Bridge streets. These plans have been altered and changed so that they have now no semblance to the original.

It was found impractical to locate a subway station nearer the Plaza than at Myrtle avenue, and that the trolley terminal also would be best located at Fulton street or at the Long Island Depot on Atlantic avenue. It was also learned that under the revised plans the trolley roads would very likely interfere with vehicular traffic near where the subway enters the Plaza, unless more land should be acquired; consequently, the city determined to condemn and take two small pieces of property adjoining the east and west sides of Flatbush avenue extension between Concord and Nassau streets, thereby enlarging the entrance to the Bridge Plaza so as to prevent congestion of traffic. Through this new avenue the Fourth avenue subway has been constructed and emerges on the Plaza just north of Nassau street, to connect with the Manhattan Bridge.

In Manhattan, the improvement starts practically from the North River, by way of Canal street, cutting at right angles all the principal thoroughfares running north and south. Then crossing the Manhattan Bridge, it pursues a nearly straight course by way of the Flatbush avenue extension, through to Jamaica. As a result, this new thoroughfare will offer something novel to Brooklyn—an important shipping point at each end.

Real Estate Still Inactive.

Sales at the Brooklyn end of the Manhattan Bridge have been few and far between, and no real "boom" or particular activity has been experienced. People familiar with the situation are of the opinion that the present condition of the streets is the principal reason for it.

The property acquired by the city for Flatbush avenue extension on March 1, 1907, has remained in a torn up, chaotic state from that date until the present time. The paving of this new avenue from Fulton street to Concord street was completed in December, 1913, nearly seven years after property was taken by the city, and the block between Concord and Nassau streets is not yet paved.

The section on the Flatbush avenue extension between Bridge and Fulton streets, would however, be particularly well adapted for loft buildings, light manufacturing establishments and showrooms, on account of its close proximity to the Bridge. The shipping facilities along the extension are unsurpassed, having at the foot of Bridge street the Jay street terminal, where all steam roads are served. The New York Dry Dock Co. is only a short distance away and but a few blocks farther on Flatbush avenue is the Long Island Railroad. It has a direct connection with the North River steamship lines, by way of Canal street, into the very heart of Manhattan.

The traffic of all descriptions passing ceaselessly back and forth over the bridge must use the extension of Flatbush avenue from Fulton street, because it is practically the only approach.

William Clinton Burling, of the Burling Realty Co., established for many years in Bridge street, near the Manhattan Bridge, expressed an opinion that the section would develop into a commercial center. He said:

"We have had, already, inquiries from Manhattan manufacturers who have discovered the advantages of a location here and are seeking sites for their businesses. Flatbush avenue as extended has great advertising advantages on account of the unusually heavy traffic which frequents it. One large Manhattan firm dealing in automobile sundries has been for some time seeking a plot for the erection of a building for showrooms. The heavy automobile traffic has created a demand for good service garages in the neighborhood.

"The section is ripe for improvement as a manufacturing center. The Cary Manufacturing Co., large producers of box strappings, has been established for some time in their own structure directly on the Plaza, and other firms are already housed there."

What an Investigation Showed.

An investigation of 78 typical factories out of 600 in the Fifth avenue district which was made under the direction of the Fifth Avenue Association by a special squad of New York University students disclosed that only twelve per cent. have met the requirements of the new occupancy law. The results of the investigation were given out by President Robert Greer Cooke substantially as follows:

Investigated 78 factories; number of people employed in them, 8,969.

Eight shops, employing 718 people, won't be disturbed.

Three shops, employing 318 people, have made arrangements to move.

THE CARY MFG. CO.'S BUILDING FACING ON THE PLAZA.

VIEW SHOWING PRESENT CONDITION OF PROPOSED PLAZA.

Fifty-four shops, employing 6,842 people, will have to reduce this number to 3,741 in their present quarters or take additional floors, or move.

Thirteen factories, employing 1,091 people, will be compelled to vacate the lofts, the buildings not having the minimum of two stairways which the law demands above the second floor.

Governor Glynn Will Speak at Real Estate Dinner.

Governor Glynn will be the principal speaker at the eighteenth annual dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York, to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria on Feb. 7. The full list of speakers will be announced next week. All available seats have been sold and the banquet promises to be the most interesting and successful in the history of the board.

—President Wilson having gotten rid of the tariff and currency problems is now taking hold of the trust question in earnest, and he evidently believes that its true solution lies somewhere in the neighborhood of the golden rule.

SECURED DEBT LAW ATTACKED AT SYRACUSE

State Tax Commissioner Byrnes Charges That It Favors the Rich—Other Tax Laws Criticised—Important Proceedings at the State Tax Conference.

Syracuse.—"The so-called 'secured debts' law which has been proposed is taxation in no sense of the word, but a measure advocated by rich men and large corporations interested in obtaining as much exemption from taxes as possible."

This denunciation was hurled at the New York Tax Reform Association at the Onondaga by State Tax Commissioner Thomas F. Byrnes in his address at the first session of the fourth annual state tax conference.

Mr. Byrnes characterized the proposed legislation as an attempt to add to "the present hodge-podge of special taxes, which must be done away with before the State can get down to a sound basic system of taxation."

"It is a misnomer to label the 'secured debts law" taxation. It is simply exemption, bred and fostered by the New York Tax Reform Association because it is in furtherance of their plan and object to do away with all personal property taxes in the state.

Corporations Represented.

"The present Board of Tax Commissioners antagonizes no one interested in the subject of taxation, but it is not remiss to say that the New York Tax Reform Association is not a philanthropic institution, but represents rich men and large corporations, to whose interest it is to obtain the largest possible degree of exemption on personal property. You will find no ordinary farmers or home-owners on its list.

Credit Taken by Association.

"The Tax Reform Association takes credit for the large revenue from the present inheritance tax law, but fails to bring out the fact that for the fiscal year ended 1912 of the total amount collected, $12,153,188, there was received from seventy-one estates the sum of $7,676,407, or more than 63 per cent. of the whole amount collected.

"So far from there being due great credit to this Association, advantage is taken of the fact that a number of rich men died in that particular year and the increment from their estates made a good showing.

"The object of these conferences is to afford an opportunity to state and local officials and representatives of each class of property interests jointly to consider and discuss the problems of taxation and existing assessment difficulties, as well as to promote co-operation in the effort to bring about a more equitable distribution of the tax burden."

At the conclusion of his address, Commissioner Byrnes introduced Mayor Louis Will, who welcomed the delegates to the city and expressed the opinion that there was need for radical reforms in the method of collecting taxes on farm and village property.

Urges Larger Commission.

H. D. Brewster of Syracuse, member of the State Board of Assessors during the administrations of Governors Flower and Hill, twenty years ago, advocated increasing the present State Tax Commission from three to five members.

Dr. Abraham Korn, New York City, bitterly attacked the New York Tax Reform Association. Two delegates attempted to reply, but the meeting was adjourned at this crisis.

The recommendation of the Committee of Arrangements that Commissioner Byrnes be elected permanent chairman and Charles J. Tobin, secretary, was adopted.

Chairman Byrnes announced that Governor Martin H. Glynn would address the closing session of the conference on Friday, and requested the delegates to remain over for that meeting.

Local Option.

Benjamin Clarke Marsh, executive secretary, New York Congestion Committee, announced that he would present a resolution to the effect that the conference place itself on record as favoring local option in taxation by cities or counties where they contain more than one city or village, and also a referendum on rates and objects of taxation in such cities or counties.

Tax Officials Present.

Nearly 200 city, town, county and state officials and laymen directly or indirectly interested in the problem of taxation arrived in this city for the conference on state and local taxation.

Boards of trade, chambers of commerce, state officers, members of the Legislature, commissioners of education, conservation commissioners, boards of supervisors county attorneys, county and city treasurers, assessors in cities, towns and villages, as well as other county, town and village officers, had been invited to join in the conference.

Among the delegates were: Commissioner Lawson Purdy, of the New York City Tax Department; Secretary Pleydell, of the New York Tax Reform Association; Henry Bloch; Alderman Henry Pouker; Harold Phillips and Dr. Korn, of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations of New York; Thomas F. Byrnes, Albany, chairman of the State Tax Commission; William H. Sullivan, Norwich, state tax commissioner; Michael J. Walsh, Yonkers, deputy state comptroller and former mayor of Yonkers; Robert H. Neville, Yonkers, chairman of the Board of Assessors; Joseph B. Cunningham, secretary of the State Tax Commission; Charles J. Tobin, assistant secretary State Tax Commission; Daniel W. Carroll, member of Yonkers Board of Assessors; E. D. Spencer, confidential mortgage tax examiner, State Tax Commission.

Tax Laws Farcical.

State Tax Commissioner William H. Sullivan, at the Thursday morning session, declared that New York State has not kept pace with the progress made by other States in assessment of real property of statewide companies.

He characterized as "wrong and ridiculous" the present method of making local assessments on properties of steam railroad companies, etc.

Foreign corporations, he said, do not pay their commensurate share of local taxes or State.

The taxation locally of real and personal property of corporations he frankly called a farce.

Companies operating chains of stores in different cities pay comparatively no local tax, but receive the same protection as local merchants who are assessed on their stock of goods and who have to compete with them.

Purdy on Local Assessment.

Lawson Purdy, of New York, spoke on "The Powers and Duties of the State Board in Relation to Efficiency in Making Local Assessments."

In discussing papers read at the Seventh Annual conference of the National Tax association, "New York's Needs," by E. E. Woodbury, was commented upon by Frank L. Young, Ossining, N. Y., and William H. Vary, master of the New York State Grange. "Corporate Tax Problems by Randall J. LeBoeuff," was discussed by Ralph Mortan, tax attorney, New York railways, and Francis J. Whitney, tax attorney, Western Union Telegraph company, opened the general discussion which closed the session.

It was announced that 200 men, representing thirty-five counties, had registered.

Increasing Long Island Traffic.

The continually increasing all-year traffic on the Long Island Railroad is justifying the wisdom of the management in building an immense union station at Jamaica and elevating the tracks from Richmond Hill to Hillside. This traffic, however, is bringing new problems in its wake, important among which is the elimination of fast through express trains from the tracks of the Montauk division between Jamaica and Babylon. The growth of villages on the western end of this division and the consequent increased commutation business is what necessitated the continuing of the summer time table through the winter.

Real estate men point out, and the railroad company has considered the advisability of rehabilitating the old Stewart or central branch of the road and operating through express trains over it from Floral Park to Babylon, at which latter point it joins the Montauk division. Babylon is the first stop for heavy expresses bound for the Hamptons and Montauk Point. The central branch was an independent line built by A. T. Stewart and subsequently absorbed into the Long Island system. An occasional freight train is run over it in order to protect the franchise right. The part of the central branch that extended from Creedmoor to Long Island City, through Flushing, was long ago abandoned and it is sought, also, to have the road rebuilt through Flushing.

Not only would the use of the central branch east of Floral Park relieve the Montauk division from heavy traffic, but local service over it would build up the territory adjacent to Floral Park and Hempstead, while the trolley roads of southern Nassau County would be traffic feeders of the line.

There has been no class distinction in the suburban home movement. The north shore of Nassau County has been built up with the most costly homes, while the central and southern parts are the theatres of moderate priced construction. Another decade will find few vacant tracts in Nassau.

NEW FIRE PREVENTION MOVE.

National Fire Prevention Association Says a New Society Is Not Needed.

The American Society for Fire Prevention has been incorporated under the laws of the State of New York and has opened offices at 51 Chambers street. Ex-Alderman A. W. Herbst, lately chairman of the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen, is the main instrumentality in founding this new society, whose object is to plan, investigate, revise and put into effect methods to safeguard life and property through the construction of buildings that will be fireproof and safe. The society will urge the enactment and adoption of laws, codes, regulations and rulings by Legislatures and other public bodies and officials in order to provide proper safeguards in every State and city. It will also compile and furnish detailed information concerning fireproof materials and the best method of construction and equipment.

President Kahn Declines.

On his return from the West this week Robert D. Kohn, president of the National Protection Association. found upon his desk an invitation to join the new society and a second invitation to accept nomination to the Board of Directors or as a member of the advisory board of the American Society. In a letter of declination which Mr. Kahn has sent to ex-Alderman Herbst, he says that he cannot see that there is any need for the new organization or any additional association working towards the same end. President Kohn further says in the letter:

"It appears to me likely that you and your associates have for some reason remained ignorant of the monumental character of the investigations and the establishment of standards of fire protection resulting from the work of the National Fire Protection Association in the past. This organization is composed of more than a hundred active members. Active members are, according to the by-laws, limited to national associations interested in fire prevention work, either directly or indirectly. Such national organizations already a part of our membership include organizations, as you will see, representative of most of the professions and of all the great industries. We have the American Institute of Architects, with several thousand members; the American Institute of Consulting Engineers, the Institute of Electrical Engineers, etc., etc. It will probably be no exaggeration to say that the one hundred organizations represented in our active membership include in all twenty-five or thirty thousand members, who are reached by our literature, represented in our committees and participating in the active work of this association in one form or another. In addition to this we have between two and three thousand associate members. These are individuals who have personally joined the membership irrespective of their representation through national organizations forming part of our active membership.

Propaganda Work.

"Through co-operation with the Underwriters' Laboratories in Chicago, we have from time to time published pamphlets descriptive of standards of fire protection in almost every field of the work. During the present month we are publishing a standard small building code for small towns and villages, which will probably be distributed throughout the country to five or ten thousand interested persons, among whom two or three thousand are architects. I cite this merely as one item of our national work.

"Our field secretary, Franklin H. Wentworth, of Boston, has for four or five years traveled from one end of the country to the other, spreading our information and doing propaganda work through addresses to Chambers of Commerce, credit associations and architectural societies. In order to reach more immediately any local situation requiring authoritative opinions on fire protection matters we have within the last year organized a national committee on public information, with representatives in almost every large city in the country. This committee has been actively at work and has organized the membership of the National Association in a number of cities into local chapters, with local chairmen.

"In New York city the local membership was organized about two months ago under the chairmanship of Rudolph P. Miller. The membership in New York city alone is very large. During a visit to Chicago last week I attended a meeting of the local chapter there and found they had 290 members organized and actively at work under the chairmanship of Frank D. Chase, an architect of prominence. As more and more of these local groups of the national membership of this association are formed the local demand for information will be filled to an even greater extent than heretofore in all fire protection matters that come up in the various communities.

"I have gone thus into detail on this subject so that you may be familiar with the situation. It seems to me that the National Fire Protection Association is well qualified to continue the propaganda work that it has during more than seventeen years so splendidly pushed in this country. The labors of all these years is only now beginning to be recognized.

"As many inquiries have been addressed to me in the last few days with regard to our attitude towards your proposed organization I am going to make this letter public so that I may answer all my correspondents at the same time. I recognize that the need of propaganda work in this field is great, but I do not recognize that any new medium for such propaganda is required."

Too Many Burdens on Property.

Patrick J. Carlin, who has been reappointed as Superintendent of Buildings in Brooklyn, is not one who believes that old things are always the best; but he is convinced in his own mind that a return to old city of Brooklyn conditions in building affairs, with provision for enforcing the real prerogatives of the building bureaus (such as have been given to the Tenement House Department and the Fire Prevention Bureau) would help wonderfully. He says:

"Had the same power of enforcement been conferred upon the building bureaus that is now given to the departments indicated, the bureaus of buildings would have accomplished the same results at no extra cost to the taxpayers and without the manifold difficulties that these departments place in the way of speedy construction. I have held, and I yet maintain, that if the Tenement House Department and the building bureaus were consolidated, and the jurisdiction of the Fire Prevention Bureau confined to methods of fire prevention alone, and not charged with control of matters entirely within the province of the building bureaus, a saving to the city of nearly $1,000,000 per annum and to the owners of property of a very much larger sum would result. Both the Tenement House Department and the Fire Prevention Bureau, and the Labor Bureau, too, impose unnecessary and burdensome requirements on property owners.

"Home rule has been the cry of the city of New York for years. The Legislature has recognized it, and yet those entrusted with the care of the city have been continually running to Albany for special municipal laws, practically indicating that we are not capable of governing ourselves. The result has been that the State has thrust upon us a Labor Department, a Tenement House Department and a Bureau of Fire Prevention, the duties of which were long and satisfactorily performed by the building bureaus.

1913 Was Nearly Normal.

"Do you know that the present building operations of the borough, notwithstanding all that has been said and is being said about inactivity and depression, are pretty nearly normal? Such is the case. There was an average decrease of only about one per cent. in the value of building permits issued in the first eleven months of 1913, as compared with the first eleven months of 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1912. This, too, in face of the fact that the first eleven months of 1909—which was the banner year for building permits—showed an increase of 50 per cent. over the same period of 1908, and an almost corresponding decrease was shown in the first eleven months of 1910 under the same period of 1909."

Dual System Progress.

Bids for two more sections of the new rapid transit railroads in The Bronx are being advertised for by the Public Service Commission. One of the sections is on the White Plains road extension of the existing subway, and the other on the Jerome avenue branch of the Lexington avenue subway.

The White Plains road section, known as Section No. 1 of Route No. 18, extends from the present terminus of the Lenox avenue branch of the existing subway through private property and White Plains road to Burke avenue, where it joins Section No. 2, covering the remainder of the White Plains road line to 241st street, the contract for which is already awarded. Bids for this section will be opened on February 9 at 12:15 o'clock.

The section on the Jerome avenue branch of the Lexington avenue line is known as Section No. 2 of Route No. 16, and extends from about 182d street to Woodlawn road, the terminus of the line. Bids for this section will be opened on February 10 at 12:15 o'clock. The railroad in both sections will be a three-track elevated line.

In preparation for the temporary operation of the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn, the Public Service Commission for the First District has prepared a form of contract for track materials, etc., to be used in equipping the subway. Heretofore it has been the practice of the city to let a contract for the equipment of subways and allow the contractor to purchase the materials. With the dual system, however, there is so much of this work to be done that the commission has decided to go into the market itself and purchase rails, ballast, spikes and other articles necessary for placing the subways in shape for operation. Public hearings on this contract have been held, and the commission will soon advertise under it for proposals to supply the quantities of such materials estimated as necessary for the equipment of the Fourth avenue subway between Manhattan Bridge and 86th street station. The engineers estimate that 3,399 tons of No. 1 open hearth rails, 200 tons of No. 2 open hearth rails, 260 tons of manganese rails, 45,850 cubic yards of ballast, 6,820 cubic yards of concrete and 1,765,000 feet of ties will be used in the equipment of this subway.

HOW A BIG NEWSPAPER BUILDING IS BEING REHABILITATED TO MEET COMPETITION FROM NEW SKYSCRAPERS.

GLENN S. WILLIAMSON,
Efficiency Engineer of the Pullitzer Building.

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Co.

SUPPOSE you had every inch of your subcellar space occupied, with your sidewalk easement in the hands of the city, and you were confronted with the problem of relinquishing out of that space a right-of-way for a double-track subway line inside of ninety days. Wouldn't it give you a headache?

But I have been asked to tell what the motive was that prompted us to clean the face of the famous building, one of the first skyscrapers in the city, and to regild the dome with pure gold leaf at a cost of many thousands of dollars.

I am almost compelled to consider the matter of rehabilitating the World Building as a side issue compared with this other problem confronting me. We have got to move the main electrical station of the building by February 1. In this station $100,000 worth of electrical current is received from the street mains and distributed every year. The quantity of gas that is brought into the station from the gigantic street mains is so large that it costs more than a thousand dollars a week. All the steam, water and gas pipes, all the electrical, compressed-air, hot-water and refrigeration conduits and all the pneumatic tubes in the building radiate from this station. Here also are all the pumping, refrigerating and filtering machinery and most of the ventilating equipment, not to mention the great roller casting department of the newspaper.

Every inch of the subcellar space not taken up with printing machinery is required for the boiler-room, the machine-shop, the paper-store and handling-rooms. And all of this in addition to the equipment that now stands in the way of the Nassau street subway station extension, none of which can economically be placed anywhere else but in the sub-cellars of the building, must be moved somewhere.

Down Near to Water Level.

Another sub-cellar cannot be dug, because the lowest floor is within three feet of tidewater, and the building stands on a floating foundation over quicksand, which under no circumstances can be moved. Yet we try to look happy.

In the course of my travels about the building one day, I looked out at the four heroic figures that architecturally hold up the roof of the World and I found that during the quarter of a century in which they have been standing there the weather had rotted the wooden plugs that held the bolts which held the figures in position, and that all four of the ten-ton "Katydids," as I call them, were about to tumble into the river of humanity that hourly passes the building to and from the bridge.

Warning Signals Heeded.

I also found that great slabs of sandstone from the ornamental parts of the building had been loosened by years of alternate freezing and thawing and were about ready to hurtle after the four Samsons. Further scrutiny showed that the face of the building where the front brick is laid was sorely in need of repointing.

THE WORLD BUILDING PARTLY CLEANED.

Looking across City Hall Park, I saw the new Woolworth Building making a towering bid for new tenants, and on the other side I saw the new Municipal Building gathering under its wings the many departments of the city government. This means vacancies somewhere. On down Park Row I saw the Western Union Building rising like a spectre above the surrounding ones, and a plume of steam showed me where the giant Equitable Building would soon be bidding for new tenants also. Then I looked at the World Building.

A quarter of a century old! For most New York buildings such an age represents a date in their economic history when they must either pass into oblivion as live building factors or they must be rehabilitated. We have spent a million in building a modern addition and then we spent considerably more in making the old part of the building conform to the up-to-dateness of the new.

Sandblasting the Front.

Then I called in various engineers and contractors to consult with on the practicability of cleaning the face of the old building to make it match in color the exterior of the new. We tried acid, soap and water and everything in the way of cleaning compounds that the market afforded, and finally we decided to try a light sandblast. I consulted with S. G. Mullen, the engineer, and after we had experimented I engaged him to superintend the blasting, although we did the work ourselves with our own compressed-air equipment. We tried different pressures, but finally we fixed upon a twenty-five pound nozzle pressure, and we are getting splendid results, even on the architectural terra cotta work.

We are going to "fill" the whole front of the building with a water-proofing compound and then we're going to apply a coat of wax. I have fixed the masculine caryatids back to the walls of the World Building by the neck and feet by means of a stout band of bronze lugged firmly into the brick and stone work without the aid of wood plugs.

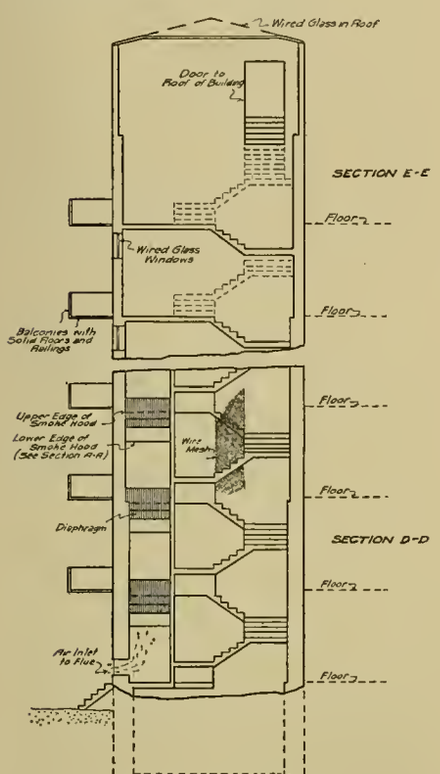
Now as to the why of it all. Mr. Ralph Pulitzer, Don C. Seitz, Mr. Pulitzer's business manager; T. A. Pratt, the superintendent of the building, and myself were agreed that, aside from the business end of the gigantic proposition, there was a civic end, and an important one. Right here around us is to be located the city's great civic center. Towering architectural masterpieces of the world surround us and it was plainly a question as to whether we wanted to be classed as the old World Building, with its corresponding retrogression in income producing power, or did we wish to be designated in the public mind as the World Building—as modern, despite its quarter century of life, as any new building. Mr. Pulitzer emphatically preferred the latter designation. And the work began.

How the Building Is Run.

I am a great believer in keeping up-to-date. In the management of the World Building we do everything ourselves. We employ a staff of a dozen carpenters, nine machinists, a dozen painters and decorators and our own elevator expert. All repairs are taken care of by our own salaried men. Our own electricians, our own pump experts, our own ventilating staff, our own roller casters will shift our own departments, provided, of course, we find a place to put them.

We have proved that we save money by doing our own work, but there is a greater consideration. Each man knows what the World Building workmanship standard is. We pay good wages, but we expect good work. And we get it. Each employee is charged with the duty of reporting to his superior anything that is loose, anything that needs repair, and it is immediately attended to.

It is the way we keep our building filled. If a complaint comes in it is immediately attended to. We do not wait to quibble. Our own staff does it, and does it well. That policy pleases tenants and it keeps our building filled even though it is a quarter of a century young.



—Among the larger building operations started in 1913, all of which are estimated at $1,000,000 or more, may be mentioned the Lord & Taylor Building at Fifth avenue and 38th street; the Hallenbeck Building at Lafayette and White streets, to replace their old building which is to be removed for the new court house site; the Morgan Building at Broad and Wall streets; the National Biscuit Company's new building at Tenth avenue and 15th street, and the American Bank Note Company's building in Greenwich street. The highest of the new buildings proposed during last year was the Pan-American.

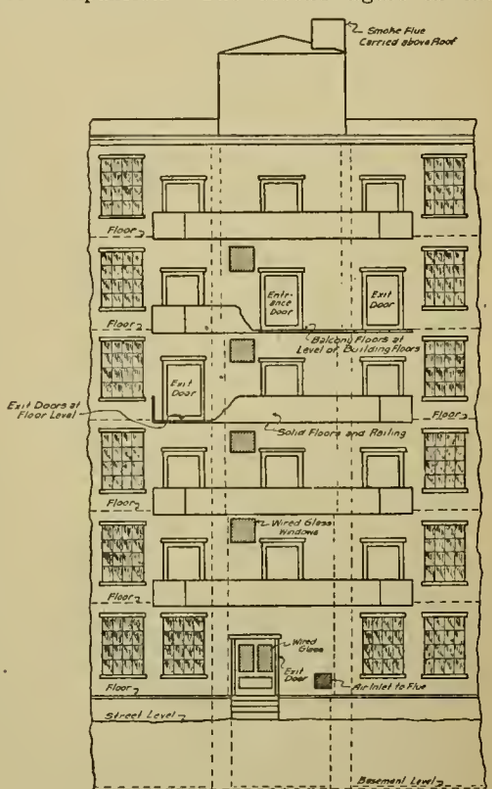
A Smoke-Proof Fire Tower.



A FIRE exit of any type is put to its supreme service test during the first few moments directly following an alarm of fire. This is a test of its utility as embodied in its simplicity and durability. As with the flow of water in pipes, the volume of discharge is affected by interior obstructions. So in passing to safety a stream of excitable humanity it is essential to employ a means of exit conducive to easy and uniform movement. It goes without saying that its resistance to fire, smoke and water is the gauge of its durability.

LONGITUDINAL SECTIONS

FRONT ELEVATION

The emptying of a building of its occupants may be considered as made up of two periods: The period directly following the alarm of fire and during which the occupants are under the guidance of a "captain" or "drill leader;" and that period during which they make a hurried escape from the building after having been conducted to the exit.

Safety Always Apparent.

In the minds of persons fleeing from fire in a building, absolute safety exists at street level only. Therefore, the more a fire exit of any form tends to minimize the time elapsing between the first alarm of fire and the time safety is reached, the better such exit serves its purpose. In a tower exit so constructed that its interior cannot be reached by smoke and flame, the remaining source of danger is from clogging. While this source cannot be completely removed it may be materially lessened by proper structural arrangement.

All of the above cited mental distortion may be greatly diminished, if not entirely avoided by the reassurance arising from the knowledge that there exists at each floor and within easy access, a safe and ample means of escape. This feeling may be further encouraged by frequent use of such exit either in fire drills or ordinary stairway usage. Familiarity with the structure dispels the feelings of apprehension which may result from descending into strange surroundings.

Working upon the theory advanced in the foregoing survey of fire panic conditions J. R. Taft, an associate member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and of the firm of Emory & Eisenbrey, civil, chemical and industrial engineers, co-operating with Clifford F. Pember, architect, has perfected a type of smoke-proof fire tower more graphically shown in the illustration. Its chief feature consists of the novel method employed to take care of the smoke that may happen to get into the tower.

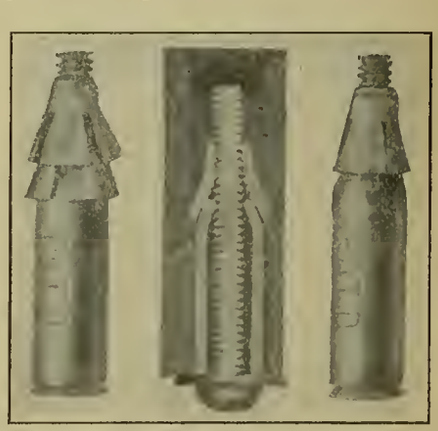
The tower itself is constructed of fireproof material throughout with no openings into the interior of the building, after the standard type. Entrance to the tower may be effected from balconies only, through doors of a suitable type, of ample and sufficient width, and properly arranged to swing with traffic. Balconies and vestibule landings are at level of and continuous with floors of building. There are no obstructions in the nature of sills, etc., upon which to stumble or impede progress. Balconies are of solid construction throughout and of a width not less than that of door openings.

Smoke Hoods in Vestibules.

A smoke flue is located in one corner near the entrance door and carried above the roof of tower. Hoods are inserted in vestibules over entrance doors to intercept, and with the aid of diaphragms, conduct into the flue any smoke which may be blown through the doors. The bottom edge of the hood is placed as low as possible and gives sufficient clearance for passage into the vestibule. A fresh air inlet near the bottom of the flue furnishes a natural draft to carry off smoke. One side wall of the tower is extended to form a recess in which the entrance door may swing, and at the same time it serves as a regulator to prevent an inrush of persons from being thrown directly upon the stairs, or fouling traffic descending from floors above.

Inside of Tower Lighted.

The inside of the tower is lighted naturally through wired glass windows at each floor, together with windows in the roof of the tower. Artificial light is also provided at proper points within the tower, the current for which may be drawn from a source outside the building. The central area is protected by strong wire mesh. This interior protected area may be utilized for lighting conduits, etc.



The tower may be located either within or outside a building, depending upon local requirements. In any case the inside of tower is accessible by way of balconies only. In the case of fireproof structures, one tower wall may be made a part of and continuous with wall of building. In non or semi-fireproof structures the tower wall should be entirely independent from the wall of the building.

While the accompanying diagrams show its application to a loft or factory building, with appropriate architectural treatment it may be applied to buildings of different types.

An Expansion Shell.

HERE is a type of expansion that has met with an unusual reception among builders in the Central West.

The first picture shows the normal sheave, cup and screw, assembled before expansion. The second figure in the cut shows the shell expanded in the material, with one cup, and demonstrates the action of the sheave as the nut is screwed taut. The tapered sheave expands the cup into the walls of the hole, taking a firmer hold into the wall the harder the pressure directed against it. This sheave forms a truss, with a grip fully equal to the strength of the screw used. The third figure on the cut shows the shell slightly expanded with two cups to give additional expansion in case of a large hole or soft material. By this system it is claimed that the bolt cannot split or injure marble or tile walls. It is manufactured by the Paine Company, of 1316 Corn Exchange Bank Building, Chicago, Ill.

The annual entertainment and reception of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations will be held at Terrace Garden on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, at 8:15 P. M. A democratic affair by democratic people of the right sort is promised.

A committee appointed by the Real Estate Board of New York to investigate the advisability of listing and selling securities of real estate corporations has handed in a favorable report, which makes rigid investigation of listings a condition requisite to the adoption of the plan. There can be no doubt that if the board goes into this project in the manner suggested by the committee it will be performing a valuable service both to the real estate market and to the investing public.

A very marked improvement in the financial situation and in the general industrial prospect was reflected in many different quarters during the week—reductions in bank rates in London, Berlin and other European money centers; the purchase and prompt resale of the $51,000,000 State bond issue; a remarkable increase of savings bank deposits; advancing prices on a broadening stock market; optimistic addresses by leading business men at various annual conventions. Typical of the new optimism was, for example, the speech by John V. Farwell, second vice-president of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, who gave unstinted praise to the tariff and currency legislation now placed upon the statute books. With the growing relaxation of money throughout the world, and with our own politico-industrial uncertainties pretty well cleared away, there should be no further obstacle to a general, though perhaps gradual, revival of business prosperity.

The Technical Position of Real Estate.

APERCEPTIBLY better feeling has come to prevail during the past week in the world of business. The stock market has registered this feeling in the most decisive manner. Something like activity and a steady advance in prices have taken place in Wall Street for the first time in many months. A certain revival is also noticeable in other lines of business. The movement has not spread to the real estate market as yet; but there can be no doubt that if the present ease of money continues there will be throughout the year a gradual increase of real estate business. People who understand conditions do not expect any sudden revival of activity, but they do anticipate a gradual recovery. In order that such a recovery may take place, it is necessary that the existing embargo on speculative building in Manhattan should be continued throughout the year.

It is necessary that the large proportion of vacancies in all the speculative business and residential districts should be reduced and that the owners of these properties should be placed in a somewhat stronger position in their negotiations with possible tenants. Unless such a change takes place, it will be impossible to remove from the market the large amount of unsold improved property. There will not, consequently, be any considerable revival of speculative building activity during 1914, but a gradually increasing investment demand should emerge. It is an extraordinary fact that in spite of the great difficulty of selling real estate during the past year, and in spite of the many discouraging factors in the local real estate and building outlook, very little property is being offered at figures which look like bargains to possible purchasers. Real property all over the city is still strongly held, and that is one reason why so little business is being done. There would be more activity in case there was more weakness. But bargains are still hard to find, and inasmuch as possible sellers will not reduce their prices in order to tempt buyers activity must wait upon a return of confidence and an increasing disposition to anticipate future rises in value.

A Taxation Commission Needed.

In the existing condition of the market nothing would more effectively discourage any recovery than a decision on the part of the Legislature to change the incidence of taxation on New York real estate. It is an open secret that during the present session of the Legislature the single-taxers will urge very strongly a bill which will submit to the electorate next fall a proposal to shift a certain proportion of the taxes from the improvements to ground values. The object of such a change in the system of taxation is, of course, to encourage building by giving the owners of unimproved property an additional reason to erect new buildings. Its advocates expect in the long run by these means to enable the city to appropriate a larger share of the increase in ground values in the form of taxation. But it is safe to say that if this plan is put through there will not be any increase in ground values, and that the position of the New York real estate property owner will be gravely compromised.

During the past ten years or more a steady increase in valuation has taken place, and during the last five years the increase in taxation has been quite sufficient to take away from the owner of real estate the whole increase in ground value. There have been a few speculative districts in which prices have continued to advance; there have been just as many districts in which prices have actually declined, but throughout the greater part of the city prices have not varied very much. Any tendency to improvement has been checked by the menacing large proportion of the rents which were paid to the city as taxation. In spite of the fact that the owners of these properties have been disappointed in their expectations of profits, they have held on firmly, because they still hope for an increase of value in the future. If this expectation is taken away from them an extremely serious situation will be created. The prices at which they have been holding their property have been determined in some measure by this expectation of future profits. They have put up with the many inconveniences which the owner of real property has to bear as compared with the owner of personal property, because they have anticipated a reward for their bother and troubles. As soon as it is finally settled that no such reward will be forthcoming a general scaling down of values will necessarily follow. If any such result should take place, a decrease in the assessed valuation of real estate would necessarily follow, the tax rate would go up, and the credit of the city would be placed in jeopardy. There might be some plausible excuse for such experiments in the incidence in taxation in a city whose increase in real estate values was sufficient to take care of the increase in taxation, but in a city like New York, where taxation has of late years been growing faster than real estate values, it is suicidal still further to disappoint expectations and undermine confidence. What the advocates of the proposed change in the incidence of local taxation should do is to cease arguing in terms of abstract theories and to study the actual conditions now prevailing in New York City.

Of course The Record and Guide does not mean by the foregoing argument that the theoretical reasons which can be urged in favor of the proposed increase in the land value tax are conclusive. On the contrary, the widest differences of opinion exist among expert economists, not only in respect to the justifiability of the increased land tax, but in respect to its probable effect. In the hope of clearing up these ambiguities, the Legislature ought, before it takes any decisive action on the premises, to order a careful and comprehensive investigation. No legislative body is justified in radically destroying the economic position of a certain class of property without the completest possible examination of the probable effects of its action. No such examination has yet been made.

The utmost that the present Legislature should do is to provide for a commission to be apointed by the Mayor, which could give hearings to the advocates and opponents of the change and present a report to the next Legislature. Even if such a commission could not reach a unanimous agreement, it could assuredly bring to light many valuable facts and throw a certain amount of needed light on the economic effects of the proposed change.

Significant for Seventh Avenue.

It is an interesting and significant fact that the first large building item published in 1914 concerns Seventh avenue. The National Suit and Cloak Company proposed to cover the whole block front on the west side of the avenue between 24th and 25th streets with a sixteen-story building. They also intend to erect an annex of the same height to the west of their existing factory and to add five stories to that structure. After the work is finished the company will possess an edifice containing about 40,000 square feet on each of sixteen stories, which will make it one of the largest buildings in New York. The National Suit and Cloak Company is a mail order house and its building will be used largely for manufacturing and administrative purposes; but in all probability the stores on Seventh avenue may be employed for a semi-retail purpose. While the company, like other similar companies, may refuse to sell over its own counters to retail purchasers, it will need a showroom, to which it can invite its customers to visit when they happen to be in New York.

A mail order clothing house is in a different situation from a mail order house which deals in a large variety of goods. It really needs a convenient place in which its models can be exhibited for the inspection of possible customers. It looks, consequently, as if the new building might become something more than a factory and in its erection may have the effect of promoting the coming of some retail trade to the neighborhood. The mere fact that so large a concern was attracting its customers to Seventh avenue would tend to make other blocks in the vicinity available for similar purposes. There can be little doubt that when the revival of business does come Seventh avenue will receive its share of the benefit. It is available for improvement, because values on the avenue still remain moderate, in spite of the fact that it is available for improvement with the highest class of mercantile building.

The Over-Regulation of Real Estate.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In reading the statement in your paper by a certain Tax Commissioner that the Tenement House Department has added eight hundred millions to the cost of real estate in the last ten or twelve years, the idea struck me that if the people could once be made to realize that everybody paid an equal share of this cost, and that the eight hundred millions were simply added to the cost of living in New York city, they would take a very different attitude towards our legislators at Albany, who seem at present so very anxious to help them by placing additional burdens around their necks.

Our new Fire Prevention Bureau is calling for the expenditure of thousands of dollars a week, which simply goes on to the cost of real estate in New York city, and is eventually transmitted to the merchandise itself, increasing the price of everything manufactured in New York and tending to drive people and business out of the city. If it is carried on in the next ten years to the extent that it has been in the past, it does not take such a very wild flight of the imagination to realize that New York will be practically a desert, with the different bureaus for regulating real estate in full charge, and the population removing to neighborhoods where they will be less burdened.

Sometimes you have to exaggerate these things a little bit in order to make people realize just what they are doing. Of course, the owner of real estate suffers because he has less tenants, the merchant suffers because his merchandise costs him more to manufacture, and his workmen suffer because what he manufactures is sold for a higher price.

A Suggestion for Reducing Assessed Valuations.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Statistics prove that on realty from the year 1909 to 1913 inclusive there has been an increase in tax bills of some 25 per cent., represented by 15 per cent. larger assessed valuations and 10 per cent. higher tax rate, the latter to meet the heavier budget demand.

Has the city not been a little too eager for the fullest figures on which to establish its legal borrowing capacity? Might not a horizontal lowering of assessed valuations possibly prove salutary?

This prompts the further question, on what basis is the computation for assessed valuation made, whether on the all-cash (meaning price at which property is sold if unencumbered) or whether on a basis in which the transfer is noted, when sold on part mortgage, the major part being sold upon "terms," and a consequently higher figure obtained. The city only is in a position to find out the real cash value. Is not this perhaps one of the contributing causes to a possible misapprehension of the taxable quantity? If this quantity could be adjusted to a stationary tax rate, another great stride could be made by adopting that method also.

It is fairly presumable, and confirmable, if the question were put to any member of the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association, or to Mr. J. Clarence Davies, who has exploited sales such as the Morris Park, Van Cortlandt estate, etc., that these sales could not have established the same valuation, or the offerings have found a market at all, if the terms had not been made attractive; namely, 30 per cent. only in cash.

Trust some of your readers may help to discuss this matter. In conclusion, I feel that a reduction of assessed valuations would in no way impair the credit of the city, but might simply prove a means of checking extravagance and consuming the money needed for city development and for the direct benefit to be obtained—and perceptibly obtained—and still avoiding any penny wise pound foolish conservatism.

Good Service From Bronx Register's Office.

The Register's Office of the new Bronx County is evidently handling official business with dispatch. Register Polak is in receipt of a congratulatory letter saying that a law firm which had filed a mortgage at the new office had received the original paper back within ten days. "Those not actively interested in law and real estate," said the firm, "can hardly appreciate the importance of the service when work of this character is promptly attended to and the original paper returned without delay. If you continue the work as you have begun you certainly will win the appreciation of the members of the bar as well as all those interested in real estate in the great county of the Bronx."

The number of mortgages recorded in the Register's office up to January 2 was 220; the amount of tax collected, $7,603.50; fees from other sources, $2,312.58; amount of mortgage indebtedness, $1,553,573.83.

The seal of the office depicts Father Bronx writing a record in a huge book with an old time quill pen by the light of an antique candle. Underneath is the motto, "Verbatim et Literatim," which is translated "word for word and letter for letter." The seal was designed by the Register's wife. Mrs. Polak is a graduate of the New York University Law School. In the last few years she has specialized in real estate law, with offices in the Areco Building, at 149th street and Third avenue.

The Register's Office is comfortably housed in the large Bergen Building, on the east side of the park, opposite Borough Hall, at Tremont. This is regarded as a fireproof structure, and several other county offices are in the same building. Records are to be transferred from the old county to the new as soon as may be under a state law recently enacted.

Will Find Brooklyn a Good Market.

Regarding the coming of Messrs. Bing & Bing of Manhattan to build in Brooklyn, Howard C. Pyle, of Howard C. Pyle & Co., of 201 Montague street, says it is the best thing that has happened for Brooklyn real estate in many years; in fact, he considers it second only in importance to the solution of the dual transit system. Mr. Pyle expects that Messrs. Bing & Bing will continue operations in Brooklyn after completing the apartment houses they have arranged to build in Schermerhorn and Livingston streets, and that this will mean that other builders of the same character will look to Brooklyn as a more prolific field than Manhattan. There will be a good market for the character of buildings that they will produce, both from a sale and rental standpoint, Mr. Pyle believes, though it required considerable persuasion to get the Manhattan builders to make this move. Mr. Pyle's firm were the brokers in the transaction for the site.

Construction Progress of the Catskill Aqueduct.

The impounding of water in Ashokan Reservoir was commenced on September 9. The Catskill Aqueduct is 99 per cent. completed from this reservoir to Croton Lake, which supplies the Croton aqueducts; hence, it would now be possible to make Catskill water partially available at any time, if an emergency should demand it, although the whole aqueduct and its reservoirs will not be fully completed for a few years. Between Croton watershed and Hill View Reservoir, just north of the city line, but three short gaps in the aqueduct line, about 2,000 feet in total length, remain uncompleted. From Hill View Reservoir to the terminal shafts, in Brooklyn, the city tunnel is 75 per cent. completed, according to a refort from the Board of Water Supply.

The value of work completed and now in progress under contracts aggregates $98,000,000, of which $78,000,000 has been done to date, and work amounting to nearly $14,000,000 was done during 1913. There remain to be awarded, in order to complete the first development of the Catskill supply sufficiently to deliver 250,000,000 gallons of water daily to the five boroughs, contracts to the value of about $7,000,000, nearly all of which will be begun and prosecuted during the year 1914.

Progress at Hill View Reservoir is still exceeding contract rebuirements, the reservoir as a whole being 80 per cent. completed. Excavation and the construction of embankments are about 93 per cent. completed, representing the handling of 2,700,000 cubic yards of material. Of the concrete lining on slopes and bottom, 57 per cent. of the former and 45 per cent. of the latter, an aggregate of 1,500,000 square feet, are laid. The dividing wall, containing the by-pass aqueduct, is completed except for an opening to allow work trains to pass.

The lining of the Hudson River tunnel and its shafts on either side of the river was completed last year, except for bolting on the cover of the east shaft, thus closing the last gap in the aqueduct between Ashokan Reservoir and Croton Lake.

City Tunnel and Pipe Lines.—Of the total work to be done within the city limits, 94 per cent. is under contract (including Silver Lake Reservoir), 69 per cent. is completed, and a large proportion (30 per cent.) was performed during the year. In the city tunnel, extending from Yonkers to Brooklyn, the rock excavation is practically finished, 37 per cent. of the concrete lining is done, and four out of the twenty-four shafts are nearing completion. Over three miles of 66-inch steel pipe and over seven miles of 48-inch cast-iron pipe (a portion of the conduits extending from the ends of the city tunnel in Brooklyn) were finished during the year and turned over to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity for operation in connection with the existing distribution system.

Silver Lake Reservoir, the terminal reservoir of the Catskill water system, with a capacity of 400,000,000 gallons, will also serve as a distributing reservoir for Staten Island, and lies about two miles southwest of St. George. The contract for the construction of this reservoir was awarded August 19, and work was promptly commenced.

"There is nothing permanently the matter with New York real estate. The trouble results from the fact that its return in the past has been so munificent that we have supposed that it always would be so. The impracticable and careless handling is largely to blame for our present troubles. There is a good future to it.

"The mortgage business for the year has been discouraging not so much through a lack of money for investment in mortgages as from the fact that good applications could not be secured. Our mortgage business dropped from $53,467,079 in 1912 to $34,573,567 in 1913, while the amount of mortgages recorded in Greater New York has dropped from $460,199,042 in 1912 to $312,732,895 in 1913. Our Banking Department shows net earnings for the year of $208,564. The actual earnings were much larger, but the depreciation in the market value of securities of almost $250,000 had to be charged against the bank earnings."

The Confiscation Creed.

W. Fred Silleck, president of the Erie Basin Board of Trade, sends The Record and Guide a copy of Henry George's "confiscation creed," as found in "Progress and Poverty," which it is well to keep in mind, if it really is the intention of the present tax reformers to lead the city and State by stages to the adoption of the creed of Mr. George as the basis of their system of taxation:—

"The truth is, and from this truth there can be no escape, that there is and can be no just title to an exclusive possession of the soil and that private property in land is a bold, bare and enormous wrong, like that of chattel slavery.

"We must make land common property.

"I do not propose either to purchase or to confiscate private property in land. The first would be unjust, the second, needless. Let the individuals who now hold it still retain, if they want to, possession of what they are pleased to call their land. Let them continue to call it their land. Let them buy and sell, and bequeath and devise it. We may safely leave them the shell, if we take the kernel. It is not necessary to confiscate land. It is only necessary to confiscate rent."

Closing Prospect Park West in Brooklyn.

The Local Board of the Bay Ridge District has adopted a resolution recommending the closing of Prospect Park West, but the map which has been prepared also proposes to close and discontinue a portion of 21st street, 22d street, 23d street and Tenth avenue, all of which latter fall within the limits of Greenwood Cemetery and are used for cemetery purposes.

—It is disappointing to hear that the new $15,000,000 Municipal Building is not satisfactory to some of the city departments that have been assigned space in it. Surely the departments have had opportunity to examine the layouts of the quarters intended for them and to suggest such modifications as they might desire. If they haven't had the opportunity, why has not the proper city authorities thought of providing it? No private owner would have neglected to consider the wishes of tenants for whom he was putting up a building. As for the alleged waste of space in corridors, do not the private corridors make for efficiency in a building where at times the public corridors are bound to be crowded by thousands of people?

—Joseph P. Day will present on his next Special Sales Day, January 29, a varied assortment of desirably located properties. He will offer a Tuckahoe block front and valuable Bath Beach lots, in addition to high-class Manhattan properties.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON BIG BUSINESS GIVES MONEY EASIER TONE AND REFLECTS ON MATERIAL DEMAND.—BRICK HIGHER.

Plans Filed This Year Show Gain over Value for Corresponding Period Last Year.

BUILDERS, apparently encouraged by the effect the President's message on the management of big business has had upon the money market, and the fact that the State highway bonds were so tremendously oversubscribed, this week, showed more inclination to come into the material market on inquiry, Thursday and Friday. Money, while not yet easy, is not so tight as it was during the close of last year. Engagements for moderate building operations outside of title and insurance companies were more numerous during the last ten days than they were at this time last year.

Up to the fifteenth of this month 198 buildings were projected in the four boroughs, costing $5,234,965, as against an even number covering the same period in 1913, involving a total cost, however, of only $3,578,756.

The greatest gain was made in Brooklyn, where the difference in cost figured up to a gain of $1,405,995 in favor of this year. In Manhattan there was a gain in the first fifteen days of 1914 over the corresponding period last year of $509,250. The first half of January, 1913, shows a gain of about $300,000 over the volume represented in construction in the Bronx. Tendencies toward a building revival in Queens is shown in the slight gain in volume and value in favor of this year.

Building statistics for the first half of January in the metropolitan district aggregate $2,005,000, as against $1,973,000 in the corresponding period last year, indicating that construction work has started the new year in better tone than was the case a year ago. Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn commercial operations show little change for the better, but there is a steady improvement in the number of projects for industrial and housing construction. This accounts for the active movements in moderate-price building materisl.

The Portland cement market was firmer. Dyckerhoff German dropped to $2.10 a barrel in wholesale quantities alongside dock, which puts it on a price parity with Alsen's German. Both these cements were quoted at $2.35 to $2.50 prior to the passage of the new tariff law.

Wire reinforcement has improved on demand so far that mill capacity has been exceeded, and prices show an upward tendency. Crushed stone is still in good demand, even though prices are high. Timber distributors are gradually withdrawing concessions and price shadings from the New York Lumber Trade Association's list. Gravel and sand are both strong. Linseed oil is also firm.

The coal situation is one that has an alarming influence upon the supply market. The wholesale market reflects some nervousness, with an increasing demand, owing to the prospects of struggle at the mines in April over the wage schedule. Far-sighted building managers and dealers are trying to load up pending a possible prolonged cessation of production.

Hudson common brick advanced fifty cents per M on open and covered barges. Raritan common made no change, however, and metropolitan district dealers forebore raising prices, pending a further strengthening of the market.

BRICK PRICES ADVANCED.

Fifty Cents Added to Former Hudsou Quotations.

HUDSON common brick prices were advanced this week fifty cents. The current quotations now are $6.00 to $6.50. A week ago $5.50 to $6.00 ruled in a sluggish market, but there has been a slight improvement in unloading as shown by the subjoined table. Raritan common stands pat at $6.00 to $6.25 in an easy market. Newark and Westchester dealers made no change in their quotations on the ground that the wholesale movement in New York was not yet strong enough to warrant sustentation of any advance, no matter how slight, they might make. Newark yard prices continue at $7.25 to $7.50.

The unloading of brick showed a slight gain this week of 761,500 over that moved a week ago by the Greater New York Brick Company and there was a much better inquiry for future deliveries especially since contractors are not being forced to use other materials because of the fear that they might not be able to get brick when they wanted it.

The gain in value of building plans filed as shown in the statistics given in the editorial review column of this department over those reported in the first half of January a year ago may account, in some measure, at least, for a stronger inquiry for common brick. There are now 117 bargeloads or approximately 41,000,000 brick available for immediate riding in market. This is ample to take care of all the brick requirements of New York and the metropolitan district even though the river should freeze up for a week.

SLATE PRICES UNCHANGED.

Expected Shift in Vermont Roofing Postponed.

ADVICES from Vermont slate quarries this week were to the effect that the expected advance in the price of Vermont roofing slates had been postponed. This action probably was due to the strengthening tone for building materials in the New York market, indicating a heavier demand in the near future that would take care of the extra cost of production and carrying.

THE WEEK'S REAL ESTATE NEWS

Brokerage Sales, Auctions, Foreclosure Suits, Building Loans, etc., Together With Brief Personal Items.

Conditions Are Somewhat Improved.

The long-looked-for improvement in the real estate market seems to be under way. While the week's business was not remarkable for increased activity, it was encouraging from many viewpoints. There was the usual "million dollar" deal which has been the chief characteristic of the trading for some weeks in the past. This particular one involved the exchange of a high class 26th street loft structure for a Fifth avenue corner ripe for improvement. Upper West Side apartment houses also figured prominently. There was a demand for residential property in various parts of the city, one Madison avenue building being sold twice during the week.

In the Bronx, one of the most important transactions of the year concerned the old Haffen Brewery property. In Richmond a large manufacturing company acquired additional lands, adjoining its large plant, to provide for future needs.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 20, against 29 for last week and 31 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 8, compared with 8 last week and 11 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 12, compared with 21 last week and 20 a year ago.

From the Bronx 15 sales at private contract were reported, against 14 last week and 17 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $809,335, compared with $1,002,751 last week, making a total since Jan. 1 of $4.748,691. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $1,102,791, making a total since Jan. 1, 1913, of $3,792,134.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Haffen Brewery Sold.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert has added to his brewing plants and real estate holdings in New York by the purchase of the Haffen Brewery, in the Bronx, which is the largest plant of its kind in the Bronx, of the entire frontage in the west side of Melrose av from 151st to 152d st, a site about 230x150 ft. It has been operated by the J. & M. Haffen Brewing Co., a New York State corporation, capitalized at $200,000. The president of the company, Mathias H. Haffen, and the secretary, John M. Haffen, are sons of the original founder, and they are brothers of Louis F. Haffen, ex-President of the Borough of the Bronx. John M. Haffen will continue the name of the J. & M. Haffen Brewing Co., but the organization will be devoted entirely to real estate investments and caring for the extensive realty holdings of the Haffen family. Mr. Ruppert's purchase carrying with it the good-will of the brewing company in addition to the realty. Besides the brewery property, the transaction concerns the plot, 50x100, with a 1-sty building on the north side of 152d st, 50 ft. west of Melrose av. The entire plot is in close proximity to subway and elevated railroad stations at the intersection of Third av and 149th st, regarded as the hub of the borough, and for this reason it has become too valuable for present purposes.

$2,500,000 Realty in Trade.

Tucker, Speyers & Co. have sold for the Flemish Realty Co. (Goldberg & Cramer), the "Flemish Building," a new 21-sty mercantile structure at 11-13 East 26th st and 6-8 East 27th st, on a plot 58.6x200. This building was completed last spring, and immediately abuts to the east the "Brunswick Building," facing Madison Square Park. The buyers are Mrs. Robert P. Huntington and Miss Madeline I. Dinsmore, of Staatsburgh, N. Y., who gave in exchange the northwest corner of 5th av and 31st st, size 29.4x100, with an "L" 25x98.9 on 31st st. The buildings on this property were built for the exclusive occupancy of Duveen Brothers, and occupied by them until recently, when they moved to their new building on upper 5th av. This transaction is one of the purely investment character, the total transaction involving $2,250,000. Goldberg & Cramer have no definite plans for the improvement of the Dinsmore property, which was originally purchased by the late Mr. Dinsmore, who was president of the Adams Express Co.

Big Richmond Sale.

The largest sale in a monetary sense in Richmond Borough this year and also one of great commercial importance generally, showing the trend of big business, is the purchase by the Proctor and Gamble Manufacturing Co. of the Dooley property through J. Sterling Drake. This property adjoins the Proctor and Gamble Manufacturing Co.'s original property on the west and is the northwestern corner of Staten Island and adds to their holdings 1241 ft. on Newark Bay and Staten Island Sound and an area of nearly 19 acres. All shore front beyond this is outside of the free lighterage limits of the City of New York. The Proctor and Gamble Manufacturing Co. now have nearly 1,900 ft. of water front and about 100 acres of land. They are using now about 300 ft. of water front and have 75 acres open for future construction. Their present purchase is in no sense a speculation, but believing the present a favorable time to buy, they have simply provided for all possible future requirements.

New Bronx Police Station.

The City of New York has bought through Nicholas F. Walsh the southwest corner of Brook av and 141st st, plot 75x90, as a site for a new station house for the policing of the 61st precinct, which at present is done from Alexander av and 138th st. It was bought from the Julius Stursberg Realty Co. Former Commissioner Waldo approved the site for the new station, which is the last of the new police quarters he planned some time ago to replace old stations throughout the city. The city will take title to the corner in a few days, and before spring it is expected the construction of the building will be started.

Shoe District Sale.

Morse & Rogers, one of the largest wholesale shoe dealers in the city, have purchased the two 5-sty buildings at 118 and 120 Duane, on plot 50x116, from the Lorillard Estate, for investment. LEASES.

Manhattan.

Success of the Leavitt Building.

Societe Francaise des Films et Cenematographes Eclair, who are represented in New York by the Eclair Film Co., have taken a lease of the entire fourth floor of the Leavitt Building, 126-132 West 46th St., and will immediately occupy the premises with all their Executive and Rental Offices. This lease practically completes the renting of the Leavitt Building, and there are at the present but a store and basement, two full lofts and one-half loft still unrented, out of this 12-sty building, which occupies a plot 80x100.

Fifth floor, Box Office Attraction Film Rental Co., manufacturer of films; sixth floor, William Fox Amusement Co., theatrical enterprises; sixth floor, Edward Kealey, theatrical enterprises; seventh floor, Greater New York Film Rental Company, manufacturer of films; eighth floor, Warners Features, Inc., manufacturer of films; ninth floor, Brettner & Goodman, manufacturer of jewelry; ninth floor, Baruch & Co., costumes; ninth floor, William L. Sherry Feature Film Co., manufacturer of films; tenth floor, William Laidlaw, Jr., automobile cloths; eleventh floor, Byron Co., mercantile photographers; twelfth floor, Davidson & Schwab, manufacturer of jewelry. When erected this building was considered a pioneer in the neighborhood, but the rentals have justified the undertaking and strongly reflect the trend of mercantile business to the section north of 42d street and east of Broadway. Several leases are under consideration for the remaining parts of the building. The agents are Spear & Co.

U. S. Government Leases.

In order to provide greater mail facilities at the Grand Central Terminal and to take care of the increased business due to the parcel post, the United States Government has just leased 12,350 square feet of additional space there from the New York Central and New Haven roads, owning the terminal. It has also taken under consideration a proposal that it lease in addition a small room in the Concourse adjacent to the telephone-room, to be used as a sub-station for the convenience of travellers.

The space which the Post Office Department has already leased is intended to expedite the handling of the parcel post. It consists of 6,100 square feet at the south end of the east baggage-room on the lower level and 6,250 square feet on the street level of the station adjacent to the east baggage-room. The rental is at the rate of $10,566.60 until July 1, 1914, and $13,402.92 a year thereafter during the term of the contract.

Important Times Square Lease.

An important lease in the Times Square district, reported Tuesday, involved the Criterion Theatre, occupying the northeast corner of Broadway and 44th st., adjoining the larger New York Theatre. Klaw & Erlanger own both theatres and they have leased the Criterion to the American Vitagraph Co. for one year, beginning Feb. 5. The new lessees will use the house for photo-play productions. During the last two or three years many negotiations have been in progress by various syndicates for acquiring the entire block front, which is opposite the Hotel Astor, for improvement with a big hotel, and a few months ago it was announced that the deal was practically closed. The present lease was closed by David Gerber, as attorney for the principals.

High Store Rental.

George R. Read & Co. have leased for the firm of "Mary Elizabeth," the small store at 1 West 36th st, adjoining its new store at 392 5th av, northwest corner of 36th st. The lessee is the Ivy Corset Shop of Worcester, Mass., and the lease is for 5 years from Feb. 1, at $9,500 per annum. The store just leased has a frontage of 9 ft. and at its deepest end runs back 27 ft. The rental represents over $40 per sq. ft., said to be a record for inside stores along that section of the avenue.

AMES & CO., INC., leased the 2nd loft in 6 West 29th st. for S. W. Peck to Jacob Ely, represented by H. S. Ely & Co.; also the 3rd loft in 11 East 22nd st. for R. S. Minturn to the Rodgers Co. of 506 Broadway, represented by the Fifth Avenue Bond and Mortgage Co.; also the store in 15 West 31st st, for R. Smith to S. Katel, represented by J. Friend Lewi & Co.

A LARGE IRON and steel corporation is negotiating for the purchase of a tract of water front property at South Brooklyn, upon whtch it is proposed to erect a large plant. The concern, it is said, will need about a square block of land, and its plant would necessarily have to face on the water front, where steamships could land at their piers; also, that the firm is willing to invest between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 in Brooklyn, and that it will probably hring 20,000 or more people with it—workmen and their families. The company is said to be at present located in West Virginia, on the hanks of the Ohio River.

A SYNDICATE composed of New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City investors has purchased the stretch of land lying between Atlantic City inlet and the Brigatine inlet and including the city of Brigantine. The Heald estate, of Brooklyn, is the seller of most of the property, the deal having been closed through the firm of Parsons, Clossan & McIlvane. H. R. Young was the broker. It is proposed to construct a bridge over the inlet and annex the section to the resort known as East Atlantic City. At the present time thera are four or five cottages and a hotel at Brigantine.

A NUMBER of prominent men in public life, including Governor Glynn, Register Hopper and City Chamberlain Bruere, are expected to attend the dinner to be given at the Hotel Brevoort on Jan. 30 by the Society to Lower Rents and Reduce Taxes on Homes, the New York Congestion Committee and the Business Men's Association to Untax Industry. OBITUARY

GEORGE HARVEY CROOK, for years associated in business with the late F. Osgood Pell, on Fifth avenue, Manhattan, died Jan. 14 and was buried from the family residence, 1216 Pacific street, Brooklyn, on Friday of last week. Mr. Crook erected the Vendome apartment, on Gates avenue, as an investment, and it was the first elevator apartment building in that section of the borough. Mr. Crook was for forty years a resident of the Twenty-fourth Ward of Brooklyn and many years ago was active in Republican affairs there during the leadership of Major Hobbs. He was long active in the work of the Central Congregational Church and during Dr. Scudder's time was the superintendent of the Sunday School and connected as well with the library of the church. He was an early member of the Lincoln Club and also belonged to the Hardware Club of Manhattan. Mr. Crook was born in New York City, Sept. 9, sixty-five years ago, and was the son of George and Mary J. Bloomer Crook. He was as a young man associated in the real estate business with his maternal grandfather, Elisha Bloomer.

JAMES SUTHERLAND, a wealthy real estate owner and operator at Parkville, Brooklyn, which section he developed, and where he was the oldest resident, died this week at his home, 4318 18th av, aged eighty-four years. He was superintendent of the Parkville Congregational Church for twenty-five years, a charter member of Kings County Lodge F. and A. M. and a trustee of the old town of Flathush. His home, which was the old Wyckoff mansion remodelled and rebuilt, was one of Brooklyn's show places.

ALEXANDER WILSON, who was engaged in the real estate business at 489 Fifth avenue for many years, died Thursday morning, Jan. 15, at his home, 324 West 51st street. He was born in Scotland fifty-nine years ago, and for the past thirty-four years was a resident of this city. Mr. Wilson was a member of the New York Scottish Society. His widow and a daughter survive him.

ISIDOR BAER, a retired real estate broker, died Thursday, Jan. 15, at his home, 469 Fourth st, Brooklyn, aged sixty-four years.

ADOLPH M. BENDHEIM, a realty operator with offices at 128 Broadway, died yesterday at his home, 88 Central Park West. Mr. Bendheim was born sixty-five years ago in Germany. A widow, Henrietta, two sons, Julius and Edwin Bendheim, and two daughters, Gertrude and Jennie Bendheim, survive.

MAY LIST STOCKS.

Real Estate Board Considering Feasibility of Providing a Market Place for Satisfactory Realty Securities.

The Stock List Committee of the Real Estate Board of New York has submitted a report of the possibility and desirability of instituting the listing and sale of real estate stocks by methods similar to those employed by the New York Stock Exchange were considered.

The report of the committee, which consists of E. A. Tredwell, chairman; Gerald R. Brown and Douglas B. Elliman, says:

"After discussion it was considered it might be feasible and also desirable to institute the listing and sale of real estate stocks, providing same is done under guarded restrictions in relation to each stock offered equal to or superior to the conditions exacted by the New York Stock Exchange in the listing of corporation securities sold by its members. * * *

"To gain the confidence both of the Board and the investing public your committee feels the first principle to be suggested is to provide a market place for approved securities; second, to rigidly exclude any security in real estate which in any way can be termed debatable. * * *

"It is felt in the absence today of a proper market and of listing requirements, many questionable securities, with an alleged basis of real estate values, have been able to find a market to the detriment of the general real estate business. The possible effect of Board listing may be to compel these inferior securities either to reform on a proper basis or to go out of business and thus insensibly benefit all real estate.

"In no way should the Board assume any responsibility. It's only province should be to provide a meeting place or market for its members and to insist that no stocks shall be sold therein that are not regularly listed.

"For the reason mentioned, your committee recommends that five real estate corporations be selected by the governors for preliminary investigation by a special committee or by the Stock List Committee, who shall report back to the Board of Governors in detail what the necesary requirements may be to properly list such securities on the Board. * * *

"The rate of commission to be charged for the sale of any listed securities shall be the regular commission of the Real Estate Board; viz., one per cent. commission on the gross amount of all sales, &c. The Board shall keep a permanent record of all listed securities, which shall be revised at periodical intervals.

"The crux of the situation and its success necessarily lie in the exactness and severity of the rules to be formulated and observed regarding listing, and the positive understanding by all that the Board, as such, assumes no responsibility as to securities, except to permit trading by its members in such securities only as shall give to the Board, through its Governors, satisfactory evidence of their worth."

UNITED OWNERS' RECEPTION.—The final preparations have been made for the annual entertainment and reception of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, which is to be held on Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12, at Terrace Garden. The special committee under the chairmanship of Charles H. Schnelle, subdivided itself into several smaller committees, giving close attention to all details of the affair. The vaudeville show will be under the management of Isaac Hyman. Special arrangements are being made to secure high class vaudeville acts, and every effort will be made to make this the most entertaining feature of the evening. The Annual Year Book, which is being published in connection with this affair, will be under the supervision of Harry Bierhoff. This book will contain a review of the work done by the society in the past year, also special articles on the city's affairs contributed by officials of the city. It is assured that this will be a very interesting book to all real estate owners. The dancing arrangements will be under the supervision of Mr. H. Mehlich, who has arranged some special features. The president of the association, Mr. Bloch, has issued invitations to all the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the City Commissioners and the State officials, a number of whom have promised to attend.

At the auction sale of boxes held recently the interest in this affair was shown by the receipts, which doubled those of last year. All Local Associations of Manhattan and the Bronx have been invited to attend the affair and it is expected that representatives will be present from all Real Estate Owners' Associations in Manhattan and the Bronx and many from Brooklyn. Every effort is being made to make this a special Real Estate Owners' night, by bringing together in a social way the real estate owners and the public officials of the city and State.

LAW DEPARTMENT

Land Abutting on Street.

The Lincoln Safe Deposit Co., the owner of land abutting on 42d street, in the City of New York, under a permit granted by the city, erected vaults under the adjacent part of the street, and erected therein a heating plant. When the construction of the subway was about to be commenced notice was given to the plaintiff to remove its plant from the street. The plaintiff failed to comply with this notice, and six months later a subcontractor of the defendant McDonald, who had contracted for the construction of the subway, entered upon the part of the street occupied by the plaintiff, broke down the vaults and constructed there the subway. Thereupon the safe deposit company sued the city, McDonald and the subcontractor for trespass. If the plaintiff was entitled to maintain and occupy the vaults as against public authority all the parties would be liable, for both the contract of McDonald with the subcontractor and that of the city with McDonald necessarily required the invasion of the vaults. At the trial the complaint was dismissed as to the defendants, the city and McDonald.

The Court of Appeals, under date of December 16, 1913, has handed down an opinion on this case upholding the city's right to revoke the license granted to the safe deposit company to maintain the vault. Judge Cullen, who wrote the opinion, says:

"We are of opinion that the case was properly decided by the courts below. The allegations of the complaint and the deed by which the plaintiff acquired title excluded it from any ownership of the street, even apart from the fact that under its charter the fee of the streets in the old City of New York is vested in the city. The plaintiff's rights as owner of the adjoining land are therefore merely those of an abutter, which include the easements of light, air and access, and under a recent decision of this court in Matter of Rapid Transit R. R. Comm'rs (197 N. Y., 81), lateral support except as to excavations made for street purposes. None of these easements in this case have been invaded. The learned counsel for the appellant insists that an abutter's rights are greater and extend to the inhibition of the use of the street for other than street purposes, which the construction of the subway was not, though doubtless a public use. The law in this State is settled to the contrary of that claim."

Ownership of Apartment House Ranges.

When is a gas range actually a part of a building? This question has just been answered by the Court of Appeals, by deciding how a gas range does not become a part of a building. The decision was rendered as a result of an action brought by the Central Union Gas Company, of this city, against Edward W. Browning.

The decision of the last court was written by Judge Werner. In this the Court of Appeals said:

"The action is for the alleged conversion of 100 gas ranges which the plaintiff installed in certain housekeeping apartments in 137th street, New York City, under a contract between the plaintiff, which furnished the ranges, and the Ignatz Florio Company, owner of the premises, which acquired the same for the use of its tenants. There is some discussion in the briefs as to the nature of this contract, but we are satisfied that it is more than a mere lease with an option for purchase, as contended by appellant, and that it is a contract for a conditional sale. One or two excerpts from the contract will suffice to indicate the reason for this view

"According to our view of the evidence these ranges were not so 'attached' to the building that, as a matter of law, they became part of it. They were connected with the building by the usual service gas pipe and stovepipe flue. The one could be severed by simply unscrewing a coupling and the other by lifting it out of the aperture made for it. This is not such an attachment to the building as would give a mortgagee any right of ownership as against his mortgagor, and we do not see how a purchaser at a foreclosure sale could acquire any greater right. We think that these ranges, situated as they were, lost none of their characteristics as personal property."

Country Life Exposition.

On the third floor of the main building of the Grand Central Station there is a permanent exhibition of country life. No exhibition ever seen in New York has had so handsome a setting. The walls are covered with landscape paintings. Illustrated lectures on important and interesting subjects are given each week day morning and afternoon. This week the lectures were on subjects like these: Modern kitchen appliances, a trip up the Hudson, Flowering plants for the garden, the vacuum system of house cleaning, how Oriental rugs are made, the children and country life.

Among the exhibits are garden statuary and cement modeling, model houses, ornamental brick, furnaces and heating, modern bath room equipment, imported wall paper and decorations, steel ceiling patterns, lighting fixture specialties, sportsman's supplies, 1914 model auto, motorcycle and bicycle; model camp, white enamel refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, paints and varnishes, plants for landscape effects, model greenhouse, seeds and bulbs, rustic tea garden, electric rainbow fountain, portable garage, pets for country homes, rustic furniture, electric washing machine, modern kitchen necessities, metal weather strips, composition floors, Indian splint furniture, ornamental gates and fences, interior decorating and furnishings, parquet flooring, Isle of Pines products and information, model of Gedney Farm Hotel, engineering and construction, hammered brass and copper goods, oriental rug weaving, willow furniture, rustic architecture, country life publications, Japan gardens, electric vibrators, lava heating, Simplex projecting machine, radium gold fibre screen, model nursery equipment, photography and camera supplies, model of President's yacht "Mayflower," panoramic oil paintings of Westchester County, from the Hudson to the Sound, including scenes of country life recreation and sports; original fur press used by John Jacob Astor 1st, information, Westchester, Putnam and New England farms, mortgage loans, Westchester County real estate; models of the Hendrick Hudson and Clermont steamships, topographical map of Westchester County, safes and vaults for the home.

Tests of Reinforced Concrete Columns.

The institute has undertaken through its committee on reinforced concrete and building laws an investigation of reinforced concrete columns of large size. In the execution of this program the institute has been favored with the co-operation of the United States Bureau of Standards in the use of the ten million pound compression testing machine at Pittsburgh, Pa., and of the engineering experiment station of the University of Illinois in furnishing observers in conducting the tests. The tests were made possible through the active co-operation of those who donated the funds and materials for making and molding the columns. The columns were cast in New York on November 19, 22 and 26, 1913, and will be tested beginning February 15, 1914, at which time the concrete will be approximately 90 days old.

LONG ISLAND COMMUTERS.

Increasing in Number Steadily.

That there has been a great increase in the all year population of suburban Long Island and in the list of commuters on the Long Island Railroad, is illustrated by the fact that the railroad company has continued its time table of last summer on its important divisions through the winter. Never before has traffic warranted such railroad action in the territory. This summer service is carried on primarily for the benefit of commuters and there is no other railroad coming into New York City that has found it necessary to do what has been found to be imperative on the Long Island system.

This service not only spells growth of population during the year recently begun, but it means to every property owner in Nassau County and western Suffolk County an enhancement of property values. Greater accessibility to and from any territory always helps the value of real estate. Vacant property also feels the impetus because there is a stronger demand for home sites.

The southern and central parts of Nassau County especially are favored by the railroad company's retention of last summer's train service because two important branches of the road are respectively operated there, the Montauk division and the main line. Numerous new and modern station buildings have been built along these lines on account of increased permanent traffic. A new station in any community always adds to its growth and to its property values by making the place more attractive.

Throughout the southern and central parts of Nassau County are the most largely populated communities on Long Island, and the smaller communities there are becoming larger through contact with the larger towns and easy accessibility to the city. Quick communication between towns by trolley roads is also impelling growth and structural improvements.

Prominent among the towns that are attracting many all year commuters are Hempstead, Floral Park, Rockville Centre, Oceanside and East Rockaway. A distinct feature of the property movement in Nassau County is the increasing popularity of property near the southern coast line for all year residence purposes. On the mainland and back of Long Beach is a territory that is being rapidly transformed from an aggregation of ancient hamlets into a great modern home area. The electrification of the Long Beach division of the railroad, which passes through this territory, has had much to do with the improvements that are under way.

Building and Loan Associations.

One who purchases stock in a building and loan association, for which he agrees to pay in installments, and then borrows money from the association upon his note and mortgage, pledging the stock as additional security, is held in Groover v. Pacific Coast Sav. Soc. (Cal.) 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 874, not to be, where there is no provision for canceling the indebtedness with the stock, entitled, in case the corporation becomes insolvent, to have the payments and credits on his stock credited on the note and mortgage, although the mortgage gives the association the option to claim such credits in case default in his contract requires foreclosure of the mortgage. A note to this case reviews the authorities on the question of the basis of settlement between building and loan association and borrowing member before maturity of stock.

Bing & Bing, 505 Fifth avenue, received the general contract on Monday to erect the new loft building on the west side of Seventh avenue, from 24th to 25th streets, and the south side of 25th street, for the National Cloak and Suit Company, of 207 West 24th street, S. THE FOUNDATION COMPANY will remove its general offices on February 1 to the Woolworth Building, 233 Broadway.

WILLIAM CARVER, architect, has opened offices in Phoenix, Ariz., and will be pleased to receive catalogues and samples from manufacturers.

FLAVIO B. GROSSO, architect, Paterson, N. J., sailed Tuesday, Jan. 20, for Europe. He will be abroad about two months and will visit France, Germany and Italy during his trip.

THE WARD LUMBER COMPANY, of Lynchburg, Va., manufacturers and wholesalers in yellow pine and hardwoods, has opened a sales office in the Metropolitan Building, 1 Madison av, in charge of J. C. Peace.

A FOREST PRODUCTS EXCHANGE, which will be held here in the Grand Central Palace next May, will give the public a visual demonstration of the importance of the lumber industry. George S. Wood, Otis Building, Chicago, is the manager.

SAMUEL COHEN, formerly connected with Bernstein & Bernstein, architects, and Jac. M. Felson, who was formerly with Neville & Bagge, architects, have formed a partnership under the firm name of Cohen & Felson, for the general practice of architecture. The new firm have taken offices at 329 Fourth av, N. Y. C.

CLARENCE R. VAN BUSKIRK and Charles B. White, architects, formerly associated with Alex F. W. Leslie, who recently died, have formed a partnership for the general practice of architecture. The new firm is known as Van Buskirk & White, and have offices in the Eagle Building, 307 Washington st, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JOHN F. HAMMOND, M. Am. Soc. C. E., has completed his work in Oswego, N. Y., as Resident Consulting Engineer on sewerage and sewage-disposal works, and has resumed his practice as consulting engineer at 123 Oak st, Richmond Hill, Queens county, N. Y.

GUSTAV LINDENTHAL, M. Am. Soc. C. E., Consulting Engineer, New York City, was honored with a gold medal at the International Exhibition at Leipzig, Germany, for the design and plans of the Hell Gate steel arch bridge of the New York Connecting R. R.

THE WEISBERG-BAER CO., manufacturers of sash, doors and trim of Astoria, L. I., has completed the installation of additional boilers with a capacity of 400 H.P. and a Watts Campbell engine with a capacity of 500 H.P. This, with the complete Sturtevant blower system, which is being installed, will enable the firm to dry 220,000 feet of lumber every ten days.

NATIONAL PLUMBING SUPPLY COMPANY.—Schedules of the National Plumbing Supply Company, of No. 3921 Third avenue, show liabilities of $23,995, of which $12,000 is secured; assets, $29,397, consisting of stock, $3,500; machinery and fixtures, $287; accounts, $10,235, and real estate, $15,250 at Nos. 313 and 315 Avenue C, Bayonne, mortgaged for $12,000.

GOODYEAR RUBBER TIRE COMPANY expect to move into their new building at Jackson avenue and Honeywell street, Long Island City, on its completion, which will be about Feb. 15. Their new home is a 5-story fireproof structure of reinforced concrete faced with brick; the upper four floors will be used for manufacturing and storage purposes, exclusively, and the first floor, will be artistically decorated, as a sales and show room.

R. V. GIBSON has withdrawn from the Newark, N. J., wholesale house of Stone, Hershey & Gibson, but will continue in the wholesale business on his own account, with offices in the Essex Building, Newark. He will make a specialty of Idaho white pine, handling the output of the Blackwell Lumber Co. and the Pan Handle Lumber Co., of Idaho. He will also handle a general line of spruce and hemlock.

EDMUND B. PARKE, of Paterson, N. J., has been chosen president of Collins, Lavery & Co., retailers and planing mill operators in Jersey City, filling the office vacated by Frederick W. Cole, who has been obliged to retire from active business on account of ill health. Mr. Parke was for twenty-five years associated with the Dodge & Bliss Co., lumber dealers and box makers at Jersey City.

THE BRECHE VIOLET marble front of the new Adams Express Building on lower Broadway is being treated with the Caffall process for waterproofing for the purpose of preserving this very delicate stone against disintegration from the weather. This is said to be the most beautiful marble front in the world and extends from the street up four stories. Such marble as this is ordinarily used only for interior decoration; but as it is now becoming known among marble importers and dealers that it can be used for exteriors when treated, it is evident that it will have a very much larger field. The work is being done by the Obelisk Waterproofing Co., of 1 Madison avenue, and is under the personal supervision of Edward M. Caffall, who treated the Obelisk in 1885.

W. B. SHAFER & CO. (INC.), general construction, engineering and contracting, with offices at 105 West 40th street, city, were organized within the past week. W. B. Shafer, Jr., president of the new company, needs no introduction to the building trade in New York. His experience of over twelve years in the business, especially during the past eight years, as first vice-president of the Alfred E. Norton Co., has made him well known as a practical man in the steel fabricating and erecting trades. R. W. Tietjen, son of Christian F. Tietjen, president of the West Side Bank, 34th street and 8th avenue, has been made treasurer of the new company. E. T. MacIntyre, formerly contracting engineer for Mulcahy & Gibson (Inc.), is secretary of the company. The new firm carry with them the goodwill of the Alfred E. Norton Co., now in process of voluntary liquidation, and we believe they will meet with a large success in the field.

A STANDARD BUILDING.

The General Particulars to Which It Should Conform.

The Committee on Fireproof Construction of the National Fire Prevention Association in a report defined a "standard building" as one in which the lives of the occupants are properly safeguarded against fire and panic; one so designed and equipped that damage resulting from exposure to fire from either from within or without shall be reduced to a minimum, and one capable of sustaining a complete burn-out of its contents without serious injury to its structural members.'

The specifications for the construction of a standard building are given in the report, the principal ones being these:

Height.—The height from grade to roof-line, irrespective of its occupancy, shall not exceed 70 feet, unless the building be fully equipped with automatic sprinklers, in which case the height shall not exceed 125 feet; nor shall any Standard Building exceed a height of two and one-half times the width of the widest street upon which it is located.

Area.—The area within inclosing or fire walls shall not exceed 7,500 square feet, with no dimension greater than 125 feet for a building without automatic sprinklers; or 20,000 square feet, unrestricted as to linear dimensions, for a building fully equipped with automatic sprinklers.

Exits.—Wherever the word "Exit" is used in these specifications it shall be one of the two following forms:

(1) Stair Exit. That consists of the direct connection of any floor area to an approved stairway built in conformity with the specifications hereafter detailed, either as (a) an enclosed interior stairway, or (b) a smokeproof tower. (2) Horizontal Exit: The connection of any floor area through a fire exit partition, fire wall, or an open air balcony or vestibule to another floor area in the same or an adjoining building having its own independent stair exits; the other area shall be of sufficient size to contain temporarily the joint occupancy of the two areas thus joined, allowing not less than 5 square feet of unobstructed floor space per person.

Number of Exits Required.—Every floor area, except the ground floor, shall have at least one stair exit directly connected thereto. Every such floor area shall have at least one additional exit when it exceeds 2,500 square feet in area, or when the building has a total occupancy greater than 75 people above the ground floor. Every ground floor area of more than 4,000 square feet, or having an occupancy of more than 75, shall have at least two means of exit. Where more than one exit is required to any floor area they shall be remote from each other. In all buildings, every room having an occupancy greater than 75 shall have at least two doorways leading to exits.

No part of any floor area shall be more than 100 feet distant from the entrance to an exit. Whenever any building is more than four stories high, and has an occupancy greater than twenty-five people above the fourth floor, then each floor area of such building shall be connected, either directly to a smokeproof tower, or indirectly through a horizontal exit to such smokeproof tower. Wherever any floor area exceeds 5,000 square feet, at least one additional means of exit shall be provided for each additional 5,000 square feet or part thereof.

The Hollow-Tile House.

A book by Frederick Squires, architect, containing 210 pages, with 215 illustrations and figures, which deals with the construction of the fireproof home, the most modern development of wall construction in "Texture-Tile," and the most recently devised systems of fireproof floor construction and architectural concrete work. The illustrations of the book are extensive and have been prepared from a beautiful series of photographs. The foreign examples were selected from the collection of thousands of views in the possession of the author, showing the best country-house work abroad. In America the work of our best home designers has been drawn upon and every illustration is an artistic masterpiece. The following list of the table of contents will give to the reader an idea of the value of the book. Chapter I., Tile Making. Chapter II., Old World Stucco. Chanter III., About Construction. THE SINGLE-TAX THEORY DISSECTED

The Right of Private Ownership in Land as a Product of Labor—Land in the City Not a Natural Product—Land Values Would Shrink.

By CYRUS C. MILLER

THE Salant-Schaap bill (named after its last sponsors) is, we are told, about to be submitted again to the Legislature of the State of New York. It is expected to contain the same provisions as its predecessor, the Sullivan-Shortt bill, which was defeated in 1911. These bills are known as the "half-tax" bills because they aim to divide the tax on buildings and other improvements into two parts, one to be levied on the improvements and the other to be added to the present tax on land. This will result in a "half tax" on buildings and an extra tax on land.

The bill sets forth that ten per cent. of the tax on buildings shall be taken off each year for five years and added to the land tax. It should be understood that the plan is a half way station to the Henry George single tax, by which all taxes (instead of half) are to be taken from buildings and placed on land. The principles applying to both half tax and single tax are the same. The single-tax theory is that land and air and water are natural products and belong to mankind in general, so no individual should have exclusive ownership of them; while buildings and other improvements are the products of labor and should be the exclusive property of the persons who create them. To carry out this theory the single-taxers propose to leave the land in the possession of its owners but to levy upon it a tax equal to its producing power, so that the possessors of the land cannot have its income, which will be divided among the community to meet the burdens of government. I believe this to be a fair statement of their plans.

A Henry George Theory.

Perhaps some quotations from "The Condition of Labor," by Henry George, will not be amiss:

"Being created individuals with individual wants and powers, men are individually entitled (subject of course to the moral obligations that arise from such relations as that of the family) to the use of their own powers, and the enjoyment of the results. There thus arises, anterior to human law, and deriving its validity from the law of God, a right of private ownership in things produced by labor, a right that the possessor may transfer, but of which to deprive him of without his will is theft. This right of property originating in the right of the individual to himself, is the only full and complete right of property. It attaches to things produced by labor, but cannot attach to things created by God. * * * We propose leaving land in the private possession of individuals, with full liberty on their part to give, sell or bequeath it, simply to levy on it for public use a tax that shall equal the annual value of the land itself, irrespective of the use made of it or the improvements on it."

HON. CYRUS C. MILLER.

Land As a Labor Product.

It is to be seen that the whole theory is based upon the idea that land is not the product of labor. If it be shown that in a civilized community land is a product of labor, the theory falls to the ground.

Let us examine this idea in detail. No one will question that land, air and water in a new community are natural products common to everyone, but like every other natural product, they are converted easily into products of labor. My friend the fruit grower buys compressed air in cylinders from a concern which takes this natural product and compresses it. He uses it as a motive power to spray his trees. In my office we use bottled water which we buy from some one who collects this natural product, bottles it and sells it to us. Miners take gold and precious stones, and coal, and oil out of the earth, and after they have treated them by various forms of human labor either in manufacture or transportation, exchange them for other products of human labor.

When our forefathers stepped upon Plymouth Rock they found before them an unbroken forest, a natural product. It had no selling value. They chopped down the trees, pulled the stumps, blasted or picked off the rocks and stones, filled the ravines, built roads and converted the land into a product of human labor. Anyone could do it who would. Now it is proposed to lay a tax on that land which shall be equal to its producing power, because they say the community is entitled to the income and not the individual who expended his labor on it, or his successor. Perhaps it will be said that land in the cities is not farming land and the same reasoning will not apply.

In the beginning of the city, land was free to all. Some men worked on the land and converted it into farms, others invested their capital in merchandise, all helped to build up the city. The man who made bricks which were the product of his labor, sold some and bought land with his profits. He wanted the land, others wanted his bricks. Out of his savings he paid taxes on the land to carry on the government and assessments to build streets and sewers and lay pavements and prepare the land for the time it would be needed for buildings. The bricks were the primary product of his labor, but the land no less represented his labor, and was the product of it in the wider sense. While he held the land he had to go without interest on his original capital, the taxes, and the assessments.

Land as a Savings Bank.

All of these items went into the land as they would into a savings bank, some day to be returned, he hoped. Finally, a demand came for his land, as it had for his bricks, and he sold it, sometimes with a profit, sometimes without. The community encouraged him to put his savings into land. What can be said of an attempt to take them away? It may be said again that it is not the intention to take away the land from his possession. This is true, but it is also true that the plan is to take away its selling value by taxing away its income or its potential power to produce an income.

A lot is worth a sum upon which it will produce a fair return after the taxes have been paid. A fair return is, let us say, 5 per cent. It is worth $1,000 if it will produce $50 (5 per cent. income) and the taxes say, 2 per cent., or $20, which is $70 in all. If the taxes are raised to 3 per cent. the income will be reduced to $40 and the lot will be worth only $800 to sell. If the taxes are increased to 4 per cent. the income will be $30, and the selling value $600; and finally, if the tax is increased to 7 per cent. the entire income will be taken and the lot will have no selling value at all.

Who will pay $1,000 for a lot if he cannot sell it again for the same amount, or if he cannot gain an income from it on that sum? If the income is taken away the selling value of the lot is lost. This means that thousands and thousands of small owners who now have their savings in a home or tenement upon which there is a mortgage, and whose equity only equals the selling value of the land, will see their investments wiped out and the mortgagee get the property.

Falsity of the Cheap Rent Theory.

It is thought that taking away the selling value of land will make it possible for men to build homes on it and have cheap rents, and escape the congestion of the cities. Let us examine that theory. Undoubtedly the first effect would be to make vacant land cheap in localities where the local improvements, such as regulating and grading, sewering and paving, have been paid for, because these investments as well as the original capital invested in the land would be lost; but as soon as these lands were occupied, who would invest in other lands years before they were needed for dwellings, and pay the taxes and assessments necessary to convert these lands into building lots suitable for a city?

Now they are made ready to relieve any congestion in the city long before there is any demand for them. On what would the assessments be levied if the lands had no selling value? Who would advance the money for these improvements Again, if the tax on the building is only half that on the land,the tendency would be to build upon as much of the land as possible and have most of the investment in the building. It is to be seen that a worse congestion would occur than any we now have and rents would rise as the demand increased. In a few years they would be higher than they are now.

It is hard to understand the argument that buildings and improvements should be exempted from taxes. The object of taxes is to support the government in the discharge of its functions, such as the operation of the Fire Department, the Police Department, and the Courts, and all its other activities. What are these for more than for the preservation of buildings and other improvements? Vacant property does not need the Fire Department, or the Police Department, or the Courts; yet it is proposed to relieve buildings and improvements which are the direct beneficiaries of the tax, and place the burden on land, which gets little or no direct benefit from it.

The larger the ratio which the value of a building bears to the whole investment, the greater the need of the governmental functions supported by the tax; but the single tax would exempt the building and charge the land.

Another fact which appears to be forgotten is that the building is bound to wear out and the only chance the owner has to offset the diminishing value of his building lies in the increase in the value of his land. If he is denied the increase in the value of his land, he must charge higher rents so as to provide a sinking fund for his building. This necessary consequence explodes the lower rent theory.

Practical Difficulties.

Let me call attention to the practical difficulty of levying the single tax. To quote again from "The Condition of Labor":

> "The value we propose to tax, the value of land irrespective of improvements, does not come from any exertion of labor or investment of capital on it or in it; the value produced in this way being values of improvements which we would exempt."

If the capital invested in a piece of land is to be exempted from taxation, we shall find that many lots which now are not worth the capital invested in them, plus interest, will have no tax levied upon them. Suppose we exempt the natural value of land and tax the so-called "social value." How can we determine what part of the present value we tax? If, on the other hand, we exempt the capital invested and interest we find that the sum invested will be far greater than the present value.

History tells us that Peter Minuit, the first director-general of the Dutch East India Company, paid to the Indians in 1626 the sum of 60 guilders or about $24, for the land on Manhattan Island. In 1913 the assessed value of this land was $3,155,389,410, but when we figure that this same $24, if put out at the prevailing rates of interest since 1826, would amount now to $12,884,901,824, in round numbers, we conclude that the unearned increment or social value was not so much after all.

Capital Joined With Labor.

In a settled community where capital has been invested in land it is practically impossible to find out what part of the land represents capital and what part labor. When was there a time when both capital and labor were not spent on it? In a new community when everyone starts off on an even basis and it is agreed that land shall have no selling value, the single tax may be as good as any other, but not so where all the land values in the community are based on investments from the proceeds of labor. In fact, in such cases as the New England farms before mentioned, their entire value is the result of labor. In the case of unimproved city lots, although the original capital invested was small, the taxes, interest and investment, assessments and interest on them sometimes exceeds by a large sum the present selling value of the lots. Only a few days ago an article in a newspaper called attention to a lot in Tremont avenue, Bronx, which the owner bought in 1872 for $5,000. In 1912 it was sold and now it is worth $30,000. On the face of it the owner made a large profit, but upon analysis it appeared that his original investment of $5,000, with interest for the 40 years, amounted to $35,200. He paid out taxes and assessments of $14,000. His investment amounted to $49,200, while his property was worth only $30,000. What part of this should be taxed? Will the city repay to him the sum he has spent for investments, taxes, assessments and interest over the selling value of the property?

It may be seen, therefore, that land in the city is not a natural product, but a product of labor. In this it differs in no respect from merchandise in whose exclusive ownership the investor is entitled to all the protection of the laws, and that a tax designed to take away the selling value of his property is only a means of confiscation under the form of law.

The Unearned Increment.

Much is said of the unearned increment of land caused by the increase in population and consequent increased demand for it. The hope of this increase is what induces persons to invest the proceeds of their labor in the development of vacant property long before it is needed for building or in the improvement of property. After such investment, if the population moves away, does the community pay the owner for his loss? Assuredly not. Why should it have the increase? The increased tax on increased values pays to the community a share of the increase.

I need not go into the question of the effect which the shrinkage of land values due to the single tax would have on New York City securities sold to people all over the world. A community which would confiscate the property of its own citizens would not be very considerate of the owners of its securities.

NEW BUILDING FOR THE SECURITY BUILDING COMPANY, LYNN, MASS.

New York Builders at Lynn.

John H. Parker Co., of 315 Fourth avenue, New York City, has within the past two weeks taken contracts for two important operations, one in Lynn, Mass., and the other in Toronto, Canada. The Lynn contract is for an eight-story bank and office building to be erected for the Security Building Corporation, at a cost of $300,000. The building will be fireproof throughout, of granite, limestone, brick and terra cotta. The ground floor will be occupied on completion by the Security Trust Company. The structural steel for this work has been awarded to Levering & Garrigues Co., of New York City. The plans for this building were prepared by Mowbray & Uffinger, 56 Liberty street, New York City, who are specialists in bank buildings and office buildings of this type.

The Toronto operation will be handled from the local office of the John H. Parker Canadian, Ltd., at 8 Colburne street, Toronto Canada. This building is to be erected for the Methodist Book & Publishing Co., of Toronto, at a cost of $1,000,000. The building is to be of fireproof construction, with a facade of granite and terra cotta; dimensions are approximately 135x221x203 feet. The building will contain six elevators, and separate power plant. The plans for this building were prepared by Burke, Horwood & White, of 28 Toronto street, Toronto, Canada.

PROFESSOR JOHNSON AGAINST SINGLE TAX

Dean of N. Y. University School of Commerce Points Out Its Fallacies before the Real Estate Board — President McGuire Urges Cooperation Among Owners.

PROFESSOR Joseph French Johnson, dean of the New York University School of Commerce, Finance and Accounts, addressed the members and guests of the Real Estate Board of New York, on Thursday, at the second of the monthly luncheons which the board has inaugurated. Dr. Johnson spoke on the single tax, discussing the various phases of it and then pointed out its fallacies.

Lawrence M. D. McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board, in his introductory remarks, urged systematic opposition to the proposed referendum which the single taxers are trying to get through the Legislature.

Professor Johnson said in part:

"A propaganda has been urged with great vigor, persistence, and fallacious argument in favor of the reduction of the tax on buildings until it is one-half the rate on land, on the assumption that the people in the buildings, who occupy the buildings, don't own any land, are a favored set of people; God put them here not to pay taxes, but to be here and enjoy the advantages of civilization in New York without paying their share for the privileges they enjoy. I have not discovered a single argument in the propaganda which will bear analysis. I mean the propaganda for a reduction of the tax rate on buildings.

Ways of Paying Taxes.

"I know no reason why I should not pay taxes for the support of the government of the City of New York, although I own no real estate in New York. I think I do pay taxes. I pay taxes whenever I eat lunch—if I pay for the lunch. I pay a tax whenever I am in the subway, on the street cars, when I buy a hat, when I pay for the bed in which I sleep, or when I pay rent. I am contributing my share in proportion to my income toward the support of the city government. Now that tax, of course, is disguised.

"When Mayor Gaynor's commission got together two or three years ago to consider means of finding new sources of revenue for the city, we began first of all to consider whether it would be possible to learn something from other cities and other countries.

"Well now, we had to come back then to consider a single tax on the land in New York. The single taxers claim that there is attaching to land something that attaches to no other kind of property, and they call it the unearned increment, and that the value of land is created not by the land owner, but by the growth of society, and the increase of population. Now we will agree that that tax on land could not be shifted, and if we did increase the taxes which the land owner should pay he could not do what the building owner does and make the tenant and the occupier pay the taxes; he himself would have to pay them. Well then, the committee considered briefly what this word unearned means, and we found no answer and nobody has really been able to define earned.

"When do you earn a thing? The economists say that you earn it when it is a product of sacrifice and effort on your part. Then it would not have come into being but for the sacrifice and the effort that you made and endured. Well, did Mr. Pierpont Morgan earn the $2,000,000—I don't know how many—which his firm was paid for bringing into existence the Steel Trust? It is pretty hard to answer that question. Did General Grant capture Fort Donelson, or did his soldiers? Did Admiral Dewey capture Manila, or did the men under him? Unconsciously the American people have answered both these questions, and a lot of others of the same sort. They say Dewey did it, and that Grant did it, without reasoning about it at all. If you do begin to reason about it and try to find out who has earned, who has produced a thing, was it Carnegie who produced his millions or the men who worked for him with their hands? You have got to consider what the men would have done without Carnegie—without the brains.

The Unearned Increment.

"If we are going into the theory of it and say that because the land is not man-made then we should tax the increment in its value, tax it until nothing is left except a bare living for the owner of the land, you can't tax it beyond that, then we had better go further to be logical and tax men like Morgan and Jacob Schiff, and you can name a lot of others, on the special ability which God gave them, for that is a privilege, a monopoly which they have not earned, and leave them, of course, enough to live on so they can go on operating their special abilities.

"The unearned increment attaches to all forms of monopolies or things which can be increased in number, and we tax the buildings because the buildings may be increased in number and may increase in rents. The street railways, too, for we only have one in a street, so the unearned increment attaches to street railways, to the railroads, to the telephone companies, to the telegraph companies, and to all of our public service utilities, which are semi-monopolies for the reason that public opinion will not tolerate a duplication, or the law in many States won't. So if we are going to absorb the unearned increment we must not stop with land.

"If you are going to buy some railroad stock, you will buy because you think it is going up. That is the unearned increment. You won't do a thing to make it go up.

"Now, one of the crying objections to the Sullivan-Shortt bill, and it is unanswerable, is the fact that it would fall with equal weight upon those who are fortunate in their investments and those who are unfortunate in their investments. As you all know, the development of transit facilities in New York City in recent years has caused a most remarkable shifting of values. It has increased values in certain parts of the city, especially in the suburbs, which caused a decline of values downtown. The doubling of the taxes on the land, or the halving of the rate on buildings until it is half that of the rate on land, would make the tax burden bear heavier and heavier on land, and larger and larger on land, and you know that the selling price of land is determined in some measure by the taxes; for if we assume 5 per cent. rate of interest as being a current rate in a community and that the tax rate is 2 per cent., with a piece of property yielding $7,000, it yields to the owner $5,000, leaving out of account strictly any other consideration, and would be worth in the market, $100,000; if the tax rate is increased on that land 3 per cent., the owner gets a net income of only $4,000 and the market value, the price of the land, would fall to something like $80,000.

"So the increasing of the tax rate upon real estate or upon any property is a very serious matter for the owner of that property. It is a disguised form of confiscation, and there is no answer, no argument in favor of it."

Professor Johnson closed by further enlarging on the benefits of an unearned increment tax.

A Call to Arms.

Mr. McGuire, before the adjournment, again urged co-operation among the real estate interests. He said:

"The time is here when all interested in real estate—the owner and the professional real estate man—must get together and combine, and their organization fight these things at their inception. Only last night I attended a meeting where there was discussed the effect of the recent Factory Laws through the Labor Department, and it was discovered by two of the gentlemen who were at this conference—I think perhaps they had charge of two hundred buildings that will be affected by this law—they woke up to find that the Labor Law in its operation treats the 4 and 5 and 6 story buildings in practically the same way that it does the 12 or 20 story fireproof building, and a gentleman who is an expert and a former commissioner of the State, turned to these real estate men and said: 'I was on this commission when this law was being made up and I often wonder where the real estate men were when this thing was being put over.' Now we awaken in relation to the Labor Law to find that we are in a very serious predicament—far worse than a great many real estate men are willing to admit and another lot don't realize. Now, if you permit this reduction of rent movement to get the same momentum as did the Factory Law, I say that the real estate interests are entitled to no sympathy."

There were about 300 present, including real estate brokers, lawyers and business men.

—Builders have begun to respond to the appeal from Long Island City for residential construction. The J. J. Hearn Construction Company is to build six five-story brick tenements to cost $200,000, in Long Island City, four on Albert street, a short distance north of Jackson avenue, and two on the south side of Steinway avenue, 115 feet east of Jackson avenue.

—The most cheering advices come from Washington, President Wilson having evidently determined that it is time to redeem his pledge for "building up business" on constructive lines.

FIFTH AVENUE BUILDING RESTRICTIONS

Those Proposed by the Commission Acceptable to the Association—The Commission's Conclusions Analyzed—A New Epoch for the City.

By BRUCE M. FALCONER, Counsel to the Fifth Avenue Association.

IF ten years ago a real estate man, a builder, a large property owner, an architect, a city official, and a prophet, let us say, should have been together, and the prophet should have told the group that in ten years time a city commission composed of practical and experienced men, representing many different types of activity, would hand in a report urging most earnestly a limitation on the height of buildings in New York City and a segregation of buildings according to their use and character of occupancy, the group might well have exclaimed as one man: "Such a thing is impossible!" Then the familiar arguments would probably have been urged about the shape and size of Manhattan Island, and that due to this feature of the case New York was "sui generis"; and therefore, aside from any other argument, the continued erection of skyscrapers was an economic and a physiographical necessity. But "continual dropping weareth away a stone," and the constant agitation of this subject on the part of a small minority, of which the Fifth Avenue Association has been, as far as we are aware, the most active leader, has produced a remarkable change in sentiment, or possibly, it may be more truthful to say has uncovered and brought to light the real sentiment of the community.

The Zone System.

The commission in its report doubts the power of the Board of Estimate, under the present charter, to put into effect the zone system. It urges, however, for immediate adoption over the whole city, a rule limiting the height of buildings at the street line to twice the width of the street, with a further provision that in no case shall the height limit be fixed at less than 100 feet or more than 300 feet. After reaching the proposed limit buildings may be erected to a greater height by setting back the street walls above the point thus fixed one foot for every four feet of increased height. After the first story 10 per cent. of every interior lot must be left vacant, such 10 per cent. being at the rear in the case of any lot facing only on one street. Further loss of area is required, progressing in accordance with increased height; towers not exceeding 25 per cent. of the lot area are provided for and other rules regarding bulk, court space, etc., are proposed.

The commission states that these restrictions proposed for immediate adoption were devised with reference to the needs of the downtown office and financial district, and "are so liberal as to be of practically no force in controlling actual building development except in very limited areas throughout the entire city." We have little doubt that the exhaustive investigation made by the commission and its staff, and the great amount of expert advice obtained from men representing different types of interests looking at the problem from many varying angles and points of view, has led the commission to formulate rules which are opposite to the district in question, will tend to check unreasonable height, provide in so far as possible for the access of sunshine and light and at the same time are not an undue interference with property rights in a district of this extraordinary character. As the commission itself states, however, since the city is naturally divided into different types of building districts, all these "districts must be recognized in any complete and generally effective system of building restriction." Therefore, the zone system is advocated for eventual adoption, and an amendment to the charter is recommended giving the Board of Estimate power to put it into effect.

The Only Possible Solution.

Doubtless all who have thought about this problem realize sooner or later that the zone system is the only possible solution of the question for New York City in its entirety. The needs of one section are not the needs of another. A rule, for example, liberal enough to be reasonable in the downtown office district, would not be strict enough for, say, Fifth avenue or Park avenue. Conversely a restriction low enough to protect Fifth avenue would no doubt be confiscatory and legally unenforceable if applied to the skyscraper district, in fact could probably never be enacted into law. This condition of affairs in itself constitutes a silent but overwhelming argument that if any height limitations at all are to be imposed throughout the entire city the zone system is the only practical method that can be applied.

The commission recommends the adoption of the zone system not only for the purpose of limiting height, but as well for the purpose of regulating the location of industries and of buildings destined for special uses. In other words, there is a recognition of the fact that in the future development of the city some lines of segregation must be drawn, in so far as that is practicable, as to the character of buildings and the nature of their occupancy. In any system of this kind as applied to New York City two of the basic distinctions to be recognized would undoubtedly be, first, that between residential and industrial districts and, second, that between high class mercantile districts and purely industrial or factory districts. The system of segregation into industrial and residential districts has already been adopted in a number of American cities, in Vienna and in many of the greatest cities of Germany.

Fifth Avenue's Special Needs.

In accordance with the instructions contained in the resolution providing for the appointment of the commission special attention has been given in its report to the Fifth avenue district. It lays stress on the "decline in business and property values in lower Fifth avenue owing to the failure to protect the avenue from encroachment by factories," and recognizes the fact that the welfare of Fifth avenue is not the concern of that avenue alone, but of the rest of the city as excluded from the neighborhood of upper Fifth avenue. The preservation of that thoroughfare as a high class shopping center is essential to the business prosperity of the entire city."

As to height limitation the commission recommends that Fifth avenue and adjacent territory, as a part of the zone scheme, be placed in one of those zones in which the height of buildings at the street line is limited to 1½ times the width of the street, but not over 125 feet, with a provision permitting further height if the street wall is set back one foot horizontally for each 1½ feet of vertical increase. Since Fifth avenue is 100 feet wide the height limitation on the avenue at the street line would thus be fixed at 125 feet, while on the 60 foot cross streets the limitation would be fixed at 90 feet. As the Fifth Avenue Association, through its executive committee, has long since recorded itself as being in favor of a restriction of 125 feet on buildings on the avenue and within 300 feet east and west, with two additional mansard roof stories, it will thus be seen that, at least as for as the height at the street line is concerned, its demands have been more than recognized. The rules recommended for the Fifth avenue district in regard to additional height for setbacks and towers do not appear to be so liberal as to occasion fear of immoderate height, large plots being the only ones on which substantial increase of height would seem to be practicable.

Take a Chance on Its Constitutionality.

Fifth avenue may feel perhaps a little natural disappointment that no recommendation is made for its imediate protection, since it seems to us that under present charter powers the Boards of Estimate and Aldermen might well have passed a law applying to that section alone, in advance of the zone system. We should have been willing to take a chance on its constitutionality, could anyone have been found so hardy as to fight such a law, backed overwhelmingly as it would undoubtedly be by the sentiment of the Fifth avenue district. However, there comes to mind in the nature of consolation at this time, one of the wise and oft-repeated sayings of the late Mayor Gaynor: "All good growth is slow growth." Looked at from the point of view not alone of Fifth avenue, but of the whole city, we cannot but hope that the report of the Heights of Buildings Commission marks the beginning of a new epoch in the development of the city.

The Harlem Tubes.

The third section of the four-track steel tunnel being built under the Harlem River for the Lexington avenue subway has been successfully laid in the bed of the river. The contractors are Arthur McMullen and Olaf Hoff, and the method of building the tunnel is the same as that used by Mr. Hoff in the construction of the Michigan Central tunnel under the Detroit River. This method involves the construction of the steel tubes on dry land, floating them on the surface of the river to the point desired, and then sinking them into a prepared trench in the bed of the river and encasing them in concrete.

VAN CORTLANDT SECTION IN NEED OF SUBWAY

Real Estate Development Retarded—Unjust Treatment Alleged by Local Owners—A Compromise Suggested—Expressions of Opinion.

BROADWAY, in the Bronx, with the territory to the west of it is waiting for builders and building loans, and for the city to develop further the inside streets and avenues. Beyond the narrow and inadequate bridge across the ship canal Broadway becomes one of the five principal arteries of the Bronx. Here it is a beautifully paved highway, with sewer, water, gas, electricity and rapid transit part way, but almost wholly vacant except for a few brick and frame buildings at the lower end and a few old cottages along the way.

The Broadway subway line, ending at 242d street, leaves without accommodation a considerable city territory lying beyond that latitude, as it is a mile and a half to the city line. A double toll is consequently exacted from those who do not reside within walking distance of the terminal. The difference in money between a single toll and a double is only a nickel, but the difference in real estate values, marketability and material development represented by the nickel is sometimes beyond calculation.

Palsied Enterprise.

It has in the case of Van Cortlandt section deterred new population and palsied real estate enterprise, because Van Cortlandt is to some extent suited for small homes, rather than for such costly mansions and grounds as abound in the Riverdale section proper. Hundreds of city families own plots or lots near Broadway in this zone that have not been utilized because of the dormant state of the realty market, owing to that extra fare. It is economically impossible to build, lease or sell under present conditions. The local taxpayers have assured the municipal transit authorities that the extension of the subway a reasonable distance farther northward, if not quite to the city line, would mean the beginning of a real estate movement that would produce the finest suburb New York City has yet seen.

The Riverdale district, of which both Van Cortlandt and Spuyten Duyvil sections are component parts, is a natural garden city. Portions of it, particularly the one served by the New York Central Railroad, have been partly developed as such. Many lovely homes are set on the serpentine drives and picturesque slopes. Further indicating the refined character of the region is the presence of a surprising number of educational institutions. As in the Record and Guide of November 22d last, there appeared a most informing descriptive article on Riverside by Edward C Delafield, it is unnecessary here to go over the same ground again.

Good growth is slow growth, and Riverdale, take it as a whole, has grown slowly, counting since the building of the New York Central Railroad; but from the Spuyten Duyvil creek all the way northward to the city line it has been thoroughly mapped and laid out with streets by the topographical departments of the borough and city, and no more beautifully designed "city" is imaginable. Mosholu avenue, being the one crosstown thoroughfare, the only one crossing Van Cortlandt Park and running to Riverdale Station, has been proposed as the logical terminal point for the desired subway extension, should the authorities positively declare against going all the way to the Yonkers line.

The argument against extending the subway to the Yonkers line is less valid by far than before the Yonkers trolley lines were brought down to the present subway terminal. Yonkers commuters to the city pay a double fare and would continue to do so should the subway be extended to the city line; and according to local testimony there remains no great desire in Yonkers for a subway extension.

Official Activity.

"It is about time for the Public Service Commission, the Interborough and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to wake up to the imperative need of extending the existing Broadway subway beyond 242nd street." Said Col. John F. Doyle, Jr. of 45 William street. "This has been urged by the property owners of the upper Riverdale section by petition and otherwise, for years past, without results. If for the reason of an existing agreement with the Park Department it cannot be extended up Broadway, then surely Newton avenue to 161st street would facilitate transit quite as well, and relieve the Park side from an elevated structure, if this be the cause.

"It is well to reflect that the lot owners of the Riverdale section were old taxpayers of the original city (then called the 24th Ward) and therefore entitled to preference in transit facilities, whereas they are being brushed aside and millions are being spent in the new boroughs for new subway improvements in Brooklyn, and especially in Queens, where the cry is now 'on to Little Neck.' It has repeatedly been said that the wealthy residential large land-owners of Riverdale have by political or private influence, or otherwise, been able to prevent the much-needed subway extension beyond 242nd street, primarily from a selfish motive to keep the section exclusive for their residential purposes, and have exercised their advantage so far as to have been able to prevent streets being cut through their properties, which improvements should have taken place, in the natural course of events, years ago. The investor, when making his purchase, looked ahead for the regular city improvements to be made when they should have been done; and consequently through this official inactivity he suffers a great loss, when you consider that in the meantime assessed valuations are steadily increasing, heavy assessments for street openings being levied, and all this now in the overburdened section where the investor would build but cannot while waiting for the subway extension.

"The wealthy residents of Riverdale should become aware that it will be expensive to establish private parks in Greater New York, and it cannot be done to the detriment of the rights of others who have bought property to improve, for a fair return. A glance at the city map covering this section will prove the truth of this assertion that for this reason successive streets have not been cut through west of Broadway. Inquiry at the Bronx Tax Office will bear this out, and officials there and real estate men conversant with the locality will give the consensus of opinion that Riverdale has been ripe for this neglected extension for several years past.

"Had this locality been treated without 'fear or favor' it would long ago have been built up and not be, as it is, ten years behind the times, but up-to-date, well populated and beautified with public and private improvements which would have greatly enhanced its value. Secret 'whys and wherefores' have not only prevented this, but have robbed the investor of the natural increase in profit which should have been his, by improvement, had nothing been done to prevent it."

"Riverdale section," said Elliott L. Brown, at the Yonkers branch of the J. Romaine Brown Company, and he thus explained the situation:

BROADWAY, IN THE VAN CORTLANDT SECTION. BROADWAY, AT YONKERS.

"The ownership of the lands is in the hands of two classes of people of widely divergent interests. First, a comparatively few owners of large estates and, second, an immense number of owners of single lots and small plots. These latter bought at the two or three large auctions, often putting the savings of years into a patch of sloping hillside fronting on a street marked out in whitewash. If these lot owners, outnumbering by hundreds to one the owners of the large estates, would incorporate 'taxpayers' associations' or 'citizens' committees,' and appoint active, intelligent representatives to appear for them before the various city departments, they could have the street system, now admirably shown on the maps, actually built and finished. If these streets were built and the final grades established this inside property would be built up very quickly; and this would help the stores which must inevitably come on Broadway.

"Broadway will be built up with six and nine-story apartments, many could be rented to-day at good rents, and it is to be hoped that some will be started soon to meet the present demand. University Heights in the Bronx improved in spite of its lack of transit facilities, and all the new subway can do there is to cause Jerome avenue to build up more rapidly.

"Irrespective of any further improvement in the transit facilities in this western section it is bound to become in a few years, aided as it is by the educational institutions now there or coming there, the most desirable residential part of the Bronx. It is an ideal place of residence now, and all that is needed is co-operation."

BUILDING POLICY IN THE BRONX

Borough President Will Order Encroachments Removed Block By Block in Congested Sections.

Hon. Douglas Mathewson, President of the Borough of the Bronx, stated in definite terms to a committee of builders who called on him what his policy will be in regard to building encroachments:

"First, I want to express the interest I feel in the builders and property owners of the Bronx. My own practice of the law has been largely in representing those interests. I practiced law for several years and had some connection with real estate and construction interests. I want to help those in this business all I can, and at the same time I want them to help me, and expect they are going to help me, because I am sure that they feel that the interests of the Bronx are their interests; if the Bronx progresses, they progress.

"Now definitely, as to this subject of encroachments. I am perfectly free to confess that had the question of Washington avenue and Third avenue encroachments come to me as an original proposition, I should not have adopted the policy of removing the encroachments throughout the entire length of each avenue, but that is not the question now. I brought that particular suggestion to President Miller's attention myself. It was a question of judgment. He was the one to exercise the judgment, not I, and he exercised it.

"On the first of January I found the order issued for the removal of encroachments on Third avenue, on Washington avenue, on 149th street and on Tremont avenue. On Tremont avenue I think the order had been substantially complied with before that time. Some work had been done on Washington avenue, some on Third, and practically none, I think, on 149th street. As to 149th street, there seems to be little, if any, opposition to a removal of the encroachments. I think the property owners there, including even those who primarily were opposed to it, have come to recognize that the removal of the encroachments on that street is a benefit to the locality.

Congested Sections.

"The situation on Washington avenue and on Third avenue is very different from what it was on Tremont avenue and on 149th street. There are blocks on both avenues where, as I have intimated, in my opinion, it was not necessary to order the removal of encroachments. I am not prepared to agree with some of the speakers, however, that that state of affairs was true on most of the blocks on those avenues. I occasionally take a walk on Washington avenue, particularly, and I find, especially in the summer time, that Washington avenue on a very great many of the blocks is pretty much congested. And it isn't limited to the property opposite the school. You will find practically from Tremont avenue down to 169th street, if not 168th street, that you haven't much room to walk on the sidewalks on summer evenings, between the baby carriages, the children and the mothers out getting fresh air—they do not get much of it in their rooms. The street is pretty well crowded. I think the removal of encroachments in these localities is entirely justified.

Equable Treatment.

"And so with a great many places on Third avenue. There are blocks on Third avenue north of here, where there is no congestion. The judgment in issuing the order to remove encroachments there wasn't mine; it was exercised by the then President, and here and there all along the line certain property owners have made the alterations. When I came into office and found that situation I realized that a great deal was involved, and it was one of the first matters that I took up. My conclusion was this, that because, on the strength of that order a property owner here and there and yon, had spent his money and made the improvement, I could not but continue to enforce the order and could not, as a matter of general policy, rescind the order, but I did decide that the order should be enforced with the least possible hardship.

"Any property owner who wanted time because of expense involved or because of intended alterations to be made within a few months, which would involve the removal of encroachments, or because the alteration at the present time would expose a store or an apartment to the inclement winter weather—in all these cases I think it is fair and that I would receive public support in extending the time. In other words, I wanted to carry out that order, as I propose to carry it out, in a reasonable manner, with the least possible amount of friction and with the least possible amount of irritation, and with the most convenience for those who have to carry it out.

"I have made up my mind that that is to be my policy and I am not prepared to alter it unless I am shown that I am entirely in the wrong in carrying it out. If I am convinced that I am in the wrong, no one will reverse himself quicker than I.

"As to the general proposition of encroachments I want to assure you that during my administration I propose to take up the subject so as to cause neither general discomfort nor general expense. My plan will be to take it up on what I may term the block by block principle. If I find that a certain block is congested or a certain number of blocks, I shall give notice prior to taking any action, and wish to hear the opinions of the property owners, but I only propose to take up blocks were there is congestion, where it is to the benefit of the property owners, I think, in the long run, as well as of the public, to remove these encroachments.

"I do not agree with Mr. Weil that the removal of these encroachments is going to in the end reduce earning capacity. My experience in real estate matters indicates that the rental of a store is based upon the carrying capacity of the street. Widening a street increases by so much the rental value of a store and if you increase sidewalk capacity one-third, I think your store rents are going to go up enough to compensate you for the loss of basement stores.

Basement Stores a Business Mistake.

"I want to state right here that I don't think you builders ought to build basement stores. They are a decided detriment to a neighborhood. They tend to bring a class of people into a neighborhood who will reduce your rents faster than anything else. I don't think you are going to lose much by having basement stores wiped out. In the end the increased rental of the other stores will make up for that.

"Now I realize that real estate is your vocation. It isn't even my avocation at the present time, although it was once. You undoubtedly know actual conditions better than I do. Still I do want to have you consider this question again and I think you will come to the conclusion that there isn't a rental loss. Produce a wider street and you are certainly bettering the general conditions of the neighborhood, and it ought to bring better tenants in. I think I have expressed my views generally."

Jurisdiction of the Fire Commissioner.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, is now considering the appeal of Charles Kaye from the judgment of the Court of Special Sessions convicting him of a misdemeanor for failing to obey a fire-prevention order, requiring him to install automatic sprinklers in his loft building, 30-34 West 26th street. The case was argued on the 23d inst. by Carlisle Norwood in behalf of Kaye, and by Assistant Corporation Counsel MacNulty for the prosecution. A decision will probably be rendered by the Court early next month, which, it is hoped, will substantially determine the rights and liabilities of owners and lessees of factory buildings under the local fire prevention laws. The factory laws enacted by the Legislature of 1913 are not involved in this controversy and will not be affected by its determination.

BROOKLYN BROKERS OPTIMISTIC

Good Cheer Reigns at Their Annual Dinner—Borough President Pounds Discusses Important Public Improvements.

Members of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers held their eighth annual dinner in the cosy banquet hall of the Brooklyn Club, on Saturday evening, January 24, and it was unquestionably a success. From the moment that President Mollenhauer clinked his glass to indicate the beginning of the repast until the last guest filed out of the hall, everyone present radiated optimism and good cheer. Borough President Pounds, Commissioner G. V. S. Williams and Allan Robinson were the speakers.

President Christopher C. Mollenhauer in his opening remarks declared that the two great requisites for a real estate broker were brains and honesty. He deplored the injury which was being done to trained real estate men of the town by the influx of men who, having failed in other business, were turning to the real estate profession for their livelihood. Urging the maintenance of high ideals and the safeguarding of the integrity of the board, he struck a high note by advising his fellow members to work toward the enactment of a law requiring the licensing of brokers and the further tightening upon requirements for membership in the board.

George V. S. Williams, Public Service Commissioner, was the first speaker. He deprecated the general cry of hard times which has been heard so frequently of late, and answered the charge that had been made of delay and unfulfilled promises on his part, with reference to the subway construction. He said in part:

Subway Progress.

"I have become quite accustomed to be criticised for subway delays and I do not mind it now, for I know that you, as serious-minded real estate men, know that your borough has not been discriminated against and that such a statement is false. As a matter of fact, matters have not been delayed, for within the past year we have completed the Center street loop, accommodating 67,000 people, two lines at the Manhattan Bridge, the Sea Beach and Utrecht avenue lines and new lines in the Eastern District." He heartily praised the efficiency of the engineers who saved for the city $1,000,000 on one contract, and whose careful and painstaking labors were for the best interests of the city. Commissioner Williams also paid a compliment to Mr. Cederstrom, recently appointed real estate expert to the Public Service Commission, saying that Mr. Cederstrom had already since his appointment earned his salary three times over.

The Commissioner was followed by Allan Robinson, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests, who attacked the so-called Salant-Schaap bill and the Single Tax movement. He pleaded for concerted action on the part of all real estate men against this measure.

"The abolition of private ownership in land is what these men, led by Fels, are after. They are dotting the State with single-tax clubs, and spending $150,000 this year, alone, for the spreading of the propaganda. The Salant-Schaap bill itself would reduce New York City's borrowing capacity by at least $40,000,000, and there are those, like Mr. Walter Lindner, solicitor of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, who hold that the bill would also result in half the assessed building valuations being discarded in the computation of the debt limit.

"If this position is sound, this would mean the cutting out of $150,000,000 more from the borrowing capacity.

"But granting that the land values alone will be affected, are we prepared to lower our borrowing capacity by $40,000,000 just at the time when great public improvements like the subway are imperatively needed?"

Borough Affairs.

Borough President Lewis H. Pounds was the last speaker. He was received with prolonged and enthusiastic applause. In his characteristic, blunt way of speaking, he outlined the great improvements recently completed and to the benefit of Brooklyn, saying:

"These improvements are of significance because they stabilize real estate values and consequently enhance them. As a member of the old transit committee of the Board of Estimate and as a member of the present committee, I have been intensely interested in transit conditions. I can say without contradiction, that Brooklyn is getting more consideration and benefit than any other borough. The borough has one of the finest street systems in the world, as regards general physical condition of the streets, buildings, etc. The great drainage outlets have been completed and are ready for lateral connections. Another important improvement which may be called the most far-reaching of all, which will help the downtown section, is the improvement of the Terminal Railway.

"Brooklyn has been fortunate in the matter of waterfront apropriations, too, for out of $15,000,000 voted for dock improvements, we have been allowed from nine to eleven millions of dollars. The building of these waterfront facilities will bring into the borough considerable industry and wealth, and the greatest string of industrial hives that have ever come to any other city. As real estate men, you realize that such freight traffic is more important than passenger traffic. These improvements are secondary in importance only to the transit question."

In closing, Mr. Pounds forecasted a rise in values as a natural result of these improvements. At the close of his address, there was an informal discussion on the single tax, various questions being hurled at Mr. Robinson.

The entertainment committee, which managed the dinner, consisted of F. B. Snow, chairman; A. B. Gritman, W. J. L. Lynch, Charles H. Gilbert, A. H. Waterman, E. J. Grant, and George H. Gray.

—Subscriptions from $500 upwards are invited by a syndicate now forming in Rome, N. Y., to take over an option on a parcel of 25 lots in Queens Borough, New York City, along the line of the new Dual System of Rapid Transit. according to an advertisement in the Rome Sentinel.

HARLEM'S PROBLEM.

An Improvement Corporation to Deal with the Negro Invasion.

The auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. at 5 West 125th street was packed to the doors on Tuesday evening in response to a call from the committee of thirty to formulate a practical plan for the conservation of real estate values in that section of the city. Ransom E. Wilcox of Wilcox & Shelton, presided, and other speakers were Charles Blandy of Blandy, Mooney & Shipman; Frank A. Shaw, Meyer Jarmulowsky, Edward J. Dowling and Harry Goodstein. It was the third meeting, the movement having been inaugurated early in December in the rooms of the Harlem Board of Commerce, when the committee of thirty was authorized to organize a corporation to be known as the "Property Owners' Improvement Corporation," for the purpose of improving and advancing the interests of property owners and their tenants in the territory bounded by 110th street on the south, the Harlem River on the north, Park avenue on the east, and Morningside, St. Nicholas and Bradhurst avenues on the west. The capital stock will be $500,000, to be issued in shares of a par value of $5 each, the company to be incorporated when $100,000 has been subscribed. The proposition has the support of a great number of property owners and mortgagees in the affected area and by many downtown institutions.

The corporation, managed by a board of directors chosen from the stockholders, will undertake an equitable and non-partisan solution of the negro tenancy question. The gradual growth of this class of occupancy has caused a corresponding deterioration of real estate values which has proved well nigh ruinous. The corporation will, with the co-operation of the colored leaders, make an effort to readjust the situation, and re-establish confidence in Harlem real estate. The proposed plan is as follows:

First, To arrange with the property owners to rent their properties to white tenants. This could be done section by section, thereby not causing an over supply of vacant apartments and houses at any one time. The united energetic efforts of all will facilitate the procuring of new tenants.

Second, To assist owners who are unable financially to do the necessary renovating to their properties on a proper business basis by (a) making a mortgage loan for the purpose, or (b) by taking a lease of the property.

Third, The corporation to lend its assistance in arranging new and the extension of old mortgages for owners who will co-operate.

Fourth, To co-operate in organizing a movement for the improvement of the social conditions of the negroes with the following objects, viz: (a) To create a proper environment in the vicinity of 135th street and Lenox avenue, for the purpose of making the section attractive. (b) To prevent lawlessness and vice. (c) To stimulate the construction of modern buildings that will be best suited for their requirements. (d) To aid in promoting the welfare of the colored people generally.

The committee of thirty includes Ransom E. Wilcox, chairman; George W. Short, John A. Goodwin, William A. Shelton and Henry D. Cochrane. Frank A. Shaw of 1 West 125th street is chairman of the subscription committee. Over $10,000 has already been subscribed, thirty additional members having enlisted at the close of the meeting.

There is plenty of opportunity for valuable service by such a body as the Permanent Unemployed Commission which the Mayor was asked this week to appoint. It would be a substantial benefit to the city in more ways than one, if it could direct the needy unemployed where to get work instead of offering them charity.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology has undertaken to make a study of the delivery service of R. H. Macy & Co., with a view to determining the general economic laws underlying the distribution of goods by large department stores. The saving of a fraction of a cent on each delivery by a store with the volume of business of Macy's would make a large annual aggregate. The study, which is supported financially by R. H. Macy & Co., was suggested by one which the Institute recently completed in Boston on the initiative of President Edgar of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of that city.

Senator Simpson has introduced a bill at Albany requiring the Sinking Fund Commissioners to sell all real estate acquired by the city for school or other public purposes within two years after its acquisition, unless put to use within that time. The Commissioners at present are authorized to sell or lease such property, with certain exceptions, and there seems to be no good reason for changing the existing law. Under the proposed measure the Commissioners might be forced to sell in a stagnant market property bought in a period of high prices. If the Sinking Fund Commissioners cannot be trusted to exercise judgment in a matter of this kind, they ought not to be allowed to retain the more important powers of discretion which they possess and which the Senator does not apparently wish to deprive them of.

Necessity of a United Policy For Real Estate Interests.

The present political situation, both in New York City and in Albany, makes it more than ever necessary for the real estate interests of the Greater City to form some effective organization. At Albany it is becoming apparent that a more strenuous effort than ever will be made to pass some bill which will seek to increase the land tax. In New York City an administration has been installed which represents a high standard of expert skill and which is unusually free from embarrassing political affiliations, but which is committed to an adventurous and expensive social policy. It does not follow that the real estate property owners need necessarily oppose this social policy; but they should be prepared to watch it very closely; and they should be much better organized than they are at present to oppose either administrative action in New York or legislative action in Albany, in case such action is injurious to the interests of real estate.

It looked, during the recent campaign, as if a strong real estate organization had been formed. The City Economy League was the most numerous and most representative association of property owners which had ever been gathered together in New York City. It adopted a vigorous and aggressive policy, and it seemed probable that real property owners would be aroused to understand the full importance of their joint interests and the necessity of organizing to promote these interests. Such expectations, however, were disapointed. The league supported a mixed ticket and thus placed itself on record as believing that an administration divided against itself and utterly without harmony of persons or policy could really give to the city an efficient and economical government. The candidate which the league opposed, was elected by a plurality of about 125,000. The candidates for the Board of Estimate whom the league supported were elected by over 50,000 fewer votes. The league was consequently tolerably well discredited as a political organization. No association which was supposed to have 30,000 members could be of much political importance, when one candidate whom it favored was defeated by a much larger plurality than the plurality obtained by the successful candidates whom it endorsed.

But if the City Economy League was somewhat discredited as a practical political organization, there is no reason why it should not be revived as an association, which represents the economic interests of real property. Such an association cannot exercise direct political influence in a successful manner, because it has not enough cohesion to keep together in the midst of the counter attractions and loyalties of a heated political campaign, but it should have enough cohesion to unite the real estate owners of New York upon a policy which is wisely formulated for the purpose of promoting their common interests. Such an association has become more of a practical necessity than ever, and if it is not organized or re-organized the interests of billions of dollars' worth of property, which will be profoundly affected by the legislative and administrative action of the next few years, will be left without effective protection.

The City Economy League had the advantage of being constituted of the right material. It did not arise out of an attempt to federate the many existing local associations which are scattered throughout New York City. These associations are formed primarily for the purpose of promoting local real estate interests, and in the case of any conflict between the public interest and local interests, they undoubtedly prefer the latter. The main body of the membership of any effective metropolitan real estate organization should consist of individuals who place the joint real estate interests of all property owners above local interests, and who would not favor local improvements which the city could not afford to undertake. After a membership of this kind was obtained it might be possible and desirable to affiliate with the metropolitan associations certain local associations, and in any event it would be necessary to the efficiency of the association that its membership be organized into local groups, corresponding to the local improvement districts of the city, for the purpose of watching local improvements and exercising some influence upon them. But it should be on the whole essentially a centralized, rather than a localized or a federated association, whose functions it would be to promote real estate interests in their broadest aspects, the interests which are affected by administrative extravagance, violent alterations in the system of taxation, and experimental and costly programs of social reform.

The great necessity of such a centralized association is a permanent mechanism for collecting facts about the operations of the city government, and suggesting improvements therein. Its complaints or recommendations must have the weight behind them—not merely of a numerous and united body of property owners, but of complete and accurate information, and patient and exhaustive consideration. The day is passed when the policy of an administration can be criticised on general grounds or merely because it adversely affects private interests. The policy of the existing administration will be the result of careful investigation, made by skillful and experienced administrators. The Board of Estimate may well make many mistakes, but if it does do so the mistakes will not be easily exposed. The successful critic must have made as careful investigation into the question as have the public officials. He must be prepared to show in detail the reason why the policy is mistaken, and his position will be very much strengthened, in case he can suggest for it a wise substitute. In short, any real estate organization which is to play its part properly requires a research bureau, which should be properly equipped with staff and funds and which will make a business of watching the work of the city departments and the policy of the Board of Estimate. The creation of such a bureau is all the more necessary because the present Bureau of Municipal Research can no longer effectively play its part as investigator and critic of the city administration. The head of that bureau occupies an important official position and is the Mayor's most influential advisor. He has been entrusted by the Mayor with the preparation of a plan for the re-organization of the city departments. Mr. Bruere is excellently qualified to do this work, but now that he has been absorbed into the administration, he cannot be asked to remain an effective critic of himself and of his colleagues. A new bureau should consequently be organized to conduct researches into the official work of the former head of the research bureau, and the people who are in most need of the services of such expert assistance are the owners of real estate in New York.

One more important phase of this matter demands some attention before we close. The Real Estate Board has recently been adding considerably both to its membership and to the value of its services. Under its present vigorous and successful management it has become a much more useful agency for the promotion of real estate interests than it has been in the past. It is apparently seeking to be the especial organized representative of the real estate interests of New York—as the old Real Estate Exchange was in the eighties and nineties. This ambition is laudable, but there are good reasons why a trade organization like the Real Estate Board should not attempt to become representative of the whole real estate interest. The brokers have interests of their own, which do not always coincide with the interests of property owners and it is always difficult to secure the sufficient cordial support of property owners for such a trade organization. The trade organization is necessary, but it does not constitute any sufficient substitute for a property owners' association. The membership of the City Economy League should form the best foundation for the association of real estate property owners, which New York really needs. If only a small proportion of its former membership could be induced to return to its support, to re-organize and begin work along the right line—the line, that is, of building up a body of votes to support the contention of the owners of real estate that they are being systematically and unnecessarily injured by the excessive burden of taxation and regulation.

Sales Without Contracts.

Occasionally a piece of property changes hands by private sale without the signing of a contract in advance. Brokers have recently reported several cases where the circumstances and conditions of sale were so plain and the business rectitude of the parties to the transaction so high that a simple oral agreement to pass title at a certain time and place was considered sufficient.

"After all, a contract is quite unnecessary in ordinary cases," said a broker. "Of course, it is a protection to a broker, as it insures the payment of his just commission, and it makes a fee for the lawyers; but really the mere word of an honest man is enough. He will be at the appointed place with the money, and the title company's policy will protect him against any imperfection in the deed.

"The practice of signing contracts of sale is not so prevalent in other cities as it is here in New York. In the smaller towns contracts are rarely mentioned between friends and acquaintances, and most business men in small towns know each other. The agent brings the offer to the owner, and time and place are orally agreed upon for passing the deed, on which occasion the agent acts as conveyancer and receives his modest fee. Usually there is a title search at the county clerk's office, and this is done by a lawyer.

"That was the good old way, when men had confidence in each other's integrity, when neighbors endorsed each other's notes without question, when a merchant known to be honorable and able to show that he had ten thousand dollars of equity in his business could get credit for forty thousand dollars' worth of merchandise, with a year's time to pay for it. It was much easier to get ahead then than now, since it has become the custom to suspect every body and everything, and apply the acid test to every business transaction.

"It is refreshing to hear of these real estate sales being made without preliminary written contracts; it is one of the signs of the times, and one of the indications that there is a general awakening to the fact that without probity and honor between business men there can be little progress for the people as a whole.

"Laws, regulations and red tape hamper business transactions instead of facilitating them. There is too much regulation; business has been organized, systematized, fined down and interlocked so completely that a comparatively small number of rich bankers and financiers have been able to largely control it. If it be true that events turn with the world in cycles, then let us hope that we have rounded the perihilion of those things that have made for public distrust and suspicion."

LEGISLATIVE MEASURES.

Affecting Real Property Interests—The Griffen Tax Bills Reappear.

Senator Griffen has introduced in the State Legislature again this year his familiar bill for halving the tax rate on buildings, in New York City only (Int. No. 71). It is the same as his bill of last year, and amends Sections 947 and 980 of the New York Charter by reducing the amount of the assessment that may be levied against property for the benefit of local improvements from half the value of the property to half the value of land without improvements.

Senator Griffen has also introduced his bill (S. 72) amending the Tax Law (new subdivision 21 of section 4) by exempting dwelling houses from taxation to the extent of $3,000 of the value of such houses. Same as his bill of last year (S. Int. 818, Print 909). To Taxation and Retrenchment Committee.

Senator Griffen has also introduced his bill (S. 73) amending the Tax Law (subdivision 5 of section 4) by providing that real property, owned by an honorably discharged soldier, sailor or marine of the United States Army or Navy, or by his wife or widow, shall be exempt from taxation to the extent of $1,000. Such property is also to be assessed, taxed and exempted as though it were purchased in part with pension moneys. Same as Senator Griffen's bill of last year (S. Int. 1376, Print 1645). To Taxation and Retrenchment Committee.

Other bills introduced are:

Senate.

Int. No. 96. Frawley. Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new section (544-a) giving the commissioner of street cleaning, with the approval of the Board of Estimate, full power to contract for not exceeding fifteen years for the final disposition of refuse collected in the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx and Kings. Same as S. Int. 1224, Pr. 1414, of 1912 by Frawley. To Cities Committee.

Int. No. 153. Torborg. Amending the New York City Rapid Transit Act (subdivision 2 of section 30) by providing that the Public Service Commission may enter into contracts for the installation, maintenance and operation of telephones for public use in rapid transit railroad stations. The present law prohibits the conduct of any business except the sale of newspapers and periodicals in rapid transit stations. To Cities Committee.

Int. No. 167. Ramsperger. Inserting in the Insurance Law a new section (91-a) providing that no person or corporation transacting the business of health or accident insurance within the State, may pay commissions to any person except to duly licensed brokers, without first obtaining from the superintendent of insurance an agent's certificate of authority. Such certificates must be renewed annually. To Insurance Committee.

Int. No. 185. Blauvelt. Repealing Section 235 of the Lien Law which makes a chattel mortgage invalid against creditors, purchasers in good faith, after one year from its first filing, unless copy of the mortgage and its endorsements is re-filed or a statement is filed describing it and showing the mortgagee's interest. The amendment provides that every mortgage duly filed shall be valid against the creditors and subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith as long as the debt which the mortgage secures is enforceable, and is to have priority over all other claims not existing at the time of its filing. This is the present law in the case of mortgages upon canal boats and other craft navigating canals. To Judiciary Committee.

Int. No. 191. Duhamel. Amending the Greater New York Charter (section 1019-a) empowering the collector of assessments to divide into twenty installments the unpaid assessments for local improvements confirmed after January 1, 1908, the amount of which exceeds 2 per cent. of the valuation of the property, exclusive of improvements. The present law provides for the division into 10 installments of such assessments, where the amount exceeds 3 per cent. of the valuation of the property, including improvements. The bill strikes out the provision that when an award for damages, in condemnation proceedings, shall accrue to the same person who is or was at the time the assessment was confirmed, liable for the assessment for benefit on the abutting property in the same proceeding, only the portion of the assessment in excess of such award may be considered in levying installments. To Cities Committee.

Int. No. 192. Duhamel. Amending the Greater New York Charter (section 1019-a) by empowering the collector of assessments to divide into ten annual installments the unpaid assessments for local improvements confirmed after January 1, 1908, the amounts of which exceed 3 per cent. of the valuation of the property, exclusive of improvements. The present law provides for the division into installments of such assessments, where the amount exceeds 3 per cent. of the valuation of the property, including improvements. To Cities Committee.

Assembly.

Int. No. 68. Crane. Amending the Act of 1889 (Chap. 349) which provided for the recording and indexing of instruments affecting New York City land according to city blocks. It strikes out the provision making the center line of the Harlem River and Spuyten Duyvil improvement channel the boundaries of the sections fronting thereon and provides that the board of taxes and assessments shall include in section 8 of the land map all the territory in Manhattan north of the center line of the Harlem ship canal, and regulating the renumbering of blocks in the territory affected.

Int. No. 102. Phillips. Amending the Public Health Law (Section 2-b) by making inapplicable to all cities of the first class the provisions of the sanitary code. At present, such provisions are applicable to every city except the City of New York.

Int. No. 103. A. E. Smith. Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new section (244-a) empowering the Board of Estimate to include in its annual budget such sum as it may deem proper, not exceeding $50,000, for the keeping, preservation and exhibition of safety devices and means and methods of safety and sanitation in the building now or hereafter occupied by the American Museum of Safety.

Int. No. 125. Knight. Enacting an injunction and abatement law. It declares a nuisance any house, building, or property in or upon which any lewdness assignation or prostitution, or other immoral act, is practiced or permitted. Apparently the same as Senator Herrick's bill amending the Public Health Law (S. Int. 67, of 1914).

The most important development of the week was a moderate increase of buying by investors. With Jacob Ruppert, particularly, conspicuous by several purchases, such buyers obtained a number of high class apartment houses on the upper West Side. Besides deals actually consummated and reported the week was rife with rumors of pending transactions. The situation is brightening and there is a more general feeling of optimism becoming apparent among the brokers. Other interesting sales involved a Marble Hill apartment house, a Henry street landmark, and a Brooklyn block front.

Taken all in all, the week's business reflected a growing interest among the buying public, in well placed investment properties, and the significance of such a development is not to be denied.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 27, against 20 for last week and 37 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 6, compared with 8 last week and 14 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 21, compared with 12 last week and 23 a year ago.

From the Bronx 15 sales at private contract were reported, against 15 last week and 21 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $554,530, compared with $809,335 last week, making a total since Jan. 1 of $5,303,221. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $638,108, making a total since Jan. 1, 1913, of $4,430,242.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Chateau D'Armes Sold.

An investor has purchased the 6-sty Chateau d'Armes elevator apartment house on Washington Heights. It was sold by the Friedmann & Feinberg Construction Co., the builders. It occupies a plot 100x118x irregular at the north east corner of Fort Washington av and 161st st, and was completed last October, is valued at $300,000, and was erected from plans by Harold L. Young. The house contains 35 rooms to a floor, accommodating seven families on each floor, and is now fully occupied. The buyer is Joseph Shenk. The lower Fort Washington section was only opened up a couple of years ago through the decision of the executors of the Loyal L. Smith estate to dispose of its holdings at that point. Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum bought several large plots from the estate and resold them to builders. The entire block front on the east side of Fort Washington av, between 161st and 162d sts, was sold by them to the Friedman Construction Co., which put up two houses.

Builders Buy in Bronx.

Builders have secured a valuable building site on the Grand Boulevard and Concourse for an apartment house operation. The K. & R. Construction Co. (Max J. Klein and Ignatz Roth) purchased the plot of 4 lots at the northeast corner of the Concourse and Bush st, located one short block from Burnside av. The property, which had not changed hands for about 25 years, has a frontage of 103.4 ft. on the Concourse and 94 ft. in Bush st, the easterly and northerly lines measuring 102 and 43 ft. respectively. The company will erect high class apartments on the property which will be among the first put up in that vicinity along the Concourse. The company also owns the southeast corner of Vyse av and 179th st, 115x254.

Marble Hill-Jersey Trade.

The A. N. Gitterman Corporation has sold for the Yen Realty Co., M. M. Nye, president, the Marble Hill apartment house, a 6-sty elevator structure, on plot 85x117x irregular, at the northeast corner of 225th st and Marble Hill av. The house contains 41 apartments and four stores and was bought by an out-of-town investor, who gave in part payment the Brukker farm of 38 acres at Whitehouse, N. J., which is considered the third largest poultry raising farm in the State. The apartment house was held at $175,000. The sellers acquired the Marble Hill property last September from Alice M. Lilienthal, through the same broker.

Col. Ruppert Buys.

The new 5-sty apartment house on the southwest corner of St. Nicholas av and 176th st was sold by the Nehring Co., as brokers, for the T. & J. Smith Holding Co. to Col. Jacob Ruppert. The plot is 56.9x100, and the property has been held at $140,000. An interesting feature of the sale is that the apartment is one of the first fireproof non-elevator houses erected in that locality, Thomas Smith, president of the company, having been a pioneer in constructing this type of house in that rapidly growing apartment house centre. The sale of the house so soon after completion demonstrates the faith of the builders in that style of construction for investment buying. The house has stores on the ground floor.

Synagogue Buys Landmark.

The old private dwelling at 136 Henry st, considered one of the landmarks of the section, has been sold by Mrs. Edward Leverich to a Jewish congregation of which H. Cohen is president. The property consists of a 4-sty building, covering a lot 23.10x100, about 132 ft. west of Rutgers st, and was part of the Hendrick Rutgers farm, which ran from Division st to the East River, now one of most populated districts of the city. This property is one of the last remaining in the ownership of the heirs of original owners, and the pending transfer is the first outside of the family in more than 200 years. It was held at $22,000. Extensive alterations will be made to the structure.

Hospital Buys Plot.

The Mount Sinai Hospital has added to its extensive holdings on upper 5th av by the purchase from Charles C. Worthington of 7 lots on the northeast corner of 5th av and 99th st, a plot 100x175. The hospital, in the near future, plans to improve the 5th av front lately acquired with additional buildings for its work. It already owns the upper half of the block, so that with this purchase it controls the entire 5th av frontage between 99th and 100th sts, immediately below and opposite the main hospital buildings covering the entire block between 100th and 101st sts, 5th av and Madison av.

To Improve Brooklyn Block.

About 70 1-family dwellings and several business buildings will be erected on the square block bounded by 10th av, Fort Hamilton av, 51st and 52d sts, which William G. Morrisey, Jr., in conjunction with William Smith, sold for the Bedford Estates, Samuel H. Coombs, president. The property was sold to J. S. Gold, of the Gold & Taylor Cut Stone Co. The sale was a cash transaction, and was induced by the plans for subway transit in this locality. Mr. Morrisey is of the opinion that the plot will be improved in the near future by the new owners.

Fort Washington Deal.

The Saranac Construction Co., Davis & Liebeskind, sold the 6-sty apartment house, known as the Plymouth, at the northeast corner of Fort Washington av and 160th st. The house fronts 101 ft. in each thoroughfare and measures 125 and 100 ft. respectively on its north and east lines. The purchaser is the Alapri Realty Company, John Lovell, president, which gave in exchange property in Yonkers, including a residence on Fairfield rd and vacant parcels on Morningside av, Tower pl and Orchard st. The apartment house figured in the deal at a valuation of $280,000.

Seventh Avenue Deal.

The Oak Construction Co., Julius Weinstein president, has sold the 6-sty elevator apartment house at the southwest corner of 7th av and 115th st. The structure fronts 100 ft. on each thoroughfare and adjoins the Wadleigh High School. The house is one of two similar structures erected last year on the block front between 114th and 115th sts. The 114th st corner was sold several months ago to Mary I. Hoyt. The buyer in the present deal is represented by Isidor Reis and is said to be identified with the same interests which bought the 114th st house.

Arrowhead Court Sold.

The 177th St. and Pinehurst Ave. Co. sold to an investor Arrowhead Court, 6-sty elevator apartment house at 2 and 4 Pinehurst Ave., northwest corner of 177th St., having a frontage of 125 ft. on the avenue and 92.8 ft. in the street. The selling company took the property over last August as plaintiff at a foreclosure sale for $183,580.

Modern Improvements

Isn't it true that ofttimes some small modern improvement goes a long way towards selling and renting your houses?

Take for example the plan that has recently been adopted by some builders of placing in newly built apartment houses electric washing machines and outlets in the kitchen for electric ironing and cooking.

Does any one doubt, all other things being equal, that these apartments are the ones that will be sold or rented first?

Families of today are educated to demand the comforts and conveniences of electric service, and they are quick to see the advantage of living in an apartment that will minimize the drudgery of housekeeping.

We have other ideas along these same lines. Drop us a line and we will talk them over with you.

Cut Heating Costs by Using Bituminous Coal!!

You owners of buildings can cut your heating costs 17 per cent, and more, by using Bituminous Coal instead of Anthracite. And that saving is being made, right now, in some of the best apartment buildings in New York City.

A pound of good Bituminous Coal contains about 14,000 heat units per pound and costs about $3.50 per ton. Anthracite Coal (Buckwheat, steam grade) costs the same but contains only about 12,000 heat units per pound. So buying Bituminous Coal gives you 17 per cent more heat for the same money.

And in addition to the saving you make in buying coal here is another bigger saving you can make.

will take from Bituminous Coal, and use for making steam, 22 per cent more of the heat units in that coal than the ordinary boiler can get from Anthracite.

So a KEWANEE Smokeless Firebox Boiler saves you 17 per cent, at least, by allowing you to burn Bituminous Coal—and then 22 per cent more because it is a more efficient boiler.

These are facts which have been proven.

THE STEWART BUILDING, which occupies the block front on the east side of Broadway, between Chambers and Reade sts, will shortly change ownership by private contract. The property, which consists of a 7-sty building, was sold by the estate of Judge Henry Hilton about six years ago to Felix Isman, who gave the estate a mortgage for $4,000,000. Of that amount $3,666,666 remained unpaid in June, 1912, and the estate started foreclosure proceedings. Edward D. Harris, executor and trustee of the estate, was made receiver of the rents, and in his accounting, filed Wednesday, in the Surrogate's Court, tells of his administration of the affairs of the estate. He began an action in the Supreme Court in 1912 to foreclose the Isman mortgage, on which there was due the principal of $3,666,666. Judgment was taken, but the property has not been put up for sale. The reason for delay in selling the property, Mr. Harris says, is that the best advice obtainable indicated that the estate would have to buy in the property to prevent "a very great sacrifice."

The American Real Estate Company.

The twenty-sixth annual statement of the American Real Estate Company reflects the steady growth and progress of a conservatively managed business enterprise covering more than a quarter century and exhibits a sound condition of the company's affairs of particular significance in a period of general business readjustment.

In comparison with its statement of a year ago, the company shows a reduction in its mortgage obligations and a substantial increase in its capital and surplus, no overdue current obligations and a large cash balance. The balance sheet shows total assets of $28,668,004.19, of which $26,009,010.74 is in real estate. Deducting the mortgages thereon leaves the net assets of the company $17,341,294.19, with capital and surplus of $3,247,789.13. The form in which the statement is rendered shows more clearly than ever the strength and standing of the company and the soundness of its obligations.

The appraisers who certify that the valuations of the company's real estate are substantially in excess of the amount at which it is carried by the company include Joseph P. Day, Lawrence B. Elliman, of Pease & Elliman, Edward L. King, of Edward L. King & Co., Charles Griffith Moses, of J. Romaine Brown Company, J. Clarence Davies, H. Osborne Smith and Harry G. Bryan, of Williamson & Bryan. The balance sheet bears the certificate of Patterson, Teele & Dennis, public accountants.

All taxes, assessments and interest due on mortgages payable are paid to date and with a wide margin of cash above all current liabilities the company's financial condition is strong. It is apparent that the development of the company's business during the past year has been intensive rather than extensive and that it has wisely conserved its resources during a period of dullness in the real estate market.

In addition to its rental properties located both in midtown and uptown the company has large holdings along existing and proposed rapid transit lines which are certain of increased values in the growth of the city. The American Real Estate Company is the oldest real estate corporation engaged in real estate operation in this city.

Williamsbridge Celebrations.

The Celebration Committee of the Williamsbridge, Wakefield and Edenwald Rapid Transit Committee are actively at work in their preparation for a fitting reminder and realization of the seven years' wait for rapid transit for a 5 cent fare in either direction without transfer to Brooklyn. Ex-Alderman John H. Behrman, who is chairman of the Celebration Committee and of the Finance Committee, is confident that the contributions to the fund will for exceed the expectations of the committee and make the event a more pronounced success.

Mr. William S. Germain, as treasurer of the Finance Committee, says the contributions have come in from outside sources far in excess of those from local people, but as soon as the subscription lists are out, which will be on next Monday, every one will be afforded an opportunity to contribute to an affair that will be long remembered.

Real estate men have already been interviewed by prospective investors for the best points to work, with a view to buying for building purposes.

Builders who have held their holdings for several years past have begun to alter their original plans, having decided to build a different kind of house to meet the requirements of a growing section.

A meeting of the Celebration Committee has been called for Monday evening, Feb. 3, in the parlors of George Sundermann's Hotel, 233d street and White Plains avenue, at which time the other committees, such as Plan and Scope, Music, Decorations and Fireworks, etc., will be appointed and the most active and necessary work begun.

Another meeting of the whole committee will be called within a week or ten days thereafter.

Judge William W. Penfield, as chairman of the Press Committee, is busily engaged preparing the necessary literature, pamphlets, folders and other matter which will be distributed by mail and hand broadcast throughout the several boroughs and Westchester County.

NEW TAX LAWS URGED.

State Board of Commissioners Will Submit Suggestions to Legislature.

Suggestions for radical changes in the tax laws of the State will be submitted to the Legislature by the State Board of Tax Commissioners as a result of the three-day conference in Syracuse. Most important of all is the resolutions for giving to the State Board increased powers of jurisdiction in the matter of the collection of local taxes.

The resolutions formulated by the Committee on Resolutions appointed at the opening of the conference were unanimously adopted by the convention.

Tangible Property Tax.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference that the law of the State be, if possible, changed so as to provide for the taxation of tangible personal property in the tax district in which it is permanently located or invested in business instead of the place of residence of the owner.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference that the laws of this State should provide a unification of assessment and collection of taxes in towns, including school, village and other special taxing districts with a view of having in each town one assessment roll and one collection of taxes, and that legislation should be prepared for introduction in the Legislature to carry into effect such purpose, and that William H. Sullivan, Frank B. Gilbert, Henry J. Cookingham, Alfred E. Holcomb and Frank Young be designated as a committee to prepare such legislation, and if it is deemed advisable after consultation with State and local officials affected thereby cause the same to be introduced in the present Legislature.

Resolved, (a) That the laws should be so changed as to empower the State Board of Tax Commissioners or experts employed by them to assess the real property and other taxable assets of railroads and of large public service corporations operating in more than one tax district; (b) that it is the sense of this conference that the laws should be revised so that each special class of corporations should be taxed only by some simple and uniform rule.
